POLICE WANT CHANGES.

Ontario High Constables Hold Meeting In Toronto.

Toronto, March 25.—At a meeting of the high constables of Ontario, held in the City Hall yesterday, it was decided to recommend to the Ontario Government extensive alterations in the present machinery of the law. The action was taken in pursuance of the request of Col. Graveley, who was authorized by the Attorney-General's Department to ask that they prepare a scheme of improvement which he might lay before the Department. The chief recommendations were:

That an inspector-general be appointed in Toronto in close touch with the Attorney-General, and that a force of provincial police be formed under him, to be composed largely of the present high constables, and described as superintendents.

That a board of police commissioners be appointed in each county and be composed of the senior judge, warden and county crown attorney.

That a force of township constables be appointed, the members of which would depend on local conditions, in the discretion of the superintendent and board of commissioners.

WARSHIP ACCEPTED.

British Government Expresses Gratitude to New Zealand.

London, March 25.—Great Britain has accepted the offer made by New Zealand to give the Empire free of cost a fully equipped Dreadnought.

Announcing the acceptance of this gift in the House of Commons, Premier Asquith read the telegram sent to New Zealand expressing the Government's "warmest gratitude for this generous and patriotic offer." Continuing, he said:

"So far as the coming official year is concerned the provisions of the naval estimates afford ample security, but in view of the uncertainty existing regarding the character and extent of the demands that may be made on our national resources the following year the offer of New Zealand to defray within that period the cost of providing a first-class battleship of the latest type, and a second vessel of the same type, if subsequent events show it is necessary, is most gratefully accepted."

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Eight persons were burned to death near Fort Worth, Texas, in a fire following a terrific electrical storm.

While ascending stairs at the Empire Hotel, Stratford, yesterday, Jas. Dunn, a clothes presser, fell and broke his neck.

The United States Steel Corporation is said to have secured control of the Michipicoten iron ore range, north of Lake Superior.

Charles Watson and Fred Allen of Toronto were arrested in Brantford, having been locked in a freight car while beating their way to London.

Mrs. Squires, an aged lady, living alone on Cameron street, Sarnia, was burned to death yesterday morning. She was lighting the fire with kerosene.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford commander of the channel fleet hauled down his flag at Portsmouth on Tuesday, thus bringing to an end fifty years of active service.

Brantford merchants have decided to adopt the Guelph system of collecting bad debts by the employment of a merited collector on a regular salary paid by the merchant body.

It is reported at Winnipeg that an early provincial election will take place. Premier Roblin using the disagreement at Ottawa on the boundary question as the issue for the election.

Is Ryan Dead?

North Bay, March 25.—Sentence was not passed in the Ryan case yesterday. The defence will ask for reserve case and may seek an appeal on the ground that prosecution has not established the identity of the skeleton found as that of Francis Ryan.

Longue Point For Terminal.

Montreal, March 25.—The statement is made that the C.P.R. will locate their steamship terminal at Longue Point, and it is stated that the move is the result of the coming competition of the White Star line in the port of Montreal. The White Star "Laurentic" and "Megantic" to run between Montreal and Liverpool this season, are larger than the Empresses of the C.P.R., and draw more water.

These vessels will be but the nucleus of a fleet which will work in connection with the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific, and it stands to reason that if a rival company can bring such vessels to Montreal, the C.P.R. will have to bring the Empress boats up, instead of stopping them at Quebec.

Make Punishment Fit Crime.

Albany, N.Y., March 25.—Assemblyman Loffingwell has put in a bill which goes so far as to make the punishment for kidnapping death or life imprisonment, as the jury may determine. Another bill by Assemblyman Cuvillier makes the maximum penalty life imprisonment. The maximum penalty under the present law is imprisonment from two to five years. Senator Hill of Buffalo introduced a bill yesterday making the punishment imprisonment from 5 to 50 years.

Under the criminal code in Canada, kidnapping is punishable with seven years' imprisonment.

Make It Criminal Offence.

Ottawa, March 25.—Deputy Police Chief Clark and Rev. J. S. Shearer of Toronto were here yesterday interviewing several Ministers with regard to having greater restrictions in the criminal code of the distribution of immoral literature.

They want to make it a criminal offence to have immoral literature in one's possession, and to give the police the right to search places where they suspect such literature may be found.

Released From Jail.

London, March 25. The women suffragists who were sent to prison on account of the demonstrations in Parliament square on Feb. 25, received an enthusiastic reception upon their release from Holloway Jail yesterday morning. A procession was formed, headed by a band, and made its way to Holborn, where a "welcome breakfast" was given. Lady Constance Lytton is among the women released.

Witches Must Die.

New York, March 25.—A Times' despatch from Havana says: Three reputed witches have been convicted of murdering a white baby in order to procure the blood and heart wherewith to heal the sick. The women have been sentenced to death, and two others, convicted as accomplices, have been sentenced to from 14 to 20 years' imprisonment.

Tenant Was Libelled.

Ottawa, March 25. Mr. Groves must pay a tenant of his $100 damages for libel, says the high court jury. A. H. Kilgore rented a shop at Kinburn. As he owed some rent the landlord, A. H. Groves, placed a placard on the shop forbidding the removal of the machinery until arrears were paid.

Kaiser's Yacht Sinks Steamer.

Hamburg, March 25. The Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, bound for the Mediterranean, for the use of Emperor William in the event of his desiring to make a cruise to Corfu, collided Tuesday night in a dense fog near Norderney, in the North Sea, with the Norwegian steamer Por, which sank immediately.

Harpoon Explodes.

Victoria, B.C., March 25.—George Kent is dead, the result of an accident. Some days ago some old whaling harpoons were found in a box in a vacant lot. Tuesday, Kent used one to poke a fire, when an unused charge of explosive went off, terribly injuring his leg.

Every "Caloric" lower burner-cup, besides being deep, is made with an air-mixer, which latter section has nickel-plated cover for air adjustment. Upper face of burner being corrugated causes a current of air to pass between the corrugations and intermix with the gas. The air and gas are thus thoroughly blended before ignition takes place, which prevents the escape of gas.

Every burner automatically drilled, hence the uniform flame. The "Caloric" system stands for rigid gas economy, great velocity of flame, and safety of operation.

CATTLE MARKETS.

LONDON, March 24.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 12c to 12c for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 8½c to 9½c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 24.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the offerings this morning were 400 cattle, 60 sheep and lambs, 350 hogs, and 100 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being steady on account of the small offerings, which, however, were quite ample to fill all requirements, as the demand showed little improvement over that of Monday's, consequently trade on the whole was slow. A few choice steers sold at 5½c to 5¾c; good, at 5c to 5⅛c; fair, at 4½c to 4¾c; medium, at 4c to 4¼c, good cows, at 4c to 4¼c; common, at 2½c to 3½c, and bulls, at 3c to 4¼c per lb. Supplies of sheep and lambs were a little larger than they have been of late, for which the demand was good. Yearling lambs sold at 6¼c to 6½c; sheep, at 4c per lb., spring lambs met with a ready sale at prices ranging from $4 to $6 each, as to size. An active trade was done in calves, but on account of the increased supply, prices were lower at from $3 to $8 each, as to quality.

The market for hogs was unchanged, owing to a small run, for which the demand was good, but as the quality was not up to the average the top price realized was $7.75 per cwt., weighed off cars at the Montreal Stock Yards. West End Market, the offerings consisted of 250 cattle, 45 sheep and lambs, 425 hogs and 100 calves. As the supply of cattle was comparatively light and the attendance of buyers fair, the demand was ample and prices ruled steady. Some choice beeves sold at 5¾c to 5¾c; good, at 5c to 5⅛c; fair, at 4½c to 4¾c; medium, at 4c to 4¼c, and common, at 2½c to 3½c per lb.

The demand for sheep and lambs was good and as the supply was small a firm feeling prevailed, with sales of yearling lambs at 6¼c to 6½c, and sheep, at 4c per lb., while spring lambs brought $4 to $6 each, as to size. There was an active demand for calves, of which the offerings were very large, and prices were weaker at from $2 to $5 each, as to quality.

A steady feeling prevailed in the market for hogs, but the prices realized were not as high as those of Monday, which was due to the fact that they were all from nearby sources and the quality was not as good as hogs coming from the west, therefore they only sold for $7.75 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

Veals—Receipts, 200 head, active and 25c higher, $7 to $8.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 4000 head; active; wethers, 10c higher; others, steady; wethers, $6.25 to $6.60.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Beeves—Receipts, 269; steers and fat cows, firm; bulls, 10c to 15c higher; common cows, slow, steady; steers, $4 to $6.75; oxen, $4 to $4.40; calves, $3.50 to $7.25; cows, $2.15 to $5; few extra stable-fed, $5.35 to $5.75; dressed beef, steady; exports, 2380 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 2341; active and strong; veals, $8.50 to $10; culls, $5 to $8.25; barnyard calves, $3.50 to $4.25; dressed calves, lower; city dressed veals, 9c to 15c; country dressed, 8c to 12c.

G.T.R. Cuts Freight Rates.

Montreal, March 25.—L. I. Henderson, general manager of the Montreal Transportation Co., yesterday announced a rate of 5 1-2 cents per bushel from Fort William to Montreal. J. W. Loud, freight traffic manager of the G. T. R., announces a rate of four cents per bushel from Georgian Bay ports to Montreal. Both announce also that they are prepared to cut these rates if necessary to keep the grain trade in Canada. That is the Canadian answer to the decision of the Trunk Lines Association on Monday in New York.

Situation Is Serious.

London, March 25.—At a farewell meeting of the Bishop of Moosonee and missionaries and catechists bound for Canada the bishop said unless the church organized to take possession of Canada in the next five years it would be too late.

Sacrament Of Confirmation Administered At St. John's

Beautiful Ceremony Performed by Bishop Reeve—Forty-seven Candidates Ratify the Promises Made at Baptism by Their Sponsors—Large Congregation Present.

HIS LORDSHIP'S ADDRESS.

The sublime and impressive sacrament of confirmation was administered to a large class of candidates by His Lordship Bishop Reeve at St. John's church last night. The ceremony was witnessed by a large congregation, the majority of whom had been previously confirmed and who were asked by the Bishop to recall the promises they had made that the administration of the sacrament to the new candidates might be an influence to them to renew their pledges and a strength to maintain them in the lives they had begun, when they first took their confirmation vows. Bishop Reeve was assisted by Rev. Canon Davidson, and during the service the choir rendered a number of hymns which were most appropriate to the occasion.

The Bishop's Address.

The candidates occupied the front rows in the church, and at the beginning of the ceremony stood while Bishop Reeve addressed them concerning the step they were about to take. He referred to Biblical passages to show that confirmation is not merely an ordinance of the church, but that the Divine will of God was being carried out just as in the time of the apostles, and in accordance with God's wishes. Those who are confirmed must first be baptized, they must have reached the age of understanding and they must know the prayers required by the church. His Lordship impressed upon the candidates the responsibility and the sacredness of the obligations they were taking upon themselves. The vows made at baptism by the sponsors were being renewed by each individual of the confirmation class. They were receiving the Holy Spirit to assist them to withstand the temptations of the world and the devil. By thus endeavouring to keep God in their hearts they would be better men and women. They would be an edifying example to those with whom they came in contact, and they would give a stimulus to the Church of England's ordinances and services before others who do not possess its glorious privileges. They would thus commend the church to others, and they would also be better men and women filling their different positions in life as a help and assistance to their brothers and for the glory of God.

The Ceremony.

Rev. Canon Davidson informed the Bishop that the candidates had been examined in regard to the prescribed prayers and the knowledge and were ready to receive the sacrament. For the imposition of hands the candidates knelt in order before the Bishop, who, placing his right hand upon the head of each one said, "Defend, O Lord, this thy child with Thy heavenly grace that he (or she) may continue thin for ever, and daily increase in thy Holy Spirit more and more until he come unto thy everlasting kingdom.

In conclusion His Lordship enjoined the newly confirmed young men and women to remember their promises and to always endeavour to live up to them. They should not fear trials and temptations, but when tempted the words should arise before their minds "I have promised."

While the offering was being taken up Mr. Devey, organist, played "The Gloria" from Mozart's 12th Mass.

Toronto Man Well Known To Many Peterborough People Passed Away

Death of Mr. E. S. Piper in Toronto Yesterday—Spent Each Summer at His Cottage at Stony Lake—A Lifelong Resident of Toronto.

HOLD FUNERAL ON FRIDAY

Mr. Edward S. Piper, all his life a resident of Toronto, passed away at his residence, 18 Bernard avenue, at eight o'clock this morning.

Mr. Piper was a son of Noah M. Piper, one of Ontario's pioneers. He received his education in the Model school, Upper Canada College and Mr. Tassie's grammar school in Galt When of age he entered the house-furnishing business with his father, and on the death of Noah M Piper he succeeded to the business. In the meantime he had occupied himself with several inventions which had to do with railroads, among them the feed-draught, which has since been adopted. He perfected semaphores, etc., and had the satisfaction of seeing his improvements taken up by railroads. His interest in his work led him to exhibit his patents at exhibitions in London, Chicago, and several times at the Toronto Exhibition, at each of which he was awarded gold medals. When the removal of Toronto Exhibition was mooted, Mr Piper strongly opposed it, and brought the then mayor, the late E F. Clarke, to the City Hall on a holiday to sign the petition against its removal. Mr. Piper, after disposing of the housefurnishing business, entered that of supplying railroads generally, which he continued until his death.

Mr. Piper was born in Toronto, and was 67 years of age. He was a Mason and a member of the Church of the Redeemer. He is survived by a widow four sons, Herbert E., Clarence F. Frank M., and Arthur G., all of Toronto, and a daughter, Miss Ethel, at home. He had two brothers, Hiram L., of Montreal, and Harry, of New York Mrs M A Thomas, of Toronto, is a sister.

The funeral will be held from the late residence on Friday afternoon at 2.30, to Mount Pleasant cemetery.

The late Mr. Piper was well known to Peterborough citizens who have summer homes at Stony Lake. Mr Piper had been for many summers a visitor to Stony Lake, having owned a beautiful cottage on the Burleigh shore, which was popularly known as "Kimo." His numerous acquaintances here will learn with deep regret of his death.

It is said by friends of the family to be an excellent likeness. It has yet to be framed and when completed will be one of the largest photographs in the city.

BUGGY BROKE DOWN, OCCUPANTS HAD FALL

Two prominent East City gentlemen had a rather unpleasant experience on Tuesday evening about six o'clock which caused considerable amusement for the pedestrians crossing Hunter St. bridge at the time. The two were driving in a buggy when in the middle of the bridge the rear wheels became detached from the rest of the vehicle and the occupants took a sudden drop.

Fortunately the horse did not run away and the buggy was taken to a carriage shop for repairs.

PROGRESS IN PHOTOGRAPHY EXEMPLIFIED BY MENDEL

Very satisfactory results have been obtained recently by Mr. Louis Mendel, the George street artist, by new processes which he learned while on his recent visit to New York.

The natural expression of the original in the photograph is preserved in toto, no retouching being done to the plates or prints.

The development of the features is perfected in the exposure, and the tone values reproduced in an artistic manner.

Mr. Mendel has also completed striking pictures of Mr. R. Neill's seven stores in different parts of Ontario.

"I purchased a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and immediately commenced to improve. In all, I think I took 14 bottles, and my weight increased from 133 pounds to 184 pounds in less than six months. Prices of the American Lady Corset $1.00--$3.00

TRY to get the proper effect of the new Directoire gown with the ordinary style hip conforming corset and you will readily see the reason that the corset plays an important part in the fit and drape of the gown of to-day —the new corset must abolish the waist line entirely and give the graceful lines that are produced by the designers of the Directoire gowns—'Fashion' says "Hips in" and the dress cannot do this without the aid of the corset.

New Knox Church Building Will Be Erected At Corner Of Rubidge And Wolfe Streets

Congregation Decides on This Site at Meeting Last Night—Erection Will be Commenced at an Early Date—Plans and Specifications Being Prepared.

JOINED TO PRESENT ONE

The congregation of Knox Presbyterian Church have decided to erect their new church on the lot at the northwest corner of Rubidge and Wolfe St. This decision was arrived at last night when a congregational meeting was held to determine upon a site. At a former meeting it was decided to erect a new church, but there was some difference of opinion as to the particular location. The congregation was divided on the lot at the corner of Wolfe St. and Reid St , and the opposite lot at the corner of Wolfe St. and Rubidge St. However, at last night's assembly the people united together and without any dissension chose the lat at the corner of Wolfe and Rubidge Sts.

To Cost $24,000

The Board of Managers now have the arrangements in their hands and have received instructions to go ahead with the building, and to commence work as soon as possible. Designs were shown of the proposed new church as prepared by Mr. Simpson, architect, of Toronto and he will get the plans and specifications completed at once. The new edifice will be considerably larger than the present structure and will have a seating capacity, with the gallery of about 800. It will be of brick with stone front and its cost has been estimated at $24,000.00.

Just as soon as the frost is out of the ground and the concluding arrangements have been completed, the work will be commenced.

A Review

Thus, the expectations of the members of St. Paul's Church have been amply realized. Seven years ago Knox Church was built as a mission and for Sunday School accommodation for the Presbyterian people in the South Ward. It was not considered as a church, but it was felt that in the course of a number of years the mission would acquire to such strength that a large church would be necessary. Until two years ago Rev. Dr. Torrance and his assistant interchanged on Sundays to occupy the pulpit for Knox congregation. It was then separated from St. Paul's Church and starting out alone under the guidance of Rev. H. J. Keith, it has made splendid progress, and for some time past there has been talk of erecting a new church

The new building will be connected to the old which will be used as a Sunday School. The corner selected has been long considered as one of the most desirable sites in that portion of the city and the erection of this splendid edifice should be a great adornment to the South Ward.

Sergt. Maj. Brittain Concludes Course Of Lectures In Toronto

The following reference to Sergt. Major Brittain, formerly of the 57th appeared in the Toronto Telegram last night in the military news:

SERGT. MAJ. BRITTAIN

Formerly of the 57th Regiment, Who is Winning Compliments with His Toronto Regiment.

Sergt.-Major A. E. Brittain, W.O., Regimental Sergeant Major of the Q. O. R., has concluded his series of lectures held weekly in the Sergeants' Mess of the Regiment on University Avenue.

Sergt.-Major Brittain's last lecture was on the famous battle of Minden, one of the most important battles in the "Seven Years' War," waged by Britain and her allies against the French.

The lecture was remarkably well attended. It was illustrated by black board diagrams, showing the positions held on the field by the allied troops and those occupied by the French.

Sergt.-Major Brittain purposes at the end of the autumn drill season to recommence these lectures on a somewhat extended scale.

Sergt.-Major Brittain, who has served nearly 19 years in the Canadian Militia, has had a very extensive experience, having been first assistant drill instructor in the Royal Grenadiers; then serving in the R. C. R. from 1894 to 1899 as drill sergeant. On leaving the R. C. R. he was for nine years Sergeant-Major and Drill Instructor to the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, having only recently relinquished the post to become Regimental Sergeant-Major of the Q. O. R. He possesses the "distinguished" musketry certificate, also that of the highest grade as an instructor of signalling, besides having passed his examinatjon as first-class instructor in the R. C. R. held by Major-General Sir E. H. T. Hutton at Ottawa in September, 1899.

IMPORTANT LOCAL BUSINESS CHANCES

Mr. M. Pappas Offers All His City Business Interests and Leaseholds For Sale, Except The Royal Theatre

In another column of this issue will be seen the advertisement of Mr. M. Pappas, the well-known local merchant. Mr. Pappas, who, a little over three years ago, opened a shoe-shine parlour and shooting gallery at 339 George street, has since extended the scope of his business interests, so that he now operates the original business, now controlled by his nephews, Messrs. Yeates Bros., as well as a handsome cigar store at 337 George street, two pool rooms, one to the rear and one above the cigar store, also a barber shop and large pool room at 334 George street, the Royal Theatre, George street, and a restaurant at 59 Queen street, West Toronto. Mr. Pappas, since the theatre has proved so successful, has found that so many and complex lines of business are beyond convenient control, and has determined to sell out all branches of his business except the Royal Theatre. This includes the several leaseholds of the different properties. When a purchaser or purchasers get these various named properties it will make an important change in the local business world. Mr. Pappas has decided to devote his whole attention to the Royal Theatre, which will be greatly increased in size during the month of June. He will take down the wall at present separating the Royal Theatre and the adjoining pool room. This change, when effected, will give the Royal Theatre a seating capacity of about five hundred. 1d

THE STOLEN HORSE.

An Old Proverb With a New Application.

The woods are full of "so-called" remedies for Baldness.

You may call anything in creation a remedy, but to use them is like locking the stable after the horse is stolen.

Baldness and Dandruff are caused by a germ—if you don't kill the germ the germ will kill the hair.

Scientists have laboured with the problem of a preventative for Baldness for many years.

Newbro's Herpicide is the product of a modern idea, and will cure Dandruff and prevent Baldness because germs cannot exist when you apply Herpicide.

Herpicide is a valuable hair dressing and scalp disinfectant as well as a cure for Dandruff

DR. LUKE OF LABRADOR TO LECTURE IN PETERBORO

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell to Speak in Grand Opera House on April 14th.

The public will be greatly interested in learning that Dr. Grenfell of—or rather—the Labrador medical mission—will deliver an address in Peterborough on April 14th, under the auspices of the Peterborough branch of the Labrador Deep Sea Missions. Dr. Grenfell is one of the most interesting personalities, by virtue of his work, in the world to-day. He is not a mere missionary; he is a practical philanthropist, giving his medical and surgical services gratuitously in the interests of the scattered fisher folk of the bleak and barren Labrador coast, whose chief wealth lies in the deep sea that washes its rock-rimmed shores. Incidentally his deeply religious nature leads him to extend his services in the interest of their spiritual healing, his work in both respects being more in deed than word, as becomes a pupil of the Great Master. He is a gentleman of means and of high social standing in England. But under the leading of duty he has renounced all the comforts and delights of human life to devote himself soul, body and means for the benefit of his fellow men, who would otherwise be without medical or surgical skill or spiritual instruction. He is the missionary or agent of no church, and the financial means employed are his own, supplemented only by what is voluntarily given to his great work. History furnishes no more really heroic figure, no larger self-sacrifice, no more fruitful, practical benevolence than that of Dr. Grenfell in far-off Labrador.

Dr. Grenfell's lecture in Peterborough, will be illustrated by lantern views and the price of admission will be popular, 25 cents to all parts of the Opera House. There should be, in theatrical parlance, a capacity audience. Those who attend will not only be aiding in a great work, but will, in hearing a modest, simple-minded man, in whom self is subordinated to his life work, receive an inspiration in practical philantropy that will not only be a benefit to themselves, but to the society in which they move.

Charge Of Selling Liquor During Prohibited Hours Not Proven

A charge of selling liquor during prohibited hours, namely on Sunday morning last, was preferred against an hotelkeeper at the police court this morning. Mr. James Haverson, K.C., of Toronto, appeared for the accused and pleaded not guilty. After hearing the witnesses, His Worship dismissed the case, the evidence being of a contradictory nature.

The first witness called, said that he knew the defendant. He was at his hotel last Sunday. He got intoxicating liquor there and paid for it. He had no requisition from a medical doctor to procure it. He had lager. The defendant served him. He got it two different times. He was there between 9 and 10 o'clock and between 11 and 12 o'clock. The first time he had three drinks. The second time, he said that he had five drinks, as far as he could recollect.

The previous witness' father sworn, said that the week before last he went to the defendant's hotel and told him not to give his son any liquor.

Two other witnesses said to have been in the bar at the time the liquor was sold, were heard but denied getting any and the first man's story was unproven.

LORD STRATHCONA'S SPLENDID GIFT TO SCHOOLS OF CANADA

High Commissioner Gives Quarter of a Million for the Military Training of School Children.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM OVER IT

Ottawa, March 25.—For the encouragement of physical and military training in the public schools of Canada, Lord Strathcona has made the generous donation of $250,000 a sum which will yield $10,000 a year for the patriotic purpose designated by Canada's High Commissioner in London.

The announcement was made in the House yesterday afternoon by Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, and was received with applause and a resolution of thanks. Moved by the Prime Minister and seconded by R. L. Borden.

Sir Frederick Borden prefaced his announcement by referring to a portion of his recent speech upon the estimates, in which he referred to the importance of training in schools, and to the unanimity with which the idea had been accepted throughout the Dominion. Sir Frederick then read a letter, received Tuesday, from

LORD STRATHCONA

Lord Strathcona, which said in part:

"I wish to inform you that I am prepared to place at your disposal, or that of any competent body which you may be in a position to constitute, with the object of encouraging such training, the sum of $10,000 per annum. I would suggest that the fund which this sum will form might be designated as 'for the encouragement of physical and military training in the public schools,' and that it should be administered by a body of trustees appointed for the purpose.

"I think that the central committee might perhaps be composed somewhat as follows: Yourself, as the Minister of Militia for the time being, as president, and the Ministers who deal with education in the various provinces of the Dominion as vice-presidents, but subject to the condition that the province which each one represents has declared its adhesion to the principles agreed upon between the Department of Militia and the Province of Nova Scotia, which was sanctioned and made applicable to the other provinces of the Dominion by order-in-council of Aug. 30, 1908.

"The executive council to be composed of: (a) The members of the militia council; (b) representatives to be named by the Ministers controlling education in the various provinces, two each for the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec and one each for the remaining provinces of the Dominion; (c) the military officers commanding the commands and independent districts of the Dominion.

"While the fund as a whole should be administered and money grants allotted by the executive committee in general proportionately to the school population of the various provinces of the Dominion, it would, I think, be desirable that the administration of the grant within the several provinces should be made by local committees appointed under the authority of the central committee.

"While I attach the highest importance to the advantages of physical training and elementary drill for all children of both sexes, I am particularly anxious that the especial value of military drill, including rifle shooting for boys capable of using rifles, should constantly be borne in mind."

The Minister of Militia then read the following cablegram, which he had just sent to Lord Strathcona in reply:

"Gratefully accept your most generous offer to create a fund for the encouragement of physical and militia training in the public schools of Canada. Organization outlined in your letter appears admirably adapted to attain end in view. Am forwarding by mail detailed proposals based thereon for carrying out the scheme. Hope you will consent to its being called The Strathcona Trust for the Encouragement of Physical and Military Training in the Public Schools.' His Excellency, the Governor-General, accepts the position of patron and the Premier consents to become vice-patron."

"Lord Strathcona has rendered many services to Canada," said the Premier, "but I believe none of greater importance than the present one." He added a word as to the importance of physical training and expressed the hope that it would become part of the education of all the boys and girls of the country.

"Lord Strathcona's offer," said Mr. Borden, "will be received with feelings of the deepest appreciation, not only by members of this House, regardless of party, but by all patriotic citizens. This action of Lord Strathcona's is entirely in harmony with the many patriotic actions which have distinguished his wonderful career. I am sure that all of us earnestly hope that it may be productive of all the great benefits and advantages to the people of Canada which are so eloquently set forth."

The motion was agreed to amidst cheers from both sides of the House.

The woman drank the poison while standing in front of a drug store in the east end, not far from the house in which Willie Whitla was detained here. She died in an ambulance while being taken to a hospital.

WOMEN WANT THE PRIVILEGE OF THE RIGHT TO CAST VOTES

Toronto, March 25.—Two hundred women and twice as many students, Government employes and other curiosity seekers besieged the Parliament Buildings yesterday. The women went to ask for votes, and others went to see the women. Inspector James L. Hughes was in charge. He packed the women in the reception-room until the place was suffocating. The crowd was so large that Sir James Whitney had only a foot or two of space on which to stand. There were fifteen speakers. A petition, signed by 100,000 persons, was presented.

Sir James informed the women that the Government had no idea that the deputation would be so large, or more comfortable arrangements could have been made.

Controller Hocken introduced the deputation.

Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen said she did not know there would be so many women present. She read the petition asking that the franchise be extended to all women, the same as men. Sixteen million women in the world were interested in the question, she said, and in Canada the deputation had the support of women in every province. They were also supported by the mayor and council of Toronto and all the organizations they had approached. They represented the people of Ontario, not only a few faddists.

They all believed that the home was woman's sphere, but they went further and said the home was man's sphere. Man should protect his home, and should help the women to protect the homes. The women wanted to protect the children.

Women paid a large proportion of the taxes and should have some say as to what become of the money. Many municipal candidates qualified on their wives' property, and the same privilege should be extended to women.

Inspector Hughes said the province of Ontario was the first to make any move to extend the franchise to women, and he thought further progress should be made by extending the full franchise.

Mrs. F. MacD. Denison thought the present time was the psychological moment to extend the franchise. If the race was to grow it would have to grow together.

Rev. R. J. Hutcheon, Mrs. Miriam Brown, Mrs. H. N. A. Stevens, Mrs. J. N. Bruce, Mr. James Simpson, Dr. Margaret Gordon, Mrs. Louisa M. Glasgow, and Mr. Wm. Mines all urged the claims of the women for the right to vote.

In reply Sir James made one or two observations. The end of the session was in sight, he said, and under ordinary circumstances it would be impossible to take any steps. He did not say that to dodge the question. They were asking for one of the greatest political changes which could be ever brought about in any country, and they could not expect the Government to take any action without considering the question from every point of view. No woman had a right to vote, and no man had a right to vote any more than he had a right to do mending. Voting was not a right, but was the means devised by which people could express their opinions. No one was born with the right to vote. No question could arise as to the influence of women. He hoped that in the future the women would again visit the Government.

A strictly business session in the Legislature yesterday afternoon disposed of a fair proportion of the order sheet. Five Government bills had a second reading, including Hon. F. Cochrane's to restrict the assessment of running companies to the properties on which they were making profits.

Mr. Brewster withdrew his bill to amend the Municipal Act.

A night session had been decided upon, but at 6 o'clock this was suddenly reversed.

Three bills were read a first time: To amend the act respecting agricultural societies—Hon. J. S. Duff; to amend the Assessment Act—H. Eilber, to amend the Public Health Act—G. C. Wilson.

Mr. Lucas is to move for an address to the Governor-General for legislation permitting the province to expropriate telephone services, or, in alternative, to grant Legislatures power to control rates within provinces.

SHOULD ASSUME SHARE.

Mr. Foster's Naval Contribution Resolution Presented.

Ottawa, March 25.—The Opposition made a strategic movement yesterday afternoon.

It is broadly hinted that the Government is seriously considering the advisability of building a battleship of the Dreadnought type for the service of the Empire. Mr. Foster, who some time ago gave notice of a resolution favoring a contribution to the general defence, yesterday gave notice that on Monday next he will move:

"That in the opinion of this House, in view of her great and varied resources, of her geographical position and national environments and of that spirit of self-help and self-respect which alone befits a strong and growing people, Canada should no longer delay in assuming her proper share of the responsibility and financial burden incident to the suitable protection of her exposed coast line and great seaports."

Mr. Foster asked the Prime Minister to make his resolution the first order on Monday, which was granted.

E. N. Lewis asked that the Government take over his daylight saving bill or appoint a committee to investigate the question.

Mr. Borden gave notice that on Thursday he will discuss the report of Judge Cassels on the Marine Department, if that would be convenient.

It was not. Sir Wilfrid said he was waiting for certain information, which he did not expect to receive till next week, before announcing the policy of the Government. He suggested a week from Thursday, and Mr. Borden agreed.

The banking and commerce committee again yesterday resumed consideration of the insurance bill. It was suggested that British and foreign companies should be required to add to their expenses in Canada an amount equal to five per cent. of their Canadian premiums, to provide for head office expenses. The companies also asked that industrial assurance be exempted from all restriction for expenses.

Broke In to Find Beer.

Brampton, March 25.—License Inspector Orr of Meadowvale, accompanied by Constable Harvey of Brampton, demanded admission on Tuesday night to James Farrell's hotel, at Streetsville Junction, and although allowed to enter the building they were refused an entrance into some of the rooms. Orr promptly broke open the doors and secured eight cases of beer. Farrell grew ugly while the cases were being placed on the wagon, and seizing an axe, attempted to smash the bottles, desisting only when Constable Harvey drew his revolver.

"Globe" Banquet at Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 25.—A unique gathering took place in the Commons' dining-room last night, when Senator Jaffray entertained about 30 of the present employes and graduates of The Globe, who are now in Ottawa. The invited guests included Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. G. P. Graham, Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Hon. Frank Oliver, Mr. Speaker Marcil, W. F. Maclean, M.P., W. L. Mackenzie King, M.P., Senator Jaffray was in the chair and Senator G. W. Ross in the vice-chair. Mr. J. A. Macdonald, chief editor, was here from Toronto for the occasion.

Want Another Conference.

[illegible] Pa., March 25.—The report yesterday of the policy committee of the Anthracite Mine Workers [illegible] proposals for a further conference with the operators and [illegible] miners to remain at work until after April 1, until further instructions from the union. Two miners want:

Complete recognition of their union.

Black Hand Murder In Brooklyn.

New York, March 25.—Another killing which the police declare should be added to the list of crimes of the "Black Hand" Society was committed on the streets of Brooklyn yesterday, when Joseph Genaro, a cigarmaker and supposed to be the father of a vaudeville performer of that name, was killed in a fusilade of bullets that followed a meeting of Genaro and a crowd of several Italians.

New Navy For Spain.

London, March 25.—It is announced that the Spanish Government has arranged with a British syndicate to build a new Spanish navy and an arsenal. The navy, it is said, will consist of three 15,000 tons ironclads, three torpedo destroyers, 24 torpedo boats and four gunboats.

They will be built in Spain, but the armament will be supplied by a British firm.

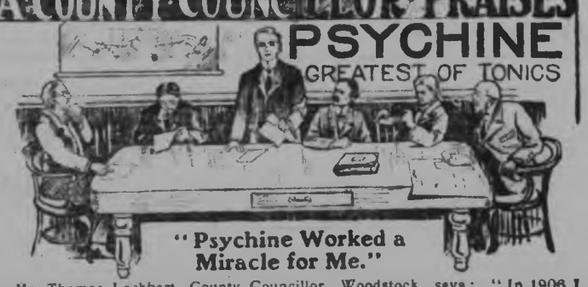
A COUNTY COUNCILLOR PRAISES


PSYCHINE
GREATEST OF TONICS
"Psychine Worked a Miracle for Me."
Mr. Thomas Lockhart, County Councillor, Woodstock, says: "In 1906 I caught a severe cold which brought on a bad attack of Bronchitis. I was down right ill and totally incapacitated from doing my work on the farm or attending to my duties as a County Councillor for Oxford. My lungs also seemed to be affected, and I got lower and lower, until my friends thought that I would never get better; I also got very discouraged myself and began to lose hope."
"Needless to say I had, what was supposed to be, the best medical advice and treatment. All sorts of remedies were tried and suggestions followed, but all to no purpose. At last my doctor plainly told me that he could do nothing more for me, and that the only thing that would benefit me was to move to a milder climate. I got much worse; gradually lost all my strength, and was reduced to a shadow of my former self. I could not move out of the house, and was useless for anything, having to give up all my business."
"I honestly believe at this time that my days were numbered. Then I came across an 'Ad' in the 'Sentinel-Review' telling what PSYCHINE had done in similar cases to my own, and I determined to give it a trial. I sent for a bottle and it worked wonders for me in a very short time. The pain in my chest disappeared; my breathing was easier, and I could soon get out of doors again. My strength came back, and it is surprising how rapidly I put on flesh and gained in weight."
"I do not hesitate to say that PSYCHINE worked a miracle for me. I was a marvel to all who saw me, and I cannot sufficiently praise this wonderful medicine which restored me to health when all else failed. PSYCHINE brings immediate relief from the most distressing symptoms of Bronchitis and Lung trouble, and soon makes one feel strong and well again. I am 67 years of age now, and since taking PSYCHINE, have had no return of illness at all; indeed I never felt better in my life."
If you have not tried PSYCHINE you should do so at once. It keeps the healthy well and restores strength to the weak, enriches the blood and creates a healthy vigorous action of the heart. Psychine is without doubt the greatest Life giver known. Sold by all druggists and stores at 50c. and $1. Free trial sent on application to the proprietors, Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto. The following challenge appeared in this morning's Times:

I, W. McIlroy, on behalf of the Tories, to be known hereinafter as the parties of the first part, do hereby place a chip on my shoulder and dare Herb. Martin and the Grits, to be known hereinafter as the parties of the second part, to knock it off. The parties of the first part aforesaid, claim that the parties of the second part hereinafter mentioned, cannot, and will not defeat the parties of the first, at the game of ten pins. The parties of the second part may have won from the parties of the first part, but the latter mentioned parties did not know that they were being trimmed. Therefore, this is a formal challenge for a second game to be played on Tuesday evening next, March 30th, at eight o'clock when the aforesaid parties of the second part will receive as sound a meating as it is in the power of their opponents to bestow.

law which is to be voted on that same day by the ratepayers in general.

The Examiner has been instructed to publish the following reply:

Whereas, as one Wm. McIlroy, acknowledged leader of the Tory Bowling team has seen fit in his mightiness to duly challenge to a game at ye olde pastyme of bowling, the Grit Bowling team know ye by these presents, that I, Herbert Martin, sometimes known as the Big Chief of the Iroquois, do hereby after due deliberation and with malice aforethought accept, agree to and accede to, the aforementioned defi on behalf of the Grit Bowling team, known as the parties of the second part, and stipulate that the contest shall take place at the Peterborough Bowling Club's Alleys, at 8 o'clock on the evening of March 30, the penalty for defeat being that the unlucky wights on the losing side shall dig into their private exchequer to such an extent as to provide feasting for the members of both teams.

INDIANS SCALPED LOCK WORKS TEAM TAKING ALL THREE GAMES

The Iroquois walked away with three games from the Lockworks in the Bowling League at the P. B. C. Alleys last night. The Indians won by a total majority of 328 pins and were never in any danger, winning each game by a substantial lead. The Lockworks trio averaged only 400 each while the Iroquois had their eye right on the king pin, that is with the exception of Martin in the first game. Gutterson was the hero of the occasion, being high for the night with the splendid score of 591, just seventeen below the record, while incidentally he stuck in 231 in his last game which ties McIlroy's score for the Cigars. Sutherland toppled the pins over steadily for a 526 total. Following were the scores:

Iroquois

Martin	100	169	147— 416
Gutterson	193	167	231—591
Sutherland	158	187	181— 526
	451	523	559—1533

Lock Works

Lacheur	138	164	117— 419

Westbrooke	119	111	125— 356
	394	402	390—1205

To-night there will be a double-header, the Examiner A playing the Grays, while the Examiner B's hook up with the Belmonts.

MANY WELL KNOWN "PEDS" WILL BE HERE FOR THE BIG RACE

The announcement that Peterborough is to have another six-day walking race has been received with unqualified pleasure by local sporting enthusiasts, who have not yet stopped talking about what was undoubtedly the most successful sporting event ever held in Peterborough. It will be remembered as a week of excitement, all the way the fascination of the contest growing on one as the will bring together a more classy field of walkers than the contestants of last year. Hoagland is coming and will bring with him a coterie of the best walkers in New York State, including Kibertanz and Loeslin, the pair who did so well in the recent six-day contest in New York. Peterborough will be represented by Harrison, Hartley and probably Spenceley Guerin and a number of other walkers, while many other entries from different parts of Canada are expected, including our old friends Jim Graham, of Buffalo, and Blake, the negro walker from Syracuse. Tom Slater will also be over from Oswego and the entry list will include the best walkers on the continent.

EDMONTON TEAM THREATENED WITH LAW SUIT BY WINNIPEG

According to articles published in Winnipeg papers this week, there is a strong probability that the Edmonton Hockey Club will be plunged into a lawsuit and end the season in the great white light of publicity. The Winnipeg Shamrocks are sore, very sore, over the failure of the Edmonton team to play a return game in Winnipeg, as promised, or to let them know of their inability to play in time for the Winnipeg team to make other arrangements for a gate-producing game. As a consequence, they have decided, according to a Winnipeg paper, to bring an action for an indefinite amount of damages against the Edmonton Club. The following from the Winnipeg Telegram shows how Winnipeg hockey sports regard the matter.

Management Over-ruled.

"The Edmonton hockey team has called off the proposed trip to Winnipeg, as they cannot get all their team away.

W. J. Holmes, Winnipeg: "Cancel arrangements for games. Team unable to get away. Writing. Signed E. E. Chauvin, Edmonton, March 13, 1909."

In reply to a protest by wire, Secretary Chauvin telegraphed: "Regret, am powerless to act. Executive committee over-ruled management. Writing."

If it had been known here last Wednesday that Edmonton could not come, the Ottawa Hockey Club, holders of the Stanley Cup, would have been here Friday and Saturday, March 12 and 13. This only makes the pill all the more bitter, and establishes the claim of the Shamrocks for unstated damages, which will be entered in the courts at once.

Not only that, but the Shamrocks were offered dates for the Stanley Cup play they left for Edmonton. They were expected by the trustees to turn back for the eastern trip, but refused to play false to Edmonton.

Such a sudden upsetting of long-standing agreements has never been known in western hockey, and the feeling in Winnipeg is accordingly far from friendly toward the Edmonton Club, which hitherto held a high place in local favour. On their Stanley Cup quest, they were supported by the sympathy of the West, with Winnipeg at the head of the country as keen for victory as Edmonton.

Secretary Chauvin and Manager Wilcox are evidently sorry the players have been over-ruled and the club officers are to be held responsible by the Winnipeg Club. Both the management of the Winnipeg rink and of the Shamrocks kept their part of the agreement as far as has been required and gave the Edmonton people the best hockey they ever saw in the northern capital. Now that the second part of the agreement is broken and in such unceremonious style, the claim for damages will be pressed."

I decided at last to take some of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking eight boxes I gained in strength and weight, and now weigh one hundred and thirteen pounds, the most I ever weighed in my life. I feel well and can work as well as ever I did, and can heartily thank Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for it all."

BIG SALARY FOR BASEBALL PLAYER

Comiskey Wants Fielder Jones to Manage Chicago Americans.

Chicago, March 25.—A special despatch from Los Angeles states that President Comiskey will offer Fielder Jones a salary "larger than that given any member of President Taft's cabinet," to manage the Chicago American League club this season.

Jones is heavily interested in lumber lands on the Pacific coast, and has named $20,000 as the price of his services, not with any idea that he would get it, but as an intimation that his business interests are paramount.

The despatch states that the offer will be made to Jones when the club starts on its return trip by way of Portland, Ore., where Jones makes his headquarters.

BANQUET FOR THE CHAMPIONS

Church League Executive Makes Arrangements For the Affair Which Will Be Held Next Week.

At a meeting of the Church Hockey League held last night at the Y.M.C.A., at which representatives were present from the different clubs concerned, it was decided to banquet the champions of the Senior League and also of the Junior Church League, the event to take place on Friday evening, April 2nd, at Jacobi's restaurant. Mr. Burnham, the donor of the cup to this league, has promised to attend and will present the same to the champion St. Andrew's team. A committee has been selected to make the necessary arrangements and the banquet should be a very successful affair.

TWO GOOD GAMES WERE PLAYED

Business College and Mariners Won Basketball Matches.

Two lively games were played in the City Basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when the Mariners defeated the Coronas by 29-19, and the Business College put the Indian sign on the Eurekas by 26-18. Both games were well played and were splendid exhibitions of ball. S. W. Collings refereed the first game while Harvey Staunton handled the whistle in the second game. The League race is provnng most exciting and the games are arousing a lot of interest. The teams last night were as follows:

Coronas—Miller and Turner, forwards; Wallace, centre; Downs and Wade, defence.

NO BITING AT NAPANEE WRITES A FAN FROM THERE

The letter given below which appeared in last night's Toronto Star will be read with pleasure in Peterborough, not that it was needed to clear Hurtubise's reputation in the eyes of Peterborough people, but because it proves to the outside fans that everyone here knows that the Peterborough wrestler would never indulge in such tactics as biting an opponent. It will be remembered that on Monday night Gene went to Napanee to wrestle Hawkey, of Kingston, and after they had gone for five minutes, Hawkey claimed that Hurtubise had bitten him. The referee awarded the claim, and on Gene's protesting, called the bout a draw. The following letter should clear up the matter satisfactorily.

Editor Sporting Star:

I notice in your paper to-day an article headed "Biting in a wrestling match," at Napanee. I wish to correct your account, as there was no biting. Hawkey deliberately rubbed his hand across Hurtubise's teeth and made a scratch but no blood, and two minutes afterwards when on Hurtubise's arm and it did not get a fall he squealed, and was allowed a fall on a foul. The house took sides with Hurtubise and hissed Hawkey for his dirty tactics.

Napanee. FAIR PLAY.

HOCKEY

There will be a meeting of the Senior Hockey team of St. Peter's T. A. S. in their room on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

WALKING RACE AT BROCK STREET RINK

Peterborough is to have another big walking race this spring. This has been decided upon and the race will be pulled off during the week beginning April 26th, at the Brock St. rink. Preparations will be commenced at once and a staff of men will be set to work at once to remove the ice from the building and to prepare the track. The walk will be 28 hours, four hours a night for the first five nights, between 7 and 11 o'clock, and eight hours on Saturday. That the event will be a success goes without saying, because it is certain that there will be a great field of starters. Last year's race was one of the most successful of its kind held in recent years on this continent, and netted the winner more than each of the team which won the recent six-day walk in New York received.

JILTED GIRL'S AMPLE ALIMONY

Gets $12.00 Week For 13 Years of Attention By Lumberman.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 25. — Because he courted Winnifred McKinze for thirteen years and then married another woman, the Iowa Supreme Court held that J. H. Gray, a wealthy lumberman, should pay Miss McKinze $8,000. Miss McKinze won the verdict in the lower court, but Gray appealed it. Miss McKinze produced fervid love letters and presents which she had received from Gray during his thirteen-year courtship. The jury figured that to be courted and then thrown aside was worth at least $12 per week, and assessed the damages accordingly.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

J. N. Barber, (Special).

New York, March 25.—Noon.—There was little change in stocks at the opening to-day, although London sent over higher prices all around. Fractional gains were made generally here, but were lost after a few minutes of trading and the market quieted down. There was some good buying of Erie later at higher prices, and Mexican Central was a point up. The traction group was again under pressure, while profit-taking in the leaders caused a set-back of a point by noon, although stocks were very well taken on the decline.

MR. D. S. HARVIE DEALS WITH THE POWER BY-LAW AS AN EXPERT ON THE SUBJECT

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I have lived in Peterborough for the last twenty-four years, and having had twenty years experience in erecting and testing hydraulic machinery, in twenty-five different power houses, with heads of water ranging from seven to thirty-five feet, from Quebec to Winnipeg river.

At the present time I am temporarily absent from Peterborough, but my family is still living there, and I have financial interests at stake in the city, therefore I claim the privilege of giving my opinion, with experience combined, on this power question.

I have erected the hydraulic machinery in three of the power houses between Peterborough and Lakefield, and have had charge of improvements, repairs and testing in every power-house on the Otonabee river I am not a civil engineer, but maintain there is not 700 horse power, nor the one-half of that power, as stated by Mayor Rush, available every day in the year over and above the 500 reserved by the water commissioners.

I have been in the Otonabee Co's power house, on several occasions, when the water was low and they could not put up 650 horse-power on the switch board. They have three of the best designed wheels in America, and they are the largest the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co. ever built. These with about a fourteen foot head, as they have there, with plenty of water in the river, would develop 1468 horse-power on the wheel shaft, or 1101 horse-power on the switch board, and these three wheels will discharge, under full head 6896 cubic feet of water per minute.

In explanation of the loss of power between the wheel shaft and the switch board, the best results I ever saw obtained from a vertical water wheel (such as would have to be put in on the new waterworks dam) had a loss of 25 per cent., and some of them bad as much as 35 per cent. and the conditions must be very favorable to obtain the above results.

COMPARISON OF DAMS.

At No. 3 dam they have the same sized wheels, but four of them, as at No. 5. The head is a little less, but the power developed is about the same, as they have the extra wheel. Now, I have been in this power house when they could not get much over one-half the power they could develop, for the want of water. Both No. 3 and No. 5 dams are Government maintained, and they are as tight as can be made. Now my point is this, with the same sized wheels installed in the new power-house, it would give ten feet effective head. It was only nine feet in 1895, when I worked on the installing of the water-works plant, but I see it is now raised to 11 feet. But, however, the effective head will be one foot less than whatever the actual head is, as when a wheel is running, the level of water is taken immediately over and under the same. Now it will take three 68 inch wheels, at 10 foot head, to develop 664 horse-power, on the switch board, or a duplicate plant of No. 5 dam.

This new power being on the same river, but a little lower down, you will not get as much water, as part of this water is diverted to the canal at Nassau. If dams No. 2 and No. 5 can only get water enough for less than 2-3 of the power their plants are capable of producing, the same thing will apply to the new dam; so part of the year all the power available on the proposed dam is 442 horse-power put on the switch board. But the water commissioners reserves 500 horse-power, I presume this is on the wheel shaft.

Now, it does not take a very clever man to see where the new power house would land. It would be high and dry for part of the year. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. Commercially a water power plant is only as valuable as the minimum flow of the river.

COST OF POWER HOUSE WILL BE $30 000.

With regard to the cost of this power house for $15 000 complete, without machinery. According to the Mayor's letter in the Review of the 20th inst. we are to have forebays, wheel pits, a tail race and foundation. They have left out the retaining wall, that will have to be built on the shore side of this power house, fifty feet on the upper side and 100 feet on the lower side, as the current to and from the wheels will eat the banks away as it is a gravel formation. The Water Commissioners went through this experience three or four years ago, when the river started to run around the end of the dam about the place where the new power house is to be built. A break water wall must be built about 100 feet long between the tail race and the river. The tail race will have to be dredged out because if it is not 6 or 7 feet deep, the tail water will back up on the wheels and reduce the head. I will ask any contractor in Peterborough how he would like to take the contract for $15 000 to duplicate the Otonabee power house, with wheel pits 12 feet below the level of the tail water and foundation to start on that level, dredge tail race, and build power house and retaining wall having all foundations complete to erect hydraulic and electric machinery on. I claim it will cost $30 000 to duplicate the Otonabee Power Co's plant and you cannot buy to-day hydraulic and electric machinery, and transmission line and put it up for $20 000.

THE AVERAGE POWER DEVELOPED WILL BE ABOUT 300 HORSE POWER AT A COST OF $166 PER HORSE POWER.

KENORA PLANT MOST EXPENSIVE, $100 PER H.P.

The most expensive power plant I ever put hydraulic machinery in is at Kenora, on the east bank of the Winnipeg River. To show that engineers' figures are not always reliable, I will state this case for the benefit of the ratepayers of Peterborough. The engineer advised the raising of $200 00 to build a power plant to be erected there in six units at 900 horse power each, three of these units to be installed at first. Through unforseen difficulties and bad management the town submitted the second by-law to raise $100-000 more to finish the work, and this did not complete it, for they had to raise $75 000 more, all told $375,000, with only one-half of their machinery bought. I was there when the last by-law was submitted to the people and it will cost them nearly $500 000 before they get this power plant complete, but they will have over 5 000 horse power, at a cost of about $100 per horse power.

The town of Orillia had a similar experience. They built three dams at Ragged Rapids but they have the power and they are selling power and light cheaper than any town in Ontario to-day.

The Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co. from their engineer's report, built a power house to contain three units. They have two of them in now, and every person in Peterborough is aware that last fall they did not have sufficient water to keep one unit running to its full capacity.

MAINTENANCE EXPENSIVE.

I will now take up the cost of maintaining a vertical wheel setting, as this would be the design, that would have to be put in a new power house if built, as the head is too low for a horizontal wheel design. In a vertical design the power is tranamitted through vertical shafts, and heavy gearing to a horizontal design. The wheel shaft is directly connected with the generator. The cost of repairs on a vertical outfit is ten times as much as the other. To my knowledge it cost the Otonabee power company $2400 for repairs in one year. The cost of maintaining and repairing this proposed $50,000 power plant will figure out this way:

Interest at 5 per cent—$2500.

1 head electrician—$1500.

2 power house men, each $750 — $1500.

2 line men each $750—$1500.

Depreciation, maintenance, and supplies, five per cent off total cost —$2500.

Cost—$9500.

COST OVER $30 PER HORSE POWER PER ANNUM.

This is a very low estimate or at a cost of over $30 per horse power to keep up this 300 horse power plant running part of the time.

Electors of Peterborough, they do not make this clear, to you, when they state that it will only cost $2 per horse power on the wheel shaft. That $2 means the interest on the $15,000, the first investment. You will have to spend $35,000 more afterwards, before you will have a power house and with no permanent supply of water. I would strongly advise the electors of Peterborough to turn this wild cat scheme down. The promoters have not given you the total cost. They do not know anything about the design of this power plant, or the number of wheel pits they will have to put down in the rock.

I AM STRONGLY IN FAVOR OF A MUNICIPAL POWER PLANT, — but I would not support or advise any elector to vote for a power plant that did not have at least 2.16 foot head, as a horizontal design could be installed.

Secure some other good power before it is too late.

During the last few years I have given this power question considerably study and I have a number of things along this line I would like to say but my letter is already too long.

I will close by making this proposition to any of the power experts of the city council That I will now enter into an agreement that when the proposed power house is completed, each to deposit $500 with the city treasurer to lie for three years time at the end of that period, if there has been five hundred horse power available every day in each year on the switch board, over and above the five hundred horse power reserved by the water commissioners the other party to get his money back with a reasonable rate of interest the balance of my $500 to be handed over to the Charity Board, and I expect the same treatment if this five hundred horse power cannot be put up every day in the year, for three years. I have no money to give away, but I am sure I would have a good investment.

Yours truly,

D. S. HARVIE.

PS—One suggestion to the Water Commissioners. When you are putting in an auxiliary plant to look into the advisability of installing an electric driven pump instead of a steam pump. I know of a town, one half the size of Peterborough, that has the electric pump, and is successfully operated.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space,

I remain,

Yours truly,

D. S. HARVIE.

ANCIENT PAVED CITY IS FOUND

Discovered By B.T. Bond In California Valley Who Asks That It Be Explored.

Los Angeles, March 25.—In the San Jacinto Mountains, near the edge of the Coachella Valley, B. T. Bond, of Long Beach, has just made California's most important archaeological discovery. It is the ruins of a prehistoric city, containing over 700 well preserved stone houses. Evidences of paved streets, strange earthenware of fine types, and the general aspect of the place show that it was no mean community, but savoured of civilization.

Bond has just returned here, and after conferring with scientists, arranged to place accurate information concerning his remarkable find before the Smithsonian Institution. He already has assurance by wire that an immediate and thorough exploration will be conducted from Washington.

He says that the silent city lies within fifteen miles of Indio, and not over five miles from old Los Angeles, on the Yuma stage road.

Bond's attention was first attracted to the town by several gashes on the mountain side, and on investigation he found deposits of heaped-up stone. Approaching nearer, through a rocky canyon, he beheld a series of streets, lined with ruins of houses built on terraces. Another road led from the town to a high peak, overlooking the entire country, and surmounted by another stone ruin, evidently a watch tower.

INDIANS OF THE FAR NORTH STARVE

Old Trapper Returns With Doleful Story—Government Must Send Relief.

Edmonton, Alta., March 25. — Colon Fraser, a trapper, who, for twenty-six years, has been going north from Edmonton each Fall into Canada's hinterland, has returned to civilization and tells of the terrible suffering of the Indians in the Far North. He says:

"The cold has been intense ever since Christmas, and it was the hardest winter I have experienced in the North. For fifty days the thermometer never went higher than 30 below zero, and 50 and even 55 below days were frequent. The Indians have suffered terribly. In one small tribe sixty-seven have died since the beginning of January. Their stores have run out and many of them are now on the verge of starvation.

"Fish solved the food problem in former years when fur-bearing animals were scarce, but this year there were no fish to be caught. It was some time ago the scarcity of fur began, when the catch fell away down. When the rivers open in mid-summer of twelve years. This scarcity of fur will result in terrible hardships, and, I fear, great mortality among the Northern Indians, for they will get neither the flesh to eat nor the fur to trade for other commodities. The Government should at once take steps to relieve those poor Red Men."

CHILDREN'S SHELTER AT LONDON, ONTARIO

From Farm and Dairy.

Jos. Sanders, Supt. London Shelter.

The value of the work in connection with the various Children's Shelters, is more generally recognized than ever before and meets with approval everywhere. Many new societies have been formed and now nearly every city and town in Ontario has a Children's Aid Society. London is looked upon as the central Society of Western Ontario, being one of the oldest Societies in the Province. It compares favorably with any in existence.

Some may ask, "How is it, that after the Society has been in operation for 15 years, there are still so many neglected and incorrigible children in the community to look after?" There are two answers to this question. One is that there has been a constant influx of strangers to the country, the other is that there have always been cases where the Board felt convinced that the children ought to be removed from their surroundings but the necessary evidence has not been forthcoming and these children are now growing up in circumstances leading them into idle and dissolute ways and are a constant source of trouble. We are forced to the conclusion that we can never rest in the work for children, we can never get through with our task.

The extent of the Society's work can in no wise be judged by the number of children removed from their homes, as it is becoming increasingly manifest that its chief field of operations lies in the adjustment of difficulties in the home that threaten the moral well-being of the child and in endeavoring to restore such conditions in the home as would make for the child's proper up-bringing.

There were quite a number of neglected and incorrigible children who were taken under my care temporarily and placed in the Shelter Home the past year until such times as the home conditions had improved and the parents had come to a realization of their responsibilities, or in cases of incorrigibility, until the boy or girl had been taught a much needed lesson and promised to amend his or her ways. They were then returned to their homes and nearly always with good results. In many of these cases I have allowed the boy or girl to return home only on probation and have insisted that they come to see me once a week for some time afterwards, and the talks which I had with them on these occasions and the advice given has, I believe, helped them to resist the temptations to which they were subject. Children whose parents had been neglected, were likewise returned to them merely on trial and the homes visited frequently. The knowledge of this supervision has resulted in a better care of the child. Indeed it is only after all other means have failed that children are permanently removed from their homes, and in such cases the children are as speedily as possible transferred to foster homes where they will receive the love and care their natural parents could not be induced to give them.

PLACING IN FOSTER HOMES.

Many of the Society's wards who were placed in foster homes 10 to 15 years ago are now young men and women who compare most favorably with other young people in the community in which they live. They are bright capable, self-dependent, and a credit to the Society and their foster parents, whereas had they been left in the surroundings from which they were rescued they would now probably be either criminals or dependents upon charity. A goodly number are in fact now married with homes, and in some cases have children, of their own. I have every confidence that these young parents will bring up their children on the good training and instruction which they received in their foster homes.

Thus it will be seen that there is much to encourage us in this work. We are not building for the present alone, because we are building for character, for the future as well as for the present. Every child whose home surroundings are now being improved, every boy and girl whose feet are being guided into the right path, every child being removed from vicious surroundings and placed in happy and respectable foster homes, every homeless little one who is found a home, will one day be an asset instead of a burden to this country, for whose future we hope so much.

Following are some figures which will give an idea of the work done during the year ending November 30, 1908, at the London Shelter.

WORK ACTUALLY DONE.

The number of children who passed through the Society's hands during the year was 112. There were in the Society's Shelter Home, at the beginning of the year, 20 children. Wards of the Society in the care of the Sisters of St. Joseph at the beginning of the year, 1; returned from foster homes during the year, 22. City children taken in charge during the year transferred to the Society by parents 14, delivered by order of police magistrate 4, taken on remand from police station 7, taken off streets 1, incorrigibles taken at request of parents 4, made ward by resolution of Board of Management 1, transferred from Salvation Army home 1. Total 32.

CHILDREN DISPOSED OF.

These children were disposed of as follows: Placed in foster homes for the first time 33, re-placed in foster homes 16, returned to parents or guardians 22, returned to Kent County Children's Aid Society 6, sent to Provincial Superintendent 1, committed to Victoria Industrial School, from city 1, from county 3, runaway Industrial School boy returned to Mimico 1, committed to Alexandra Industrial School, from city 2, from county 13, wards in Protestant Orphan's Home on Nov. 30th, 1908, 2, wards in care of sisters of St. Joseph on Nov 30th, 1908, 4, in Shelter Home on Nov. 30th, 1908, 20. Total 112.

Of the children placed in foster homes for the first time, 17 were girls and 16 were boys, total 33. The Society has now in foster homes 232 girls and 215 boys, total 447. Since its inception, the Society has had the legal care, charge and guardianship of 695 children. The 447 represents the number at present under its supervision in foster homes, the remaining 248 being either now old enough to look after themselves, or having been returned to the care of their parents or guardians.

The number of children cared for in the Society's Shelter Home in the year was 102, and of these 13 were in twice and two were in three times, making in all a total of 119, counting each one returned as a new arrival. The largest number in the Shelter on any date was 28 and the smallest number in at any time was 12. The success in finding homes for the children and the suitability of the children for the homes offered are the factors that influenced these results. The Shelter Home of the Society has been in existence since May 29th, 1899, and since that time has received 706 children.

ARE PROSECUTED.

From Farm and Dairy.

Farm and Dairy drew attention editorially, in its issue for March 11th, to the fact that in some of the larger cities there are concerns that regularly buy quantities of tub butter and by renovating it give it the appearance of creamery butter and sell it as such. The Dominion Dairy division was urged to deal with the matter. Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick writes us that wherever the department heard of such cases, prosecutions have been instituted.

The Department has an inspector constantly on the road looking into this matter. Recently two parties were fined in Quebec and a manufacturer of bogus butter in Montreal was fined $400. Farm and Dairy was informed that butter was being renovated by firms in Toronto, and therefore, is pleased to learn that the Dominion Division is endeavoring to protect and prosecute all cases of fraud of this nature.

ANCIENT PAVED CITY IS FOUND

Discovered By B.T. Bond in California Valley Who Asks That It Be Explored.

Los Angeles, March 25.—In the San Jacinto Mountains, near the edge of the Coachella Valley, B. F. Bond, of Long Beach, has just made California's most important archaeological discovery. It is the ruins of a prehistoric city, containing over 700 well preserved stone houses. Evidences of paved streets, strange earthenware of fine types, and the general aspect of the place show that it was no mean community, but savoured of civilization.

Bond has just returned here, and after conferring with scientists, arranged to place accurate information concerning his remarkable find before the Smithsonian Institution. He already has assurance by wire that an immediate and thorough exploration will be conducted from Washington.

He says that the silent city lies within fifteen miles of Indio, and not over five miles from old Los Angeles, on the Yuma stage road.

Bond's attention was first attracted to the town by several gashes on the mountain side, and on investigation he found deposits of heaped-up stone. Approaching nearer, through a rocky canyon, he beheld a series of streets, lined with ruins of houses built on terraces. Another road led from the town to a high peak, overlooking the entire country, and surmounted by another stone ruin, evidently a watch tower.

INDIANS OF THE FAR NORTH STARVE

Edmonton, Alta., March 25. — Colon Fraser, a trapper, who, for twenty-six years, has been going north from Edmonton each Fall into Canada's hinterland, has returned to civilization and tells of the terrible sufferings of the Indians in the Far North. He says:—

"The cold has been intense ever since Christmas, and it was the hardest winter I have ever seen in the North. For fifty days the thermometer never went higher than 38 below zero, and 50 and even 55 below days were frequent. The Indians have suffered terribly. In one small tribe sixty-seven have died since the beginning of January. Their stores have run out and many of them are now on the verge of starvation.

"Fish solved the food problem in former years when fur-bearing animals were scarce, but this year there were no fish to be caught. To give some idea of the scarcity of fur this winter, the catch I will bring down when the rivers open is not one-tenth of former years. This scarcity of fur will result in terrible hardships, and, I fear, great mortality among the Northern Indians, for they will get neither the flesh to eat, nor the fur to trade for other commodities. The Government should at once take steps to relieve these poor Red Men."

ONLY ONE BATH IN HALF CENTURY

Man's Statements Shock Members of His Church.

Lansing, Mich., March 25. — William Peterson, a miller of this city, shocked and startled the cultured members of a class in applied Christianity at a meeting in the First Universalist Church by interrupting the speaker on "Home Sanitation." His remark that he had but one bath in his life.

A representative of the State Board of Health was reading a paper when Peterson nearly broke up the session by his remarks.

"My folks lived in three rooms in the old country," said Peterson, "and lived on rye bread and beer. A friend of mine asked me to take a bath not long ago in a 'tidewater' they had put in a church, but I told him that I had never taken but one bath in my life."

WOOED NURSE IN DARK ROOM

Portland Man Won His Bride After a Strange Courtship.

Portland, March 25.—Wooing and winning a bride while he was confined in a dark room at St. Vincent's Hospital, was the strange experience of William Lang, engineer for a local dredging company. He has just married Miss Mary Sillers, his nurse. Miss Sillers obtained a leave of absence from the hospital recently and married quietly. Her chums at the hospital did not know of the wedding and met her on the street recently. They asked her when she was coming back.

"I would if I could, but I can't, because I'm married now," replied Mrs. Lang.

For six weeks Mr. Lang was kept in a dark room at the hospital, because of injury to his eyes. During that period he fell in love with his nurse and won her hand. When he regained his sight he was more charmed at her than ever. Then the marriage followed.

CHILDREN'S SHELTER AT LONDON, ONTARIO

From Farm and Dairy.

Jos. Sanders, Supt. London Shelter.

The value of the work in connection with the various Children's Shelters, is more generally recognized than ever before and meets with approval everywhere. Many new societies have been formed and now nearly every city and town in Ontario has a Children's Aid Society. London is looked upon as the central Society of Western Ontario, being one of the oldest Societies in the Province. It compares favorably with any in existence.

Some may ask, "How is it, that after the Society has been in operation for 15 years, there are still so many neglected and incorrigible children in the community to look after?" There are two answers to this question. One is that there has been a constant influx of strangers to the country, the other is that there have always been cases where the Board felt convinced that the children ought to be removed from their surroundings but the necessary evidence has not been forthcoming and these children are now growing up in circumstances leading them into idle and dissolute ways and are a constant source of trouble. We are forced to the conclusion that we can never rest in the work for children, we can never get through with our task.

The extent of the Society's work can in no wise be judged by the number of children removed from their homes, as it is becoming increasingly manifest that its chief field of operations lies in the adjustment of difficulties in the home that threaten the moral well-being of the child and in endeavoring to restore such conditions in the home as would make for the child's proper up-bringing.

There were quite a number of neglected and incorrigible children who were taken under my care temporarily and placed in the Shelter Home the past year until such times as the home conditions had improved and the parents had come to a realization of their responsibilities, or in cases of incorrigibility, until the boy or girl had been taught a much needed lesson and promised to amend his or her ways. They were then returned to their homes and nearly always with good results. In many of these cases I have allowed the boy or girl to return home only on probation and have insisted that they come to see me once a week for some time afterwards, and the talks which I had with them on these occasions and the advice given has, I believe, helped them to resist the temptations to which they were subject. Children whose parents had been neglected, were likewise returned to them merely on trial and the homes visited frequently. The knowledge of this supervision has resulted in a better care of the child. Indeed it is only after all other means have failed that children are permanently removed from their homes, and in such cases the children are as speedily as possible transferred to foster homes where they will receive the love and care their natural parents could not be induced to give them.

PLACING IN FOSTER HOMES.

Many of the Society's wards who were placed in foster homes 10 to 15 years ago are now young men and women who compare most favorably with other young people in the community in which they live. They are bright capable, self-dependent, and a credit to the Society and their foster parents, whereas had they been left in the surroundings from which they were rescued they would now probably be either criminals or dependents upon charity. A goodly number are in fact now married with homes, and in some cases have children, of their own. I have every confidence that these young parents will bring up their children on the good training and instruction which they received in their foster homes.

Thus it will be seen that there is much to encourage us in this work. We are not building for the present alone, because we are building for character, for the future as well as for the present. Every child whose home surroundings are now being improved, every boy and girl whose feet are being guided into the right path, every child being removed from vicious surroundings and placed in happy and respectable foster homes, every homeless little one who is found a home, will one day be an asset instead of a burden to this country, for whose future we hope so much.

Following are some figures which will give an idea of the work done during the year ending November 30, 1908, at the London Shelter.

WORK ACTUALLY DONE.

The number of children who passed through the Society's hands during the year was 112. There were in the Society's Shelter Home, at the beginning of the year, 20 children. Wards of the Society in the care of the Sisters of St. Joseph at the beginning of the year, 1; returned from foster homes during the year, 22. City children taken in charge during the year transferred to the Society by parents 14, delivered by order of police magistrate 4, taken on remand from police station 7, taken off streets 1, incorrigibles taken at request of parents 4, made ward by resolution of Board of Management 1, transferred from Salvation Army home 1. Total 32.

CHILDREN DISPOSED OF.

These children were disposed of as follows: Placed in foster homes for the first time 33, re-placed in foster homes 16, returned to parents or guardians 22, returned to Kent County Children's Aid Society 6, sent to Provincial Superintendent 1, committed to Victoria Industrial School, from city 1, from county 3, runaway Industrial School boy returned to Mimico 1, committed to Alexandra Industrial School, from city 2, from county 13, wards in Protestant Orphan's Home on Nov. 30th, 1908, 2, wards in care of sisters of St. Joseph on Nov 30th, 1908, 4, in Shelter Home on Nov. 30th, 1908, 20. Total 112.

Of the children placed in foster homes for the first time, 17 were girls and 16 were boys, total 33. The Society has now in foster homes 232 girls and 215 boys, total 447. Since its inception, the Society has had the legal care, charge and guardianship of 695 children. The 447 represents the number at present under its supervision in foster homes, the remaining 248 being either now old enough to look after themselves, or having been returned to the care of their parents or guardians.

The number of children cared for in the Society's Shelter Home in the year was 102, and of these 13 were in twice and two were in three times, making in all a total of 119, counting each one returned as a new arrival. The largest number in the Shelter on any date was 28 and the smallest number in at any time was 12. The success in finding homes for the children and the suitability of the children for the homes offered are the factors that influenced these results. The Shelter Home of the Society has been in existence since May 29th, 1899, and since that time has received 706 children.

ARE PROSECUTED.

From Farm and Dairy.

Farm and Dairy drew attention editorially, in its issue for March 11th, to the fact that in some of the larger cities there are concerns that regularly buy quantities of tub butter and by renovating it give it the appearance of creamery butter and sell it as such. The Dominion Dairy division was urged to deal with the matter. Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick writes us that wherever the department heard of such cases, prosecutions have been instituted.

The Department has an inspector constantly on the road looking into this matter. Recently two parties were fined in Quebec and a manufacturer of bogus butter in Montreal was fined $400. Farm and Dairy was informed that butter was being renovated by firms in Toronto, and therefore, is pleased to learn that the Dominion Division is endeavoring to protect and prosecute all cases of fraud of this nature.

By Grace Of Gladys.

By CARL WILLIAMS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

She was the child star, the youthful prodigy of the Little Gladys Dramatic company. What made it worse, her doting papa was the manager of the show, which played a repertory for a week in the smaller towns, always dramas in which the small star could shine to advantage.

As a stage attraction the child was a wonder. She could play little girls who, like all the good, die young, and she also played rough soubrette parts with a dash that made more important managers wish that there were no children's societies in the large cities to prevent her appearance in the big theaters.

Her father, Joe Glidden, had tried the cities, but after half a season he reorganized his old company and took to the small towns, where the child was a favorite and where children's societies were unknown.

There, among old friends, he felt safe once more. He swaggered about as he had done before he knew what it was to regard every stranger approaching the box office as a possible police officer in plain clothes.

Gladys, as though to make up for lost time, became more incorrigible than ever.

Versatility, her precious dramatic gift, she displayed only on the stage. The members of her father's company never were treated to any private displays of the angel children that Gladys played to perfection on the stage.

In private life the child was steadily and consistently a torment. Jack Trent and Elvia Mordant, of her patient support, were her especial victims.

Gladys' sharp eyes had discovered the birth of love even before Elvia was certain of her own feelings and announced that fact to the rest of the company at supper that evening. Her shrill, piping voice, trained to fill a theater, reached to every corner of the dining room, and the gleeful statement that "Miss Mordant is awfully gone on Jack Trent" set the room in a roar.

With flaming face Elvia sprang to her feet and rushed from the room, the laughter of the company and the other guests ringing in her ears long after she had reached her room.

Scalding tears stained her pillow, but she was at last certain that she did love Trent, and, had he only known, he had cause to be grateful to the youngster. Instead he savagely suggested to Joe Glidden that a good spanking would be the salvation of the child.

Glidden knew better than to take the advice. Once, and once only, had Gladys been spanked. It had happened on a Sunday, and business was bad all the following week, because the child played abominably in spite of all threats. Not until the promise was made that she should not be spanked any more did she appear at her best again.

Glidden only smiled indulgently at Trent's suggestion, but Gladys hated the man for it, and thereafter she selected Jack and Elvia as her special victims.

It did not matter that on the trains they sat at opposite ends of the car. Gladys would discover Trent gazing intently into space and call attention to the fact that he could not keep his eyes off Elvia.

The company laughed at her pert remarks, because they were selfishly glad that Gladys found vent for her love of mischief that did not involve themselves.

Their laughter encouraged the child to fresh endeavors, and since the two victims would not provide her with material for jokes off the stage she formed the habit of guying their performance on the stage.

Jack and Elvia were cast for lovers' roles, and it was disconcerting to hear a sibilant "Ah!" as their lips met in a stage caress. Only in the theater did they see each other now, so Gladys made those stage scenes moments of torture.

Not for a moment did the child relent, and her father only smiled indulgently at Trent's protests and threats to leave. Engagements were not easy to be had in the middle of the season, and Glidden knew that Trent would not take chances with a mother to support.

He had no wish to lose Trent, who was a clever man and worth double what he was getting, but there seemed small danger of his resigning, and it was not an easy matter to control Gladys.

No one read better than the child the true state of affairs, and she made the most of it. More than once Trent made up his mind to leave in the hope that Gladys might then leave Elvia in peace, but Elvia would not hear of it. By suggesting that he would leave her to bear the brunt of the child's enmity she dissuaded him from his purpose.

But the crisis was bound to come. Gladys, with a sense of false security, passed all limit. The favorite play with the public was one of her "angel" parts, and the "big scene" in the last act showed the child at her mother's knee praying that her father, who had been estranged, might return.

He is lurking behind the curtains madly jealous and waiting to kill his wife when the child is put to bed. The naive plea wins him to a belief in his wife's innocence.

It was Saturday night, and the little theater was packed to the doors. Elvia and Jack had both been accorded tumultuous welcome, and this roused the child's professional jealousy.

She was unusually quiet when off the stage, and Trent wondered at her meekness. Just when the big scene was progressing finely and the petition from the child was being read as Gladys never read it before it happened.

In her white nightdress, with her golden curls framing her earnest baby face, she was an appealing little figure, and as she made her plea that her father might return even men in the audience furtively dried their tears.

"And bring him back and make him good to mamma and me again," pleaded the child. Trent roused himself ready for the spring that should bring him to the center of the stage, his arms round the mother and child, but her next lines were not read. Instead she said slowly and deliberately:

"And please let Mr. Trent marry Miss Mordant so they'll stop being spoony—and—and bring my papa back."

"Papa" came with a promptness that startled Gladys. Jack knew that the salvation of the scene was to get the curtain down before the audience realized the interpolation and laughed, so with an improvised line he led right into the cue which was the signal for the drop to descend.

But even as the curtain fell there rose a titter that deepened into a laugh, and through the canvas came a shout of merriment as the audience caught the point. Elvia and Jack were so popular that the audience understood the allusion.

As the glitter of the footlights was shut out by the curtain the arm that held Gladys for the stage picture tightened, and, though she struggled to escape, Trent held her fast. A moment later he was administering a spanking that lost nothing through its long delay.

The entire company crowded on the stage and applauded him to fresh efforts, and it was several minutes before even Glidden interfered.

He soothed the child even while he thanked Jack with his eyes for doing what he dared not, and at last her mother led her off, still shrieking, to the dressing room. Glidden turned to Jack.

"I don't blame you. She deserved it," he said briefly. "All the same, I cannot keep you in the company any longer or Gladys will queer the show."

"I know that," was Trent's even reply. "It was worth it, though. I suppose that I can get a chance somewhere after awhile."

Glidden caught his arm.

"Don't be in such a hurry," he admonished. "I was going to suggest that you and Miss Mordant are favorites over this route. Suppose that I send you out at the head of your own show. It would be a money maker, and you can have a bit of the profits."

"I'll see Miss Mordant," promised Trent rejoicingly as he hurried toward her dressing room. He knew that she would be dressed by this time and could talk to him.

An hour later he tapped on Glidden's door at the hotel. Glidden was still up and answered in person.

"It's all arranged," said Trent briefly. "I'm rather grateful to Gladys."

"I should think you would be," grunted Glidden, for he could read in Trent's eyes that a double question had been asked and answered. Gladys had not prayed in vain.

"Quite So."

When the late Louise Chandler Moulton was in London in the late seventies she noticed the servility, as a rule, of the shopkeepers. It is a comfort to be sure not to be bullied into buying things not really desired, but strongly recommended by the tradesmen. In her volume of "Random Rambles" she recalls an incident in which the clerk's tongue got away with him.

"Quite so!" is a favorite formula with the London shopkeeper, and this habit leads him sometimes into ridiculous blunders. For instance, I went one day into the shop of a London druggist, or chemist, as they say there.

"I want a toothbrush," I said.

"Quite so, madam!"

"And some smelling salts—strong."

"Quite so!"

"Oh, and ink. Have you good black ink?"

"Quite so!"

Presently my parcels were put up, and I began to count out the pay for them. My Yankee arithmetic was scarcely equal to the shillings and sixpences, not to say farthings, of this unaccustomed currency, and I said:

"I am awkward with your money."

"Quite so, madam," came the shopman's reply with the accustomed sweet readiness, and it was only by the smile I could not repress that he was reminded of his unintentional discourtesy.

The Secret of Success.

A Swede among the miners in the west was noted for always striking pay dirt. His fellows thought that there must be some secret to the unusual success of the Swede and questioned him as to how he always succeeded in finding the spot where the gold cropped out.

"Vell, Ay don't know ef Ay can tell anytang 'bout dat," answered Ole. "Ay only know dat Ay yust keep on diggin'."—Milwaukee Free Press.

Even Poetry.

"Why do you think, Mr. Pennington, that your new book of poems will have a large sale?"

"My publishers have had the wisdom to put a picture of a beautiful girl on the cover. It is my belief that even poetry can be sold if one goes about it in a businesslike way."—Minneapolis Journal.

A Modest Request.

"My dear friend, I beg you to lend me $50," wrote a needy man to an acquaintance, "and then forget me forever. I am not worthy to be remembered."—Philippines Gossip.

CHAMPION EGG LAYERS.

The Wonderful Rapidity With Which Some Insects Increase.

"We are the army of the great God. We produce ninety-nine eggs. If we produce a hundred, we should consume the whole earth and all that is in it."

Thus, say the Arabs, the locust addressed Mohammed. And, although the locust actually lays many more than a hundred eggs, there are many other creatures whose power of multiplication vastly exceeds that of this terrible insect plague.

The common house fly is an instance in point. It has been computed that one fly in March is represented by 300 on the 24th of April, and by August that number has been squared twice, making the total progeny amount to the appalling number of 8,100,000,000.

The house fly lay eggs, the flesh fly or bluebottle produces living larvae. Supposing a female to produce fifty young, a very small estimate, and half of these to be females, a single season would see one bluebottle turn into 506,000,000 of flesh-devouring insects.

What a merciful thing it is that we have so many allies in the shape of birds and wasps and flying-eating insects, who combine to keep down our enemy, the fly.

Nearly all insects increase rapidly. The queen bee will lay eggs at the rate of 300 an hour, but even she cannot compete with the termite, the so-called white ant. The queen termite has been known to lay 84,000 eggs a day and to keep up an average of 80,000 a day for the whole of the laying season, which last about a month.

The life of the queen bee is, however, longer than that of the termite She lives and goes on laying for four or five summers and in her lifetime lays at least a million and a half of eggs.

All who have gardens know what a pest the green fly, or aphis, becomes. It seems to cover rose trees like magic.

The aphis is, in one way, the most startling of all forms of insect life, for, although the females can and do lay eggs, its usual method to increase is by a sort of budding process, the young growing on the bodies of the parents exactly as brussels sprouts grow out of the stalk of the plant.

The old produce young at the rate of 25 a day, and as the young are at once mature each can produce its 25 on the following day.

It positively frightens one to work this multiplication out to a conclusion, for it means this: Supposing that the aphis could increase and multiply without interference, the twenty-fifth generation would be a number too long to quote here. Put down a one and follow it with twenty-eight naughts, and you will be within a few millions of it.

But fish are the champion egg layers. The average number of eggs in a halibut is 3,500,000, while a good-sized cod may contain as many as 9,000,000. A small one pound sole has been found to have 134,000 eggs.

Of land animals the rabbit holds the palm for rapid increase. A rabbit breeds seven times a year, producing about eight young at a time.

It will be seen, therefore, that the bird as egg-layer comes last of all. Indeed, the poor, common or garden hen, whose eggs are those we most esteem, is left hopelessly out of nature's egg-laying race.

"Welsh Rabbit" Parallels.

It is to be feared that the namer as well as the inventor of the "Welsh rabbit" is lost in antiquity. As early as the eighteenth century, when Grose expounded the vulgar tongue, the false "rarebit" derivation had crept in. "Welsh rabbit" is exactly parallel with "Scotch woodcock" and may be compared with the humorous nicknames of many other delicacies. Thus, a baked sheep's head used to be known as a "Field lane duck," a red herring as a "Glasgow magistrate," a "Norfolk capon" or a "two-eyed steak," potatoes have appeared as "Irish apricots" or "Munster plums," and "Gravesend sweetmeats" were shrimps. In America a "Cape Cod turkey" is a codfish, and a "prairie oyster" is a drink. And the "colonial goose" of Australia represents a leg of mutton with savory trimmings.

Denial.

"Your son says you talk to him as if he were a hired man."

"Well, I don't," answered Farmer Corntossel. "I talk to Josh a mighty sight different from what I talk to a hired man. A hired man does enough work now and then to make it worth while coaxin' him."—Washington Star.

His First Practice.

The old farmer stood in front of the "human frog" in the museum. "How did yeou ever find out yeou were a contortionist?" he drawled curiously.

"'Sh!" whispered the contortionist "It's a secret, but I once tried to dress in the upper berth of a Pullman sleeper."—Detroit Tribune.

A Lesson in Grammar.

"Come, come, Willie," remonstrated the teacher, "you must say 'they are not' or, if you wish, 'they aren't,' but never 'they ain't.'"

"Why not?" demanded Willie.

An Inference.

"Aunt Mandy," said Miss Miami Brown, "what's dishere denatured alcohol I hear folks talkin' 'bout?"

"I dunno nuffin' 'bout dat. I specks de kin' my husban' drinks mus' be ill natured alcohol."—Pittsburg Post.

Importance Of Under-Drainage Will Pay For Itself Easily

Underdrainage will pay for itself in from one to three years. Perhaps no example in Ontario demonstrates this more conclusively than the drainage of "The Rittenhouse farm" at Jordan Harbour, in the Niagara Peninsula. Originally it was very wet, so much so indeed that often the crops were scarcely worth cutting. In 1906 Mr. Mr. F. M. Rittenhouse, of Chicago, gave it to the Government for an horticultural experimental farm. In 1907 it was underdrained, the lines of tiles being laid about four and a half rods apart. In many places the subsoil was very, very heavy, so that the digging was hard and the cost high, about $25 an acre. In 1908 on the part that was formerly the wettest, it grew 65 bushels of oats to the acre, thereby practically paying for the drainage in one season; for, the year previous the oats on the same land were not worth cutting.

The Rittenhouse farm was surveyed and the drainage system for it planned by the Deparment of Physics at the Ontario Agricultural College. Any farmer in Ontario who is contemplating underdraining may, on application, have his farm surveyed, the drains planned, and the grades determined. A finished map containing this information and also the size of tile advisable is sent to the owner as soon as completed. The only outlay conected with the survey is the travelling of railway fare, meals and cartage of instruments. The railway fare is only one cent a mile, each way, for this week.

At the conclusion of each survey a drainage demonstration is held in the field, and simple practical methods of surveying a drain, determining its grade and securing a true bottom are demonstrated, and the benefits of drainage discussed.

Anyone desiring asurvey and plan should apply to Prof. Wm. H. Day, Department of Physics, O.-A. C., Guelph. A large number of applications are already in for this season.

AFTERMATH OF THE DROP IN BUTTER

From Farm and Dairy.

Quite a bit of money has been dropped owing to the recent slump in butter. A Toronto daily has it that Toronto dealers probably lost $20,000, while in Montreal the great export centre it is stated that one firm alone dropped between $35,000 and $50,000. The total loss in Montreal will probably exceed $100,000. Smaller dealers in outside places may be put down as losing from $3000 to $5000 apiece.

A year ago separator dairy butter was selling at 28 to 30 cents. To-day it is 24 cents. Creamery brought 32-33 cents a year ago; to-day the price is 25-26 cents.

The explanation for this drop has been ascribed by a prominent Toronto Commission dealer to a combination of reasons:

(1) The demand fell off in the winter on account of the high prices.

(2) A good deal of butter was carried by retailers and speculators in cold storage in the hope of making the same profits as they had done for the last two or three years.

(3) The open winter had been conducive to liberal production in excess of what the dealers anticipated.

(4) Outside points, such as Vancouver, Winnipeg, Halifax, etc., always buyers in winter or fall, had anticipated their requireemnts, and put butter in cold storage, either buying outright or on margin. This was never taken forward.

Another Toronto dealer laid special stress on the last reason. "Where we once shipped to Winnipeg and the west, they are now becoming our competitors and shipping butter fast.

Still a third Toronto dealer mentioned that a large amount of butter was now being made in the Calgary district and though it had the peculiar flavor imparted by the wild grass of the west, it was of a very fair quality. Much butter, he also said, had been sold for export to the old country, and not one-half of this had ever been delivered. Some even went over and came back.

Another reason he thought worthy of notice was that much of the poorer class of butter was formerly used in the manufacture of margarine. This being prohibited now, threw a large quantity of poor butter on the market, which naturally affected prices all round. He thought the general quality not as good as formerly, owing to the scarcity of water last summer.

The general result cannot fail to be good. The price of produce has been too high as the public were about to come to their rights.

CENSUS AND STATISTICS REPORT

Editor of Post Card Column:

A statement of the quantities of grain, hay and roots on hand in Canada at the end of February, and the condition of live stock in the country at that date, has recently been issued by the census and statistics office. The statement says:

The reports of correspondents made to the census and statistics office at the end of February show that the quantity of wheat then in farmers' hands in the whole of Canada was 20.22 per cent. of the crop of last year, which is 22,747,000 left out of a year product of 112,434,000 bushels. Of oats there was 43.62 per cent., being 109,222,000 out of 250,377,000 bushels. Of barley there was 33.56 per cent., being 15,692,000 out of 46,762,000 bushels. Of buckwheat there was 29.05 per cent., being 2,078,000 out of 7,153,000 bushels. Of potatoes there was 44.10 per cent., being 32,542,000 out of 73,790,000 bushels. Of turnips and other roots there was 39.18 per cent. being 39,671,000, out of 101,248,000 bushels. Of hay there was 34.51 per cent., being 3,952,000 out of 11,450,000 tons. Of fodder corn there was 36.86 per cent., being 1,079,300 out of 2,928,000 tons. In the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and in Alberta the quantity of wheat in farmers' hands at the same date was 18.93 per cent., being 17,391,000 out of a total product of 91,853,000 bushels. Of oats there was 45.93 per cent., being 44,425,016 out of 96,718,000 bushels. Of barley there was 33.68 per cent., being 7,722,000 out of 22,926,000 bushels. In the case of each of these crops the quantity in farmers' hands indicates what is available for seed and for consumption in the country between the first of March and the gathering of the next harvest, while the difference between the total product in each case and the quantity in hand indicates what has been sold and consumed at home since the gathering of the last harvest.

The report of the department of Trade and Commerce made up to the date of first of March shows that there had been inspected at Winnipeg and points west for the six months ending with February, 55,152 cars (57,909,600 bushels), oats and cars (13,939,200 bushels), oats, and barley 2,414 cars (2,896,800 bushels.)

The condition of live stock in the Dominion at the end of February, was 81.40 for horses, 78.70 for milch cows, 73,79 for other horned cattle, 78.32 for sheep and 74.34 for swine, 100 being taken as the standard for comparison.

Backache is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

FLOWERS FOR FARMER'S WIVES

From Farm and Dairy.

Mrs. S. A. Hunt, Oxford Co., Ont.

So many farmers' wives have no place for flowers, except, possibly, some far-off garden spot, that I long to tell them how I have succeeded in raising flowers right at my back door, in spite of chickens and little pigs. I have had flowers in boxes and flowers in beds, in the most hopeless situations, and under the most discouraging surroundings that, nevertheless, were a source of delight all summer.

First, as to flowers in boxes: Never let them get dry; provide good drainage; have the soil one-third sand and use large boxes. You cannot keep a small box of dirt from drying out in the long hot days of July and August. I have the best success with a wash-tub, or a box that would hold as much. Set on a stool and raise it above the reach of the chickens. Set your boxes as near the places where the men wash as convenient, so they will not have to take any unnecessary steps, and ask them to pour the water on the flowers instead of on the ground, then you will only need to water them in the evening. This arrangement will save you time and strength, and the family will take more interest and pleasure in your flowers than they will if you do all the work yourself.

DAINAGE AND SOIL

Unless you provide good drainage and a sandy soil your plants will suffer during a rainy time. The ground will become thoroughly soaked, and should the water remain in the soil it will cause the roots to rot, and thus stop the growth of the plants, if it does not kill them outright. Without plenty of sand also, the soil may become packed and soggy. Bore some holes in the bottom of your tub or box. Put in your old broken crockery, bones, etc., and some charcoal. I think the charcoal keeps it pure and sweet, even though it is constantly damp. Cover these things with hay so that no dirt can get through. Then get some good mellow soil, mix it with sand, fill your vines, nasturtiums, petunias and sweet alyssum round the edges. These plants will do well in any situation, except the box, and it is ready for the plants.

WHAT TO GROW

The kind of plants will depend on the situation of the box. If it is on the north try pansies, and put madeira pansies; do not try pansies on the south or west. You can have good success with roses, geraniums, phlox, heliotrope, snapdragons and ageratums. If you use geraniums or roses, you will need two-year-old plants to get the best results, but you will not need more than four or five plants of that age to fill the centre. Whatever plants you use in the centre of the box be sure to plant some of all the plants named around the edges. I have found it almost a necessity to plant a madeira in each corner. They form large tubers, which take up a good deal of room, and by cramping the root-room for the flowering plants you will get so many more blossoms.

If you cannot get madeira vines ground ivy is the next best thing. It will rapidly fill the damp, mellow soil with roots, and answer the purpose.

As a rule, the average window gardener tries to crowd too many plants into one window. It is small wonder, for it is surely a heart-breaking task to decide among the favorites we wish to save for winter companionship. We choose one, then another, and cannot decide not to take a third, and so it goes.

There is no wisdom in this course, however. If one tries to keep a greater number of plants in a window than can develop without crowding, the result is never satisfactory. The plants will never grow nor show to advantage. There is no comfort in a shelf full of ragged-looking straggly plants that seem only trying to get out of each other's way; indeed, you will get more real pleasure out of a single well-grown plant which has all the room needed in which to expand and bloom, than a dozen such as described.

Plants need sunshine and light and room as much as human beings do in order to develop the best that is in them. Don't crowd them. If you have too many, share them with your neighbor who hasn't any.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50 cents.

CARE OF FACTORY VALVES.

From Farm and Dairy.

The cheese or butter maker has other things which require his attention, as well as making cheese or butter. They are all part of the business, however, and the maker who carefully looks after every detail will find his work easier and more satisfactorily done. The following from the Irish Homestead, the accredited organ of the dairy industry in Ireland, upon the care of valves may be of value: "A valve is an appliance for regulating the supply of steam, water, or other liquids or gases, and is so constructed that the fluid or vapor can only pass through one way only. The valves found in the average creamery are somewhat intricate in construction, and do not seem to be very well undersood by our creamery managers, and this probably accounts for the large number of leaking valves one is always coming across. It frequently happens that when installing pipes and valves, the piping is allowed to sag, and the weight is all thrown on to the valve; the valve, being made of a soft metal such as brass, is thrown out of shape and is quickly ruined All piping should be supported by brackets placed at fairly frequent intervals. When a valve for steam has just been fitted up, a blast of steam should be passed through before closing it down; this is to remove any obstruction which may have got lodged between the disc and seat. Unfortunately, the practice of cementing pipe joints up with red lead is still fairly common, and this is to be deplored, for it is much better to use graphite and oil, and there is less possibility of a leak being caused by an obstruction getting between the seat and the disc. In screwing a valve on to a pipe, never use a pipe wrench, but always one with a square jaw, so that the bonnet of the valve does not get knocked out of shape. Another point to remember is to use the wrench on the end of the valve into which the pipe is being screwed. If it is found that the valve will not close tight, allow it to leak until it can be taken to pieces and cleaned rather than use excessive force on the band wheel. Never try and force the handle by means of a lever, or you are likely to use more power than intended, and run the risk of ruining the valve completely. If, as is frequently the case, the valve shows signs of leaking, do not condemn it and discard it as useless; it is quite possible some scale has got on to the seat, and it simply requires taking to pieces and grinding down with powdered glass or emery.

"SUNSCALD."

From Farm and Dairy.

W. T. Macoun, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The injury to apple trees known as "sunscald" is one of the most serious hindrances to successful apple culture, particularly in the northern and eastern parts of Ontario and in the province of Quebec. Newly planted or young trees are, as a rule, more seriously affected by it than older ones. The unhealthy appearance of the bark on the south and south-western sides of the trunk of the tree and on the larger branches is the first indication of this injury. Afterwards the bark and wood dry up and fall away. Trees are often so badly affected that they die.

Sunscald occurs during the latter part of winter or very early in the spring when there are warm days and cold nights. The results are apparently the same as what happens when many plants are thawed out suddenly; they die. In the case of the apple tree, only a part of the trunk is thus affected, being that part which is exposed most to the sun. The constant thawing and freezing is more than it can stand. The hardiest varieties are the least affected.

The injury may be prevented to a large extent by only planting trees which are headed low, thus exposing but a short trunk to the rays of the sun. Also, by inclining the young trees somewhat to the south-west when planting, thus preventing the sun's rays from striking the trunk except for a short time.

When trees have been planted and are liable to become sunscalded the trunks may be protected by using a veneer of wood which encircles the trees, thus preventing the rays of the sun from striking the trunk The protector is better loose so that there will be an air space between it and the tree. White building paper tied around the tree is also useful Boards, sacking and many other things may be used to protect the tree from sunscald. Nothing, however, that will be likely to harbor juice should be used.

COMPULSORY EIGHT HOUR DAY BILL

From Farm and Dairy.

A compulsory eight hour day bill has been introduced in the Dominion House of Commons by Mr. Alphonse Verville, M. P., president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. Although this bill deals only with the hours of labor on Government works, the next move would be to extend it to all municipal undertakings, and ultimately to business concerns. As farmers, we must see to it that this bill does not become law, at any rate, not until large employers of labor have been given an opportunity to show how it would be apt to affect industrial conditions.

The reduction in the hours of labor would mean that the present shortage of help would be tremendously accentuated. Shorter hours of labor in town and city workshops have proved a wonderfully strong attraction in influencing men to leave the farm. They have greatly increased the difficulty of obtaining and retaining the right kind of farm help. The farmer's work cannot stop on the blow of the whistle, nor can it be held down to an eight hour day basis. Should the city laborer's hours be reduced to eight a day, hired help for the farm will be more difficult than ever to secure and retain.

In the interests of our farmers, and in view of the conditions which the passage of such law would impose and tend to hamper the developments of Canadian industry, we strongly pronounce against the bill. Members of the House of Commons can rest assured that their best interests will not be served by drawing workers away from the farm and thereby lengthening the hours of labor for those who remain on it.

MAKE USE OF AVAILABLE INFORMATION

From Farm and Dairy.

The annual value of the field crops grown in Ontario exceeds the combined value of the products of the forests, the mines and the fisheries of the whole of Canada. It may be noted from reports of the Ontario Agricultural College that the average yield per acre of the principal farm crops is increasing from year to year. This increase is largely due to the introduction of better varieties and to improved methods of agriculture that have been adopted in recent years. While improvement has been made, the opportunities for advancement are still almost unlimited.

As farmers, we are fortunate in having such organizations as the Dominion experimental farms, the various agricultural colleges that carry on experimental work, and the Ontario Agricultufal and Experimental Union, which conducts experiments on individual farms over Ontario. The results of all this experimental work is available to all those who apply for it. It remains only for those who obtain this information to make the practical application. The extent to which this information is applied shows forth each year in the average returns of crops over the provinces, and on individual farms.

Ere long, seedtime will again be with us. Those who have not as yet availed themselves of the valuable information provided through the various channels mentioned, should make haste to secure such matter and so far as possible profit therefrom by a wise application of the principles gleaned from such experiments.

Much satisfaction, to say nothing of extra profit, can be had from growing varieties best suited to one's requirements and which will yield more abundantly than other sorts too frequently grown. Let us see to it that in the operations of this coming year we make intelligent use of the information that is available concerning crops, and the best varieties to grow

SKIN TROUBLES

YOUR SKIN REFLECTS YOUR HEALTH!

JUST as your skin is, so is your health. If the pores of your skin are not acting properly, the wastes of your body are not getting away as they should, and this means that your kidneys, liver, lungs, and heart have to take on extra duty. Your skin requires periodical cleaning, just as the housewife knows that the stove requires periodical shaking down to make it burn brightly.

Just at this season, pimples, face sores, eruptions, scrofulous diseases, and eczema, are very common because the winter has thrown extra work on to the skin, and in many cases the skin has been unable to do this extra work. Zam-Buk is a skin tonic. Your skin needs a tonic just as much as your stomach or liver!

If you have any skin disease, scrofulous sore, festering ulcer, or an outbreak of pimples and eruptions, apply Zam-Buk. Apply it freely at night. Let its healing essences sink well in! You will be surprised at its wonderful healing power.

HOW ZAM-BUK REMOVES SKIN DISEASES.

Mrs. S. Jeans, of Queen Street, St. James, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time back pimples and sores broke out on my forehead, and spread over the whole of one side of my face and neck. Small red pimples, joining up into a kind of red rash, which discharged and then became very sore, was the form the disease took. The irritation from this was terrible, and whenever I went out of doors it was very painful. I consulted the family physician, who gave me a lotion to use. This only seemed to irritate the disease the more, and to cause more pimples to appear, so I left off using the lotion and began applying Zam-Buk. In a wonderfully short space of time this proved effective, and every pimple was removed from my face and neck, leaving my skin clear and smooth as before. I have had no return of this disease since, so I believe the cure is permanent. I have also used Zam-Buk for an open running wound on the calf of my right leg, which had troubled me for some time, and it cleared away all the foul matter and healed the wound up nicely."

Mr. William Purser, of 1385, Elgin Avenue, Winnipeg, Man., says:—"As a cure for skin diseases I do not think there is anything to equal Zam-Buk. Last year pimples and sores broke out all over my face, and defied various remedies which, from time to time, I applied to them. Not only were these sores unsightly, but they were very painful. For over two months I was afflicted in this way, until I was advised to try Zam-Buk. I found this balm was entirely different to the ordinary remedies. It reduced the irritation and the smarting pain. The sores, from first being anointed with the balm, grew less and less angry, and then began to dry off. With perseverance I was able to clear my skin entirely from all the sores and eruptions. I highly recommend Zam-Buk to all who suffer from any skin disease."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, scabs, chapped hands, cold cracks, chilblains, ringworm, scalp sores, bad leg, diseased ankles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

INSTALLATION OF THE BISHOP

Rev. J. Fielding Sweeny Is Now Bishop of Toronto.

FIVE PRELATES PRESENT

Clerics From All Parts of Canada Assist at Impressive Ceremony In St. James Cathedral, Toronto—Clergy and Laity Crowd Edifice to the Doors — Enthroned at St. Alban's In the Evening.

Toronto, March 26.—Surrounded by bishops of the church, and robed for the first time in the robes of office, the Ven. James Fielding Sweeny, M.A., D.D., was yesterday morning consecrated Bishop of the Diocese of Toronto.

The consecration ceremony in St. James' Cathedral was performed by the senior bishop of the Church of England in Canada, Bishop Hamilton, of Ottawa.

The ceremony opened at 10 o'clock with morning prayer. At 10.30 the bishops retired to the southwest vestibule, and robed. The clergy went to the schoolhouse. At 11 o'clock, headed by the choir of twenty-four boys, the procession formed up in the schoolhouse, and filed through the long awning-covered passageway connecting the school and the cathedral.

The order of procession was as follows:

First came the choir, twenty-four boys in their small white surplices, their leader at their head; then came the clergy, twenty-seven in number, in the order of their seniority; next the honorable secretaries of the synod, and following them the canons of the Church as follows: Rev. Canons Tucker, Broughall, Clark, O'Meara, Davidson, Ingles, Cody, Spragge, Tremayne, Farncomb, Murphy, Reiner, Greene, Cayley, Macnab, Macklem and Welch.

Then came Archdeacon Warren, of Peterborough; and immediately behind him the bishop-elect, the Ven. James Fielding Sweeny. He was attended by Canon Dixon and Canon Broughall, his chaplains.

Then came the bishops, Bishop Hamilton, of Ottawa; Bishop Dunn, of Quebec; Bishop Dumoulin, of Niagara; Bishop Mills, of Ontario; Bishop Williams, of Huron, and Bishop Worrell, of Halifax and Assistant Bishop Reeve, of Toronto, were all present. The only bishops not present were Archbishop Matheson, of Rupert's Land, and Bishop Thorneloe of Algoma.

The head of the procession entered the church at six minutes after eleven o'clock. It took ten minutes for it to file through. The course was down the west aisle, turning east at the south end of the church, and up the centre aisle.

When all was still Bishop Hamilton, of Ottawa, commenced the communion service. The Epistle, 1 Timothy, 3-1, was read by Bishop Darlington Following this, Bishop Dunn, of Quebec, read the Gospel, St. Matthew, 28-18. The Nicene Creed was recited, and Bishop Dumoulin, of Niagara, took his place in the pulpit.

Following the sermon, the bishop-elect was presented to the senior bishop by Bishop Mills, of Ontario, and Bishop Reeve, with the words, "Most reverent Father in God, we present unto you this godly and well-learned man to be ordained and consecrated bishop." Then the mandate for consecration was read, and following it, the oath of obedience was taken.

The church was crowded, and many people lined the sidewalks outside. Eighteen policemen were on hand to keep them in check. Admission to th cathedral was given only by ticket.

In the evening St. Alban's Cathedral was thronged to the doors with an interested and reverent congregation to witness the installation, enthronement and induction of the newly-consecrated bishop.

At 8 o'clock the choir and clergy entered, singing a processional hymn. Then Bishop Sweeny appeared at the west door, attended by his chaplains, Revs. Canon Dixon and Broughall, and was "received with due observance" by the chapter of the cathedral. Having addressed the installant (Canon Welch), praying to be installed and enthroned, the letters of consecration were read by the chancellor of the cathedral, Rev. Canon Macklem, and "received with great willingness."

Proceeding to the chancel, the bishop knelt at the holy table in private prayer, rising after the collect. "Prevent us, O Lord," had been said by Canon Welch, president of the chapter.

The bishop then made the following promise:

"In the name of God, Amen. We, James Fielding, by Divine permission, Bishop of Toronto and Dean of the Cathedral Church of St. Alban the Martyr, do promise that we will keep all the statutes, regulations, ordinances and rules of the said cathedral church now or hereafter to be made and published by lawful authority, and that we will discharge all such duties as shall thereby appertain to the office of dean of the said cathedral church.

"So help me God, and these holy gospels."

He was thereupon conducted to his stall at the west end of the church and seated therein, the installant saying:

"Mayest thou adorn this seat amid thy brethren, given thee of God, with justice and with sanctity. God is mighty, and may He increase thy grace," the bishop answering "Amen."

Conducted thence and seated in the episcopal throne, the installant took him by the right hand and said:

"The Lord keep thy coming in and thy going out, from this time now and forever. Amen."

Then came the induction, the Bishop of Ottawa addressing Bishop Sweeney.

Choral evensong followed.

PERISHES IN SNOW.

Stranger Near Guelph Dies Before Help Arrives.

Guelph, March 26.—An unknown man, about 45 years of age, was found dead on the Elmira road, about two miles from Guelph on Wednesday. He had been lying there all day. His body was brought into the city on Wednesday night, and an inquest will in all probability be held.

He had a bundle of new clothes and $1.95 in his possession when found by County Constable Young. He was lying in a fence corner in a pool of water and snow. He was seen lying in the same spot in the morning by Wm. Brooder, a Guelph Township farmer, who was coming into the city. On returning at two o'clock Brooder was surprised to see the man in the same place, and he notified Robert Mason, a farmer who lived near there. Mason asked the man who he was, and why he was lying there. "My name is Hockins," he replied, "and I think I have got on the wrong road; I am sick, and I can't walk any further."

Mason notified Reeve MacDonald, who sent for Constable Young. When the constable arrived the man was dead, though the body was still quite warm. There is quite a strong feeling of resentment felt generally in this district over the fact that the poor fellow was allowed to lie all day in the snow until he died. The man was lame, and used two canes in walking.

DREAMERS ARE HELPING.

"Spirit" Enthusiasts Offer Clues In Kinrade Case.

Hamilton, March 26.—Search is being continued for the revolver with which the murder of Ethel Kinrade was committed. In connection with this, the detectives are getting some interesting suggestions from people who have dreamed of the location of the weapon, or profess to have learned about it from other sources. One woman said she dreamed it was in a jar of fruit. A man who is interested in psychic phenomena, states that he has been told by the spirits that the murderer hid the revolver in a little brook, digging a hole for them (he says there were two) and afterwards tramping the mud over them. Another man called on Detective Miller personally with an infallible plan to catch the murderer. So sure was he of it, in fact, that he considered the $2,000 as good as his. The detective didn't see it that way, however.

"The inquest will be kept open until we finish following up all the clues we have," was the statement made by one of the detectives yesterday. "There is a number of little things that have to be looked up, and these will take us several hundred miles, perhaps. It all takes time."

Confirm G.T.P. Agreement.

Ottawa, March 26.—The railway committee of the Commons yesterday morning reported the bill to confirm the agreement between the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. and the Ontario Government, in reference to the subsidy of the Lake Superior branch.

Tornado Kills Two.

Wichita Falls, Texas, March 26.—The tornado which swept across Oklahoma struck the school house in Howard and killed two girls, and seriously injured another. Thirty-three students were in the building.

Marooned by Storm.

New York, March 26.—At Hoboken yesterday 1,900 schoo children were imprisoned in two school buildings by the flood which rendered the streets in the lower part of the city impassable.

OBJECTS TO DELAY.

Cochrane Protests Against Canada Central's Policy.

Toronto, March 26.—A vigorous protest was made by Mr. Reed, member for South Wentworth, when the Legislature yesterday took up Hon. Frank Cochrane's bill in committee to provide, among other things, that Burlington Beach shall contribute $250 annually as its proportion of the taxes of the County of Wentworth.

Mr. Reed referred to the Beach Commission as partisans and created a distinction which he would not expect to meet in a white man's country.

Premier Whitney was promptly on his feet to inform the hon. gentleman there was no distinction in this county, thank God, between white and other men. There was an overwhelming reason why the legislation embodied in the bill should be passed. The people of Burlington Beach had asked for it.

G. C. Wilson, member for North Wentworth, agreed with the Minister that there was nothing objectionable in the bill, and the amount of the proposed annual payment was much greater than that which the commissioners had suggested.

Hon. Adam Beck accepted certain suggestions to exempt police villages from the provisions of his bill to compel municipal councils to refer lighting contracts of more than one year's duration to the ratepayers.

On request of the Provincial Secretary, Mr. McLarry withdrew his bill to empower hospitals to expropriate land required for extension, and any special case could be dealt with by a private bill.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane registered another vigorous objection in the railway committee yesterday to speculative railway charters, when the Canada Central Railway for the fourth session asked a year extension to the time to begin construction on the line from Sudbury to Little Current. "This committee has no right," said he, "to keep charters alive this way." A last chance will be given to the promoters to-day.

The Tillsonburg & Southern Counties Radial Railway Co. was not given the right to use highways without consent of the municipalities, and with a few minor amendments the bill was reported.

A clause to operate Sunday cars was struck out of the Southwestern Traction Co.'s bill. Another clause order to liquidate a floating debt and to increase the bonding privilege in defaulted interest payments stood over.

The Simon Railway & Power Co. secured a charter to build from Penetang to Coldwater, and can develop power at Big Chute on the Severn river.

Youth Admits Shooting.

Windsor, March 26.—Wm. Thompson, 16 years of age, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Justice Teetzel, after his counsel withdrew the plea of not guilty of murder, and presented a plea of manslaughter, in connection with the shooting of his father, Elijah Thompson, in Malden Township, December 24 last.

The prisoner's mother displayed no emotion in telling of the crime, of which she was an eye-witness.

His lordship held up the case as a warning to parents to teach their children self-control, and to keep firearms out of their reach. He would show leniency because the shooting was not without provocation, the lad thinking he was about to be roughly-treated by his father.

To Hang June 3.

North Bay, March 26.—Judge Latchford yesterday morning sentenced Maurice Ryan to be hanged June 3 next for the murder of his brother, Francis Joseph Ryan. The judge was visibly affected in addressing the prisoner, who, with head between his hands, sobbed audibly.

The prisoner said he had no knowledge of the crime, and his counsel, G. L. T. Bull, asked for a reserved case, citing a similar case where judgment was reversed in King v. Charles King, ninth vol. Canadian Criminal Cases. Counsel for defence averred that a separate issue should have been given to the jury as to the identity of the remains. The application was refused, but noted.

Steel-Coal Fight Ends.

Montreal, March 26.—The famous steel and coal dispute is settled at last. At the annual meeting of the coal company yesterday morning, President Ross announced that a settlement had been practically reached. The coal company will pay over a large amount on account as soon as the steel company furnishes vouchers. It is understood the steel company will receive between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000.

Obscene Letters Under Cover.

Ottawa, March 26.—The case of W. O'Connor of Papineauville, near Hull, accused of sending obscene letters through the mails, was decided in O'Connor's favor. The letter had been opened in the dead letter office.

The defence was that the act appertaining to the sending of doubtful literature through the mails did not refer to letters under private cover, and in which there were no photos or prints.

Seldom.

Writers do not always write clearly, and there are times when the wisest veils his wisdom or his ignorance, like the cuttlefish, in a swirl of ink. A correspondent has discovered the phrase—used in an evening paper—"not unseldom." He wonders what it means—how to unpick the knots of negatives, as it were, and find the positive. Let the attempt be made.

"Seldom" means "not often." Now, in English two negatives are supposed to make an affirmative. So "unseldom" will mean "not not often." Add another negative, and "not unseldom" should be equivalent to "not not not often." Now you can count your negatives and conclude. But it would save you trouble if the writer would write simply seldom.

How Emery Is Quarried.

Emery comes from the island of Naxos, in the eastern Mediterranean, whence it has been exported for the last two centuries or more. The beds are in the northeast of the island. The material is much too hard to be dug out or even blasted. Great fires are lighted around the blocks till the natural cracks expand with the heat, and levers are then inserted to pry them apart. This system is continued until the blocks are reduced in size to masses of a cubic foot or less, and they are then shipped as if they were coal.

How long will a barn last?

It depends largely on whether its a painted barn or an unpainted one. Paint doubles the life of a barn. If yours is a painted barn, is it painted with good paint?

Farmer's Tumble Fatal.

Smith's Falls, March 26.—Andrew McGuire, a prominent farmer of Wolford, met with a tragic death yesterday morning.

He loaded his gun with the intention of going out to shoot crows in his yard, but a short time later a member of his family had occasion to go to the woodshed and was horrified to find McGuire lying on the floor with a gaping wound in his head. It is supposed that he stumbled on a block of wood which was near him, causing the rifle to discharge. Deceased was 50 years of age.

Gas Men Want Rebate.

Ottawa, March 26.—Requesting a rebate of duty on bituminous coal used in the manufacture of gas, and that the by-products of the gas works, such as coke, coal tar and ammonia, be made dutiable, representatives of the Canadian Gas Association waited yesterday on the Ministers of Finance and Customs. The delegates who were accompanied by Major Beattie, M.P., London, and Senator Gibson, were: J. C. Hay, president of the association; W. H. Pearson, Jr., Toronto; Chas. Forbes, Ottawa, secretary; John Keillor, Hamilton; P. S. Coates, Chatham, and J. S. Morris, Montreal.

ABANDONED HIS KINGDOM

Servia's Crown Prince Officially Renounces Throne.

PEACE OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

Eldest Son of King Has Been Leader In War Faction—Is Charged With Murder of His Servant and Other Acts of Brutality and Riotous Behavior— His Younger Brother May Succeed Him.

Belgrade, March 26.—George, Crown Prince of Servia, has renounced his right of succession to the Servian throne.

This action is the result of a bitter press campaign in which the Crown Prince was accused of being the cause of the recent death of one of his servants, a man named Kolskovits.

In a letter to Premier Novakovitch yesterday morning the Crown Prince announces that he has taken this step rather than rest under the suspicion of having murdered his servant, and that by the renunciation he foregoes special privileges and immunities that attach to the person of the heir to the throne. Continuing, he expresses his willingness to proceed abroad for a lengthy sojourn.

His riotous living has alienated the affections of the Servian people, and it often has been said that they would welcome the substitution of his younger brother, Alexander, as heir to the throne.

The renunciation of the Crown Prince brings a new and perhaps important element into the crisis between Austria-Hungary and Servia, which is indirectly affecting all the great powers of Europe. The prince has been recognized as one of the radical "fighting element" and while this is not the reason publicly assigned for his withdrawal, it may yet exert an important calming influence on the present crisis.

The servant, Kolskovits, was removed to a hospital last week suffering from serious internal injuries and he died after an operation. According to the report of the doctors who performed an autopsy on the body, the man suffered from hernia and his death was due to serious injury consequent upon falling down stairs.

According to current reports, Kolskovits, before his death asserted that the injuries to his head and abdomen had been inflicted by the Crown Prince.

There have been many previous reports of the brutalities of the youth since he came to Belgrade after the murders of King Alexander and Queen Draga in 1903. Statesmen and officials of high and low degree are said to have been beaten and fired on by the prince during fits of crazy anger. Another story credited him with the murder of a gamekeeper, and still another with an attempt to kill firemen who opposed his efforts to force his way into a Belgrade nunnery.

A Step In the Direction of Peace.

London, March 26.—The Balkan difficulty has assumed a somewhat new aspect, owing to the sensational news of the abdication of the Servian Crown Prince. The prince hitherto has been considered the leader of the war party at Belgrade and his firebrand speeches have done much to influence the feelings of the Servian people. They are not wanting those both here and at Vienna who believe that a political move underlies his renunciation. Whether or not this is the case, it is certain that the removal of the Crown Prince from the scene is a step making for peace.

Excitement In Amsterdam.

Amsterdam, March 26.—The entire Dutch nation is awaiting momentarily the expected signal from the royal palace, announcing the birth of an heir to the throne. Preparations have been made to announce the event with flags by day and with colored fire by night, and gunners are being held in readiness to inform the public of the event of a prince or a princess by the firing of cannon. Officials are waiting in their home or their offices in the expectancy of a hasty summons to the palace formally to chronicle the birth, while telegraphers have been warned to be in readiness for extra duty. Picture postcards in connection with the accouchment of Queen Wilhelmina are being sold on the streets. The favorite among these novelties shows a stork bringing a baby boy to the palace.

Dress Frozen to Ground.

Toronto, March 26.—A woman, evidently insane, was arrested yesterday by Chief Constable Collins of North Toronto, and sent to St. Michael's Hospital until she can be identified, if possible. The woman was seen entering a piece of woods back of the Wilshire farm near Glen Grove late Wednesday afternoon. Late at night another person saw her sitting under a tree. Yesterday morning she was found still seated there, where she had evidently been all night long in the rain and sleet, for her garments were frozen to the ground where she sat, and were soaked through with water.

Belleville Streets Flooded.

Belleville, March 26.—Owing to the heavy rain of Wednesday night and yesterday the drains in many parts of the city were choked up, causing streets to be flooded. On Coleman, Everett, Boswell and other streets people had to leave their houses and workshops in boats and water a foot deep ran over the roadways.

Held Up In a Pullman Car.

Denver, March 26.—Two highwaymen entered a sleeping car in the Denver & Rio Grande yards at West Denver early yesterday, "held up" six of the seven passengers, the conductor and porter, and got away with about $400 in cash. The only woman passenger was not molested.

Won't Defend Himself.

Cleveland, March 26.—Jas. Boyle, arrested for the Whitla kidnapping, said yesterday afternoon he would not oppose extradition and would engage a lawyer to defend his wife only. He said she had financial backing in Cleveland

CANADA PREPARED TO HELP THE MOTHERLAND IN EVENT OF THREATENING DANGER

Ottawa, March 26.—It is probable that at the meeting of the Cabinet to-morrow, when there will be time for full and careful consideration as to just what Canada should do, a message will be drafted for transmission through Earl Grey to the Colonial Office assuring the British people that there is no doubt as to where Canada stands in the matter of loyal co-operation in any steps deemed desirable or necessary by the Imperial authorities to secure the adequate defence and maintain the present inviolability of the Empire. The Government desire that Canada shall not be behind any of the other self-governing dominions in respect to bearing a proper share of the burden of Imperial defence; in fact, it may be stated that Canada is prepared to lead the way in this as in other instances, where it had been necessary to show tangible and practical evidence of loyalty.

A deputation of citizens from Port Arthur waited upon Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Geo. P. Graham yesterday and urged that the Government grant assistance to the Canadian Northern for its proposed line from Sudbury to Port Arthur.

Towards this enterprise the Ontario Government is willing to give a land subsidy of 2,000,000 acres, but it was argued by the delegates that not only was this grant hampered by restrictions, but it was insufficient to enable the C.N.R. to raise the necessary capital for construction upon favorable terms. It was suggested, therefore, that the Dominion Government guarantee the bonds of the company, the bonds to be issued in three-year instalments as construction work proceeded, the plan being to have the gap completed in three years.

Obnoxious and socialistic were characterizations applied by J. K. Macdonald, appearing for the Life Officers' Association before the banking and commerce committee in discussing the insurance bill. He said that the managers considered that the bill had been framed in the interests of the policyholders as opposed to that of the shareholders, in providing for the election on every board of eight directors for the policyholders. Mr. Macdonald said five out of every twelve would be acceptable.

Hon. W. S. Fielding accepted responsibility for the clause.

The bill authorizing the Canadian Northern Railway to construct a line on Lake Superior to the National Transcontinental Railway, with several branches, caused some discussion in the railway committee yesterday morning.

A clause was added providing for a line from the Toronto-Sudbury line to Little Current, a distance of 70 miles.

The bill was reported.

In the Upper House yesterday, Senator Power called attention to the "unsatisfactory condition of the law with respect to the retirement of judges."

Senator Choquette referred to the case of a retired judge on pension taking his full allowance and going on the hustings as the chief organizer of a political party. He also commented on the case of a judge who had obtained his retirement and two-thirds allowance on the certificate of a doctor that he was physically incapable, and then contested and won a seat in the House of Commons, drawing an indemnity of $2,500 a year. This was hardly fair, just and honorable.

Sir Richard Cartwright agreed that this was an abuse, requiring an amendment to the statute.

By a vote of 15 to 9 the Senate railway committee yesterday afternoon accepted an amendment by Senator David in the form of the bill which the Senate last year substituted for the Lancaster bill, and which died with Parliament. The substitute bill goes to the Commons, but will be placed at the foot of bills and orders, which cannot be reached again this session unless the Commons unanimously consents. This was what happened last year.

Senator David's amendment will have the effect of putting the railway commission in motion immediately to order the protection of level crossings, thus throwing upon the commission the responsibility. This is the interpretation of Senator Beique.

Cornwall Canal.

Cornwall, March 26.—The Cornwall Canal will be unwatered on Monday morning, March 29. Contractor Nicholson has everything ready to begin work on the building of the concrete wall west of lock 18 as soon as the water is out. The new swing bridge of the O. & N.Y. across the canal above lock 18 is almost completed.

Quarantined Raised.

Albany, March 26.—R. A. Pearson, state commissioner of agriculture, announced last night that the state and federal quarantines have been raised from the western counties of New York, effective to-day. From Nov. 21 to Dec. 12, 520 cattle, 212 sheep and 346 swine were slaughtered and buried in lime.

Objects to Military Boys.

St. John, N.B., March 26.—Dr. H. S. Bridges, superintendent of education in St. John, opposes Lord Strathcona's plan for elementary military training in Canada's public schools, in so far as the teaching of the use of a gun is concerned.

Bartender Posed as Preacher.

Windsor, March 26.—Claiming that she had been thrown on her own resources because her husband one night, when he had imbibed enough to make him confidential, had told her that they were not legally married, and that the Windsor preacher who had performed the ceremony was in reality a bartender friend, Miss Hattie Baker, Detroit, has applied to Justice Jeffries of that city for legal relief.

Death Sentence For Assault.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 26.—Arthur Wilson, a negro, who was charged with assaulting Mrs. John T. Watson, was found guilty by a jury yesterday and sentenced to be hanged.

Girl Takes Poison.

St. Thomas, March 26.—Minnie Patterson, aged 30, daughter of Daniel Patterson, farmer, near Dutton, committed suicide yesterday by taking carbolic acid. After taking it she went to the barn and told her father what she had done.

SEARCH IS KEPT UP

Even The Spirits Are Offering Suggestions Now In Kinrade Case---Mrs. Caille Denies All Knowledge Of Miss Kinrade.

SOME DREAMS ABOUT IT

Hamilton, March 26.—The whereabout of Mrs. Caille, the Detroit woman, divorced wife of a nickel-in-the-slot machine manufacturer, who was said by the detectives to be the Miss Elliott, who figured so prominently in the story of the wanderings of Miss Florence Kinrade, as told by her at the inquest, have been discovered. She is in Los Angeles, under the name of Mrs. Zeirlyn. It has not yet been ascertained whether or not she was really the Miss Elliott referred to. C. Montrose Wright, when spoken to about it, said it was quite impossible, and when asked if Miss Kinrade had ever admitted it to be the case, as it was stated she had by the Detroit papers, he was exceedingly indignant, and styled their statements absolute falsehoods. Mrs. Caille, or Zeirlyn, when spoken to at Los Angeles, denied that she knew Florence Kinrade, or anything about her. Neither, she said, did she know Miss Elliott.

Looking for Revolver.

Search is being continued for the revolver with which the murder was committed. In connection with this, the detectives are getting some interesting suggestions from people who have dreamed of the location of the weapon, or profess to have learned about it from other sources. One woman said she dreamed it was in a jar of fruit. A man who is interested in psychic phenomena, states that he has been told by the spirits that the murderer hid the revolver in a little brook, digging a hole for them (he says there were two) and afterwards tramping the mud over them. Another man called on Detective Miller personally with an infallible plan to catch the murderer. So sure was he of it, in fact, that he considered the $2,000 as good as his. The detectives didn't see it that way, however.

. Following Up Small Clues. .

"The inquest will be kept open until we finish following up all the clues we have," was the statement made by one of the detectives yesterday. "There is a number of little things that have to be looked up, and these will take us several hundred miles, perhaps. It all takes time."

The Kinrade family have not left town, and Mr. Kinrade states that he does not know yet what he will do. It is rumored that he is contemplating handing over the collection of rental of his property in Hamilton to an agent, and going to Toronto to live. The family have been instructed by their lawyer, Mr. George Lynch-Staunton, however, to keep absolute silence in regard to all their affairs, and particularly to speak to no one on the subject of the murder. Like instructions have been given everyone who has had anything to do with them since the murder was committed, including Montrose Wright and Nurse Walker, and the latter's mother and sisters. It is understod that Florence Kinrade is still stopping at Nurse Walker's, although Mr. and Mrs. Kinrade have left, and it is said, are staying at their son Ernest's home.

Several Colonel Warburtons.

When Miss Florence Kinrade was examined at the coroner's inquest she referred to Col. Warburton, who was a friend of Miss Elliott, as a British Army officer. An examination of the active list of the British army, militia and yeomanry shows that while there are several Warburtons, the name of Col. F. E. Warburton does not appear. The Warburtons mentioned are: Captain Edward Beamish Warburton, Royal Munster Fusiliers, third battalion; John Henry Augustus Warburton, captain in the same regiment; Wm. M. Warburton, captain adjutant in the Royal Horse Artillery, and Lieut J. Egerton Warburton, of the Scots Guards.

Railway Committee of the Legislature Informs Them That They Must Build Lakefield Line Before August, 1910.

BIG DEPUTATION WENT UP.

The Peterborough Radial Railway Company must have its line to Lakefield completed by August 1, 1910, and the balance of its extensions to Stony Lake, Chemong Park, and Rice Lake, completed within 3 years. This was the ultimatum extended to the company by the Railway Committee of the Ontario Legislature yesterday and means that within three years Peterborough will have suburban lines which will connect this city with all the summer resorts of the district. The benefits of such a system can easily be seen. With cars running to Stony Lake and the other summer resorts it will mean that business men and men employed in factories will be able to get away from the heat of the city for the week-end at small cost and still be home in time for work or business on Monday morning.

At the conference yesterday in addition to the representatives of the company and of the City Council, Messrs. Felix Brownscombe and R. Neill were present on behalf of the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association, while the Toronto members of that organization turned out in a body. The Association urged upon the Legislature to see that there was no delay in the matter and that the company should go ahead with the work as rapidly as possible. They pointed out the benefits of the line to Stony Lake to those who spend their summers at that point and stated that there had been delay enough in the work of extension.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., for East Peterborough, was present and stated that he had been requested by the people of Lakefield to ask on their behalf that the street railway line should be extended to that place as soon as possible.

The company's representatives asked for five years in which to complete the work but were informed by the chairman of the committee that it must be finished within three years. He pointed out that they had had the time extended twice and should be able to finish the work easily within three years.

Examiner Special.

Norwood, March 26.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Geo. Taylor was held this afternoon from the family residence, Peterborough street, at three o'clock. Has The Market Lost Its Value To The City As Many Old Residents Now Claim?

With the market question one of the live issues in city topics, an Examiner reporter interviewed some of the uptown grocers this morning after having heard a prominent citizen say that the market would be of more service to the city if the ground were broken and built upon. His statement was to the effect that higher prices are paid on the market for butter, eggs, potatoes and other commodities. The market has undergone a remarkable change, he stated, during the past decade or two. The farmers' trade at one time noted for its briskness every business day in the year brought a large revenue to the market clerk who had obtained his position by auction. Gradually conditions have undergone many changes until to-day the quantity of farmers' produce brought to the market is but a fraction of what it was twenty years ago.

Householders have come to believe that they can secure the best butter and eggs on the market, and for that reason the trade in these lines has always remained firm. Enquiry at several of the grocery stores shows that they have experienced a better business in butter and eggs in late years, the difference being noticeably apparent. The supply of dairy butter is only a small fraction of what is being used. Creamery butter has invaded the business and remained to stay. One merchant explained that in the summer dairy butter has become very scarce and the creamery brand is used almost entirely. In this way it has gained a strong hold on the public favour. On Saturday last the butter on the market sold at from 28 to 30 cents a pound. In the stores the best creamery butter was selling at 30 cents.

Regarding eggs the market price was 20 to 22 cents while the grocers sold at twenty cents for their best article. The thoughtful grocer will not sell his customer anything but the best article, and if there is any chance in the matter it is more likely to be risked on the market.

Mr. Connal, of Peter Connal & Son, was one of those interviewed.

He had experienced the increase of business in butter, eggs and potatoes, a trade that at one time was very largely confined to the market. The grocers without exception claim that the householder can save money by buying in the stores. The farmers they say exact the highest price they can get. There is no alternative for the consumer. Some of the farmers are so close in their dealings that they will keep their goods if they cannot sell them. The grocers state that some of the best farmers do not now attend market. They bring their produce directly to the stores and by attention to these people the grocer soon discovers whose goods are of the highest quality and acts accordingly.

Held Up the Price

One George St. merchant stated that the market's only benefit to the city was that hay and wood were offered for sale on it. In every other respect they state that the householder can receive better prices, better treatment and more consideration than is afforded on the market.

Before winter set in the farmers were selling potatoes at $1.15 a bag because a rumour said there was a scarcity and that the price would remain high. Some of the citizens even purchased their winter supply at that price. To satisfy their customers the grocers imported car loads of potatoes at a cheaper price and now the farmers of this vicinity cannot sell to the local grocers who have a sufficiency. As a result the market price is ranging from 85 to 90 cents. Other examples were quoted to show that the market [illegible] of a necessity to housekeepers. [illegible] market sale of butter, eggs, etc., is almost entirely lost and has been absorbed by the grocers who to hold their customers and please them, endeavour to treat them fairly and give them full value for their money.

THIS GRAND JURY ADVOCATES THAT REVOLVERS SHOULD BE MADE SCARCE

Ottawa, March 25.—Probably the most important presentment which has been made during many courts was given this morning by the grand jury at the conclusion of the Ottawa Spring Assizes, before Chief Justice Sir William Mulock.

Following Sir William's suggestion at the opening of the court, that the licensing of the sale of firearms and dirk knives would be in the public interest, the presentment reads:—

"We respectfully recommend that legislation be enacted prohibiting all dealers in revolvers and dirk knives from selling the same to any person or persons unless they be provided with an order from the county judge or such other official as may be designated, such order to be filed by the vendor and produced at any time, the same to constitute his license for such sale.

"The penalty for contravention of such act to be such as the legislature may fix. All persons found with such weapons in their possession without such license to be imprisoned without option of a fine. Persons suspected of having such weapons in their possession without license to be liable to be held for investigation by the proper authorities on the report of an officer of the law or individual."

LINDSAY COUNTY CONSTABLE NIPPED WRONG MAN ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Lindsay, March 25.—County Constable Minthorne clapped the "nippers" on a young man yesterday afternoon on Kent street before the young fellow knew what was up. When he was informed that the charge against him was the theft of a roll of bills amounting to about forty dollars from a lumberman named Twomey, he protested his innocence stoutly.

Twomey, who lost the roll of money, hails from Emmemore, and informed the constable of the circumstances whereby the money vanished. Suspicion was at once directed to the man who was afterwards arrested. However, this man told a straight story and he was set at liberty when it was found he was in no way implicated. He went away in high dudgeon at what he called an unwarranted arrest. In case the matter is pursued further he stated his willingness to appear in police court and defend himself against any accusations.

Twomey was not sure just how he lost the coin.

A PRETTY YOUNG GIRL WHIPS FORMER LOVER IN THE STREET

Examiner Special.

Winchendon, Mass., March 26.—Miss Lillie Frink, a pretty 19-year-old girl, horsewhipped her former sweetheart, Alfred Boudreau, in the street here today until he ran towards a wood in fright. All the way the young woman pursued the young man and he ran into a barbed wire fence, tearing his trousers. While he was trying to get over the fence Miss Fink had an especially good chance at him with the whip, and she made the most of it until Boudreau cried out in pain.

Miss Fink is the daughter of a farmer. Up to three months ago Boudreau called upon her regularly. Then there was a rift in the lute of their lovemaking. Stories came to the ears of the young woman as to things that it was alleged the young man had said about her. Her anger flashed like powder and to-day she drove in town to look into the matter.

When the wagon reached North Central street, she caught sight of Boudreau. Seizing the whip she leaped from the wagon and went after him, bringing the whip down again and again until he struggled over the wire.

GREAT MILK YIELD.

Holsteins are, by many, regarded as a breed of cows with so abundant a yield of milk, as to dispense with the pump as an auxiliary to profitable dairying. Those who favour the Holstein kind will be interested in a dairy record without aparallel in the country and doubtless without an equal in the state, says the Worcester Times,—that made during 1907 by the dairy of C. S. Morris, of Portlandville, Otsego county, New York, the figures astounding old dairymen, who freely admit that it is exceptional and could only be accomplished by the est of attention and care, coupled with careful selection of cows for their milk producing qualities. The record for the past three years shows that Mr. Moris has made considerable advance in the producing ability of his herd. During the year of 1906, 20 cows produced 9,276 lbs. of milk each and in the following year 2 cows gave an average of 9,554 lbs. each. In 1907, the banner year, 22 cows gave an average of 10,000 lbs. each, which was sold at an average price of $1.35 per hunderd pounds, or 2.87 cents per quart. This gives an average income per cow of $135.10. It is interesting to note that these cows are all grade Holsteins and 15 of the 22 cows milked during 1907 have ben in the dairy from three to five years. If the New Yorker had got Peterborough prices for his milk, 7 cents per quart, instead of 2-8-10 cents per quart, the record would have been still more satisfactory. It, however, shows one thing plainly, that Canadian dairymen and the generality of United States dairymen have not reduced breeding and selection of good milkers, feeding and care of milch cows to a sufficiently fine art, to get the best possible results.

The estimated value of milk and milk products in Canada for 1908 was 94 millions of dollars.

A COMFORTABLE REPORT

It is a comfortable thing to have faith in what is set before us to eat. If bread is the staff of life, butter is the polish. Bread and butter are the menu mainstay of mankind and we can enjoy them all the better in face of the report contained in a recent bulletin issued by the Inland Revenue Department, Ottawa, which keeps a sharp eye on the food we eat. In the matter of Canadian butter, Chief Analyst McGill has these comforting words to say:

"I beg to hand you a report upon 295 samples of butter, collected throughout Canada in October and November last. All samples have been examined as to contents of water, the limit being fixed by the Butter Act at 16 per cent. The fat has been examined by the refractometric test; and wherever the indications seemed abnormally high, further examination has been made. No foreign fats are present in any of these samples. Excess of water has been found in three samples from the Kingston district, viz.:—Nos. 36067, 36071 and 36072. It is quite apparent that butter is essentially genuine and of high quality, as offered for sale in Canada."

This much for our Canadian butter—the quality is high and the price shows a very practical sympathy with the quality. We can now eat our bread and butter with a serene mind; we have our butter officially vouched for, and we can take our bread on trust as we have to take a great many other things. We get married on trust and never repent it. We must, to live happily in this world, have a rather robust all-round faith.

Fair and unfaith can ne'er be equal powers:
Unfaith in aught is want of faith in all.—Tennyson

THAT DESPISED LAND GRANT.

The Toronto Star, in referring to Sir James Whitney's promised land grant of two million acres of "gilt-edge" land in the clay belt, to the Canadian Northern Railway, says:

Not only does the present position of the leader of the Ontario Government involve an open violation of a pledge publicly given, but it is an abandonment of a position that was absolutely sound. The guaranteeing of the bonds of a private company in this stage of the country's development is bad enough, cash grants are very much worse, but the worst policy of all is one that carries with it placing of great blocks of public lands in the hands of a private corporation. That policy, in the case of the old Canada Company, in the case of the C. P. R., and of other corporations, has done more to retard the development of Canada than all other evils combined.

The position taken by the Star is generally sound, but, as "nice customs courtesy to great kings" so do circumstances sometimes suggest the modification of the application of the most rigidly righteous principles. The crying need of Canada has been, for a half century, as it will be for probably another half century, transportation in the interests of both national development and the holding of the ground gained. Ten years ago Northern Ontario, in the vicinity of where the proposed railway is to be placed was a terra incognita; its resources were lying dormant. The exploration procured by the Ross Government disclosed its value. The building of the Provincial Railway by the same government unearthed in the very right of way, silver deposits, indicating a stretch of mineral wealth, one of the greatest in the world. Lands that were previously not worth the surveyor's stakes, were brought into development and immensely appreciated in value. If the branch of the Canadian Northern from Sellwood—Sudbury— to Port Arthur, is needed to open up the country, it will give an added value to the lands it serves, open them for settlement and make them tributary to commercial and industrial activity, in older Ontario. Whether the construction of the proposed railway will do all this to an extent to justify relaxation Premier Whitney's announced policy declared to a deputation of farmers in September, 1905: "No more land grants to railways," is the question.

On this occasion Sir James left a little loophole of escape. He said he would not go so far as to say that he would refuse under all conditions to grant railway aid, except in respect of lands. Is this a case in which this position can be modified in the public interests. Can the land grant be made on conditions that will provide for its not being tied up and held for rise in value by the improvements made by bona fide occupants of land in the vicinity. There is another loophole. It is said that Mackenzie & Mann declare that the two million acres of fertile land is "valueless" to them. Take it at that and consider the deal closed. That's an easy way to settle the question.

He never considered it as loth

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY.

(London Advertiser.)

There are now fifty rural mail routes in Canada, serving 3,500 people. In view of the many petitions which are pouring into the department it is expected that within two years many thousands of people will be enjoying the benefits of rural delivery. Meanwhile Mr. Lemieux's policy is to act cautiously, and in this he has the endorsation of representative men of the class for whose convenience the system has been established. The Dominion Grange, at its last meeting, adopted a resolution which, while commending the Government for inaugurating free rural mail delivery, urged "the necessity of going cautiously and profitting by the experience of other peoples who have adopted this system."

As the Postmaster-General recently pointed out, there are two systems of rural mail delivery. First, there is the system in vogue in the United States, England, France, Germany, and Belgium—a veritable postoffice on wheels, equipped with postal facilities, postal notes and money orders, and providing for the delivery and collection of letters, papers, parcels, registered letters, and registered parcels. The other system, known as the star-route system, is much better adapted for a country like Canada. Under this, "any person living on or contiguous to a rural mail route, and not within one-quarter of a mile of the corporate limits of any city, town, or village, who desires his mail deposited in a box authorized by the department, at a given point on the line of the route, by the rural mail carrier, may take advantage of the opportunity offered." The ordinary mail carrier starts on his route with the mails, and if the patrons on each side of the route have these boxes, he delivers to, or collects from the boxes, but he does not sell postage stamps, and does not deliver registered letters, unless an order is given him by the patron to do so.

To avoid the mistakes and the inordinate expenditure of the United States postoffices, the department at Ottawa has adopted the star-route system. When the first experiment with rural routes was made across the border in 1897, the expenditure was only $14,884. Since then it has grown by leaps and bounds, until last year it reached the stupendous figure of $34,361,463. For the last fiscal year the total receipts of the United States postal department were $191,478,864.41, while the deficit amounted to $16,872,222, two-thirds of which was eaten up by free rural mail delivery. So alarming is this showing that the Postmaster-General of the United States, in his last report, declared it was startling to consider what the expenditure will be in ten years from now.

Mr. Lemieux's position is that Canada is not in a position to afford so expensive a luxury as free rural mail delivery as they have it in the United States, but that we can devolve from our present system a scheme of rural mail delivery which our population and revenue will justify.

WAR WITHOUT CAUSE.

Mr. Goldwin Smith thinks there is danger of a causeless war with Germany if the prevailing excitement is continued. In the Weekly Sun he thus expresses himself:

If frantical raving can do it, we shall have war, really without a cause. The claim of England to be mistress of the seas, which is really the only cause alleged, is totally untenable. No power can, by merely dotting its possessions or dependencies over the globe, set up a claim to exclusive dominion over the common highway of nations. The Canadian farmer is not wanting in love of the mother country, but he would not really be showing his love by suffering his earnings to be squandered on the means of gratifying an insane ambition, and, probably at the same time, serving political and personal objects of a still less praiseworthy kind.

The danger is partly due to the present organization of the newspaper press, which in former days was a political organ in the hands of men who were at once proprietors or at least large shareholders, and editors, and who had their own political opinions of the party kind. Now the press seems to be largely in hands and run with the objects purely commercial. Circulation is the one object and sensation is the prolific parent of circulation. Telegraphy has at the same time stimulated the appetite for exciting intelligence and vastly increased the facility of obtaining it.

What Turks May Not Say.

As for the fate of his subjects, the decadence of Turkey, the future of the country—what does Abdul Hamid care about that? The empire is his private property by the right of birth It is the patrimony which he has inherited and which he squanders like a prodigal son. Turkey—it is himself! And so he has forbidden in his estates words such as "country," "nation," "people," "liberty," "revolution," to be spoken or printed, more especially "liberty" and "revolution."

A Turkish friend of mine, an old scholar of the Mulkie school, which is a kind of political science school, says a writer, told me the following little anecdote. In the French lesson, the professor being a Turk, they were translating a page of some French anthology. They came to a passage where it was said that "the butterfly flies with freedom." The professor was perturbed. Doubtless he was afraid of being denounced by spies (who were plentiful in the schools) for allowing the use of so guilty a word as "freedom."

"Stop," said he to the scholar who was reading aloud, and as the pupil he had addressed stopped the teacher hastened to translate himself, "The butterfly flies with ease."

Clanicarde Estate Again.

The notorious Clanicarde estate in County Galway, which for the past 25 years has been intermittently the scene of agrarian disturbance or outrage has just been the scene of the murder of a young constable, named Goldrick.

He formed one of a small body of police protecting two masons rebuilding a wall which had been maliciously thrown down. Two shots were fired by hidden assassins and both workmen fell to the ground wounded. Goldrick drawing his revolver started in pursuit, but had not gone far when he too was shot, dying almost instantly.

"This," said the coroner, "is the third violent death that I have had to inquire into in connection with land disputes. All the land belonging to the Marquis of Clanicarde is not worth one man's life." The King has marked his sense of indignation at the outrage by sending an expression of deep concern and sincere sympathy to the murdered policeman's family in their affliction.

Dangers of No Breakfast.

The no breakfast habit is harmless enough provided a hearty meal is taken, not before going to bed, but early in the evening. Late dinners have no need of "breakfast" until noontime. The French and other continental people discovered this ages ago and have thrived under it. Barring the cup of coffee or chocolate, the late dining Frenchman wants nothing to eat until luncheon. But the habit of avoiding early food and drink in a stimulating climate when the physical energies must be taxed during the morning hours is one of those silly notions which bear anaemic results, visible in the complexion, the color and eventually the constitution of those devoted to it.

Schools For Thieves.

In Tokio there are regular schools in which thieving is taught by professionals. In Japan, as elsewhere, there is honor among thieves, and the entire "thieves' colony" in the capital of Japan is governed by rules that are rigorously enforced. Their "codex," or body of rules, prescribes that the youngest beggars and thieves shall retain 10 per cent. of their earnings; pickpockets of the second class retain from 30 to 40 per cent, while the most skillful thieves keep from 50 to 60 per cent of their earnings." The greater part of what then remains is employed in keeping the thieves' academies in efficient working order.

ANTIQUITY OF CHESS.

Origin In the Far East—Warriors Who Were Fond of the Game.

Chess stands out separate and distinct from all other games. Its ambiguity counts for much. Nobody knows how old the game is or who invented it, but its origin was in the Far East.

There are good grounds for saying that Charles the Great played chess, and from this time onward through the centuries the game must have been constantly played among the knights and courtiers of the west. John of Salisbury, the historian, tells of an incident that occurred some 300 years later than Charlemagne.

In the stress of a battle between the French and English the game of chess was not forgotten. An English knight seized the bridle of Louis le Gros and cried to his comrades, "The king is taken!" Louis, notwithstanding his carnal incumbrance, more than equal to the English knight, struck him to the ground, exclaiming, "Know, Sir Knight, that at chess the king is never taken!"

At the very same time in the mysterious empire of the Far East it was a daily custom of the heir of the Caesars, after spending sleepless nights in thinking how he could repel the hordes of the Mohammedans and maintain the cross against the crescent, morning after morning to collect around him his courtiers and friends to expel those cares which made his nights uneasy by the royal game of chess. So records Anna Commena of her imperial father, whom she loved and served so well.

At the time of the renaissance chess was much played in the highest Italian society. Pope Leo X. delighted in the game and himself possessed a set of silver chessmen. And as the game is of immemorial antiquity, so its virtues will maintain it so long as the world shall last. The first book printed by Caxton in the English language was "The Game and Playe of the Chesse."

Why Foam on Ink Is White.

The foam was white.

"How white the foam is!" said the pretty girl in a voice muffled by the sable stole drawn across her red mouth. "Yet the sea is green. Why, then, isn't the foam green?"

But the young sophomore laughed in derision of such ignorance.

"Gee, you are ignorant!" he said. "Beer is brown, but its foam is white too. Shake up black ink and you get white foam. Shake up red ink and the result is the same.

"A body that reflects all the light it receives without absorbing any is always white. All bodies powdered into tiny diamond form, so that they throw back the light from many facets, absorb none of it and are white by consequence. Powdered black marble, for instance, is white. And foam is water powdered into these small diamonds, and hence its whiteness."

What's In a Man.

"All the constituents of a 150-pound man are contained in 1,200 eggs," said the chemist.

"There is enough gas in a man," he went on, "to fill a gasometer of 3,649 cubic feet. There is enough iron to make four nails. There is enough fat to make seventy-five candles and a large cake of soap. There is enough phosphorus to make 8,064 boxes of matches.

"There is enough hydrogen in him to fill a balloon and carry him up to the clouds. The remaining constituents of a man would yield, if utilized, six cruets of salt, a bowl of sugar and ten gallons of water."

No wonder the psalmist said, "I am fearfully and wonderfully made."

The Eyes In Writing.

Many persons who think their sight perfect have a greater visual power in one eye than in the other. With regard to the respective power of the right and left eyes, a well-known optician finds that a person occupied in writing all day has, as a rule, stronger vision in the left. Writing with the right hand and his left arm resting on the table, his left eye is nearer his work, and its vision is more concentrated. This expert says that our race will never become so shortsighted as the German while football, cricket, tennis, hockey, etc., are encouraged in our public schools.

Fastest Cruiser Afloat.

During her recent trials on the Clyde the new British cruiser Inflexible attained the extraordinary speed of twenty-seven and one-fourth knots an hour, and but for the fog would have done even better. This surpasses the record of the Indomitable by a quarter of a knot and that of the Mauretania by a knot and a half. The Inflexible is now in commission.

THE SUCCESS OF PETERBORO'S SIX-DAY WALK ALREADY ASSURED

April 26th may be marked down in the sporting calendar as the date upon which the big six-day walk in Brock Street Rink will commence. Sporting enthusiasts are all agog over the plans for the race and there is no doubt that it will be an even greater success than last year's big affair. There will be this difference that this year's walk will be contested by a well-trained bunch of real walkers, while in the first match held many of the men were not in shape and several of them had no previous exeprience. This year there will be a classy field of walkers, whose names are known from one corner of the continent to the other. Champion Hoagland has undertaken to bring over at least a dozen famous walkers, and it will be a real contest from start to finish.

The hours are somewhat changed from last year and should make a better race. It will be four hours a night for the first five nights followed by eight hours on Saturday. Last year the long hours on Wednesday took a lot of the ginger out of the men. With only four hours a night it will be speed all the way, while the eight hours on the last night will give the plodders a chance to make up lost ground so that the conditions should suit everyone.

The promoters are going ahead with the arangements with the utmost confidence that the affair will be a great success.

THE PACIFICS WON TWO OUT OF THREE FROM THE B. A. C.

The Pacifics helped themselves to an increase in their lead in the Bowling League last night, winning two out of the three games played at the B. B. C. Alleys. The Leaders captured the first two games by large margins but were just nosed out of the last by seven pins. The rolling was hardly up to the mark. McIlroy being the only bowler to bump the pins consistently throughout, getting a 547 total and having high single with 214. Bruce was high for the B. A. C., getting 458. He started with a 194 score, but fell down in his second and third goes. Connors also got a good start, but ran into bad luck in his next two. Following were the scores:

B. A. C.

Bruce	194	118	147—	459
Campbell	154	160	117—	421
MacRae	136	115	181—	432
	484	393	445—	1312

Pacifics

Connors	181	140	139—	460
Lillie	140	132	137 —	409
McIlroy	214	171	162—	547
	535	443	438—	1416

DAVE HARTLEY WILL NOT BE AN ENTRY IN BIG SIX-DAY WALK

David Hartley called at the Examiner office last night and stated that he would no be an entry in the big six-day walking tournament which has been announced to take place at the Brock St. Rink, commencing Monday, April 26th.

When asked why it was that he would not compete and if his walking days were over, he replied that in Peterborough they were. He did not intend to take part in any races here, stating that the coming event was not the kind of race that he cared to take part in.

At anyrate he intimated that about the time set for the six-day contest here he would be most likely competing in a go-as-you-please race in the Western States. However he did not care to say much about it yet, but he remarked that he had received an offer to have all his expenses paid if he would go.

A MEETING WILL BE HELD TO ORGANIZE A TENNIS LEAGUE

March 25, 1909.

Sporting Editor The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—My proposal to form a Lawn Tennis Association in Peterborough, having been endorsed by the larger Tennis Clubs in Peterborough, and individual enthusiasm and support promised by members of other clubs which have not held their organization meetings for the ensuing year yet; and having been advised that other tennis clubs would be formed to enter the association such as possibly one from the 57th Regiment, Collegiate Institute, and Normal School; and after consulting certain players, it has been arranged to call a meeting of every man interested in tennis for the purpose of forming a "Peterborough Lawn Tennis Association."

The meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday, April 3rd, at 8 o'clock sharp.

The officers and committee will be elected at this meeting.

McGRAW TRAINING HIS MEN AT FINER POINTS OF INSIDE BASEBALL

Marlin, Texas, March 26.—As the Giants tackle the Waco team in a regular match game to-morrow, McGraw had his men at work on infield signal practice this afternoon, and the methods of this eagey little baseball general made the youngsters open their eyes in amazement. No regular practice game was attempted. For some time McGraw has been trying to solve the problem of keeping third base covered when first and second are occupied and the batter bunts. As all fans know, it is customary for a batter under those circumstances to roll the ball directly toward third so that the third baseman will come in for the ball and the bag will be left uncovered, making it easy for the advancement of the runner.

McGraw's new plan calls for the catcher to signal the pitcher to shoot the ball high. The third baseman gets the signal at the same time, and instead of coming in he sticks to the bag. The pitcher then runs toward third after delivering the ball, while the second baseman comes in closer and runs toward first. In half a dozen trials yesterday either the second baseman or the pitcher got the ball and the play was balked every time. The youngsters were told to report to the bench for a while and all the regulars were drilled in bunting. Fletcher, who has taken the position of third base on the regulars, proved himself to be an accurate bunter as well as a fleet runner. Three times he laid down a bunt and beat it to first.

Murray came up to the mark and put the ball down properly every time.

"Now I want all you pitchers to come in here and learn to bunt," yelled McGraw from the infield.

You may not be good hitters, but you can put us in many a game by knowing how to bunt. This old thing of giving up a pitcher at the bat as useless is all rot. I want you all to take a hand; come here, Crandall."

The big pitcher stepped in, and after four or five trials succeeded in laying the ball down just to Mac's liking and then Marquard is very good with the stick and didn't need much instruction except as to the signals. The whole lot of pitchers were put through the drill until each of them had succeeded in making a perfect bunt. By that time it was nearly dark and the practice was stopped.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF CITY LEAGUE

The annual banquet of the City Hockey League will be held this year on Monday, April 5th, in the Oriental Hotel at 8.30 p.m., and promises to be one of the most successful events in the history of the League. The Stratton Cup, emblematic of the Senior Championship, will be presented to the Lakefield team during the evening, and the Graham Cup will also be given to the Orielhains, the Junior Champions of the League. It is expected that over 100 people will be present and a very enjoyable evening is looked forward to. In addition to the usual toast list a musical programme will be run off.

BASEBALL.

"I think that Pitcher Johnson has Donovan and Matthewson and Mordecai Brown and other 'greats' beaten in a thousand different ways," says Joe Cantillion, the Washington manager. "He is young, only twenty years old, and he is strong. He has a splendid curve, and he has a world of speed. They all rely on their speed and their curves and their control. And I'll tell you something right here — Johnson has more control than any of them. I'm certain that he has absolute control of the ball — absolute control, and the pitcher who has absolute control is a man mighty scarce in baseball to-day. He is one of those fellows that no one and nothing could hold down. He came up to us out of the woods. He was found among the bushes, and he hit Washington, unknown, unrecognized, unheard of practically, and he stuck to his job, and he found his way to the top."

McGraw Satisfied

Dallas, Tex., March 23. — Manager McGraw is satisfied in his own mind that the Giants have the best pitching staff in the National League.

"We were weak in the box last season," said the little Napoleon to-day, "and that weakness kept us from winning the pennant. Had last year's team boasted our present corps of delivery clerks, we would have galloped away from the Cubs and the Pirates and won with 30 points to spare. I can't see anything except big winners in Harry Marquard and Arthur Raymond. Marquard's acquisition and the decisions made by Wolmer and Wiltse to forsake the hold-out brigade give us three crack southpaws. Last year we only had one and he was overworked."

Rochester Prospects

Manager Ganzel, of Rochester, seems to be dissatisfied with the present crop of pitchers on his hands. While they all look good, he seems afraid that some of them will not be able to show up in time for the opening of the season. Beecher and Holmes are certainties, and around them the staff will be built. The manager said that with Holmes, Beecher, Barger, Henley and Wicker, he is expected almost any day from Cincinnati, there will be five men to rely on. No new men will be secured before the trip exhibition games are started. When the big fellow was asked why he includes Barger in his list he said: "I have some inside information that I will get cy within a week or two." No new outfielders or infielders will be looked for until the squad is well on its exhibition games and it becomes apparent that new material is a necessity."

Notes of the Game

Hugh Duffy wants to get Barger, the former Montreal and Rochester pitcher, now with the Boston Americans.

A semi - professional league, with teams from Galt, Guelph, Berlin, Waterloo, and possibly Acton, is a project that is on foot among the baseball fans in each of these towns.

"I think Johnson is one of the best pitchers in the American League," said Jennings to-day. "True he is young and has much before him."

Pat Powers' schedule had Montreal playing in both Baltimore and Newark on the same day. This has been corrected as follows: Montreal at Baltimore on September 20th, 21st; Montreal at Newark on September 22nd, 23rd.

Billy Keister, utility player on the Buffalo Club last year has been sold to Wilkes-Barre, the deal being fully completed.

As all the Eastern League clubs have waived claim on O'Neil, Wicker and Keefe, they will have to accept the Montreal's club's terms or go to some class B organization.

Dave Brain led all National League players in home runs in 1907. Dave has broken up more than one game with his big stick. Eastern League pitchers, please take notice.

With the addition of Yeager, Beulow, Sleger and Cockhill, the Royals loom up as a first division probability.

George Capron, former University of Minnesota football player, claimed by the New York Giants and Mobile's Southern League baseball clubs, has notified officials of the Mobile team that he will not join either club but will go to the outlaws.

The spit ball has vanished, the Salome Twist is on its way, but now comes the "Bill Taft Curve." It's the latest import from the Mobile Camp of the Cleveland Naps, and Doc. Payne is said to be responsible for it. According to its godfather, it's of the round house variety, only a little rounder—hence the name "Bill Taft." Irwin Gough, the Saginaw, Mich., twirler, is the lad who serves it up down there.

Manager Casey, of the Montreals, has signed Tod Colvin, who played short for Brooklyn's crack semi-professional team last year. Colvin also was wanted by Pottsville.

Lever Brothers, Toronto, will send you free a cake of their famous Plantol toilet soap, if you mention this paper.

RUNNING.

Toronto, March 24.—Now that Tom Coley has refused to turn pro. to meet Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Thunderbolt itinerary looks like this:

Guelph, April 3.—Twelve-mile race against Meadows or a relay.

"Simpson's defeat by Shrubb does not worry me a bit," said Tom Eck to-day. "I know what that boy can do, and I still bank on him."

THE HUMAN RACE.

Will Men Simply Shrink Off the Face of the Earth?

A French statistician who has been studying the military and other records with a view of determining the height of men at different periods has reached some wonderful results.

He has not only solved some perplexing problems in regard to the past of the human race, but is also enabled to calculate its future and to determine the exact period when man will disappear from the earth.

The recorded facts extend over nearly three centuries.

It is found that in 1610 the average height of man in Europe was 1.75 meters, or, say, five feet nine inches. In 1790 it was five feet six inches. In 1820 it was five feet five inches and a fraction. At the present time it is five feet three and three-quarter inches. It is easy to deduce from these figures a rate of regular and gradual decline in human stature and then apply this, working backward and forward, to the past and to the future. By this calculation it is determined that the stature of the first men attained the surprising average of sixteen feet nine inches.

Truly, there were giants on the earth in those days. The race had already deteriorated in the days of Og, and Goliath was a quite degenerate offspring of the giants. Coming down to later time, we find that at the beginning of our era the average height of man was nine feet, and in the time of Charlemagne it was eight feet eight inches. But the most astonishing result of this scientific study comes from the application of the same inexorable law of diminution to the future. The calculation shows that by the year 4000 A. D. the stature of the average man will be reduced to fifteen inches. At that epoch there will be only Lilliputians on the earth. And the conclusion of the learned statistician is irresistible that "the end of the world will certainly arrive, for the inhabitants will have become so small that they will finally disappear"—"finish by disappearing," as the French idiom expresses it—"from the terrestrial globe."—London Tit-Bits.

GOT AHEAD OF PITT.

The Ruse by Which George III. Outwitted His Premier.

On Jan. 19, 1805, Dr. Manners-Sutton, bishop of Norwich, was giving a dinner party in his Windsor deanery when his butler informed him that a gentleman wished particularly to see him, but would not give his name.

"Well, I can't come now in the middle of dinner," said the bishop.

"Beg pardon, my lord, but the gentleman is very anxious to see you on important business," and the butler was so urgent that the bishop apologized to his company and went out. The gentleman who would not be denied proved to be King George III.

"How d'ye do, my lord?" said he. "Come to tell you that you're archbishop of Canterbury—archbishop of Canterbury. D'ye accept—accept? Eh, eh?"

The bishop bowed low in token of acceptance.

Next morning Pitt appeared at Windsor castle to inform his majesty that Archbishop Moore had died the day before and to recommend the bishop of Lincoln, Dr. Pretyman, for the vacant primacy.

"Very sorry, very sorry, indeed, Pitt," said the king, "but I offered it to the bishop of Norwich last night, and he accepted. Can't break my word."

Pitt was very angry, but the deed was done, as the king meant it should be, and so Dr. Manners-Sutton became archbishop of Canterbury and held the great office for twenty-three eventful years.—Michael McDonagh in Chambers' Journal.

Time to Go.

"I wonder how many of those connected with newspapers," said a reporter, "remember the famous dispatch sent by a press telegraph operator at the time of the San Francisco earthquake. It was the only smile raiser in the whole horrible catastrophe. It read something like this: 'The building is beginning to rock, bricks are falling about, and it's me for the simple life.' Then it trailed off as if the operator had scooted for the open door, or wall, perhaps. This dispatch was handed about the newspaper offices and made all the boys laugh in spite of the serious picture it called to mind.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Reasons For Cannibalism.

According to a writer in a French review, there are three causes for cannibalism. It is due either to necessity, pleasure or fashion. Twenty per cent of the cannibals, we learn, eat their dead to honor them. The ancient Tibetans belonged to this class. This is sentimental anthropophagy. Nineteen per cent eat their great warriors to obtain their courage. This is designated egotistic anthropophagy. Twenty-nine per cent eat human flesh to punish their enemies and 32 per cent because it is the fashion or because they consider the flesh savory.—Indianapolis News.

Fat Singers—Why?

A medical gentleman, writing in Comoedia, explains that the physical massiveness of the majority of famous singers comes mainly from abnormal development of the lungs. We must confess that we had been under the impression that it was due to a laudable effort to make grand opera amusing.—Punch.

SARDOU AND THE SPIRIT.

The Dramatist Wrote and Drew Pictures While "Under Control."

Before he made his reputation by writing plays Victorien Sardou, the French dramatist, who was deeply interested in spiritualism, had a remarkable experience in taking dictation. He had been interested in occult phenomena, and by chance he came into communication with a spirit personality who signed himself "Bernard Palissy." M. Sardou told the story of his experiments in an article entitled "Only the Blindly Ignorant Scoff" in the Delineator. He said:

One day in my room with two friends I thought I would make the little table where we had taken our coffee run about the room, as I had often done when alone. Without saying anything I put my hand on the table, but it would not budge. I tried in vain all the time they were there to make it move, but to no avail. As soon as they were gone I could make it do what I pleased, even jump clear off the floor. So I took up my pencil and asked, "But why would you not make the table move while my friends were here?" The hand which held the pencil wrote, "They were too stupid."

Shortly after this I was sitting by my table one day idling, dreaming, not making any effort to do anything in particular. All of a sudden my hand began to work on the paper before me with a rapidity and precision which astonished me. And it kept this up for close to two hours. The result was a fantastic piece of work drawn in delicate lines, fine almost as a spider's web, and at the bottom a signature—"Bernard Palissy." "What is it?" I asked.

And my automatic hand wrote, "The house of Swedenborg, on the planet Jupiter." This was considered as most curious by all my friends, who knew that personally I had no aptitude for drawing. A plate was prepared, and I was given an etching tool. The result, in the same order of design, was a more elaborate piece of work, this time curiously combined out of all sorts of musical terms, clefs, notes, bars, and so on, and the whole was designated as the house of Mozart, also on Jupiter, and the whole was again signed "Palissy." In fact, Bernard Palissy became my almost constant companion from this on, like my second self.

AN UNWASHED PRINCE.

The Lesson That Ended His Kicks About Morning Baths.

When Emperor William II. was a small boy he had a strong objection to being washed in the morning, and his governess, having had some unpleasant experiences with him and being in some doubt as to what she had better do, appealed to his father, the then Crown Prince Frederick. Frederick answered, "The next time he gives any trouble on this score leave him alone to his own pleasure and report to me."

Naturally it was not long before the young prince refused to go through the purification process, and the governess followed the orders received.

Now, the boy had a little carriage and was very fond of driving out in the morning, and he generally ordered the coachman to go by way of the Brandenburg gate, as it amused and flattered him to see the soldiers in the barrack, just inside the gate, turn out and present arms as the heir to the empire passed their quarters. Accordingly on the morning of his disobedience the order was, as usual, "To the Brandenburg gate," and the carriage rolled rapidly thither. But what was the amazement and the rage of the princeling on arriving there to see no soldiers except those on guard, and they took not the slightest notice of him. In a towering passion he ordered the coachman to return to the palace, where, rushing into his father's room, he complained of the indecent behavior of the guard and demanded their condign punishment.

But his father only smiled and said in the gentlest voice: "Fuer ungewaschener prinz wird niemals praesentirt" ("An unwashed prince is never saluted").—Harper's Weekly.

High Art.

"Are you blind, prisoner?" inquired the magistrate.

"Yes, your worship."

"You are charged with vagrancy. How did you lose your sight?"

"But there is a picture on your breast representing an explosion in a mine, through which, it is stated, you became blind. How is this?"

"Please, your worship, I couldn't afford to pay a hartist as could paint appleplexy."—London Answers.

Where the Trouble Was.

"Some mis'bul sinner took an' runned off wid de collection hat las' meetin' day," said Brother Dickey, "an' I well knows dat ef dar wus no sich place es hell de good Lawd would make one for dat sinner."

"Was there much money in the hat?"

"No, suh; day warn't so much ez a brass button in it."

"Then why are you so mad about it?"

"Hit wuz my hat," he said.—Atlanta Constitution.

When to Hesitate.

"He who hesitates is lost," quoted the wise guy.

"Oh, I don't know," said the simple mug. "At an auction sale he who hesitates may have his money."—Philadelphia Record.

The Effect of Dampness.

People feel their corns ache and their bones rheumatic when rainy weather is at hand because of the dampness of the atmosphere, which affects its pressure upon the body and causes a temporary disturbance of the system. All general disturbances of the body manifest themselves in those parts which are in a morbid state, as in a corn, a rheumatic bone or a decayed tooth.

ATHLETES ARE TO BUILD $80,000 CHURCH IN THE CITY OF TORONTO

Rev. John D. Morrow, the Former Well Known Sprinter, is Behind the Movement—Believes it Will be a Success.

A DOLLAR FROM EACH MAN

Toronto, March 25.—Athletes and lovers of sports are called upon to build an eighty-thousand-dollar church at Queen street and Bellwoods avenue.

Mr. Robert Dale, a wealthy member of St. Mark's Presbyterian Church, at King and Tecumseh strets, presented his fellow-worshippers with the valuable piece of land, and it has been decided that the athletes must build the church.

Rev. John D. Morrow, the wing-footed clergyman, who made all the short-distance men hump for a few years while he held the Canadian championships, is going to get that money. He said so to The News when he was asked about it this morning.

When Mr. Morrow was officiating at the Shrubb-Simpson race in the Armouries last Saturday night he gazed upon the sea of faces eager for the fray, and his pet idea felt much encouraged.

He figured it out that when so many people loved sport sufficiently to pay a dollar to see a foot-race they would willingly go into their pockets for a dollar or more each in order to erect a monument that would be a lasting credit to the sport-loving fraternity in a city that is famous at home and abroad for its athletic prowess.

Confident of Success

"The athletes of Toronto will have an opportunity to show what they can do," said Mr. Morrow. "I know they will assist me in this project. I never refused them anything, and they won't refuse me. All my life I have stuck by athletics, and never got a ten-cent piece out of it. Since leaving the track I have never refused to take the duties allotted to me as an official.

"I love sport with all my heart," continued Mr. Morrow, "and do you know, I have done more for sport than anyone has any idea of. I have endeavoured to keep intoxicants, tobacco and blasphemy out of our games, and I have spent much time in encouraging clean athletics.

"Don't you think that I did not have something to combat in order to remain in the athletic world. Some of the staid Presbyterians were much opposed to my continuing in it. Clergymen high in our Church told me I must leave the track, as my continuing an active supporter of athletic sports was against the welfare of the Church.

"But I stuck to it, and all the opposition has been overcome. Athletics take a very prominent part in Church work now, as is quite proper.

Ask All for a Dollar

"If the boys appreciate honest, untiring effort and want to reciprocate a bit, this is the chance for them to show it. I shall ask all of them I know for a dollar. Some will give more. They have told me so already.

"Every good sport of Toronto who has anything to do with athletics will have a brick in that church, and I hope to have it up this time next year, free of debt.

"My large congregration are all poor people. We are a 'down-town' church, and my flock could never have a church on that fine property, which has been given to them, if they had to buy it themselves."

Mr. Morrow will solicit donations personally, and expects some of "the boys" will help along the good work. A treasurer will be appointed and the collecting will begin in earnest.

Not much will be done, however, for the next couple of months, as Mr. Morrow is going on a Northwestern tour in the Alexander-Chapman campaign.

CARBONIC SNOW HEALING HAS PROVED A GREAT SUCCESS

Montreal, March 25. — The Montreal hospitals have adopted the use of liquid air, in the form of carbonic acid snow, for the treatment of many forms of skin diseases, and its curative powers have now been proven beyond a shadow of a doubt. Many forms of skin diseases have already been dealt with, including moles, warts, birth marks and different forms of small skin humours.

In one case at the Montreal General Hospital, a woman was treated for a mole which went a long way towards impairing her beauty.

The carbonic acid snow, made from liquid air, was applied for less than a minute, the effect being that it immediately disappeared, leaving a scarcely perceptible scar. Another case which required the removing of a wart from under a finger nail, was as successfully treated and other forms of skin blemishes and affections have also been dealt with.

Liquid air is made from carbon dioxide and liquefies at a pressure of two thousand pounds to the square inch.

When liberated at a low temperature it becomes carbonic acid snow, crystalizing into a substance which resembles common white chalk, though of greater brilliance.

Liquid air, in the form of carbonic acid snow, can now be purchased in bulk, and the low temperature at which it is frozen causes it to preserve its form for many hours.

There is no doubt about the value of freezing as a therapeutic, or healing measure, and it is predicted by medical men that carbonic acid snow will be used almost altogether in the future for the treatment of skin affections.

ANOTHER LETTER AGAINST CITY'S $15,000 POWER BYLAW

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—As a manufacturer and a user of power in this city I am naturally interested in every movement which bears upon the power question. As a citzen I have an added interest in such questions when the project is being handled by our representatives, the City Council.

Municipal ownership of water powers, water supply, gas and light supply has been proven a success very often, and to-day a number of Canadian towns are reaping a golden harvest as the result of these investments. Unfortunately there are other towns and cities about us which cannot boast of their success. They blundered and now prefer to cover their mistakes.

The lure of added power to our city has caught our City Fathers. It is a worthy motive. But as far as I can determine the present power scheme is a mistake. The power is not there. It is simply another instance of an engineer handing out book figures with a hungry financial smile. Those are the goods he sells and he must present them in their most favourable light. With very little trouble one can be shown by any one and every one of the power houses on the Otonabee to-day that the actual "possibility" does not by any means come near the engineer's statement of the "probability." In the case of our largest power plant a loss of fully 1,000 h.p. is recorded—a matter of over 30 per cent. When the city sells power there will be no allowance made for a similar failure in probable power. It must be remembered also that it is not the power which can be developed for seven or eight months of the year that is cashable. It is the minimum only that counts—the twelve months possible.

It is unfortunate that this power scheme has been associated with the Water Commissioners' proposition. For with the probable death of the one the other may die in sympathy. Good business, commendable zeal has marked the reign of the Commissioners thus far, and their present plan should meet with general approbation.

Many claim the change is not needed to-day. Yet, it is certainly wisdom to buy a new suit of clothes ere the old one drops off. To me the step appears wise. It is forethought which any business man must encourage and commend. "Take thought of the morrow" seems to apply favourably in this case.

Yours truly,
PETER B. POWER.

RETURN DEBATE TO-NIGHT AT THE NORMAL SCHOOL

Through an unfortunate mistake, for which the Examiner was in no way to blame, it was announced that the return debate between the Normal School and Collegiate Institute, which will be held to-night, would take place last night. The event will be held to-night in the Normal School at 8 oclock, and an enjoyable evening may be looked for. The subject is "Resolved that independence is the likely destiny of Canada," the affirmative being taken by Miss McKellar and Mr. Colin Lees, of the Normal School, while the speakers for the Collegiate will be Miss Smith and Mr. John Garvin. In addition to the debate there will be a choice musical programme.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, March 26.—Stocks opened firm and fractionally higher. The Goulds were the features of the first hour, with sharp advances in Missouri Pacific and Wabash. Higher copper prices in London helped the metal stocks and the steel issues were in good demand. The traction group was also disposed to rally. Overnight developments had no influence and the scarcity of stocks, which has been so much in evidence of late again manifested itself as the market rallied so easily.

Madly Loves Her Husband, But Is Willing To Give Him Divorce

Dr. Isabella Hammond, Philosopher, Seeks Only the Happiness of Man She Has Not Seen in Ten Years—Learns He Has Divorced Her and Has Married Again.

HOW SHE DISCOVERED IT.

New York, March 26.—"I love him still with all my heart," said Dr. Isabella Franchi Hammond yesterday, referring to her husband, Frank Eugene Hammond, from whom she has been living apart for ten years and to whom she is willing to give freedom in case he has married or wants to marry again.

Ten years spent in philosophical studies have made Mrs. Hammond willing to make any sacrifices to secure the happiness of the man she wedded twelve years ago. They met while fellow students in a Southern college, and after less than two years of married life an unmentioned something occurred which made it impossible for her to live with him.

Since then they have never met, but until a few years ago corresponded. Then Dr. Hammond lost track of her husband. She continued her studies of Plato and Socrates, content, as she said, "to live and be known and die as Mrs. Hammond."

Heard He Married Again

This was the condition which existed until a short time ago, when Dr. Hammond heard her husband was in Brazil, had obtained a divorce and had married another woman about a year and a half ago. No papers in divorce proceedings had ever been served on her, she said yesterday. So, determined to learn the truth, she tried to get into communication with the man she still regarded as her husband.

But every effort proved fruitless and as a last resort, she placed an advertisement Friday in the Nassau County Review, giving an address where letters would reach her and telling of her marriage to Mr. Hammond, son of Dr. Hammond, of Keyport, L. I.

While the marriage was known to the families of the two and a few intimate friends, this first public announcement of it caused considerable surprise. Dr. Albert Hammond, of Keyport, a brother of Frank Eugene Hammond, said he knew of no reason for the announcement at this late day. He said his brother married Miss Franchi, but had the marriage annulled and had taken another wife in Brazil. He said the annulment had been secured on the grounds that a former husband of Mis Franchi's, who was supposed to have been killed in the Cuban war, had turned up alive.

Dr. Isabella Hammond emphatically denied yesterday that she had ever married any one but her present husband or had ever been served with papers in a divorce suit.

"Two years ago," she said, "a lawyer came to me and said he was from my husband. He wanted to bribe me to give Frank his freedom, and failing in that, tried threats. Then a suit was started in which the only evidence was that I had made a confession of misconduct to the lawyer and his stenographer. The judge threw the case out, declaring there was collusion in the testimony.

"I was willing then to give Frank his freedom had he asked for it like a man. I love him better than life itself—and such a woman as I loves only once—but I would do everything for his happiness. In advertising I only wanted to find out whether I am still married or not and to give Frank his freedom if he wants it."

Dr. Hammond is the daughter of Giovanni Franchi, the Italian philanthropist, who died last August, leaving a fortune of several millions.

ALLOWANCE FOR THE WIFE?

In the recent National Council of the Women of France, Mme. Landry distinguished herself by a long speech in which she insisted on the right of every good wife and mother of the home to be paid a specific salary, according to the earnings of the husband. At present, said the fair speaker, the sum given to the housewife is ladled out to her in exiguous driblets, and in the majority of households there is no schedule or system, and consequently no satisfaction to any concerned in its management. Needless to say, the absence of system, argues Mme. Landry, is the rock upon which domestic harmony first splits.

The main reasons, she says, why this labour should, above all others, be remunerated, are that it is at once very hard and directly productive labour, in the economic sense. In many a home, it may in all, the labour performed by the wife-mother is not less than heroic. A little consideration will show, says Mme. Landry

"She rises before her husband, prepares breakfast and gets the children ready for school. Her work really only begins when husband and children have left the house. A German advocate of women's rights has made an interesting regard, the following table of division. He carefully estimated the different weights daily lifted by a labourer in a factory, and compared them with those raised by a woman who does her own housework. Having carefully added up the weights of provision—baskets, kitchen utensils, furniture and what not he came to the conclusion that housewives are really subjected to harder work than the hardest working labourers.

"It is not, in my experience, only in the poorer classes that the woman performs hard work. They also, by force of circumstances, are compelled to work hard even in the prosperous classes. Take, for example, the case of the former Miss Alice Roosevelt, who, in fifteen months attended 408 dinners, 271 receptions, 171 balls, 640 teas; she shook hands in the same period with 32,000 fellow citizens and visited some 1,643 of them. At the end of this period, she had, small wonder, to take to her bed. Have you have the ordinary 'social' work of your well-to-do woman."

According to Mme. Landry, this social work of the woman-of-ease is productive, since her associations bring her into touch with the political, financial, industrial and general world as a significant and active participant who helps to maintain the whole and make conditions all the more supportable. He says the lady, we admire as many of women doctors, lawyers and others who perform economically productive labour, why refuse it to the woman who is practically on the ground floor of civilization and the prime source of the world's wealth—productive possibilities. According to the French Code the wife is allowed half of the common patrimony according to the marriage. This is right as far as it goes, but from ethical lines, and it is a recognition of the fact that the wife has a right to at least half the product of the wage earnings.

BROADWAY NOT IN IT WITH LINDSAY

Why, There Are Three Picture Shows, a Skating Rink and Lots of Other Things Like This in Scugogville

The skating rink was closed Tuesday night which means good-bye to winter sports for this winter. There is considerable ice on the rink and men are at work removing it in order to preserve the floor, which will be repaired and put in first-class shape for roller skating. Mr. Parkin will open the rink on April 1, for roller skating and has ordered several new pairs of skates and confidently expects that roller skating will be as popular as it was a year and a half ago.

With two bowling alleys, three picture shows a bowling green, baseball, the water and a roller rink, the citizens of Lindsay will have many places of amusement to visit this summer.—Lindsay Warder.

Now listen to that. The next happening to Lindsay will be the establishment of an asylum after a few months of such frivolity. Kent St. will need oiling twice a day to save it from being burned up by the speedy natives. The writer does not mention peanut roasters. Mudville should have one or two of these live steam affairs, it would stir up the homesters and stretch their imagination to the idea that it was another harvesting works. The Home Missionary Society should keep a watchful eye on Scugogville with its multitudinous allurements.

NO SMALL POX NOW IN MONTREAL

Rumour is Said to Have No Substantiation in Fact.

Montreal, March 26.—A report is going the round of the Ontario papers, supposed to have originated in a dispatch sent by a Montreal correspondent to a Toronto paper, to the effect that an epidemic of smallpox is raging in Montreal. Despite denials last week, this rumour has been printed in a Peterborough paper since.

Dr. J. E. Laberge, special civic medical officer in charge of contagious diseases, therefore asks the Montreal papers to deny the report in toto, and to ask all Ontario papers to copy.

Far from there being any epidemic, he declares, there has been no case of smallpox originating in Montreal since 1902. In 1906 there were three Chinamen who arrived here from Vancouver suffering from the disease; a case from Cobalt in 1907; another from Morrisburg, N.J., in 1908, and at the beginning of this year one from New Brunswick. In each instance, however, the cases were isolated, and none others were reported in the city.

GET BUSY.

Don't sit down in silent woe;
Get busy;
Swear you'll get another show;
Get busy;
Luck will stop and smile on you,
If you'll stand a knock or two;
Don't give up and don't get blue;
Get busy.

Start something. Stir something up;
Get busy;
Upset Melancholy's cup;
Get busy;
Fortune loves the busy bee,

Face the rough-house cheerily;
Get busy.

Where despair discouraged brews;
Shake the moss roots from your shoes;
Get busy.

Here's a prophecy for you:

A BUSY SEASON AT HASTINGS

Examiner Special.

Hastings, March 26.—The local engineering staff of the canal are busy with the survey work up towards the lake getting the work out ready for the contractors.

Mr. Bryant Scriver last week completed the new boat house for the use of the local canal staff. The building, which is 46 x 20, is situated just east of the flour mill, and when painted up will be quite different from the general of such edifices on our waterfront.

The Radiator building and land in front, which have lain idle since the company ceased operations, presents a very lively scene to residents of the village these days. The gangs of men are busy putting up the piers for building the new monster dredge on and getting out the timber ready for the screws for the coming work. Considerable timber has arrived and more is on the way from British Columbia. This timber is worth walking up to the yard to see. Some of the sticks are over 150 feet long and about 18 x 18 in. square. As soon as the balance of the timber arrives extra gangs will be put on and the work pushed ahead as rapidly as possible. We understand that the new dredge will be one of the largest in the country.

THE FUNERAL OF MRS. FITZGERALD THIS AFTERNOON

The funeral of the late Mrs. Alex. Fitzgerald, who passed away on Tuesday evening, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 83 Hunter street, east, to St. Luke's church and thence to the Little Lake Cemetery. It was largely attended, many citizens turning out to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased. At the church the service for the burial of the dead was read by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, who referred to the beautiful Christian character of the late Mrs. Fitzgerald. Her earnest devotion to her church and to all that was good was an example worthy to be followed by every one.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Wm. Scott, Robert Fair, Jos. Johns, Wm. Graham, Frank Adams, and A. Weir. A large number of floral tributes were received.

The family have the sympathy of a host of friends in their sad bereavement.

Labour Conditions For The City During Last Month

Mr. J. Arthur Sharp, correspondent to the Labour Gazette, reported as follows for February.

General Condition of the Labour Market

The general condition of the labour market was slightly more active than in the preceding month, employment in the various factories being fairly active. The Canadian Electric Manufacturing Company started working full time on the 2nd of the month, and expects to keep busy, having secured large contracts from the hydro-electric commission.

There was very little outside work being done, excepting in cutting and storing of ice, and work caused by snowstorms, etc. Work has commenced on the construction of the new dam and locks at Lindsay, to cost about $50,000. From an industrial standpoint, the general condition of labour is better than a year ago, and the outlook, on the whole, is good. The banks reported business improving. Wholesale and retail trade was active, also railway traffic. Rates of wages remained unchanged.

Condition of Local Industries

Agriculture.—Farmers were busy marketing wood, hay and other produce, which brought good prices.

Lumbering. — The lumber trade was rather dull, but the planing mills were working full time.

Other Industries. — Carpet workers reported an improvement in trade, some of the departments working overtime, with prospects good.

Condition of Particular Trades

Bricklayers and masons were not very busy, which is a usual condition at this time of the year. Carpenters and joiners were similarly situated. Painters reported trade fair, with plumbers active. Iron moulders, machinists, brass workers and electrical workers reported a slight improvement. Pattern makers were fairly active, with car workers rather dull. As is usual at this time of the year, coopers were not very busy. Printers reported trade fair, tailors were dull, bakers fairly active, ice cutters and drivers busy, cigarmakers dull, leather workers and railway employees fairly busy, with very little work for unskilled labour.

The death occurred very suddenly yesterday at noon of Wesley Whitfield at his home in North Monaghan. The deceased had only been ill a few days, having been in the city last Saturday and apparently in good health. He was 49 years of age and was a lifelong resident of North Monaghan. He was married twenty-four years ago to Miss J. Chambers. He was a man widely known and highly respected and his death will be a distinct loss to the community.

His wife and seven children are left to mourn his loss. They are Frank, Melville, Harold, Beatrice, Mamie, Bertha and Margaret. Messrs. Wm. and Louis Whitfield, of North Monaghan, are brothers of the deceased.

The funeral will leave his late residence, Lot 5, Concession 7, North Monaghan, on Saturday at two o'clock and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

POST CARD COLUMN.

To Editor Post Card Column:

I would like to know why the snow north of Douro street is not cleaned or ploughed. I do not think the snow plough man has had so much snow to contend with, that he need to neglect it, as I have come through snow quite deep this last three Wednesday nights. I would like to se this matter attended to.

MRS. J. ANDERSON,
Northeast Ender.

To the Editor of Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—In yesterday's issue of the Review there appeared a letter, written by a person who assumes the very appropriate title of "Fiat Lux." If one is to judge from the letter itself, it is quite evident that the writer is very much in need of that very light which he assumes to possess.

In his letter he says: "I am informed by a member of St. Peter's T. A. S. that it was decided at a meeting of that society on Sunday afternoon, to bring every pressure possible to bear on the members of the council to vote down the recommendation of the property committee and secure the retention of Mr. Ball.

Now, if by Sunday afternoon, he means last Sunday, we assure him there was no meeting of the T. A. S. on that day. If he means the Sunday previous, March 14th, when a regular meeting was held, and at which I was present and know what took place, permit me to inform him that nothing of the kind was discussed.

He says "he was informed by a member of the T. A. S.", which statement I take the liberty of doubting. If any member of the T. A. S., however, has been guilty of such a statement, let our friend and his informer come out of the darkness, and we shall arrange a meeting between them and the executive of the T. A. S. when Mr. Fiat Lux may get the light he needs so badly.

Inconsistency of Zeke.

"Zeke," drawled the old farmer as he thawed out his whiskers, "I want yeou to go down to the wood pile and chop up some kindling."

"B-r-r!" exclaimed Zeke as he blew his fingers. "It's too cold."

"Waal, then, go over to the barnyard and milk the cows."

"Can't pap. Honest, I'm freezing."

"H'm! How about cleaning the snow off the porch?"

"Yeou'll have to excuse me, pap; my fingers are jest like icicles."

The old farmer was thoughtful.

"Waal, all right, son," he said slowly. "It shan't be said that I allowed any of my children to get frost bitten by working in freezing weather. What be yeou going to do now—sit by the kitchen fire and warm yeour hands?"

Zeke grinned sheepishly.

"No, pap; I am going down to the lake and fish for pickerel through the ice."—Chicago News.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

An Incident That Proves the Truth of an Old Adage.

Sometimes when a story writer makes his hero pass through an adventure of a peculiarly thrilling and improbable kind he gets credit for relating sensational incidents, says the Chicago News. And yet, as has been said a great many times, "truth is stranger than fiction." Here is a case in point:

At a fire in a large city a short time ago the captain of an engine company found himself on top of an eight story building, absolutely cut off from all chance of escape save one—he might crawl along an electric cable that passed from the roof of the building he was on to the roof of the building on the other side of the street. The venture seemed almost hopeless, but a man will try many perilous ventures rather than give up his life.

So the brave and cool headed man began his dangerous trip. He swung to the cable by his hands and his legs, back down, and thus crept slowly along until he had reached a point about halfway between the buildings. Then he seemed to have exhausted his strength, for he moved no farther, but hung there, away above the ground, with sparks and smoke all around him, apparently about to loosen his hold and fall to the ground.

Meanwhile his companions were busy arranging a plan to rescue him. They cut the cable on the roof opposite to the fire and, tying a wire to the severed end, lowered it gently, the man gradually slipping down the cable until within about twenty-five feet of the street. There he released his hold, but as he fell the men in the street caught him in a net.

Strict, strong Stephen Stringer snared slickly six sickly silky snakes.

Oliver Oglethorp ogled an owl and an oyster. Did Oliver Oglethorp ogle an owl and an oyster? If Oliver Oglethorp ogled an owl and an oyster, where are the owl and the oyster Oliver Oglethorp ogled?

If you can get through with that exercise without tying your tongue into a quintuple bowknot you will deserve a greater prize than the London paper offered in this unique contest.

Polly Pigeontoes' Shoes.

Oh, dear! Whatever shall I do?
It seems a perfect sin.
The moment I forget my feet
My toes straightway turn in.

But when we're playing's worst of all.
Somebody always goes
And shouts out loud and spoils my fun,
"Oh, Polly Pigeontoes!"

This morning as I lay in bed
I heard the pigeons coo,
And this, I'm sure, is what they said,
"We walk like you—like you!"

Then quickly out of bed I slid
To flee their mocking din,
And, staring straight at me, there stood
My shoes with toes turned in.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

Izaak Walton is one of the most lovable and pleasing characters in all the history of English literature. He was far from being in the front rank of the world's literati, if by such a term is meant the possession of brilliancy of diction, burning satire, or the promulgation of ideas that startle the world by the cogent force of their reasoning. But he was a man of marked individuality. Possessed of homelike, peace-loving propensities, his happiness lay in the contemplation of nature in all her varied moods, and he was more at home in the seclusion of the country than in the busy bustle and uproar of the metropolis.

He was, undoubtedly, a splendid writer, as his Lives of Sir Henry Wotton, Hooker, George Herbert, and Dr. John Donne amply testify, for they are, in their small way, veritable masterpieces; whilst his Compleat Angler, the book that has caused him to be revered by succeeding generations of fishermen, and, indeed, by all lovers of what is gentle and refined in human nature, is without a peer in its special line, and doubtless will remain so, whilst the English language endures.

Charles Lamb said of the book: "It might sweeten a man's temper at any time to read the Compleat Angler."

Little is known of Walton's early life, save that he was born at Stafford in 1593. It is believed that he was apprenticed to a linen-draper in London, for we read of his possessing, soon after his coming of age, a shop of his own in the Royal Exchange.

It could not have been as imposing as the fine stores of our Peterborough merchants, for its dimensions were only 7½ feet long by 5 feet wide, as was the size of all the shops in the Exchange in those days. From this situation he moved in 1624 to a house on the north side of Fleet street, two doors west of the end of Chancery Lane." Subsequently he moved to still another site in the vicinity.

Domestic Afflictions.

Walton seems to have had his share of domestic troubles, for his first wife, Rachel Floud, who, on her mother's side, was descended from Archbishop Cranmer, whom he married at Canterbury in 1626, died in 1640, and he also had the tremendous and crushing sorrow of burying his seven children, who all died in childhood. Walton seems to have prospered in his chosen calling, and although he lived in a time of stress and party dissension, seems to have kept a clear head and avoided political entanglements. This was the more surprising as London City was overwhelmingly in favour of the parliamentarians, whilst Izaak was a consistent royalist and churchman. In 1643 he gave up shop-keeping and retired into the country.

In 1646 he married a second time, his bride being Anne Ken, the sister of Bishop Ken, of the diocese of Bath and Wells. She died in 1662, leaving a son, Izaak, and a daughter, Anne, to comfort her husband in his old age.

Walton lived to a green old age, dying in his ninety-first year, in that wonderful winter of 1683, when the Thames was covered with ice eleven inches thick, a winter which split forest trees, and killed even the hollies and in which nearly all the birds perished. At the time of his death he was on a visit to his daughter at Winchester, and in the cloisters of its noble cathedral his remains are interred.

The book that has rendered his name immortal was published in 1653, the year in which Oliver Cromwell was declared Protector and Walton lived to see it pass through no less than five editions.

Its quaintness, its abounding wisdom and piety, are known to all lovers of literature.

We are told that the advice which Walton gives for the treatment of live-bait, "using him as though you loved him," in order to make him live the longer, and his recommendation to use perch for pike, as it is "the longest-lived fish on a hook," argue that he was a cruelly-disposed man.

"Angling, too, that solitary vice,
Whatever Izaak Walton sings or says;
The quaint, old, cruel coxcomb, in his gullet
Should have a hook and a small trout to pull it."

We must remember, however, that 17th century mortals were not possessed of such tender susceptibilities as people of the present time.

Walton and Sir H. Wotton.

Walton numbered many well-known men amongst his friends, notably Sir Henry Wotton, the poet and prose writer, sometime Provost of Eton College, who, in his earlier days, had been appointed Ambassador to Venice, and to whom is ascribed the witty definition of an ambassador, as "an honest man sent to lie abroad for the good of his country." Ambassadors were not thought patterns of veracity in those days, and Wotton's advice to a gentleman about to proceed on an embassy was full of wisdom. "Ever speak the truth," he said, "for if, you do so, you shall never be believed, and 'twill put your adversaries (who still hunt counter) to a loss in all their disquisitions and undertakings." When he was Provost of Eton, Walton often used to visit him, and the two used to fish together off an island in the river.

Sir Henry Wotton died in 1639, and was buried in Eton College Chapel. The inscription on his tombstone deserves to be recorded at the present time, when men are raising such a prodigious hullabaloo over the correct interpretation of the Sacred Writings:

"Here lies the author of this sentence,
"The itch of disputation is the scab of the church."

The words are in Latin, but we give the English equivalent.

Many of his poems are unutterably coarse, but many more are replete, as Coleridge tells us: "With every excellence of thought, image, or desire in the poetry of the minor muse."

That he was a man of considerable worth is evidenced by his possessing the long friendship of such a man as Izaak Walton.

Cotton was a man of good family, descended on the mother's side from the Beresfords of Derbyshire, and on the banks of the River Dove, in that county, one of the finest trout streams in England, he became an adept in the art of angling.

Walton and Charles Cotton.

How the acquaintance between the two commenced can only be conjectured, but certain it is that Walton was, on many occasions an honoured guest at Beresford Hall, where Cotton had erected a fishing house, on a stone in front of which he had inscribed their incorporated initials with the motto:

Sacrum Piscatoribus.

Walton was master of his art in the slow-running, mud-coloured rivers of the South, but Cotton knew more about fly-fishing, so Walton, in preparing his fifth edition, asked his friend to write a second part containing "Instructions how to angle for a ...nt or Grayling in a Clear Stream." This was published in 1676, and ever since has been incorporated as one book with the first.

Like the Compleat Angler, it is written in the form of a dialogue, and shows clearly Cotton's character, that of a courteous, urbane, well-bred country squire.

The following extract will show Izaak Walton's style. The advice it contains is both wholesome and good.

Piscator's Thankfulness for Worldly Blessings.

"Well, scholar, having now taught you to paint your rod, and we having still a mile to Tottenham High Cross, I will, as we walk towards it in the cool shade of this sweet honeysuckle hedge, mention to you some of the thoughts and joys that have possessed my soul since we met together. And these thoughts shall be told you that you also may join with me in thankfulness to the giver of every good and perfect gift for our happiness. And that our present happiness may appear to be greater, and we the more thankful for it, I will beg you to consider with me how many do; even at this very time, lie under the torment of the stone, the gout, and toothache; and this we are free from. And every misery that I miss is a new mercy; and, therefore, let us be thankful. There have been, since we met, others that have met disasters of broken limbs; some have been blasted, others thunder-strucken; and we have been freed from these, and all those many other miseries that threaten human nature; let us therefore rejoice and be thankful.

Nay, let me tell you, there be many that have forty times our estates, that would give the greatest part of it to be healthful and cheerful like us, who, with the expense of a little money, have ate and drank, and laughed and angled, and sung, and slept securely; and rose next day and cast away care, and sung, and laughed, and angled again, which are blessings rich men cannot purchase with all their money. * * * *
What would a blind man give to see the pleasant rivers, and meadows, and flowers and fountains that we have met with since we met together? I have been told that if a man that was born blind could obtain to have his sight for but only one hour during his whole life, and should, at the first opening of his eyes, fix his sight upon the sun when it was in his full glory, either at the rising or setting of it, he would be so transported and amazed, and so admire the glory of it that he would not willingly turn his eyes from that first ravishing object to behold all the other various beauties this world could present to him. And this and many other like blessings we enjoy daily. And for most of them, because they be so common, most men forget to pay their praises; but let not us, because it is a sacrifice so pleasing to Him that made the sun and us, and still protects us, and gives us flowers, and showers, and stomachs, and meat, and content, and leisure to go a-fishing."

The Methods And Principles Of Landscape Gardening

The Most Desirable Trees for Planting on Lawns and in Parks---Practical Pointers on Planting---How to Control the Spruce Gall Louse.

NUMBER IV.

Ther are many species and varieties of trees and shrubs that may be used on the home grounds and in parks. Generally speaking, the best kinds are those that are native to the locality A few others may be introduced for novelty. The selection depends upon individual preferences and local conditions, chief of which is the size of the area to be planted. I shall mention a few of the most common and most desirable ones.

Among deciduous trees, the common sugar maple is one of the best and most popular for purposes of shade. It grows well, is long-lived and usually is not difficult to transplant. Its beauty and thriftiness make it a general favourite.

The Norway maple is one of the most useful trees that we have for lawn planting but it is rather low-headed for street-. It will thrive on all kinds of soils and stand all exposures. It forms a dense and round head, attains noble size and affords excellent shade.

The sycamore maple is not so symmetrical as the sugar and Norway maples but its fine foliage and the texture of its winged nutlets make it attractive. It is hardy, healthy, easily transplanted and will thrive well even in exposed locations.

The soft maple grows quickly and is attractive for a number of years but its branches are brittle and easily broken by ice and snow storms. A variety of this, known as Weir's Cut-leaved Maple, is graceful. It is remarkable for its drooping branches and finely divided foliage. It is one of the best for lawn planting.

For street and park planting, the red or scarlet maple is a valuable tree. Among other maples that are desirable for special purposes are the Tartarian maple, the large-leaved maple, the English field maple (Acer campestre) and the dwarf Japanese maple.

The ash-leaved maple, known also as Manitoba maple and box elder, is one of the best for new places where results are wanted as quickly as possible. It grows rapidly and thrives best in moist and rich soil. It will stand hardships, however, as is evidenced by its popularity in the Western Provinces where it withstands cold and dryness. As it is short-lived some of the more durable trees, such as sugar maple or elm, should be planted with it to come in and last long after the ash-leaved maple has served its purpose.

One of the finest of all lawn, park and street trees is the majestic American elm. It lives to great age and always is attractive in outline. Although it will adapt itself to different soils and conditions, it readily responds to good treatment and likes plenty of richness and moisture at its roots. Other elms that are useful are the English elm, the cork-barked and Siberian kinds.

The cut-leaf weeping birch is a superior subject for lawn planting but it should not be too promiscuously. It is highly ornamental and is useful in producing color contrasts when planted, for instance, in front of a group of evergreens. It may be used, also, to vary the sky line of any group of trees or shrubs. For best results, plant this birch in early spring, not late spring nor in fall. This species of birch is one of the most precious elements of the landscape.

The foregoing list of deciduous trees comprises only a few of the best known ones. There are scores of others that could be mentioned, among them the lindens, oaks and poplars. The horse chestnut and the mountain ash are undesirable. While showy at certain seasons, they are too symmetrical in outline to be beautiful. The former in particular, becomes a nuisance by dropping in great abundance its flowers, seeds and burrs. In spite of these objections, this tree has been used extensively for lawn, park and street planting. It can be employed also for bowers and places where seats are required as the top stands heading-in and makes dense shade.

Some Evergreens

In colour and in size, the evergreens are heavy. They have an important place in producing landscape effects and in planting for protection from winter winds. They can be planted for winter effect, with striking results.

The pines have beauty and picturesqueness of trunk and foliage. Their young fresh growth is charming. The Austrian and the Scotch pine make handsome specimens and our native white pine, when young, is their superior. A small pine for planting in special positions is the dwarf mugho pine, which possesses dark foliage.

Among the spruces, we have the native white one and the Norway spruce, both of which are excellent for effect and for windbreaks; the latter is the more vigorous species. For a beautiful but novel specimen, the Colorado blue spruce may be chosen.

Much beauty and variety in form are to be found in the orbar-vitaes, punipers and retinosporas. Among the best of these are the pyramidal and globose arbor-vitaes, the Irish juniper and the plumose retinospora. In this locality the two latter probably would require some protection for a few years.

The Spruce Gall-Louse

In many parts of the province, spruce trees are being injured by an insect called the spruce gall-louse which, as its name implies, forms galls on the twigs. It is to be found in the City of Peterborough, the writer having seen it a number of times last season. In some districts it is causing much trouble and anxiety. Good results in treating it have been obtained by spraying the infested trees at the time that the young pests are exposed. This should be done in June so that the treatment may be made before they are enclosed in the galls. The spraying should be done with a tobacco and soap wash or with kerosene emulsion. Towards the end of August when the winged forms of the insects come out in the galls, the spraying should be repeated. The point is to spray when the pests are seen to be moving about. They are so small that a magnifying glass will be required to see them. For a complete job the spraying should be repeated two or three times at short intervals, as the insects do not all come out at the same time.

Ordinary kerosene emulsion is made by the use of the following ingredients: Soft water, one gallon; hard soap, one half a pound; kerosene, two gallons. The soap should first be dis-

At 6 o'clock in the morning Zerkovitch left Slavna hidden under a sack in a carrier's cart. He obtained a horse at a high price from a farmer three miles along the road and thence set out for the castle at his best speed. At 6 Captain Mistitch, charged with Stafnitz's careful instructions, set out with his guard of honor along the same road—going to Dobrava to await the arrival of the king, who lay dead in the palace on the Krath!

But since they started at 6 and not 7, as the official communique led Zerkovitch to suppose, he had an hour less to spare than he thought. Moreover, they went not fifty strong, but a hundred.

These two changes—of the hour and the force—were made as soon as Stenovics and Stafnitz learned of Lepage's escape. A large force and a midnight march would have aroused suspicion in Slavna. The general did what he could safely do to meet the danger which the escape suggested—the danger that news of the king's death might be carried to Prasiok before Mistitch and his escort got there.

Chapter Twenty-six

After his happy holiday the prince slept well and rose in a cheerful mood, still joyful of heart. He anticipated that the day would bring him a summons from his father. He had little doubt that in the course of a personal interview he could persuade the king to agree to a postponement of his journey. Of Sophy he meant to say nothing—by a reservation necessary and not inexcusable. It was impossible not to take into account the knowledge he had acquired of the state of the king's health. The result of that condition was that his provision must in all likelihood be for months only and not for years. The task for the months was to avoid disturbing the king's mind so long as this course was consistent with the maintenance of his own favorable position. It must be remembered that no man in the kingdom built more on this latter object than the king himself. No man was less a partisan of Countess Ellenburg and of young Alexis than the husband of the one and the father of the other. The royal line—the line which boasted Bourbon blood—was for the king the only line of Stefanovitch.

Of the attack prepared against him the prince knew nothing—nothing even of the king's mind having been turned against the Baroness Dobrava, whom so short a time ago he had delighted to honor; nothing, of course, of Stafnitz's sedacious coup nor of the secret plan which Stenovics and the colonel had made and of which Mistitch was to be the instrument. Of all the salient features of the situation, then, he was ignorant, and his ignorance was shared by those about his person. On the other hand, Stenovics had his finger on every thread save one—the Lepage-Zerkovitch thread, if it may so be called. That was important, but its importance might be nullified if Mistitch made good speed.

On the whole, the odds were much in favor of the coterie. If by any means they could prevent the king from coming alive and free to Slavna the game would be theirs. If he did come alive and free, their game would probably be up. His presence would mean a hard fight or a surrender, and Slavna had no stomach for such a fight, though it would be piously thankful to be rid of Sergius, whether as prince or king, without the necessity of an ordeal so severe.

As a preliminary to the summons he anticipated, and to a possible stay of some days with his father at Slavna, the prince had details to discuss and routine business to transact with Lukovitch, the captain of his battery in Volseni. He was early on horseback. Sophy and Max von Hollbrandt (Max's stay at the castle was to end the next day) rode with him as far as the gates of the city. There they left him and turned down into the plain to enjoy a canter on the banks of Lake Tutti. The three were to meet again for the midday meal at Prasiok. Marie Zerkovitch had been ailing and kept her bed in the morning. The prince's mounted guard rode behind him and his friends to Volseni for the sake of exercising their horses. In the castle there were left only Marie Zerkovitch and the servants. The prince did not anticipate that any message would come from the palace before noon at the earliest.

Morning avocations pursued their usual peaceful and simple course at the castle. Old Vassip, his wife and the maids did their cleaning. Peter Vassip saw to his master's clothes, and then, to save his father labor, began to sluice the wooden causeway. The stablemen groomed their horses. They had been warned that the prince might want another mount later in the day. Marie Zerkovitch lay in her bed, sleeping soundly after a restless night. There seemed no hint of trouble in the air. It must be confessed that up to now it looked as though Prasiok would be caught napping.

It was Peter Vassip, busy on the causeway, who first saw Zerkovitch.

"I must see the prince," he cried, "and immediately!"

He rested and leaned on his mop to watch the head which rose over the hill, the body that followed, the farm horse lumbering along in a slow, clumsy, unwilling gallop. The man was using stick and spur. He was riding mercilessly. Peter ran down to the road and waited. A groom came across from the stables and joined him.

"He's got no call to treat the horse like that, whoever he is," the groom observed.

"Not unless he's on urgent business," said Peter, twirling the water from his mop.

Zerkovitch was up to them. He leaped from his horse. "I must see the prince," he cried, "and immediately!"

"The prince is at Volseni, sir. He rode over to see Captain Lukovitch."

"When will he be back?"

"We don't expect him till 12 o'clock."

Zerkovitch snatched out his watch.

"The baroness and Baron von Hollbrandt are out riding"—

"Can you give me a fresh horse? I must ride on and find the prince at Volseni."

"Oh, yes, sir!" He signed to the groom. "And hurry up!" he added.

"The guard's here of course?"

"No, sir; they've gone with the prince."

Zerkovitch twisted his head irritably and again looked at his watch. "There must be time," he said. "They can't be here at soonest for an hour and a half."

Peter Vassip did not understand him, but neither did he venture to ask questions.

"Your horse 'll be here in a minute, sir. I think you'll find the prince in his office over the city gate. He went to do business, not to drill, this morning."

Zerkovitch looked at him for a moment, wondering perhaps whether he would be wise to tell his news. But what was the use of telling Peter Vassip? Or his own wife? What could she do? It was for the prince to say who should be told. The one thing was to find the prince. There was time—at the very least an hour and a half.

"A glass of wine, sir?" Peter Vassip suggested. He had marked Zerkovitch's pale face and strained air. He had wondered to see his clothes sprinkled with whitey brown fibers, traces of the sack under whose cover he had slid out of Slavna.

Zerkovitch was in the saddle. "No," he answered, "but a bumper, Peter, when I've found the prince!" He set spurs to his horse and was off at a gallop for Volseni. The road, though high on the hills, was nearly level now.

Peter scratched his head as he looked after him for a moment. Then he returned to his mop.

He was just finishing his task some twenty minutes later, when he heard Sophy's laugh. She and Hollbrandt came from a lane which led up from the lake and joined the main road a hundred yards along toward Volseni. Peter ran and took their horses, and they mounted the causeway in leisurely, pleasant chat. Sophy was in her sheepskin uniform. Her cheeks were pale, but the star glowed. The world seemed good to her that morning.

"And that is roughly the story of my life," she said, with a laugh, as she reached the top of the causeway and leaned against the rude balustrade which ran up the side of it.

"A very interesting one, even very remarkable," he said, returning her laugh. "But much more remains to be written, I don't doubt, baroness."

"Something perhaps," said Sophy.

"A good deal, I imagine!"

She shot a mischievous glance at him. She knew that he was trying to lure from her an avowal of her secret. "Who can tell? It all seems like a dream sometimes, and dreams end in sudden awakenings, you know."

"If it's a dream, you make an excellent dream lady, baroness."

Peter Vassip put his mop and pail down by the stables and came up and stood beside them.

"Did the mare carry you well today, sir?" he asked Max.

"Admirably, Peter. We had a splendid ride—at least I thought so. I hope the baroness"—

Sophy threw out her arms as though to embrace the gracious world. "I thought it beautiful. I think everything beautiful today. I think you beautiful, Baron von Hollbrandt, and Peter is beautiful, and so is your mother, and so is your father, Peter. And I half believe that, just this morning—this one splendid morning—I'm beautiful myself. Yes, in spite of this horrible mark on my cheek!"

"I hear something," said Peter Vassip.

"Just this morning—this one splendid morning—I agree with you," laughed Max. "Not even the mark shall change my mind! Come, you love the mark—the red star—don't you?"

"Well, yes," said Sophy, with a little confidential nod and smile.

"I hear something," said Peter Vassip, with his hand to his ear.

Sophy turned to him, smiling. "What do you hear, Peter?"

He gave a sudden start of recollection. "Ah, has that anything to do with M. Zerkovitch?"

"M. Zerkovitch?" broke from them both.

"He's been here. He's ridden at a gallop on to Volseni to find the prince." He added briefly all there was to add, his hand at his ear all the time.

"Hum! That looks like news," said Max. "What can it be?"

"He didn't stop even to tell Marie! It must be urgent."

They looked at one another's faces. "Can there be—be anything wrong in Slavna?"

"You mean the troops?"

"I had thought of that."

"I can think of nothing but that. If it were anything from the palace it would come by a royal courier sooner than by any other hand."

"I can hear plainly now," said Peter Vassip. "Listen!"

They obeyed him, but their ears were not so well trained. A dull, indefinite sound was all they could distinguish.

"Horses—a number of them. Mounted men it must be, the hoofs are so regular. Cavalry!"

"It's the prince coming back from Volseni!" cried Sophy.

"No; it's from the other direction, and besides, there are too many for that."

Mounted men on the Slavna road, and too many to be the prince's guard! "What can it be?" asked Sophy in a low voice.

"I don't know. Zerkovitch's arrival must be connected with the same thing, I think."

"There! There are their shakoes coming over the rise of the hill!" cried Peter Vassip.

The next moment showed the company. They rode in fours, with sergeants on the flanks. The officer in command was behind. The three on the causeway could not see him yet. They were hussars of the king's guard, the best regiment in the army. The Prince of Slavna had made them good soldiers. They hated him for it. But Stafnitz was their colonel. On they came. In their blue tunics and silver braid they made a brave show in the sunshine.

The three watched now without word or motion. The sudden sight held them spellbound. Not one of them thought of sending to warn the prince. If they had the thought would have been useless unless it had chimed in with Mistitch's will. Twenty men could have been on them before there was time to saddle a horse. If the expedition was a hostile one the castle was caught napping in very truth!

Peter Vassip sprang forward and barred the way.

Sophy stood forward a pace in front of her companions. Her hand rested on the little revolver which monseigneur had given her.

On came the company. The foremost file reached within twenty yards of the causeway. There they halted. Half of them dismounted, each man as he did so intrusting his horse to his next fellow. Half of the fifty thus left mounted repeated this operation, leaving the remaining twenty-five in charge of all the horses. The seventy-five took position, four deep, on the road. They separated, lining either side

THE wonderful thing about the Edison Phonograph is its versatility. Although apparently only one instrument, it can sing a solo or a chorus. It can play a single instrument or a whole orchestra, and give each voice and each piece its proper value. That is why an Edison Phonograph has a wider field than any other form of entertainer. The piano player, for instance, only plays piano music. The Edison Phonograph plays piano music and all other kinds of music. In every home where there is an Edison Phonograph there is certain to be a good time.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS.

Walter Damrosch Says It Will Preserve Domestic Harmony.

Chopin's "Raindrop Prelude," weary housewife, will prove an excellent substitute for the nagging recital of the day's worries when your husband comes home o' nights.

And a little Mozart will be sure to bring a happy smile to his face if he has been complaining that the beefsteak is underdone.

And you might play Brahms to him just before you present the grocer's bill.

Walter Damrosch, leader of the New York Symphony orchestra, is responsible for the new theory that "high grade music in the family" will ward off danger of a dismal divorce decree. Mr. Damrosch has read, as has every one else, the census reports showing that one out of every twelve marriages ends in the divorce court. And as a remedy the orchestra leader proposes not a uniform marriage law, the elimination of the affinity problem or an allowance to limit a wife's possible extravagance, but simply music.

"The little love god would stay longer if he were nourished on some good music as well as on the price of bacon and eggs," says Mr. Damrosch.

He not only maintains that music has charms to soothe, but the rest of it. He adds that it furnishes a peaceful topic of conversation, leads the harried thoughts of husband and wife toward high ideals (as opposed to the aforementioned price of bacon and eggs) and keeps the fire of family affection burning brightly and warmly on the domestic hearthstone.

Continuing, Mr. Damrosch explains: "There is more domestic discord in the American home than in that of any other country on the globe, and I believe it is because there is not enough cultivation of the finer things of life. There is little family music or art of any kind, and there is small wonder that elements of discord enter when there is nothing more diverting than calculation on the cost of butter, eggs and bacon."

BORDERS ON CURTAINS.

The Foundation Color Is Usually of a Deep Tint.

There is a fashion in decoration that should be helpful to the woman who must fit short curtains to new windows.

New curtains are made in this fashion and sold at expensive prices at the shops that make a specialty of new things.

A skillful woman can accomplish the same result; but, mind you, stress is laid upon the adjective skillful. A woman who hasn't a clear idea of color and who hasn't the inborn knack of getting things right with scissors and needle should turn the work over to the woman who has this power. Many a seamstress has it whose work costs little.

Separate borders can be bought at the large shops with surprising ease by the woman who knows how to root out the artistic thing. They do not come for curtains, as a rule, but they serve admirably.

The foundation color is usually deep tinted, although some good patterns can be got with the foundation in natural crash tones. These are usually the best to work on. They go so well with almost any other cover.

They not only make an old curtain of use, but they give it new character and style.

These borders can be used as a plain or plaited valance. This fashion has widely returned in decorating rooms, and, although it keeps out light to a certain extent, it gives finish to the top of the window.

Often the effect without a valance is bare. This is especially so when the window jamb is deep and wide.

There is another fashion of using ten inch borders across the tops of windows and down the sides with pane curtains that are set deep in the window embrasure against the glass.

PEOPLE WHO REALLY KNOW WHAT PE-RU-NA IS.

MRS. ALICE J. BORDNER.

Mrs. Emma F. Mumford, No. 1 Olsen's Court, Salt Lake City, Utah, writes:

"Four months ago I became chilled through and through by getting my feet wet.

"The next morning I was stiff and sore with a severe cold which had settled all over my body. The blood seemed to rush to my head, causing dizziness and blinding headaches.

"As soon as Peruna was recommended to me I decided to give it a trial and am pleased to say that it cured me after I had used it only two months.

"I think you have a splendid medicine and gladly endorse it."

As soon as the people become acquainted with the virtues of Peruna, they find catarrh not to be so formidable a disease.

MRS EMMA F MUMFORD.

Mr. George W. Amory, 357 West 19th St., New York City, New York, writes:

"Somehow I have always had a prejudice against advertised medicine, but I want to make one decided exception in favor of Peruna.

"I caught a cold last winter and it settled in throat and head, developing a most persistent catarrh, which seemed to defy all medicines until I tried Peruna. Before I had used two bottles I considered myself cured."

MR. WICKLIFFE R.SMITH

Catarrh of Bronchial Tubes.

Mr. Wickliffe R. Smith, editor of The Pulaski Herald, formerly principal of the schools at Cameron, Idaho, writes:

"For some time I suffered with catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes.

"I tried many remedies, but could find nothing that would give me relief. Finally I tried Peruna. Three bottles cured me, sound and well. I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me."

MRS. I.D.HAYES.

Throat and Head.

Mrs. I. D. Hayes, 1937 Druid Hill, Baltimore, Md., writes:

"Peruna is one of the best remedies for grippe, cold in the head, sore throat, nervous headaches, and coughs that has ever been discovered. After the use of one bottle in my family I don't feel safe without Peruna in my house."

In a later letter Mrs. Hayes says: "I am never without a bottle of Peruna in the house. I find it good for most every complaint. I give the children Peruna if they have a cold and it always relieves them. I don't think I could be so unkind as to give my children anything to do them harm. If, after attending to one trial will be sufficient to disabuse his mind.

Peruna is a great and useful family medicine. It is used in multitudes of homes. It has become a standard remedy for various petty ailments in the home. It is especially useful for climatic diseases. It is an excellent remedy for colds. It is a well-tried remedy for catarrh in all forms.

We have a multitude of testimonials recommending it for colds, for bronchitis, for various affections of the respiratory and alimentary organs.

"Cures All Catarrhal Diseases."

Mr. I. W. Kightlinger, Cambridge, Neb., writes: "I don't have any more trouble in my throat, and have not had a headache for four weeks.

"Peruna is the very medicine for catarrh. There is no medicine like it in the United States, for I have tried a good many before using Peruna.

"I will keep it in my house to guard against catarrh, as it cures all catarrhal diseases."

Gained Thirty Pounds.

Mrs. Alice J. Bordner, 1311 Maple Ave., Harrisburg, Pa., writes:

"I have found a cure in Peruna. I cannot recommend Peruna enough, and I also thank you for your kind attention to me. I am as well as could be ever since I began taking Peruna, and will recommend it to others. I only weighed 95 pounds before taking Peruna; now I weigh 125."

It is so easy to criticize things about which the critic knows nothing.

Take, for instance, Peruna. There are plenty of people who are willing to say Peruna is this and that, who never have tasted Peruna, and have never known anything about its effects upon the human system.

There are people who say, and probably believe, that Peruna is used as a beverage by some people. It would be the easiest thing in the world to show the falsity of such a belief.

Let any one who does this go to the drug store and purchase a bottle of Peruna. If, after attending to one

Practically, Peruna cannot be so used. Any one who knows anything about Peruna by personal use knows that Peruna is a medicine. The very label on the bottle, giving the principal active ingredients, furnishes indisputable proof that Peruna is a medical compound. We will be willing to guarantee that no normal person can or will use Peruna as a beverage. If any one thinks this remedy can

THE TRIPLE TURN.

Few Acrobats Have Attempted This Dangerous Feat.

Of all the feats known to gymnasts the most dangerous is the "triple turn." This means that, starting with a run from a springboard, the acrobat makes three complete turns in the air. This turn has killed more first class tumblers than any other trick known to the profession.

The first man to try the triple turn was a performer in Van Amberg's circus. He struck on the back of his head and broke his neck. This was in 1842. Three years later a performer at Atley's, in London, tried it, but he was instantly killed. John Aymer, a famous acrobat, attempted the feat in 1859. He was killed. The famous Bob Stickney accomplished the feat once in a gymnasium in New York, but got such a scare that he never dared attempt it in the ring.

The only person living or dead who has ever done the feat more than once is John Worland, who has accomplished it six times.

Last year Dan O'Brien, one of the star leapers at the Hippodrome, in New York, found that he was "overthrowing" the double and determined to try the triple. He did the trick to perfection, making a clean light and keeping his feet. But O'Brien, while naturally elated at having accomplished a stunt that places him among a very few of the most daring and skillful performers in the world, is not anxious to try it a second time. "Never again!" says Little Dan, as he is known in acrobatic circles. "Of course," he added, "in our business you are always likely to break an arm or a leg, but in the triple somersault you are taking a big chance with your life. Never again for me! It's too dangerous."—W. R. C. Latson in New York Tribune.

The Doldrums.

"In the doldrums" is a phrase more often employed than understood. It refers to a belt of calms contiguous to the equator and situate between the course of the southeast and northeast trade winds. Long periods with scarcely a stir in the air and a torrid sky above, broken by sudden squalls and violent storms of short duration, make the doldrums a dreaded area of sailing ships.

Nothing Funny About It.

Scene—A druggist's shop in a small Scotch village, which, as usual with druggists' shops similarly situated, is the general emporium for all sorts of merchandise. Cycling tourist enters and purchases a cigar, after lighting which he attempts to draw the proprietor into conversation, but the latter seems reticent.

The tourist, after passing some remarks on the weather, asked, "Don't you feel trade dull at times in this little village, chemist?"

"Oh, well," replied the druggist, "I canna complain. But, excuse me, maister. I dinna alloo smokin' in my shop."

"Indeed!" said the tourist. "That is strange. You sell tobacco and cigars and still don't permit smoking in your shop. It is really rather funny."

"Ou, man," was the reply, "there's nuething funny aboot it. I sell arsenic, but I dinna alloo ye to commit suicide in my shop!"

Barbers and Surgeons.

John Le Barbour was the first master of the Honorable Company of Barbers six centuries ago. At one time the barbers and the surgeons preyed upon the public in loving brotherhood and settled their family quarrels under the roof of one hall. By an agreeable arrangement the community was to be "bled" on a system which forbade the surgeon to cut hair, shampoo or shave and required the barber to proceed no further in the art of healing than the extraction of teeth and "cupping." But as the surgeons grew in the social scale they sighed for relief from their lowlier brethren and built a hall and formed a guild of their own, magnanimously handing over the joint home in Monkwell street to the barbers.—London Standard.

Walking Under a Ladder.

A correspondent of the Boston Globe gives this explanation of the old superstition against walking under a ladder: "In former days, when hanging was done after a more primitive and simple fashion than it is today, the victim had generally to pass under the ladder which stood against the gallows for the convenience of the executioner, and he passed under that ladder with the fair certainty of being immediately hanged. What the unhappy criminal could not avoid the average pedestrian avoids today, even at the expense of his polished boots, by turning into the roadway."

Tea Made of White Hair.

"This is white hair you are drinking," said the Chinese undersecretary.

"White hair! Nonsense! It is delicious tea."

The undersecretary laughed in his lilac brocade sleeve. "No, white hair," he insisted. "White hair—that is, in my language, for pekoe means white hair. This tea is called pekoe because its leaves were gathered so young that the white downy hairs still grew on them."—Exchange.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

It is just as well to put out the light as soon as the baby is asleep. Any light is bad for the eyes when closed, especially the tender ones of a young baby.

Liquid green soap, which is the chemically pure potash soap used in surgery, is excellent for the complexion, but so strong is it that once a week is sufficient for its use.

The old fashioned remedy of applying a cold compress is one of the best that can be used for sore throat. To make it a bandage, such as a folded handkerchief, is wet in cold water and wrung, not very dry. It is then bound around the throat, and over it entirely to cover the wet cloth a flannel is securely pinned to keep it in place. No part of the bandage should be left exposed, or the air, striking the skin through it, will make the cold worse.

WOULD YOU CONVICT— ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE? The SOMNAMBULIST

A TRUE STORY

WOULD you, if you were on a jury, send a man to the electric chair on purely circumstantial evidence?

Always lawyers have taken opposing views, one side arguing that circumstantial evidence is the best possible, the other that no man ever should be deprived of life on any testimony that is not absolutely direct.

James W. Osborne, formerly Assistant District Attorney, says:—

"Circumstantial evidence, so called, is the best evidence that can be produced—when there is enough of it.

"No innocent man's life is in danger nowadays from circumstantial evidence. The only two men whom I ever saw convicted and who were afterward shown to be innocent owed their conviction not to circumstantial but to direct evidence, so called.

"A jury will not convict on circumstantial evidence unless guilt is a matter of mathematical certainty. A juror is just as suspicious of circumstantial evidence as any one else when it is being used by the prosecution.

"Circumstantial evidence has saved more lives than it ever lost. What innocent man would want to face trial without the right to use it? It is his weapon against bad direct evidence."

* * * * * * *

The following is an absolutely true account of the trial and conviction of a man accused of murder on circumstantial evidence. The account is taken from the annals of criminal jurisprudence.

BETWEEN the setting and the rising of a summer's sun the little agricultural village of Vielby, in Denmark, underwent a change—for overnight it developed a sensation. Nells Bruns, a farmhand employed by Sören Qvist the pastor, and a man whom everybody knew, whose forbears had been known by the forbears of every one within ten miles, had disappeared, leaving no trace. Throughout the day the clack of comment sounded beneath the warm colored roofs, and still the wonder grew. Gossip followed the matter through its successive phases of mystery, speculation, suspicion, suspense and discovery—for within two weeks the murder of Nells Bruns had been established.

In one of the most pretentious houses of the kindly rural community dwelt Ericsen, the District Magistrate of Vielby, an able official, possessed of a keen, analytical mind, a native knowledge of his own countrymen, a strong sense of duty and considerable intuitive insight into the ways of trespassers that had won him distinction in such minor cases as small thefts and breaches of the peace. As the appointed agent of the Crown in matters affecting the public peace the investigation, as well as the magisterial disposition of crimes up to actual trial, lay within his province.

Thus, the mysterious disappearance of Nells Bruns soon fell under the attention of Ericsen. He was the more interested in this unexplained gap in the membership of the parish by reason of his close friendship for Sören Qvist, the clergyman, who had been the last employer of the missing man.

Qvist Much Beloved.

Sören Qvist was generally beloved by his parishioners for his piety, learning, hospitality and upright living. He was a powerful man, of commanding presence, by a few thought too overbearing and prone to anger, but facile in holding the esteem of those who knew his qualities. He was still in the prime of manhood and successfully conducted a large farm, the products of which, added to his tithes, brought him to a prosperous way of life. His housekeeper was his daughter, a handsome girl of marriageable age, who efficiently ruled the parsonage and the lauds of her father, long a widower. Qvist bore a particular reputation for honesty, and one of his characteristics often had been made the subject for humorous remark among his neighbors. It was said of him that in the heat of dispute he could see no justice upon his opponent's side, but that when his passion cooled he could see no justice upon his own.

Ericsen hastened to the parsonage on gathering the first few fragments of the news. At the door he met Sören Qvist and was surprised to find him painfully agitated. The clergyman could tell him little of the matter, but, to the further surprise of the magistrate, straightway took a most serious view of the disappearance. Ericsen instinctively made light of the case while he talked. The man had been merrymaking, belike, and would return as soon as he was able to hold his legs. But the pastor waved the suggestion aside and said he feared a darker outcome. He had himself instituted an inquiry, he declared, but Nells had vanished of an afternoon, and no person in the place had been in his company or had seen him go.

"And who was last to see him?" asked Ericsen, in a voice unconsciously sharp as his incisive brain began to grapple with the problem. Qvist did not answer, and the magistrate, looking at him quickly, saw that his face had gone white.

"I think—that no one saw him after he parted from me," was the unready reply.

Setting the Trap.

Ericsen left the parsonage with troubled mind. He dared not admit to himself the suggestion that had flashed across him at the words of Sören Qvist. Affection, the lifelong habit of thought regarding the clergyman; Qvist's sacred calling, a dozen obstacles held back the train of inference. But he was undeniably shocked that his friend should be thus unmanned by a circumstance that could surely not touch him closely. But might it not touch him? was the steady, inward question of his other self—his crime detecting self.

Receptive to the suggestions of village talk, the Magistrate soon observed that the breath of rumor began to blow evilly about the name of Sören Qvist. He protested against certain hints dropped in his hearing to the effect that the pastor perhaps knew more of the mystery than he would like to tell. Ericsen resisted this insinuation through high regard for a man whose lifelong intimate he had been and whom he believed to be incapable of harm. But with the rousing of his latent detective sense and the persistent repetition of remarks bearing upon the clergyman he was forced to change his ground.

He was brought the sooner to a more open attitude by the earnest representations of Morten Bruns, a wealthy brother of the missing Nells. This Morten was a cattle farmer of Ingvorstrup, a village lying a few miles from Vielby, and was reputed a vain, unscrupulous man, who was used to having his own way in affairs. He had put his own construction upon the disappearance of his brother. At length Ericsen, driven back from the prejudice of friendship to his usual calm and judicial stand in all things, saw that in fairness he must follow the indications of the case, though confident that examination of the pastor's acts would only serve to turn the inquiry away in a likelier direction.

Saw the Pastor Digging.

Larsen, a cottager, furnished the first course of the foundation of the case. He said that on the night of the day following that upon which Nells had disappeared he was wending his way homeward from Tolstrup at a late hour. Passing along a footpath that led by the south side of the pastor's garden he heard a sound as of some one digging. This aroused his curiosity, and, visions of hidden gold occurring, he took off his wooden shoes and climbed the high hedge, parting the hazel bushes on the other side to allow him a view of the premises. It was clear moonlight. In the open space he plainly saw the figure of Sören Qvist, engaged in pounding and smoothing down the soil with a spade. A rustling in the bushes caused the pastor to look around to the place where Larsen was concealed, and the observer took himself off hastily. Asked how he knew this figure for the clergyman, he said that he could not fail to recognize him by the long green dressing gown and white nightcap he wore.

Accompanied by the witness and Morten Bruns Ericsen visited Sören Qvist and explained that as a matter of formality it was necessary to sift this deposition for possible truth. The Magistrate closely watched the face of his old friend in making the announcement, but could detect therein no trace of guilt. Qvist readily assented, helped the men to dig and ordered his servants to lend their aid while he discussed with Ericsen the futile search he had instituted privately at his own expense for Nells Bruns.

During the excavation Morten turned suddenly on the clergyman and accused him flatly of having murdered his brother, intimating that the proof would be found in this very garden. Qvist flushed hotly, but restrained his temper with an effort, made no answer and continued to assist the Magistrate with every courtesy.

After a pit had been dug to some depth it became evident that nothing had been interred in that part of the garden. The Magistrate commented upon this fact with no little relief, while Qvist remarked to Morten Bruns:—

"Slanderer, what have you gained for your pains?"

The Body Is Found.

But Morten was insistent, though crestfallen, and made Larsen point out another spot as perhaps the one where he had seen the pastor by moonlight. The soil was again thrown aside, and after some moments a shout from one of the workers brought the others about him. Morten, aquiver with excitement, threw himself into the trench and dug out a hat which he immediately pronounced the one that had been worn by Nells. In a few seconds an arm was uncovered and the body was then completely disinterred.

The face could not be recognized, having been disfigured apparently by repeated blows. But all the articles of clothing were identified by friends of Nells, and if further proof had been needed the shirt bore his name. In the left ear of the dead man was also a leaden ring that Nells had worn in life.

Ericsen had now no alternative but to arrest Qvist. The clergyman assented willingly, while asserting his innocence. He admitted that appearances were strongly against him, but declared he awaited the outcome with confidence that he would be shown free of guilt. He was taken to the village jail.

The genius of the natural investigator, Ericsen, had here its first opportunity for expansion. He entered the puzzling affair with a predisposition in favor of the accused, an honest desire to implicate him no further than indisputable fact made necessary, which effectively guarded against his hasty acceptance of damaging evidence. But having struck the scent he could not but follow whither it led him. Foul play had been done and it was for him to establish how and by whom. There was no hesitation. His keen intelligence sought out and laid bare the essential facts as he found them with the accuracy of the surgeon's scalpel.

To start with, he needed no neighbor to tell him that Sören Qvist, though a man of excellent parts and of admirable character, was haunted by an active and violent temper which he was at some pains to control even in trifles. Each parishioner could have related some incident that proved the irritability of their pastor when he was crossed or aroused by opposition. He was perpetually in a quarrel, and as frequently was he regretting some hasty word or action. There were few to hold this against him, however, for his sincere sorrow following an outbreak was known and understood.

Bitter Quarrels Recalled.

Ericsen easily established that Qvist had engaged in a series of altercations with Nells Bruns during the three months the farm hand had spent beneath his roof. Service was scarce and the laborer was worthy of his hire or they must have parted, so bitter had been their strife on several occasions. The Magistrate threshed out this phase until he found farmers who could swear to having seen Qvist cudgel his employe during one dispute.

Inquiry then led Ericsen to the Widow Karsten and her daughter Else, who had let fall dark hints concerning their concealment of strange happenings of which they had knowledge. He wormed from them that they had been passing the clergyman's garden on the very afternoon of the disappearance, when Nells Bruns had called to them through the hedge, and had thrust out a handful of nuts, which they accepted. They asked him what he was doing, and he replied that he had been set to dig the garden, but the task was not to his liking and he was shirking it. The conversation was interrupted by the slamming of a door and Nells remarked that Sören Qvist was coming.

"Listen," he said to the women, "and you will hear a wondrous preachment."

They waited, curious to hear their pastor in one of his rages, and overheard a stormy duel of words between the clergyman and his farm hand, who defended himself with bitter retorts against the charge of neglecting his work. Finally, they reluctantly admitted, they heard Qvist utter these words, in a voice half choked with anger:—

"I will beat thee, dog, until thou liest dead at my feet."

Then came a sound of blows, while Nells called the pastor a rogue, a hangman and various other ill terms. Qvist made no answer, but the women saw the blade of a spade rise and fall twice above the hedge, with a dull shock, as upon a body at its descent. After this there was silence, and they hurried on their way along the path, uneasy at what they had seen and heard. They were not able to swear as to whose hands held the spade, owing to the thickness and height of the hedge. They were unwilling aids to Ericsen, and it was only by dint of cautious questioning and clever manipulation of their fears and beliefs that he obtained this important statement.

The Web Strengthened.

The pastor was removed to Grenaee, a larger town near by, and a judicial examination was held at which Ericsen presented some of his findings. The indefatigable Magistrate, much as he personally regretted the web it was his duty to weave, had placed his case in a much stronger position and had three additional witnesses on hand to bear out the earlier testimony. These were two other farm hands and the dairy maid employed by Qvist. The men swore that they were near a window in the house on the day of the disappearance and had heard the quarrel described by the Widow Karsten and her daughter. They affirmed that the pastor had cried out:—

"I will slay thee, dog. Thou shalt lie dead at my feet."

They had not taken the trouble to look out of the window, they said, because they knew the master's ways. They deposed, furthermore, to having heard Qvist make a similar threat to Nells on two previous occasions. The dairy maid said that on the same night when Larsen was spying among the hazel bushes she had been awakened by the creak of a door and footsteps. Rising in alarm she had tiptoed to the threshold of her room and looked into the hall. A figure passed her. By the green dressing gown and white cap she recognized her employer, who continued on his way to the garden. She thought this midnight wandering a little strange, but returned to rest and heard the creaking of the door again an hour later.

When these facts were brought out there were few to doubt the guilt of the pastor, although the sympathy of many humble households went out to their hotheaded shepherd. Confronted by the weight of statement, Qvist was deeply perturbed, and volunteered his explanation of a part of the black showing against him.

Dark Stories Admitted.

He admitted the quarrel with Nells and the threat against his farmhand's life, which he said he had made in the heat of anger without serious meaning. He declared that when he struck Nells the man dropped the spade. Casting about for a stick in his wrath he caught up the spade and, Nells continuing his abuse, hit his employe twice with it, flat or edge he could not say. The man fell. Alarmed at this, for his temper had quickly cooled, he stooped to raise him, when Nells jumped to his feet and made off, leaving the garden by a rear gate. He stated positively that he had not seen any trace of the farmhand from that minute until the disinterring of the body. As to his mysterious midnight visit to the garden, described by Larsen and verified by the dairymaid, the prisoner had this to say:—

"It is either a foul lie or it is a hellish delusion."

In the interval before the trial Ericsen forged the strongest links in his perfect chain of circumstance. By infinite patience and caution, working carefully about the curtain of respect and affection with which the people of the parish were inclined to cover such incriminating facts as they had cognizance of, he pinned down two more witnesses whose testimony, used in the court attack, crumbled the pastor's negative defence like a bulwark of cards.

These were two men who had been in the vicinity of the parsonage on the moonlight night which supposedly marked the burying of the body. After much pressing they solemnly averred they had seen the clergyman, clothed in the green dressing gown and the nightcap, dragging a heavy sack from a patch of woods toward the garden of his house. They had not seen his face, for that was covered by a flap of sacking, but only too well, they said, they knew the clothes he wore.

Now came Ericsen's triumph, the cap stone of his structure. His imagination was caught by this constant reference to the green dressing gown, familiar to every one in the parish, and he found here the point to which his whole circumstantial creation should tend.

Gown Had Been Cleaned.

He found the famous gown, examined it with meticulous care, noted certain marks and stains upon it, and then instituted quiet inquiry among those who knew the garment best. He proved that on the morning after the alleged burial it had been found covered with mould and soiled with earth. It had afterward been cleaned, but not thoroughly. He also established that it was lying on the floor of the pastor's room that morning instead of hanging from its accustomed peg against the wall. When the magistrate had made all this secure for purposes of production in court he knew the satisfaction of work well and thoroughly done. His chain of circumstantial evidence was complete.

The case came to trial in due time. Sören Qvist made a good impression upon his presentation at the bar, and his plea of "Not guilty" was delivered with firmness and the ring of sincerity. He followed the testimony with puzzled attention, but with no change in his demeanor up to the introduction of the witnesses who swore to having seen him dragging the sack, and the others that brought out the significance of the soiled gown. As the import of this section of Ericsen's evidence came to him he uttered a terrible cry and collapsed. So pitiable was his condition that the trial was postponed and the prisoner was hurried back to his cell.

Having regained his senses he sent an urgent message for the man who had been his friend for so many years and who had now wound him close in the toils of a succession of incriminating incidents from which there could be no escape but to the scaffold.

And there, in the prison cell, overpowered by the weight of the evidence, Sören Qvist made full confession.

"From my childhood," he began, "I have ever been passionate, quarrelsome and proud, impatient of contradiction and ready for a word and a blow. Yet have I seldom allowed the sun to set upon my wrath and I have borne no ill will to any one. That I can say because knowledge thus far is my own. For my deeds of violence, conceived in an unchecked spirit, behold me now properly punished. I feel that my present trouble has been visited upon me as a judgment.

"I will now confess the crime which no doubt I committed. I have already told how I struck Nells and how he ran away. Three or four times in my life it has happened to me to walk in my sleep. The last time—about nine years ago—I was to preach a funeral sermon the next day. In searching for a text for my discourse I was impressed by the appalling truth of an ancient Greek saying, 'Call no man happy until he is in his grave.' I was encouraged to base my remarks upon this saying if I might find a Christian text of like import. I seemed to recall such a one, but it slipped beyond the edge of memory, and I had been unable to find it up to the time I retired for the night.

His Full Confession.

"On arising next morning I found on my table a paper bearing the extract for which I had vainly sought—'Let no man be deemed happy before his end cometh' (Syrach, xi., 34). Likewise I found a funeral sermon upon this theme, well writ in my unmistakable hand and of far finer thought and language than I thought myself capable of producing. Again, on an earlier occasion, I made my way to the church in my sleep and recovered thence a handkerchief which I had dropped unknown to myself. You will thus observe that I am surely a somnambulist, if only at rare intervals.

"You can guess the rest. While your strongest evidence was being introduced against me to-day I followed in amaze, seeing how true the whole thing must be. It convinced me completely of my guilt. It flashed across my perception that I had accomplished the latter end of that dark deed in my sleep. Nells must have fallen dead in the woods as a result of my blows after fleeing from me. I must have followed him there at night, finding his body by some strange, subconscious sight. Then must I have dragged his body to my yard and buried it while my voluntary brain was locked in slumber. Yes—the Lord have mercy!—so it was, so it must have been. And I, a father!"

Ericsen, overwhelmed with sorrow for his unfortunate friend, reported this extraordinary confession to the court, as his duty lay. No doubt now remaining as to the pastor's guilt and, his somnambulistic tale failing of effect, on the following morning Sören Qvist was condemned to death.

Reconciled to Death.

The sentiment of the village had been lurkingly with the pastor throughout, and when the confession was made known, indicating the lack of evil intent beyond a sudden blow struck in anger, a conspiracy was set on foot to foil the operation of the law. The jailer was bought over and a boat was made ready to sail with Qvist to Sweden. These preparations were brought to a stop, however, by the clergyman's refusal to permit the attempt. He was convinced that his crime and execution had been divinely ordered and he was resolved to bear the penalty with what fortitude he could summon. It is fairly certain that had any serious steps been taken as planned they would have been frustrated in any event. Ericsen, the inexorable servant of justice, the student of his fellow men, the exponent of circumstantial evidence, was too keen to permit the law to fail of its object. Friend or enemy, the pastor had been condemned and must die.

On the scaffold Sören Qvist was permitted to address his parishioners for the last time. He delivered a sermon of great power and pathos in which he used his own fate to impress his hearers with the danger of a quick and hasty temper. He implored them to put passion and fury from them, pointing to the consequences to which he had himself been submitted and saying that his crime was not only a stern visitation of divine justice upon himself but a striking lesson to others. He showed perfect possession up to the very moment of death.

Twenty-one years after the clergyman had been tried, convicted and executed for the murder of Nells Bruns an aged beggar was noticed one day along the highway which ran through the parish. It was remarked that he bore a strange resemblance to Morten Bruns, the wealthy cattle farmer, who had died within a year of so, and some who saw him ran in terror. The beggar was questioned and, all unconscious of the importance of his revelation, announced himself as Nells Bruns, whose body had supposedly been buried in the garden by Qvist.

When the facts were related to him he professed the utmost sorrow for the course of fateful events and placed the entire responsibility upon his brother Morten. The cattle farmer, he said, had applied to the pastor for the hand in marriage of his handsome daughter. Being rejected with some spirit, he nursed his bitterness and vowed revenge. He had caused the penniless Nells to take service with Qvist and had urged him to quarrel, expecting some violent outcome.

The Deadly Plot.

On the day when the clergyman struck Nells with the spade he hurried to Morten with an account of his wrongs and his brother concealed him until night, promising that they would even matters finely with Qvist. At a late hour the two then unearthed from the cross roads, where all such were buried, the body of a young man who had recently committed suicide. Morten then caused Nells to change clothes with the body and as a final touch took the leaden ring from him and thrust it in the left ear of the dead.

They bore the body to the woods near the parsonage, and Nells was left to guard it while Morten stole away toward the house. It is not the custom in rural Denmark to fasten doors, and the vengeful man found it an easy matter to enter, make his way to the clergyman's room and don the well known green dressing robe, which he topped with a nightcap.

On his return Nells asked what these strange comings and goings might portend. The question apparently struck Morten with an understanding of some latent honesty in his brother that irritated him. He produced a fat purse, and, giving a hundred dollars to the penniless Nells, told him, threateningly, to take himself off.

"Travel any way thou wilt," he sternly ordered, "but get beyond the parish at dawn and keep on. Never set foot again on Danish soil as thou valuest thy life."

Nells was properly impressed and obeyed. When he was gone Morten achieved his revenge upon the pastor by burying the body, returning the gown to the house and setting the conscientious Ericsen upon the trail. Hearing, after many years, of his brother's death, Nells ventured to return in the hope of profiting thereby. The detective Magistrate who had so ably collected his circumstantial evidence had been many years in his grave when the name of Sören Qvist was thus finally cleared of shame.

The Release of No. 201.

By DAVID H. TALMADGE.

The accommodation train, No. 201 of the schedule, on the branch road was stuck in the snow, and there seemed to be no relief for it. No provision had been made for such a contingency because the branch, sheltered by trees and bluffs, had been considered proof against such misfortune. The engineer, who had been on the run for twenty years, was too astonished for words when the small locomotive failed to cut the drift into which it had plunged so confidently, and he sat on his seat staring dumbly at the conductor, who swore shockingly and gesticulated with his arms.

In the coach were two passengers, both young men. One was the type of commercial salesman sent out by small jobbing houses, well dressed, self assertive, crudely philosophic; the other, by appearance plainly a farmer. He wore a baggy, shiny black suit, and his white collar was attached to a gingham shirt by a white bone button sewed with black thread. His appearance was enhanced by a carefully trimmed shock of hair and whiskers.

The commercial salesman had arisen when the train stopped and had walked to the door.

"I guess," he remarked after a minute, "that we're stalled."

He whistled a popular melody as he walked down the aisle and noted with some amusement that the other man was clutching the back of a seat, his eyes filled with consternation.

"Provoking, isn't it?" the drummer said as he lighted a cigar and drew a paper covered book from his grip.

"Y-yes—by—cat!" the other stammered. "Say, do you mean that we're stuck?"

"That's it exactly. Here's the conductor now."

The conductor slammed the door viciously and shook the snow from his cap. "We're up against it, gentlemen," he announced in disgust. "The confounded teakettle is dying like a sick pig out there in a drift no bigger 'n a washtub. We're two miles from Dilkport, and the snow's so thick you can't see your hand before your face. Lucky we've been to supper."

"Then we won't get out tonight?" asked the farmer anxiously, looking at his watch.

"That's the size of it. As we're up here on this pea vine the section men won't learn what's the matter with us till tomorrow. We've got plenty of coal. It might be worse."

"Yes," said the farmer, "I s'pose it might, but I don't see how it could be much worse for me."

He picked up an overshoe.

"You see," he explained, fastening the buckle, "I've got a particular engagement tonight up at Dilkport, and if the train ain't going I've got to hoof it."

He put on the other shoe and rose, reaching for the wolfskin coat which dangled from one end of the parcel holder. The conductor and the salesman contemplated him in astonishment.

"But, man, you can't do it possibly," said the conductor. "You'll fall through a bridge, or something, and then you'll freeze to death."

"I reckon 'tis a bit risky," admitted the farmer, "but I ain't at all sure it wouldn't be riskier not to. You see, my wife's at Dilkport, and she's sick. She may be dying. I've got to go to her."

An expression of sympathy came upon the conductor's face, and that of the salesman took on a sudden gravity.

"There are certain circumstances," the farmer continued in explanation, "which make it more important that I should see her than you might naturally think from the plain fact of her being sick. I haven't treated her just right, to tell the truth. I've been stupid and unreasonable. We were married only a year ago. I won her away from three or four other fellows. Any one of 'em would have made her a better husband than me. Funny how such things go, ain't it?"

"It's a blooming queer old world," said the conductor, nodding his head.

"And the queerest things in it are girls," added the salesman in the tone of an authority.

"We were married at Dilkport, where she was raised, and we went to my farm to live. We were happy as could be for maybe six months, and then I noticed that something was wrong with her. A sort of cloud come over her. It was nothing but homesickness, I s'pose, but I couldn't see it any other way than that she was sorry she'd married me. And one day I happened to find a sheet of paper—a part of a letter she'd been writing—that had dropped from her portfolio, and I read it. There weren't many words on the sheet. The first one was 'disappointed,' ending a sentence she'd begun on the sheet that went before. And then it said: 'It is not as I had pictured it. I wish to go home'— And right there it ended. I said nothing to her. I didn't think it was necessary to have a scene, as they call it. But I was hurt—hurt clean to the core—and in trying to cover up my feelings I s'pose I was unkind, maybe cruel. After two or three days of brooding I got into a regular bad state. I told her she'd better go home to her folks; that I'd decided we weren't made for each other. When she tried to put her arms about my neck, I wouldn't let her. When she asked for my reasons, I told her she knew well enough and turned my back. I was an unnatural, unreasonable brute."

"Correct," said the conductor frankly.

"Well, she went. For four months I've been baching it on the farm, growing crabbider every day, and this morning I happened to meet a young chap in the store at Pepperdock that knows my wife's folks. He lives at Dilkport when he isn't traveling around the country selling things.

"'I s'pose you've heard from your wife this morning?' he asked me. 'No,' said I, with a snap; 'I hain't.' 'Well, I've just come from home,' said he, 'and there was a report on the street when I left that she was liable to die. The kid's all right, though.'

"'Huh!' said I, startled to death. 'The kid'!' 'Yes,' said he, looking at me in a sort of peculiar way. 'Didn't you know there was a kid born yesterday? 'Why, yes, of course,' I said, shamed into the lie. I was that dazed I didn't know my name for a minute.

"'Your wife's a fine woman,' the young chap went on, me listening like one in a dream. 'I sent her a patent dish washer about six months ago on trial. It didn't suit her, but she didn't do as most women would have done. She wrote me a real nice letter, telling me that it had disappointed her; that it wasn't what she'd pictured it. She said she wished to go home to Dilkport for a visit in a short time and that when she come she'd bring it up with her, saving me the express charges. I tell you, a fellow in this agency business learns to appreciate little things like that."

"And then in a flash I saw it all. The letter I'd seen was the one she was writing about that dish washer. I bolted home without getting the things I'd come to town after. I hustled around and spruced up a little and got somebody to care for the stock, and—and I'm going to get to Dilkport tonight in spite of blazes. That's all there is to it!"

He left the coach, followed by the conductor and the salesman, who felt impelled by sympathy to see him off on his perilous trip. They climbed over the freight cars through the blinding storm toward the locomotive.

"Look out for the next car!" called the conductor. "It's loaded with oil barrels. Better let me go ahead with the lantern."

The farmer stopped. "All right," he said. "Is there any oil in the barrels?"

"They're full of it. Why?"

"I was just thinking that once I bought a barrel of oil, and on the way home the sled tipped over in a drift, and the bung came out of the barrel, and the oil run on to the snow. It was a pitch dark night, and I didn't have a lantern. I was in bad shape, but I gathered together a pile of straw that had been in the sled box and lit it with a match, and the first thing I knew that oil soaked drift was melting."

"By the holy green light!" exclaimed the conductor as the other's idea became clear to him. "Do you suppose we could do it?"

"I'd be willing to stand the expense of three barrels of oil toward trying it."

The conductor jumped into the cab and laid the plan before the engineer, who had stubbornly refused to leave the engine until compelled by the cold.

"It might work," said the engineer after a few minutes' deliberation. "Tain't like as if we were buried. We're just tangled up a little; that's all. If I could get a start I'd go through. Jim"—addressing the fireman with sudden energy—"coal up! Make her hum!"

The conductor called the two brakemen and the express messenger, and, with the assistance of the two passengers, three barrels of kerosene were rolled from the car and carried to the front end of the train. The heads of the barrels were broken in, and the oil was scattered upon the snow by pailful and shovelful. Then, when no more remained, the conductor lighted a great handful of greasy waste and threw it upon the drift. It sputtered a moment, flickered, all but went out. The farmer rolled one of the empty oil soaked barrels within reach of the burning waste.

"It's no g"—

There was a blinding glare, followed by a sizzling, hissing roar. The drift melted as if by magic. The flames licked the drive wheels of the locomotive and reached almost to the cab.

"Coal her! Coal her!" shouted the engineer to the fireman.

The conductor received a note the next day. It read: "Everything's all right. She's been getting better from the minute I got here. I wanted to go down to the station to see you, but I can't seem to tear myself away from her and the baby. Send me bill for the oil."

To which the conductor replied: "Glad to hear you're O. K. We all of us want to shake hands with you. The company pays for the oil."

A Long Drawn Out Dinner.

Sir Robert Hart, the veteran inspector general of the Chinese customs, speaking at a dinner in London recently, said that once in Pekin he sat out a banquet that lasted for seventeen consecutive hours. There were 125 courses, and he tasted them all. Mr. Ward, the American envoy to China, who tried to secure an interview with the Emperor Hieng Fung in 1859, tells how he was entertained at a dinner that lasted from noon one day until 6 o'clock in the evening of the day following. The total number of courses is not given, but Ward mentions that he had to give in after partaking of 138 different dishes, "whereupon his hosts wondered greatly."

What Travelers Leave.

"Of the thousand and eight things left at hotels from time to time," remarked the hotel clerk, "razor strops have the other commodities pushed across the border in point of numbers. About 10 per cent of the people who have razor strops in their grips leave them behind. Of course the reason is that the strop is hanging up on a nail out of sight somewhere when the man packs up, and he doesn't think about it. His comb and brush are right on the dresser before him, and that's easy.

"Next to razor strops, though not hustling the strops for position, come the nighties of both genders. A good many send back after them, but a lot more people who leave them behind just abandon them. After so long we give them to charitable institutions. Then there are toothbrushes, slippers, combs, curling irons, soap boxes, clothesbrushes and a list of other things left behind longer than an expense account every month. People are just that forgetful."—New York Press.

An Application.

"Spell ferment and give its definition," requested the schoolteacher.

"Now place it in a sentence, so that I may be sure you understand its meaning," said the teacher.

"In summer I would rather play out of doors than ferment in the schoolhouse," returned the pupil with such doleful frankness that the teacher found it hard to suppress a smile.

A Bird's Lightning Rod.

The humming bird in Australia no less than man protects its habitation with a lightning rod. The humming bird before a devastating thunderstorm bursts prudently covers the outside of its little nest with cobweb. Silk is a nonconductor of electricity, and since the cobweb is silk the humming bird's nest is thereby rendered lightning proof.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted.

Or again, you have, a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps, you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart not acting rightly, and they can only be set right by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action.

Mrs. E. Nutt, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I can gladly recommend your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again."

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

THE LADIES OBJECT to a gummy and sticky hair dressing or one that is full of sedimentary chemicals intended to dye the hair. The marked preference for a clean and dainty preparation, particularly one that overcomes excessive oil in scales and leaves the hair light and fluffy, is reflected in the enormous sale of Newbro's Herpicide. Discriminating ladies become enthusiastic over its refreshing quality and exquisite fragrance.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY must have pretty hair. The features may be quite plain or even homely, yet if the head is crowned with an abundance of beautiful hair, attractiveness will not be lacking. The Poet says: "Fair faces men's impulses enslave." Herpicide gives the hair a charming distinctiveness that is characteristic of no other hair dressing.

DISEASED HAIR A MISFORTUNE. Unsightly or diseased hair is a misfortune in more ways than one. There is the actual injury to the hair follicles and the consequent loss or thinning of the hair; this may cause diseases that sometimes follow a removal or thinning of nature's protection to the head. A diseased condition of the hair affects woman's disposition to a marked degree. If the hair is dull, brittle and lifeless, owing to the presence of a microbic growth, the effect is to dampen one's spirits and cause a loss of interest in personal appearance. The use of Newbro's Herpicide overcomes the ravages of the dandruff microbe, after which the natural beauty and abundance of the hair will return as nature intended. Almost marvellous results follow the use of Herpicide. Gentlemen will find Newbro's Herpicide in use at all important barber shops.

DOWN AT BACON RIDGE.

A Tobacco Chewing Marathon and the Excitement It Caused.

"No sport around here?" drawled the old storekeeper at Bacon Ridge reflectively. "Why, young man, yeou are away off. Yeou just should have been around here last Saturday night and seen our tobacco chawing Marathon."

"Yes, sirree! It was the liveliest sporting event in the state. Yeou see, old Squire Weatherby claimed that he could chaw more tobacco in an hour than any man in the village. Seth Wheatly took him up. Waal, as the crowd was standing around and betting on their favorites and Seth had chawed up six plugs a little piece slipped down his throat and made him sneeze. Waal, sir, there was a case of fine pepper at that end of the counter, and as Seth sneezed the pepper went up in a cloud, and then everybody sneezed. Some of it got in Old Man Hardapple's eyes, and he pulled off his coat and wanted to fight. Then somebody upset the stove and scared the cat. When it was all over Josh Weatherby found his watch had been stolen by a horse trader who had crept in to get warm. Sport? Waal, give me a tobacco chawing Marathon every time."—Chicago News.

Vanity of Riches.

"Now, Mr. Architect, see here," said Mr. Newrich, "these here plans calls for a smokin' room, and I don't never smoke. I see you've got a music room laid out, and I can't even whistle a tune. You got a pantry, and I can keep all the pants I got in the wardrobe. And there's a drawin' room. Why, man, I couldn't draw a straight line. What do I want of all this junk? You plan me a house I can live in. And leave out that nursery. Nursin' ain't in my line."—Cleveland Leader.

A Savings Bank account is the best safeguard against misfortune, being always ready and available, and earning interest all the time.

Consideration for one's family demands that all heads of households should provide against the day of adverse conditions, and there is no simpler way than by laying systematically from time to time a portion of income or earnings in a Savings account.

Deposits can be made from One Dollar up, and withdrawals can be made at any time, without notice or delay.

SEVEN YEARS AN INVALID

Then She Took "Fruit-a-tives" And is Now Well.

Arnprior, Ont., Nov. 27, 1908.

I was an invalid for seven years from fearful Womb Trouble. I had falling womb, with constant pain in the back and front of my body and all down my legs. There was a heavy discharge and this made me weak, sleepless, restless and miserable. Often I was obliged to be in bed for a month at a time. I was treated by several doctors, but their treatment did me no permanent good.

A few months ago, I was persuaded to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes, and from the outset of this treatment I was better, the Constipation was cured, and the discharge lessened. I took, for the paleness, several bottles of the Iron Mixture as recommended in the "Fruit-a-tives" book, but I feel that it was "Fruit-a-tives" alone that cured me.

(Mrs.) Eliza Levesque.

Take Mrs. Levesque's advice. Take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure yourself. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50; trial box 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Thunderstorms And Hail Are Promised During Next Month

Irl Hicks Says There Will be Sharp Contrasts During April—Month Will Close With Cold Spell—A Review of What is Claimed to be in Store for Mere Mortal Man.

INFLUENCES OF PLANETS.

Irl Hicks predicts a wide range in the weather bill of fare for April. Warm and cold weather, thunderstorms, rain, hail, will be mixed with the ordinary Spring conditions. His statement is as follows:

A Regular Storm Period is central on the 2nd, reaching from March 31st to April 5th. The Venus period is central on the 1st. Earth's period is still in force, and the Mars period is nearing its centre on the 12th. Full Moon on the equator falls on the 5th, and Saturn is in conjunction with Earth and Sun on the 3rd. This is an array of astronomic causes which forcibly suggests phenomena out of the ordinary. Storm and weather conditions will reach a serious crisis from the 1st to the 6th, culminating on and touching the 4th and 5th. If a tendency to tropical and tornadic storms exists the last half of March, there will be danger of a climax of such storms at this period. If boreal storms of snow and sleet have preceded, a crisis of such storms and weather will fall at this time. We think the latter will prevail. Centreing on the 5th, and extending three days before and after that date, is one of the most marked seismic periods of the year. Barometric indications and warnings should be noted everywhere at this time, especially in extreme southern sections. Excessive rains, with floods and tornadoes are indicated. Marked high barometer, unsettled weather and sharp cold and frost will follow storms.

Vicious Thunderstorms.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the 7th and 8th. This period is covered by the Mercury disturbance and will bring renewal of low barometer and storms of rain and possibly sleet and snow. With so many other causes bearing on this Mercury period, late in the season as it is, people in the northern sections should not be surprised by destructive sleet storms, and even blizzards, at either of the first three storm periods in April.

A Regular Storm Period embracing the central days of both the Mars and the Mercury periods, covers the 11th to the 16th, being central with the Moon's last quarter on the 14th. This is another period when the characteristics of the Mars influence will be present in a marked degree. Vicious thunderstorms, heavy rains with destructive hail in many localities, will result at this time. If boreal influences have not phenomenally dominated storm and weather thus far in the Mars period. If snow, sleet, and general cold have predominated, this period will bring unseasonably heavy snow, sleet and cold. If warm tropical conditions prevail at this time, many dangerous, tornadic storms will be natural and inevitable. Our "If" in this forecast need not confuse or perplex any intelligent reader, or observer; whatever happens will be of an extreme order, and the general character of what is coming will be indicated long beforehand.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the 18th, 19th and 20th, embracing Moon in perigee and on the celestial equator on the 18th and New Moon on the 19th. This period promises to be practically a prolongation of the preceding period, caused by the continued influences of Mercury, Earth, Venus and Mars. The disturbances of this period will be characterized mainly by the same kind of phenomena. On and touching the 18th and 19th, sudden high temperature, with very threatening barometer, and thunder, rain and hail are most probable. Tornadoes are not improbable in many sections central and southward. A period of five days, taking noon on the 19th as the centre, is a time of great seismic probability. A casual watch of the world's telegraphic reports will confirm the truth of this, and other similar forecasts. Frosts, and more cold, will follow this period.

A Cool Finish.

Regular storm period, central on the 25th, covering the 23rd to 28th, having Moon at greatest declination north on the 24th, and at first quarter on the 27th. Another marked fall of the barometer will set in to the west at the entrance of this period, followed closely by cloudiness, higher temperature and rain. Storm areas will grow wider and gain intensity as they reach central parts of their eastward march. From about the 25th to 28th storms will culminate from the Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic. High barometer, west winds and possible snow squalls to the northward need not be a surprise on the rear tangents of these storm seas. Much cooler weather with frost will be quite normal during the last four or five nights of the month. Whatever peculiar intensity the Mars period may fasten upon the general phenomena in March and April, it will subside, in a great measure, by the end of April, leaving, it is hoped, a more placid possibility for the month of May. If the first half of April is not characterized by frequent and intense storms of some kind, seismic disturbances will be more severe and general, thus relieving the astronomic strain.

"Its Only a Cold, A Trifling Cough."

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

"Mrs. J. Brewster, Grafton, N.S., writes:—"Two winters ago I suffered severely with a very bad cold and asthma. I was so bad I could not get my breath, and very often thought I would choke. My husband became very much frightened, and got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it gave me almost instant relief. I can recommend it to anyone having the least kind of a cold."

NEAR DEATH'S DOOR

Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia. If any of the readers of the Examiner are suffering from stomach trouble of any kind Mr. Madill will sell you a box of Mi-o-na for 50 cents with an absolute guarantee of relief or money money back.

Neil Murray, of Huron Road, Goderich, Ont., says; "I suffered with indigestion for over four years and had been given over as incurable by many doctors. I had become a nervous wreck through loss of sleep, and whatever I did eat did not remain on my stomach for over two hours. I would suffer with vomiting spells that would almost kill me, perspiration as large as beads would break out all over my body and leave me in so weakened a condition that I would be unable to stand, not a night's rest in over six months and was so weakened and run down that my family thought I would die. My heart was greatly weakened and would flutter and a sharp pain would come through me and cut off my breath. I was reduced in weight from 150 to less than 110 pounds. Doctors would give different causes for my trouble, yet none of them gave me the slightest relief. I commenced treatment with Mi-o-na and when one-half of the first box was used I could eat my meals without suffering the dreadful vomiting spells. I used about ten boxes in all, and I am entirely cured. My stomach is as strong as ever and there is not the slightest trouble with indigestion. I have gained about 40 pounds in weight, am strong and healthy and like a new man. I will always speak highly of Mi-o-na, as it cured and I believe kept me from sure death when all else had failed."

Golf In High Altitudes.

It is strange how many golfers there are who fail to appreciate the great effect the density of atmosphere has on the flight of a golf ball. On a still, misty day the ball flies about five yards to ten yards less than it does on a frosty day, when the air is keener and more rarefied, and it is always stated—whether truly or not is unknown—that in an east wind the ball flies farther than it does when the wind blows from the opposite and more acceptable quarter. The writer was fortunate, or unfortunate, enough to play many rounds a few years ago on the Johannesburg links in South Africa. These links are situated some 6,000 feet above sea level, and the air is wonderfully rarefied. The ball consequently flew the most surprising distance. As proof of this the winner of a driving competition sent a ball a carry of 228 yards, the second player returning the modest distance of 223 yards. Yet neither of these two players could approach the driving capabilities of good amateur golfers.—Country Life.

The Yorkshireman.

There is a characteristic glimpse of Yorkshire "downrightness" in the published reminiscences of an English clergyman:

At my institution to Upham a retired colonial bishop, about to take an English benefice, said: "Well, you and I have worked both in north and south. In what points do you consider that they differ?" "Oh, my lord," I answered, "I can soon tell you that. If a Yorkshireman thinks you a fool he comes and tells you so to your face. Down here they go and tell somebody else." "You have exactly hit it," said the bishop. "The difference could not be better described."

A groom being asked how long he lived in the south replied, "Twenty years." "What! Have you, a Yorkshireman, lived twenty years down here and not made your fortune?" "Eh," answered the man, "but measter were Yorkshire too."

Struck Him Differently.

One poet He got an idea while hurrying to shelter from a storm and stood lost in thought in a driving rain for twenty minutes."

"Is that what you call a true poet?"

"Yes. Wouldn't you?"

"No. I'd call him an idiot."—Kansas City Times.

A Canine Tonic.

"Why do you keep that miserable dog of yours?"

"For the benefit of my health."

"Your health?"

"Yes. You see, he is a mixture of bark and whine."—Baltimore American.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Every little frown helps to make a wrinkle deeper; every unpleasant look leaves its mark on the face. One of the best methods to avoid wrinkles is to cultivate a happy disposition.

A poultice of witch hazel is often very soothing to a muscular pain and is simply made. In a small saucepan put a square of witch hazel to thoroughly moisten it. Heat and place the flannel cloth over the pain. Cover it with a dry piece of flannel to keep the bandage in place.

The Turkish women have the loveliest of skins. The complexion of the Turkish woman is fine, soft, clear and free of blemish of any sort. She attributes it to the long wearing of the veil. The veil does much for any woman. A brown veil keeps her from getting wind burned, and a pink veil preserves even the most delicate skin from wind, sun and dust.

No dressing stand is complete without half a lemon put there fresh every day. A few drops of the juice much diluted make an agreeable mouth wash. Rubbed over the face, followed by an application of cold cream, it is a good bleach. For the nails it is excellent and is used by thrusting the finger tips into the pulp. They should be washed at once and then lightly rubbed with cold cream.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Hemming on lightweight wool goods should be done by hand and with a short needleful of split silk. This does away with the tight twisting of the fine single silk and in consequence makes a prettier hem. Another good plan is to use the ravelings of the material, as this is a perfect match and, having the same sheen as the material, does not show if a chance stitch goes through.

A striped suit shows the waist with stripes running the length of the coat. The skirt has stripes running around it, and the two inch bands are cut on the width of the striped material. The coat only has band trimming without buttons. Fancy silk braids with picot or scroll edges are shown in bewildering array as suitable trimming for the jumper waists. It is a pretty outline trimming, narrow and easily adjusted.

From printed cretonne may be contrived the most attractive of traveling sets. One of these is the chintz covered box which is to hold all the toilet articles. It is primarily a shoe box, with the sides of the cover cut away and one edge of it attached to the box by means of ribbon hinges. This is divided into cretonne covered cardboard compartments to accommodate the brushes, combs, soap and powder boxes, and the inside of the cover is thickly padded to hold pins.

Woman Less Vain Than Man.

Personal admiration, never turns a woman's head as it does a man's. She is not naturally vain, like a man, and compliments after a time become too much a matter of course to disturb her equanimity.

If she is pretty, she is already aware of the fact without being told it. If she is not, she has sufficient imagination to believe that she is.

"SHINY" FAT FOLKS

One of the fat woman's chief griefs in life is her shiny, greasy skin. If it be pimply besides, as it probably is (or may be), her cup of anguish is full. Powder and cosmetics simply hide these horrors for a season—a very short season. They are not a cure for them, except getting rid of the grease beneath. When she does that she finds her complexion improves.

In this way only can I account for the clear, natural complexion acquired by those who use the Marmola receipt: One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 4 3-44 ounces Peppermint Water. By causing the excess flesh to be absorbed, it clears the blood of the globules of fat, which, physicians say, cause the greasy, oily skin of the over-fat.

This simple receipt makes a mixture both pleasant and harmless. It causes neither wrinkles nor stomach disturbances. It is also quite inexpensive. Make it a point to try some; take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime for a week or two and see if your oily skin does not quickly disappear. As you lose your fat your complexion should progressively improve, and after a month or so, when you have lost 25 or 30 pounds of flesh, it should be nearly perfect.

Perfectly Equipped.

When the large and healthy looking individual who has asked at the door for "a little something to eat" was told that he might have it if he would work awhile at the wood pile he shook his head mournfully.

"I've got the ague," he explained, "and my hand is that unsteddy I couldn't hit more'n one stick in seven."

"All right!" exclaimed the mistress of the house. "Go out in the back yard and shake those ashes for me."

Experts at Colonizing.

The only two countries which draw some benefit from their colonies and understand how to manage them are England and Holland—two countries which have many national characteristics in common.—Amsterdam Handelsblad.

Not a Flattering Promise.

"I will not leave this house," he declared, "until you promise to be my wife."

"Will you leave immediately if I promise?"

"Yes."

"All right, then; I do. Anything to get rid of you even for a little while."—Minneapolis Journal.

A Dear Dish.

"Learning by experience in New York is expensive business," said an out of town man. "Last night a lesson cost me just $8.50 and was cheap at that. You see, I had a little dinner for a few friends in a private room at one of the best restaurants. Everything was just right, and I was mighty well pleased. One thing was especially pretty, and that was the dish of spun sugar in which the fruit was served. It had all sorts of little flowers and bowknots sticking out from it, and every one of the crowd broke off a piece to nibble on. When I went to pay the bill one item surprised me. 'Eight dollars and a half for a dish' was something I didn't understand. 'What's it for?' I asked, pointing to this item. And it was then and there explained to me that a dish of spun sugar was just as much the property of the establishment as one of cut glass or silver, and any damages must be paid for. It was all right enough, but it was new to me."—New York Sun.

Overplayed His Hand.

"Sir," began the bumptious applicant for a job, "I have been told that you are looking for a clerk."

"So I am," answered the man at the desk.

"I suppose you want a person who neither smokes, drinks nor swears and never engages in games of chance; one whose character is the best; one who is honest, industrious and thoroughly capable; one who will stop at nothing, consistent with his principles, to further the interests of his employer. In short, a brisk, intelligent all around man who knows business from A to Z and will never be caught napping? If so, I am the individual you are looking for."

"You will pardon my diffidence, I hope," said the man at the desk. "If you are half as competent as you claim to be I feel myself unworthy of becoming your boss. Good morning!"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Fooled Him.

"That," remarked Tommy interestedly, "is the grate my brother lost a shilling down."

The workman's eyes lit up.

"Well, young man," he said, with a show of carelessness, "you'd better get forward with that dinner before it's cold."

In about half an hour Tommy returned to find the man still at the same grate.

"Are you quite sure it was this grate the shilling was lost in?" said the workman.

"I am certain," replied Tommy, "because I saw my father get it out."—London Answers.

Wanted Papa to Enjoy It.

Francis, aged four and a half, had annoyed his father until that individual finally lost patience. He was trying to do some varnishing. Thinking to get rid of him for a few minutes, he said, "Hurry, son, to the window and watch the parade." The lad ran to the window and climbed upon a chair, while the father smiled at the success of his little ile.

The smile was still on his face when a tug at his coat and a "Hurry, papa, quick!" caused him to start toward the window. "What is the matter?" he asked.

"Come and see the elephant in the parade!"—Delineator.

Full of Mystery.

"In that case, my friend," he chuckled, "I think you will find it warmer inside than it is outside."

Without further ceremony he swallowed the hare.

The Origin of the Periwig.

The periwig, which played so important a part in the toilet of a man of fashion during part of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, owed its origin to Louis XIV. of France. When a little boy (he succeeded to the throne at five years of age) he possessed a profusion of remarkably beautiful waving hair which fell in clustering curls over his shoulders. The courtiers imitated the boy king by having heads of false hair to imitate his natural locks, and when Louis grew up he adopted the periwig himself.

During the reign of William and Mary periwigs were worn in exaggerated dimensions, and the beaux used to comb their wigs in public with special combs of ivory and tortoise shell, which became at last quite indispensable to these fine gentlemen.

A WONDERFUL MAGNET.

Startling Results Produced by a Cannon Wound With Wire.

A captain in the United States army at Willets Point several years ago made a wonderful experiment with an old sixteen foot gun. He conceived the idea of making it a magnet and to this end had it wound with about ten miles of copper wire and connected with an electrical battery. The result was astounding. The nature of the old gun had become wholly changed. Instead of being, as it had been, a powerful instrument of repulsion, it was now a powerful instrument of attraction. It soon became one of the sights to see cannon balls that no man could lift rise from the ground to the muzzle of the gun magnet, and it did not take long to find out that it had a lifting power of not less than twenty-two tons.

One of the most interesting experiments was to place a soldier about one foot from the muzzle of the gun and then turn on the electric current. Great iron spikes and big cannon balls would jump up from the ground and attach themselves to the man, clinging to every part of his body. Thus he appeared to be holding up without apparent muscular effort ten times as much iron as he could have lifted. As long as he remained within the influence of the great magnet the iron clung to him, but when he moved away it dropped from him as if he had suddenly released it.

THE GAME OF RUBBERS.

Only Boys and Girls Who Don't Mind Bumps Should Play It.

This is a game for children who don't mind getting a tumble, and if that frightens some children they can stop reading, and only the brave will find out how to play the "rubber game." This game, it is said, was invented in Germany, but it can be played in any part of the globe where there can be found two chairs, a cane, a broomstick and two pairs of rubbers—just plain, everyday overshoes that you wear in the rain. The two chairs, preferably with upholstered seats, are placed a little distance apart, facing each other, and the broomstick is laid from one to the other on the seats. Then the rubbers are hung on the backs of the chairs, one on each corner. Doesn't this sound remarkable? How do you suppose you are to play this game? Well, this is the way:

One child sits cross legged on the broomstick, keeping her balance with the cane, which she holds in her hand. Whenever she is steady enough she knocks off one of the rubbers with her cane, and if she succeeds in knocking them all off without falling off her broomstick she wins. But she probably won't.

Kindergarten Lunch.

Why, kindergarten is just fun.
It's out before it seems begun.
You see, there's always something new,
For teacher sort of plays with you.
It's first a story, then a song,
Which keeps the time from being long.

And then there's something else, you know,
For every day to school you go
You take a little lunch to eat—
Two sandwiches and a cake that's sweet.
It tastes so good and is so nice
That most times you could eat it twice.

How to Swallow a Lead Pencil.

Procure a piece of licorice ball about the size of a lead pencil, but only two inches long. Keep this concealed in your right hand, seat yourself in a chair and take a short lead pencil in the same hand and place it on the floor near your right foot. Call the attention of the company to the pencil and, taking it up, raise it to your mouth. However, as your hand passes your knees quickly conceal the pencil under the knee and hold it by slightly drawing the foot inward. As the hand reaches your mouth show the end of the piece of licorice for a moment, and the company will take it to be the pencil. Now put it in your mouth and eat it.

FUJI MOUNTAINS.

The Spell Cast by Japan's Matchless Cone of Pearl.

Other mountains may be painted with some fair degree of truth and justice—even the beautiful Jungfrau—but not so Fuji. Its loveliness is so delicate and its moods so ever changing and evanescent that, no matter how skilled the artist, the most he can ever hope to accomplish is only to give some faint idea of its charm of a moment. The spell cast by the softness, grace and symmetry of that matchless cone of pearl floating in the sky is far beyond his reach.

Every nature worshiper visiting Japan has fallen in adoration at the foot of Fuji, and foreign writers and poets have followed their Japanese brothers in vainly attempting to describe the feelings with which they have been inspired.

Who that has seen the snow clad crest gleaming so white and pure against the deep blue of the winter sky will not admit that the mountain is worthy of all the praise that has been bestowed upon it, and more.

It is not only the physical charms of the mountain that cast so powerful a spell, though they alone would make of Fuji an object of homage to every lover of the beautiful in any land on earth, but it is also the wondrous web of legend spun around the snowy peak that is as charming and full of delightful mystery and sentiment as the moods of its beauty are capricious and fitful—a delicious combination that marks Fuji as unique among all the mountains of the earth.

Fuji is a dormant volcano—an isolated cone, tapering from a circumference of about a hundred miles at its base to but a fortieth part of that distance at the summit. It cannot be accounted extinct, for at the eastern side of the mountain top the ash is very hot in places, testifying to the presence of fissures leading to the fires below, which may at any time burst forth again.

Tradition tells us that Fuji rose from the earth in a single night, while simultaneously a great depression appeared in the earth, 150 miles away to the southwest, which is now filled with the waters of Lake Biwa.

Geologists say that Fuji is but a young volcano, not yet having destroyed its beauty by bursting the crater rim—a fate that usually overtakes mountains of this nature sooner or later.

Female Jesters.

Nothing better illustrates the dullness of society in the middle ages than the custom used by all high placed and wealthy persons of keeping a professional jester, nor was it confined to Christendom, for we read that Cortes found an individual of this profession at the court of Montezuma. Our modern clowns, though very different from the licensed jesters of old, owe to them, of course, their origin. But so far as is known the female jester, who was in vogue before the male, has no present representative. We are told by Erasmus that in all the great inns on the continent there was in his time a female official of this description who enlivened the company as she waited at table by witticisms and repartee. It should be added, however, that she was generally young and pretty. So late as 1858 we read in Mrs. Hornby's "Travels" that she found a female jester at Constantinople who was exceedingly amusing.

NASAL CATARRH

Responsible for Much Deafness, Hoarseness, Bronchitis and Stomach Trouble.

Medicated Air Will Cure.

These are common diseases, but not less dangerous and difficult to cure on that account. In our climate the weather changes quickly. We are careless. Disease attacks us before we know it. A large majority of our people have nose, lung, or throat troubles, and find it hard to get cured.

It's remarkable with what tenacity both the medical profession and the laity adhere to the old theory that these diseases can be reached and combated by dosing. And this despite the fact that failure to cure in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred attends this mode of treatment.

STOMACH MEDICINE CAN'T CURE.

At best it is a roundabout way of trying to reach the disease which is in the air passages of the throat, nose, bronchial tubes and lungs. Leave the stomach alone—use a remedy that air will carry into the minutest air cells, into the tiniest cavities of the affected organs.

LIQUID REMEDIES DANGEROUS.

Doctors say only "Catarrhozone" can cure—you inhale it along with the air you breath—it goes where the living disease germs are gnawing into your system—it kills these germs—it heals, soothes, it CURES.

CATARRHOZONE GUARANTEED.

Wouldn't it be wise to use Catarrhozone now—to-day—and be cured permanently?

You can send the soothing vapor of the pine woods, the richest balsams and healing essences, right to the cause of your trouble by inhaling Catarrhozone.

Little drops of wonderful curative power are distributed through the whole breathing apparatus in two seconds.

Like a miracle, that's how Catarrhozone works in bronchitis, catarrh, colds, and irritable throat. You simply breath its oily, fragrant vapor and every trace of congestion and disease flees as before fire.

So safe, infants can use it; so sure to cure, doctors prescribe it, so beneficial in preventing winter ills, no person can afford to do without Catarrhozone. Used in thousands of cases without failure. Try it yourself! 25c, 50c, $1.00 sizes. Sold by all dealers or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

solved in the boiling water, after which the kerosene is added and the two churned for five or ten minutes. The mixture should be diluted with ten times its measure of warm water before using. There are two essential conditions of success in making this emulsion. The liquids should be warm, and the water as soft as possible.

Planting Trees and Shrubs

When buying trees and shrubs for planting on the lawn ask the nurseryman to supply specimens of good quality and of medium size for the variety. Very large trees should not be moved only in winter. When the trees are receivd from the nursery, plant them at once, or if that cannot be done, heel them in so that the roots will not be exposed to the air, and leave them there until it is convenient for planting. The practice is particularly necessary in the care of young evergreens. By heeling-in is meant the temporary covering of the roots of plants in order to preserve or protect them till in permanent quarters.

When planting dig the hole large enough to take in the roots without cramping. Have the hole as large, if not larger, at the bottom than at the top. Do not plant too deeply. Set at about the same depth as the trees stood in the nursery. This may be determined by the markings of the earth at the bottom of the trunk. Allow about two inches for setting. Work the fresh earth around the roots and under them. Shake the tree backwards and forwards to fill all the spaces, then tramp and pack the soil firmly layer by layer. Air spaces cause decay and eventually death. Plant in the evenings or on damp days. If the trees when set are exposed to strong winds or to injury by animals, it would be well to tie them to stakes and to protect them by means of tree guards.

The next article of this series will give a list of the most desirable ornamental shrubs with suggestions on the care, pruning and management.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by the Rev. Dr. Linscott, for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

March 28th, 1909.

Temperance Lesson. Proverbs xxiii: 29-35.

Golden Text — At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. Proverbs xxiii: 32.

Vearses 29-30. — Is strong drink as a beverage in so-called moderation, good for any body?

Do all who drink habitually receive injury as a result?

Should alcohol be used in any form as a medicine?

Is it safe or prudent for people in good health to take intoxicating drink as a beverage?

What classes in the community are suffering from the drinking habit directly and indirectly?

Why do athletes always abstain from drinking when they are in training for a contest?

What are the signs by which you can nearly always tell a drinking man?

Verses 31-32 — What evil is likely to result, if any, when a good man who does not drink, stands at the bar and "looks" on while his companions are drinking?

What can you say of a man who will not drink himself but treats others?

How would you characterize a temperance man who votes for a man or a party pledged to support the liquor traffic?

How many evils can you trace to strong drink?

Think of all the popular habits that tend to evil, and compare them with the evils of the drink habit; and say which habit is the greater curse to the nation?

What is the fascination which draws so many thousands of victims to the drink habit?

If the country towns and cities were overrun with "serpents" and "adders," which were biting and causing the death of thousands, what steps would likely be taken to eradicate the plague?

Seeing that all practically admit that the evils of the liquor traffic are more virulent than "serpents" and "adders" could be, how do you explain the apathy of the nation in getting rid of this monster evil? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 33 — Does licentiousness and impurity of thought generally accompany the appetite for strong drink as this verse seems to suggest?

Verses 33-34 — Does drinking always produce moral as well as physical anaesthesia, deadening the soul to the foulest crimes?

Men under the influence of alcohol are often grievously hurt, sometimes almost frozen to death, and are unconscious of the hurt at the time and when they get better keep on drinking. How do you account for it?

ENGLAND

An old couple in the Park district of Sheffield have a remarkable record. They are both well over 70, and have been in the same situation ever since they married, 50 years ago! Both are still working daily. The old gentleman has had one of the usual experiences of the poor. He paid into a sick and dividing club for nearly 50 years, and in all that period drew out only eight weeks' sick pay. Then, when he was 70, and the society would have been of some benefit to him, it had to be wound up!

The Haydon Foxhounds and also the North Tyne pack have lately shown a tendency to hunt farmers' collies. The first-named pack ran one for three miles the other day in the Allendale district, while the latter hounds put one up in the Healeyside Woods, and despite the huntsman's efforts to draw them off they pursued the collie at a rattling pace for some five miles. When the dog reached the friendly shelter of his master's home he was only a few yards ahead of his infuriated pursuers.

A maltster named Crisp was charged at Sparkhill, Birminghum, recently, with attempted suicide. His solicitor, Mr. Kempton, stated that the man was the innocent victim of a strange malady, "nocturnal epilepsy," under which people perform all sorts of actions automatically, and in this case caused Mr. Crisp to rise from his bed, go to a mirror, and, finding a razor, inflict an injury on his throat unknowingly. The Bench decided to hand the accused over to his friends.

It was alleged against Charles Leeson, who was charged at the South-Western Court, London, recently with assaulting his wife, that he had tried to dispose of his partner by sale. Mrs. Leeson, who is forty-three years her husband's junior, said that he had twice tried to sell her, once for £500 and on another occasion for £200.

While a rat-trap was being set on a Woodbridge (North London) wheelwright's premises by the light of a paraffin lamp, a rat darted out of a hole and upset the lamp. The burning oil ran over the floor. The premises were set on fire, and damage to the extent of £200 was done.

IRELAND

The Belfast stipendiary magistrate recently declined to commit himself on the point as to whether or not jail can be considered a place of abode, reserving his decision for a fortnight. The question arose on a summons issued against Henry McCorry for non-payment of rates. This was served at McCorry's previous residence, where his wife still lived, and for the defence it was argued that the service was bad, as the man's last-known place of abode was Belfast Jail. On the other hand, it is contended for the prosecution that the jail was a place not of abode but of correction, and that the service was therefore perfectly good

The inmates of a house in Belfast were awakened recently by a loud crash. On going to the bedroom of Mrs. Honoria Mullen, on the second floor, the window was found broken and the room untenanted. The woman was found in the yard in great agony and died before the arrival of a doctor. It is presumed that the woman, who had been a victim to somnambulism, walked through the window in her sleep.

A peculiar mistake occurred in Rathdown Co., Dublin, where a girl was registered in error as a boy. The child was the daughter of James Ellis, who gave the name to the registrar as James when he should have given it as Sarah. It was only when the child was brought to be vaccinated that the mistake was discovered, and legal proceedings followed at the suit of the Registrar-General, a small fine being imposed.

Advices received at the Belfast City Hall the other day from Dublin intimated that the Local Government board had received intimation from the Treasury that a further sum of £1,000 had been allocated to the Belfast Distress Committee in connection with the relief of the unemployed. This makes the fourth sum of £1,000 allocated to Belfast for this purpose during the present winter.

SCOTLAND

The trustees under the settlement of the late Mr. James Dick, Greenhead, Glasgow, have allocated a sum of £311,500 to Scottish charitable institutions, chiefly in Glasgow and the West of Scotland. Glasgow Royal Infirmary recives £80,000, and the Victoria and the Western Infirmaries £30,000 each. Other sums allocated range from £10,000 to £250. The total residue of the estate has been estimated at over £600,000, but, as the realization of the estate will be protracted, a considerable period will probably elapse before a further allocation is made.

A brutal murder took place recently at East Wemyss, Fifeshire. A boy, about 15 years of age, had been sent from the colliery office to the bank for money to pay the wages, and some time later his dead body was discovered with the head battered almost beyond recognition. His silk tie was twisted like a cord and tied round his neck and his cap was pressed into his mouth. There had been a terrible struggle. The bag of money contained upwards of £100 in notes and silver.

James Grieve, Scotland's senior applicant for an old age pension, is still hale and hearty. Grieve entered on his 109th year in January, and is in possession of all his faculties. He resides at Collessan Farm on the Ardgoil estate, and was able to follow his employment of a shepherd till he was over a hundred years of age.

Off the Hebridges the Moray Firth fleet of fishing steamers recently struck an immense shoal of herrings. A hundred vessels loaded up, and landed at Stornoway catches aggregating about 3,000,000 fish. One steamer had the phenomenal catch of a quarter of a million herrings, which yielded the crew £140 for a single night's work.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

PROHIBITION AND CITIES.

Instead of being ahead of the times the effort that is under way to carry local option in Peterborough might well have been made some years ago. In the United States, several whole states have carried prohibition laws. In these states there are numerous cities, that are many times larger than Peterborough, in which such a thing as the open bar is unknown.

We are told by those interested in the liquor trade, that we could not enforce local option in Peterborough were it carried. If we cannot, then we are not as good at enforcing our laws as are the people in the United States. Most of us would not like to confess that.

Kansas City, Kansas, has a population of over 100,000. It is over six times as large as Peterborough, and yet it has both abolished the bar and succeeded in enforcing its prohibitory law.

All the arguments that we hear used in Peterborough against local option were raised in Kansas City, when prohibition was first talked of there. As the results in Peterborough, when local option carries, are likely to be similar to what they have been in Kansas City, let us look at them to see what we may expect to happen here. These results are described as follows in the Chicago Record Herald, by Assistant Attorney-General Trickett, of Kansas:

Former Conditions.

"Kansas City is the second largest livestock and meat-packing centre west of Chicago. It has an extensive grain and flour trade, eighteen elevators, large smelting and refining works, the Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific and Rock Island railroad shops, etc. The population 1,00,000, is composed very largely of foreigners, accustomed to drinking wine and beer, and the slum element is said to have been larger (before the saloons were closed) than in any other place in the nation in proportion. Moreover, the liquor element controlled the elections and the officials.

"On June 8th, 1906, there were 256 saloons in Wyandotte county, Kansas, of which Kansas City is the seat; there were 200 gambling houses and more than 60 houses of evil repute. On July 3rd, all were closed. There have been none since. . . . .When the fight started, delegations of business men said that to close the saloons would stop growth, destroy business, deplete bank deposits, stop the erection of buildings, render houses vacant, increase taxation, reduce the price of real estate, cause people to go over to Kansas City, Missouri, to do their shopping and spend their money, and would ruin the town generally.

"The business men who had so many fears will now tell you they were mistaken. The abolition of liquor selling has been of decided benefit instead of injury to the business interests of the city. Bank deposits have increased more than two millions of dollars since the saloons were closed. More clerks have been hired to attend to mercantile business. A letter from the president of the largest bank in the city says that within one year after saloon closing his deposits increased $1,700,000. He testifies that a majority of business men are pleased with the results, with which a large majority of professional men and other intelligent citizens agree.

"The president of the Home City Bank writes that Mr. Atkinson, vice-president of a suburban bank in Armourdale, says that business has increased 36 per cent. A savings bank president writes that its customers are of the class that formerly spent all their money for liquor. A real estate man of seventeen years' standing, writes: 'There are more houses, and good houses, being built; more people are buying homes, and good homes, and seeking investments than in any year since I have lived here.'

From July 1st, 1906, to July 1st, 1907, there was an increase of 200.7 per cent. in building operations, the largest of any city in the Union. Three times as many labouring men bought homes in our town last year as never before.

"The Police Judge writes me that day after day goes by without a single arrest in this city of over 100,000 people; 50,000 people gathered at the carnival here, and there were only four arrests.

'There has been a wonderful reduction in the number sent to the poor farm. For the first time in 25 years the associated charities have not a burden greater than they can bear.

"Saloon rule brought 56 children to the Orphans' Home. To-day there are only 20.

Effect on the Schools.

"There months after the saloons closed, the schools reopened. Instead of the usual six or eight additional teachers, we had to employ 18. There was a list of 600 boys and girls of 12 to 18 years, who attended the public schools last year for the first time. They gave as a reason why they had not attended in former years that they had to assist a drinking father in earning a living for the family.

These same conditions have been practically duplicated in every city where the prohibition law has been enforced, in Topeka, Wichita, Junction City, Fort Scott, Coffeyville, Independence, and other places, and population in all of them is rapidly increasing."

With such evidence the foregoing, in regard to the effect of the abolition of liquor selling from cities (and similar evidence can be furnished in the case of many other cities), what use is there for people to try and convince the citizens of Peterborough that this city will not be benefitted greatly when we carry local option here next January?

Splendid Work in Catholic Quebec.

People who think that the local option movement is making rapid progress in Ontario are apt to be surprised when they find that, owing largely to the aggressive campaign against the saloon conducted by the Roman Catholic clergy, the province of Quebec is really ahead of the province of Ontario in temperance reform. In Ontario, as yet, less than half of our municipalities have abolished the bar. In Quebec there are 1,008 municipalities, of which 684 have no licenses for the sale of liquor. Mr. G. G. Huxtable, of 129 Colonial Ave., Montreal, who is well acquainted with temperance conditions in that province, writes as follows about them:

"The clearly-defined attitude of the Catholic Church is a tower of strength to the work of temperance. Let me give you two or three instances: "His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi, at the annual rally of the "Y," made this statement: 'I lay my hand on the heads of 20,000 children every year in the rite of confirmation. I never lay my hand on the head of one of them, who has not signed the pledge of total abstinence.' He emphasized in the most powerful manner the grand motto, "Save the Children.'"

Work of Franciscan Fathers.

"The Franciscan Fathers, an eloquent and powerful band of speakers, have been sent out on a crusade in the work of temperance. In their mission they have made 84,000 pledged abstainers, and they have closed some 90 bar-rooms. These gentlemen have done a mighty good work in the creation of temperance sentiment.

Anti-Alcoholic League.

"The Anti-Alcoholic League, which has been organized about a year, has been another powerful factor in temperance work in this province. They have closed 50 saloons in the City of Quebec, and in three counties they have swept every license out of existence.

"This splendid organization admits to its membership Protestants as well as Catholics, and women as well. It anticipates a membership of 50,000.

Roman Catholic Total Abstinence Sentiment.

"The 'Roman Catholic Total Abstinence Union' is still another temperance organization, which has been recently formed. Its constitution and methods are strictly identical with those of the Dominion Alliance. It has officially affiliated itself with the Alliance.

Crime in Ontario and Quebec.

"In the year 1906 Ontario had 7,459 criminals; Quebec had 4,802 criminals. Ontario had 3.36 per thousand; Quebec had 2.76 per thousand. Whence this important difference? We have in Quebec a larger area under prohibitory law. We have vastly more municipalities under local option as between temperance men and liquor men that is more in harmony with the rooted principles of truth and justice."

Does Local Option Prohibit?

Here and there we find a man endeavouring to convince people that there will be just as much liquor sold in Peterborough after the local option by-law carries as there is now. The same argument has been used for years under similar conditions in the United States, but without success. It is answered by Rev. Prof. Charles Scanlon, as follows:

"If more liquor is sold where there are no saloons than where there are, would brewers, distillers and wholesale dealers, who own about seventy-five per cent. of all saloons, pay license, rent, taxes, insurance, attorney's fees, and contribute large sums of money to influence the press, to publish and distribute literature, and in other ways to obtain licenses, all to lessen the amount of their sales?

Would the liquor men now be maintaining five national organizations in the United States, at heavy expense, to oppose all prohibitory measures, if such measures did not interfere with the traffic? Would they keep an expensive lobby at the national capital to urge the restoration of the canteen or army saloon if they were not financially interested?"

At the Crystal to-morrow afternoon at 4.15 o'clock the address will be given by ex-Mayor Yelland. Mr. Gordon Wright will sing.

THE EXAMINER CORDIALLY WELCOMES ITS BRETHREN OF THE PRESS TO-DAY

City Is To-day In The Hands Of The Canadian Press Association----A Representative Gathering Of Members Of The Fourth Estate Visits Peterboro's Manufactures.

THE DAY'S PROGRAMME

Peterborough is to-day in the hands of the members of the Canadian Press Association. About two hundred members of the big organization, which furthers the interests of the fourth estate, arrived in the city on a special C. P. R. train, shortly after ten o'clock this morning, and the citizens, realizing the strength and importance of the invading forces wisely capitulated without offering any resistance, and the thriving capital of Peterborough County was captured without the loss of a single man. In fact the city fathers were so anxious to surrender the freedom of the city to the visiting scribes that they met the special train conveying the newspapermen at Burketon Junction and accompanied them into Peterborough, giving them every assurance that the city was glad to welcome for the first time the members of the Canadian Press Association.

Representative Gathering.

It was a thoroughly representative gathering of journalists and publishers that made up the distinguished party, daily papers from many different parts of Canada being represented and the people of Peterborough may rest assured that, as usual, with newspapermen the world over, they had eyes and ears thoroughly open, and when they return to their different homes will be able to give their readers a favourable impression of the principal city of the Mudland district. As newspapermen are noted alike for their veracity and their powers of observation it is difficult to see how they can leave Peterborough without forming and giving a favourable opinion of the electric city.

The City Council, united with the Peterborough Publishers' Association, will do their utmost to make the visit of the scribes an enjoyable one and the citizens generally and the management of the different factories in particular most cordially co-operated in this pleasant duty.

Visited the Factories.

On their arrival this morning on a special train, which through the kindness of the C. P. R. officials, was made as comfortable as possible, the visitors were taken to Peterborough's largest industry, the Canadian General Electric Company's mammoth works. The train was stopped at the Park Street crossing of the C. P. R. and the party alighting there were taken at once to the plant of the Canadian General Electric Company where Mr. E. G. Patterson, the superintendent and his assistants were waiting to receive them and conduct them throughout the different departments of the wonderful plant.

An hour was probably spent in going through the works.

The party are being entertained at luncheon at 1.15 o'clock this afternoon.

REMEMBER THE DATE

Tuesday Evening, March 30th at the Collegiate Assembly Hall and attend the Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium Concert and Exhibition of Fancy Drills, Marches, etc.

St. James Methodist Church Now Entirely Completed, Will Be Dedicated To God To-morrow

Situated on Lot at the Corner of Romaine and Aylmer Street, Will Meet Demands of Methodist People of the South Ward—Services for To-morrow.

REV. H. M. MANNING, PASTOR

The formal opening and the dedication of St. James Methodist Church will be solemnized on Sunday morning at the initial Sunday service beginning at eleven o'clock. The pastor, Rev. H. M. Manning will be assisted by Rev. R. McCullough, of Omemee, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, who will conduct the dedicatory ceremonies, and Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Lindsay, will preach the sermon. It is expected that the bright new edifice will be taxed to its extreme capacity to accommodate the large assembly who will assist in the services. In the afternoon there will be an open meeting at three o'clock and the evening service will be commenced at seven o'clock.

The building is entirely completed and in its exterior and interior design is uniform, attractive and most appropriate. It is intended for a Sunday School and for that reason has been erected back in the lot on the southeast corner of Aylmer and Romaine streets. It will be used, however, for church purposes until the congregation grows to such number that a larger edifice will be required when the front of the lot will be built up. However, it is not thought that this will be necessary for several decades, but as has been stated it depends upon the development of the southern part of the city.

Young Man Fined For Disorderly Conduct, Will Be Given New Trial

The case of a young man who was fined in the police court about ten days ago for being disorderly and shoving a woman off the street on a Saturday night, is to be reopened, the accused claiming that he did not have a fair trial. It will be heard again by Magistrate Dumble on Monday morning.

The young man pleaded guilty and Chief Roszel made a statement to the effect that a young fellow shoved a woman off the street and was about to do it the second time when he was arrested by P. C. Adams. The defendant claims that such was not correct and asked to have another trial. Chief Roszel was desirous of treating the young man fairly and consented to another hearing. P. C. Adams will be called on Monday. The young man was fined $5.75.

SOME WRECK INCIDENTS.

Toronto, March 25.—It was a tired and hungry crowd of passengers that alighted from the Montreal train in the Union Station at 12.15 to-day.

But they were grateful, too—glad that the smash-up was no worse than it was.

"Give McKibbon all the praise you can," said Mr. W. H. Hedges, of 422 Givens street, Toronto.

"If it hadn't been for his nerve and cool courage we might not be living to tell the tale," said Mr. Hedges.

Stuck to His Post

"He stuck to his post like a hero, and put on the brakes so effectively that we stopped in a train length."

"We passengers thought it plucky enough to deserve reward and we soon raised a fund of about $100 for McKibbon."

"I venture to say that no man in the crowd ever gave a dollar with gladder heart than the chaps on that train did."

There were some twenty-five French-Canadians from Montreal on board the train — French-Canadian Masons who were paying a fraternal visit to a Toronto lodge.

Stories Of Injured

In that party was Dr. J. M. Aumont, a Montreal physician, who is also a Grand Trunk medical officer.

He, with Dr. Tilley, of Bowmanville, attended the injured fireman, who jumped, and was the only man injured.

"We put six stiches in Alvin Johnston's scalp, and two in his ear," said Dr. Aumont. "He jumped while the train was going at a good speed, and his head was badly bumped against the ties near the bridge."

Johnston, the fireman, lives at 70 Osborne street, East Toronto.

Dr. Aumont also pours out a song of praise to McKibbon. "He stayed right at his place and brought the train to a standstill as soon as it could possibly de done," he said. "If it hadn't been for his nerve no one could say what might have happened."

Train Smashed Like Toy

E. L. Giroux, a Montreal photographer, who was also in the party, was loud in his praises of McKibbon.

"As it was the train was smashed like a broken toy," he stated. "McKibbon is a man—a hero. The fireman jumped but he stayed on the job till he had the train almost stopped."

"Of course, the engine was struck on the fireman's side, so we can't blame the fireman for jumping. He'd been killed if he hadn't, I guess. But there's this much to say for him—he jumped out on his own side, and didn't interfere with the engineer."

Mr. Giroux says the passengers were only shaken up slightly.

"Our main kick is that we were starving. We had nothing to eat since we left Montreal last night. We're just about famished."

Felt Two Jolts

Mr. John Reeve, of 91 Prospect street, Sherbrooke, Que., was one of the passengers. He wore a real live smile at the lucky escape from injury. His version of the accident was something after this fashion.

We were running a pretty fast clip—about fifty miles an hour, I should say—when the brakes went on, and we hit something very hard, and after two pretty heavy jolts we came to a dead stand. I was in the coach nearest the engine and was trying to get a little snooze. I had my head rest-

WOMAN WHO KIDNAPPED BOY HAD A SAD HISTORY

Examiner Special.

Chicago, March 26.—That William McDermott, a retired member of the Chicago fire department, is the father of "Mrs. James H. Boyle," who, with her husband, is charged with the kidnapping of Willie Whitla, was confirmed by the grief-stricken father to-day.

Information from Cleveland indicating strongly that the prisoner arrested there was none other than the girl who before her marriage was Anna McDermott, was brought to William McDermott and his son of the same name, who is a bank clerk, last night. Although the information seemed conclusive, neither father nor son would admit definitely that the imprisoned woman was their daughter and sister. They admitted that the evidence seemed conclusive. There was little sleep in their home at 590 Cleveland avenue last night, the long hours being spent in hoping against hope that there had been some mistake in the identification.

Anna McDermott, as a girl, was, according to her father, one of the prettiest and brightest in the neighbourhood. She was given every possible advantage of education and careful moral training, but as she approached womanhood she fell into company of which the old fireman did not approve. Quarrels were frequent, and about three years ago Anna eloped. Since that time her history has been a blank to her Chicago kin. Even the name of the man with whom she cast her fortune was unknown to them. They carefully read from day to day the story of the kidnapping of Willie Whitla, of his return to his parents, and the arrest of the Boyles, but they never dreamed of connecting "Mrs. Boyle" with winsome, headstrong Anna, who had deserted her home to follow unknown paths.

It was stated that learning that a farmer was shipping a carload of settler's effects to Manitoba, had succeeded in hiding in the car between two mattresses and made his escape.

Mr. F. R. J. Mr Mitchell states that it commenced to snow shortly after midnight and all day Sunday the beautiful descended steadily in flakes of abnormal size so that when evening came the ground was covered with a downy-like mantle two feet in depth.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

In this issue will be found the article of Mr. Cutting, editor of the Canadian Horticulturist, on the general principles of Landscape Gardening, involving the treatment of lawns to secure the best results. This article deals with the selection of trees and shrubs and the best methods of grouping, placing, and the proper way to plant. Our citizens are urged to read and profit by these articles. A general and practical interest in their teachings will improve the beauty of the city out of recognition, in comparison with previous or prevailing conditions.

If every citizen spent but an hour a day in the season in tidying and improving his premises, the result would be an universal revolution in beauty of appearance.

STRATHCONA'S GIFT

Canada has a firm friend in Lord Strathcona. His gift of $10,000 a year to be devoted to physical and milltary training in the schools of Canada is equivalent to a capital donation of more than $300,000. There can hardly be two opinions as to the material and moral benefits from physical and military training of school boys. In a few years we shall have, under such a system, an unorganised, but potential, army of well-drilled soldiers, or rather material for an army, for home defence. In addition to being made ready for home defence in case of need, we shall have a nation of square-shouldered, well set-up young men, of splendid all-round physique. But the most important feature of this training will be the schooling in discipline something much needed in this age of irreverence and want of veneration or respect for superiors and elders and personified authority.

Physical and military training in the schools will not only make the boy a good man but a man of good manners.

OUR PRESS VISITORS.

To-morrow, two hundred, more or less, members of the Canadian Press Association of Canada will descend upon Peterborough and take possession of the city for a few hours. The Association has been holding its fifty-first annual meeting in Toronto. To vary the monotony of a three-days' sitting in that town they take a run down to-day to a real live city. The Examiner, on its own behalf on behalf of the press of Peterborough and on behalf of its thousands of readers, gives the "press gang" a cordial welcome to Peterborough. The city, in its corporate capacity throws wide its doors to its journalistic guests, and everybody unites in giving them a reception enthusiastic in its earnestness. The occasion of the first visit of the Press Association to Peterborough is of first importance, from both its personal significance, so to speak, and from the great interests it represents. The two hundred press men represent the newspaper guild of Canada, an agency which has wrought more, perhaps, than any other single secular agency, in the advancement of the world in all that constitutes true greatness, the development of free institutions, the growth of morality and intellectual culture, the material betterment of humanity, the development of national resources and all that tends to make men better citizens of a community possessed of the highest attributes and benefits of advanced civilization. Every newspaper represented here to-morrow, no matter how humble, is a centre of influence, a rallying point of local loyalty and ambition, an instrument of moral, intellectual, and social improvement, an auxiliary in religious, moral and reform activities, and an inexpressible benefactor to its environment and sphere of beneficent influence. A community has no better friend, no more loyal, faithful, self-sacrificing and eternally vigilant friend, to aid in all good local movements, than its local newspaper. The newspaper and the newspaper publishers have their faults, but, like the spots on the sun they bear a small proportion to the light they shed, and the beneficent influence they exercise.

THE WATERWORKS DAM BY-LAW

On Tuesday, March 30th, the qualified electors will have the opportunity and privilege of voting upon the by-law to authorize the provision of the sum of $120,000 to construct a new waterworks dam. This new dam is considered necessary to bring our waterworks up to the requirements of the city in both the matter of water supply and certainty and uninterrupted continuity of this supply, a vitally important matter in relation to fire protection and insurance rates.

This dam can be built at a site 500 feet further down the river, where it will be 100 feet shorter than a new dam built at the present site. The repair of the present dam would involve an expenditure of between $70,000 and $80,000, and we should still have an antiquated, leaking, and unreliable dam, and no facilities for an auxiliary service, outside the erection of a costly standpipe.

The construction of the new dam will provide for an increased pumping capacity of six million gallons, which, added to the present capacity of four and one-half million gallons, will make a total of ten and one-half million gallons in the twenty-four hours.

Another point in favour of building the new dam is that its construction will leave the old pump house available for the installation of an auxiliary steam plant, without any additional cost for building. This auxiliary plant is an urgent need. In case of accident to the main works, or of frasil or anchor ice, or dedeficiency of water for power purposes the auxiliary steam plant would, in case of fire, or other necessity, be able to maintain an adequate supply. The Insurance Underwriters demand increased pumping capacity and either an auxiliary plant or a stand pipe, the latter a very expensive substitute.

Another point in favour of building the new dam, in addition to the reasons suggested is that the cost of construction will not add a penny to the tax roll. The surplus income of the waterworks, amounting to nearly $10,000 a year, will be more than sufficient to meet interest and sinking fund, to retire the $120,000 debentures, which calls for only a yearly sum of $7,245 dollars. Thus the surplus from the operation of the waterworks will pay for the total cost of the $120,000 dam, and leave a yearly margin of about $2,000 to the good.

Let no ratepayer be deceived; the construction of a new waterworks dam proposed under the by-law to be voted upon on March 30th, will not add one cent to the tax rate, but will give us a thoroughly first-rate system of water works, which will provide for all our requirements, provide against interruption of supply, meet the demands of the insurance underwriters and prevent a threatened increase of insurance rates, in case increased pumping capacity and auxiliary and plant are not provided.

Remember, the water works by-law stands by itself. It is not connected, except incidentally, as is explained in another article on this page, with any other by-law.

Its passage is necessary to provide a first rate water works system.

It will not cost the ratepayers an additional cent of taxes.

It will be paid for from the surplus revenue of the water works. In oother words the dam will pay for itself.

It is not connected with, nor dependent upon any other by-law.

THE POWER BY-LAW

The by-law to authorize the raising the sum of $15,000 to provide foundations, wheel pits, fore bays and tail races, for the development of electric power for the city's use will be voted upon by the qualified ratepayers on March 30th.

In constructing the new dam for the water works the commissioners find that they will develop 1,200 horse power at low water. Of this amount 500 will be required for the operation of the works, leaving a balance of 700 horse-power, which is available for the city's use for doing its own street lighting or other purposes.

It is thought wise by the City Council to take advantage of the opportunity to put in the necessary foundation and other works ready for the installation of developing machinery.

This can be done very cheaply while the dam is in course of construction, but would be very costly after the compleaion of the dam on the same principle that it would be a very costly work to add a lower story to a building already finished.

Therefore the city submits the by-law to provide for this work which it is proposed to have done in connection with the construction of the Waterworks dam.

It is for the ratepayers to decide whether or not they will authorise the council to take advantage of the opportunity presented by the construction of the Waterworks dam.

By doing so power will be available to permit the city to do its own lighting, which now costs about $9,000 per year.

The present city lighting contract does not expire for four or five years. But if the city were in a position to do its own lighting, even if it did not decide to do so, it could prevent a 'hold up" in connection with the renewal of the contract.

Whether the city prepares to take advantage of the construction of the dam to develop power for its own use, the Waterworks dam will go on to completion.

In voting therefore on the two by-laws now before the people the electors will be voting on two distinct proposals, one for $120,000 for the Waterworks dam, and one for $15,000 for the purpose of laying the foundation of power development for the uses of the city.

There is no reasonable or possible ground for opposing the Waterworks dam by-law of the commissioners; but opposition has cropped up somewhat against the city's $15,000 power by-law. If the city at a comparatively low expense can get 700 horse power in connection with the building of the dam, it seems bad business not to take advantage of the chance.

It is to be noted that the opposition to the power by-law comes from two sources—one in which personal or corporate interest are sought to be served and the other in which the development of an outside power privilege which is said to be tied up for a long period and which, if available could not be brought into operation except at tremendous expense, and in the course of several years.

Arguments against a proposal manifestly in the public interest suggested and urged by personal advantage should be carefully considered and accepted with a liberal margin of discount.

The Water Commissioners in offering the city the chance to develop power to do its own lighting have no axe to grind, neither has the City Council in proposing to take advantage of the chance to secure power at bargain day prices.

Whatever interested and prejudiced persons may say of the cost the initial cost will only be the expenditure of $15,000. That will place us in an independent position and enable us to go forward and develop electricity at a far less cost than could otherwise be obtained.

Even if the installation of power machinery should cost $75,000 additional, the interest at four per cent on this sum—$3,000 a year—would be $6,000 less than the sum we are now paying for our civic lighting service.

There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood leads on to fortune.

YOU CAN RELIEVE YOUR MISERY FOREVER

If You Take Some Diapepsia it Cures You Forever of Stomach Trouble.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion and Stomach trouble is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Diapepsin.

If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs but a re-enforcement of digestive agents such as are naturally at work in the stomach?

People with weak stomachs should eat Diapepsin after meals, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or vomiting, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after eating one Triangule of Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

ENGINEER HERO OF YESTERDAY'S WRECK

ing on my arm on the end of the seat when she gave a couple of jolts, and then she came to a stand. I ran out of the car, and started for the front end. The steam was making a fierce noise, as the collision had knocked off the cylinder on the left side, and steam was rushing out of the engine's side in great quantity.

The Engine Stripped

"When I reached the engine I found her a total wreck. She was stripped of almost everything, and was lying on her side, facing the north. I found the engineer sitting on the front of the demolished engine, looking at the wreck.

"'Are you hurt, engineer?' I asked him, and he looked at me and said, 'Not a scratch,' and he was looking tickled to death too. The engine's tender was somewhere else. The caboose we struck was in the ditch, and completely wrecked.

"But I tell you that engineer did his duty all right. He stuck right to the engine till he could do no more than step off her just before she struck. How he escaped without a scratch of any kind is a mystery to me. The fireman was pulled out from under the wreckage, I guess he must have jumped too late, and got into the mix-up.

Hatful of Bills

"One of the gentlemen when he saw how we had been saved from injury by the engineer sticking to his post, passed his hat around, and, say, that hat was brim full of bills when it was given to the engineer with the compliments and thanks of the passengers.

"The baggage car and first-class coach are pretty badly smashed up, but the rest are practically not injured by the collision. A yard engine with a caboose was backing over the diamond and had not cleared out of the track when we struck the caboose."

CURE MEN AND WOMEN ALIKE

What Dodd's Kidney Pills Did For One Family.

Cured Chas. Bell of Rheumatism and His Wife of Inflammation of the Kidneys—Mrs. Bell's Statement.

North Range, Digby Co., N. S., March 26.—(Special)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the Kidney ills of men and women alike is shown in the cases of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell of this place. A short time ago Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mr. Bell of Rheumatism, from which he had suffered for ten years. This led Mrs. Bell to try them for Inflammation of the Kidneys and she makes the following statement:

"I was troubled with Inflammation of the Kidneys for twenty-four years. Some few years ago I got worse and was laid up for a long time. When I was able to be up again the doctor told me I must on no account do any work. I suffered from Dropsy and my feet would swell so I could not wear my shoes.

"My husband benefited so much from taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I decided to give them a trial and though I have taken only three boxes I am well and can wear my shoes and do nearly all my own housework. I cannot say too much for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills make weak Kidneys strong, and sick Kidneys well.

Why $15,000 Power By-law Should Be Supported By The Ratepayers Of The City

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—We wish, on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the by-law to authorize the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter for providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the water works property, asked the Council to submit a by-law to the electors for that purpose, which the Council has done. At the same time the Commisioners informed the Council that when the new dam is completed there will be 1,200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the water works department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the Council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $8,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of bulding the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when the work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to install the electrical machinery. The would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the by-law which is now submitted to the electors. But when the unwatering is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the by-law. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1,275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the water works department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 500 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another By-law could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once, and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work the City will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the Committee and the Council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the By-law authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the By-law.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed)
H. RUSH,
Mayor.
A. A. McINTYRE,
Chairman Power Committee.

WHAT CARDINAL NEWMAN GAVE TO THE CHURCH.

Was the movement which is known as Modernism in the Church of Rome inspired by Cardinal Newman?

This was the question which Rev. Dr. Symonds, of Christ Church Cathedral, considered in the third of his series of sermon-lectures on Newman, whom he presented in the aspect of a theologian, and discussed with masterly power in respect to the relation in which h d to modern thought.

The dis was doctrinal and expository, dealing with the fruits of Newman's life, and only in a subordinate degree on this occasion on the man's remarkable personality and influence upon those among whom he moved. The life picture had been already drawn. It was what Newman gave to the church that the speaker weighed and analyzed.

It was a most searching analysis, too, and the results were put before the congregation with extraordinary clearness—nuggets and gems following each other in such rapid succession that it required no small amount of mental agility to grasp them. It was all essence—volumes composed into a single discourse.

• • •

First there was a sketch of the High Church movement in England, as it grew out of the Oxford movement, which ended with the sucession of Newman to Rome. Pusey was then its most notable and central figure. Had he followed Newman and gone over to Rome there would probably have been no High Church party in the Anglican communion.

Another great personality was Canon Liddon, a greater preacher, a more brilliant orator even than Newman. The High Church under these leaders and Keble, won adherents in all parts of England and Scotland, but fewer in Ireland and here in Canada, where it never captivated the imagination of the people.

Its influence was not, however, to be measured by the 3,000 clergy and 30,000 lay members who formed the English Church Union.

Its effect was to be seen upon the church at large, for what was considered High Church in those days was not so regarded to-day. For instance, the surpliced choir which was brought into vogue by the High Church section would not be regarded as a badge of ritualism to-day, any more than the clergyman who preached a sermon enunciating the doctrine of the apostolic succession, would of necessity be classed as belonging to the High Church.

There was really no parish in the world that was not to some extent touched by the Oxford movement, which owed its birth to Newman. It was originally a movement against liberalism in church doctrine, but so far as it sought to crush liberalism out of Oxford it most signally failed.

• • •

Dr. Symonds next took up the movement known as Modernism in the Church of Rome, and discussed the evidence of its having drawn its inspiration from the writing of Newman whose theological views were not received with any degree of warmth by the authorities of the church. In fact, the genesis and substance of nearly everything that was condemned in the late Papal encyclical on modernism might be traced to Newman.

The last part of the lecture brought under review the salient points of Newman's doctrine of "Development," which regarded in the light of evolution transcended the work of Herbert Spencer and Charles Darwin. Before publishing it Newman submitted it to the authorities of the Roman Church for approval, but they returned it without giving it the approbation asked for, thinking that as the greater part of it had been written while Newman was still a member of the Church of England and not within the Roman communion, it had better be published on his own responsibility alone.

Thus the work never received the endorsement of the church authorities and it was still open to these authorities to condemn it at any time and many thought it would yet be put upon the index.

Citations were given from the writings of Abbe Loisy, Father Tyrill and other modernists of the Roman Church, who were synonymous with the broad church party in the Anglican communion, to show the similarity they bore to Newman's doctrinal conceptions, which simply meant that the church while retaining everything that was vital in her doctrines must bring her teaching into harmony with modern criticism and with the scientific discoveries of the age, that her theology must be adapted to the needs of the time.

• • •

Huxley had said that Newman was a heart sceptic, but Dr. Symonds did not believe this. On the contrary, never was faith more sure than his.

Newman was not a broad churchman any more than he was a conventional High Churchman or Roman Catholic. He was a catholic of all ages, not of any one century, and was greater, therefore, than the catholicism of the nineteenth century or twentieth century. He was always ready to make concessions, and as a rule the Church of Rome never made concessions. His attitude on one point was clearly shown after the declaration of the Pope's infallibility, when he made a statement in which he said he would give neither an absolute obedience to the Queen nor the Pope.

A MEDICINE FOR THE SPRING

Do Not Dose With Purgatives—A Tonic Is All You Need.

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That's the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Perhaps pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism and neuralgia. Any of them indicate that the blood is out of order; that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble. Don't dose yourself with purgatives, as many people foolishly do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. What you need in spring is a tonic that will make new blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the one medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to make new blood, which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite, and makes tired depressed men and women bright, active and strong. Miss Mary C. Ayer, Ward Brook, N. S., says:—"I cannot speak too highly in favour of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was weak and run down and quite unable to work. I often had headaches, and my appetite was poor. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a short time there was a marked improvement, and to-day I am in better health than I have been for years."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

'ROUND THE STORES.

The business outlook is brightening. Conditions are improving, and the new season's trade is satisfactory. The Examiner has sounded some of the most enterprising business men of the city and found them working enthusiastically in the atmosphere of optimism. The big store keepers are feeling the quickening pulsations of spring trade and looking for an expansion of business this year. Let the pessimist brush the cobwebs from his eyes—everyone is waking up and getting busy. The Examiner is exhaling the springtime confidences.

People often talk about the strength of habit—bad habits; but good habits are just as strong, and the strongest habit of all when once acquired is the saving habit. When one dollar will open an interest bearing account in the Royal Bank, it ought to encourage wage-earners especially to make a start.

Husbands, housekeepers, and humanitarians generally, who enjoy good crispy toast for breakfast, and who have acquired the happy habit of "kicking" if the toast isn't just so, will hail with heightened hilarity the handy electric table toaster put on the market by the Collier-Cunningham Co., Limited, Simcoe street, this city. Hot dry crispy toast is certainly appetizing and easy of digestion; but soggy, smoky, toast is the very reverse. You make your toast on the breakfast table as you want it, and without being roasted over a hot range. Ask your stove dealer about it.

What strikes one on a first view of the millinery already provided for spring and early summer wear is either the loveliness of the colour tones and combinations or the comical resemblances of the hat shapes to objects of domestic use. It would seem that the designers went to the kitchen for their inspiration, for they have turned out millinery models suggestive of nothing so much as bowls, pails, tureens, flower-pots, and other such objects of almost any shape that admits of their being poised upon the head.

Whatever the shape, the hat invariably is a head covering, fitting well down on the head, not, as in seasons gone by, an ornamental structure poised on the hair. Some of the inverted chopping-bowl and pail effects, as may be supposed, almost completely hide the coiffure except around the edges. In very many models the crowns are big and roomy, and the brims have a downward all-round droop, the general effect recalling the mushroom and cloche models. Distinguished examples of these charming models are on view in Richard Hall & Son's, Turnbull's, Fairs' Cresseman's and Miss Allan's.

Watches for women are more strongly in vogue than ever. They are set in umbrella handles, bracelets, purses, and, the tiniest of all, in a finger ring, worn over the glove. Don't overlook the fact that enterprising stores like Schneider's carry quite a stock of women's watches, and they are shown in various extremist fashions like the above. Schneider's pearl rings of moderate price are really good value, and every one guaranteed good quality.

As a natural result of selling biscuits, butter, eggs and cheese that are good, Messrs. White & Gillespie, the George Street grocers, are doing a splendid business. You can't get away from the fact that when a shopper is particularly pleased with some line of goods she has bought at a particular place, she goes back for more. The crispness of the cream biscuits; the richness of the butter; the flavour of the eggs, and snappiness of the cheese are good trade getters. "It's confidence that does it," so say W. & G.

"That reminds me" that if the reader needs to replenish his or her stock of toilet articles, Messrs. McDermid & Jury, have a Saturday leader with the price cut in two, viz.: A 25c tube of Hooper's tooth paste and a 15c tooth brush, the two articles for 20c—that's worth looking after to-night.

At this time of year housekeepers seem bubbling over with plans. There are plans for renovating houses, and the paint pot and the paper-hanger's ladder have arrived at many a door. Some lucky people are having hardwood floors laid. Women are standing in the shops with folds of drapery in their hands, their far-away eyes seeing how it would look with the wall hangings, the colours in the rugs, the tint of the couch near which it would go, and the gleam of the bronze, or brass, or silver, which would need to be beside it. The high-class new spring wall papers on exhibition at Stratton's Bookstore demonstrate that this is a day of progressive art. Make your homes beautiful and inviting with wall paper that is restful to the eye and pleasing to the senses.

Coleman Bros'. baking has become much in favour by the ladies. Their tea biscuits, rolls, scons, jelly rolls, sponge and pint cake, are especially sought after. The firm have superior facilities for manufacturing which enables their bakers to produce the dainty appetising products of their bakery. They also make a loaf of plain, brown and fancy bread that will be found sweet, and contains nutriment of choice brands of flour.

The kitchen is the housewife's pride. She demands that it be up-to-date. This means that it must be equipped with water and electric light appliances, so that kitchen drudgery is changed to pleasurable work. The F. J. R. MacPherson Co., George street, are contractors and dealers in the most up-to-date plumbing and electric light supplies and appliances and do work under sanitary rules.

SPRING NUMBER OF ROD AND GUN

A Very Attractive Edition of the Well Known Canadian Monthly.

The first sight of the fine cover of the excellent Spring, (April) Fishing Number of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., will stir the blood of the thousands of fishermen throughout the Dominion and start them on the congenial work of preparing for the coming fray. The long and varied nature of the contents of the number, in which fish and fishing topics predominate, will still further stimulate them, and the opening of the fishing season will probably see an increase in the anglers' ranks as one result of the interest aroused through the wide dissemination of these stories. Three articles stand out as of value to the country:—"Preserving the Nation's Fish," by Cyrus McMillan, an illustrated descriptive account of the work of the Prince Edward Island hatchery; "The Unsolved Mystery of the Salmon," by Bonnycastle Dale, who has spent two years on the Pacific Coast studying the ways of the salmon and, with the exception of one point, leaving the mystery still unsolved; and "Conservation of Non-Nest Building Fishes of the Great Lakes," by W. E. Meehan, Chief Fish Commissioner for Pennsylvania, in which a plea is put forward on behalf of a policy on which there will be great differences of opinion but which closely concerns the future of the Great Lakes fisheries. Then fishing trips in four separate provinces are told in a manner irresistibly reminding fishermen of incidents in their own experiences. "A New Brunswick Lost Lake Found," is particularly good, though each story has an interest all its own. A similar variety of fare will be found for those interested in other forms of sport, "A Lady's Moose Hunt in New Brunswick," by Miss Emach being a good specimen. On every page of an excellent number the sportsman will be able to find material which cannot fail to prove of the deepest possible interest to him.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY SERIES OF LECTURES WAS CONCLUDED

Mr. J. H. Burnham Lectured Last Night on Andrew Carnegie's "The Problems of To-day."

SERIES WAS SUCCESS.

The last of the series of lectures to be given before the Peterborough Historical Society was delivered last evening by Mr. J. H. Burnham on the "Problems of To-day." The meeting was held in the Collegiate Institute and was attended by a large number of the members and their friends. The chair was taken by the president, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, who in a few well chosen remarks introduced the speaker.

The Historical Society in this city has during the past winter done much to encourage the study of Canadian History, Science and Literature. Most interesting and instructive addresses have been delivered by prominent gentlemen and no doubt those who attended have profited by them. The opening one was on January 26th, on the subject of "Volcanoes," by Mr. G. A. Cornish, B.A., of the Normal School staff. Mr. Barlow Cumberland, of Port Hope, on February 11th read a paper on the "Attack Upon Fort York 1813," urging the society to petition the Legislature to have the Fort restored as an historic spot in Canada. "Beginnings in Medicine" was dealt very interestingly with by Dr. Malcolm McCulloch on February the 23rd.

Last evening, the concluding address was delivered by Mr. Burnham. He dealt with Andrew Carnegie's book on the "Problems of To-day."

Carnegie, he said, recognized the vast changes impending in the status and methods of the employer and employed. It was to a solution of this that he devoted himself his great discourse upon Socialism, Wealth, Labour, Land and Taxation. His suggestions in this, his latest book, were worthy of study and attention.

No man was more capable than one who had risen from the humblest and poorest of positions to that of a commanding man of capital who had retired to contemplate the world and if possible ease it of some of its burdens.

At the conclusion a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Burnham.

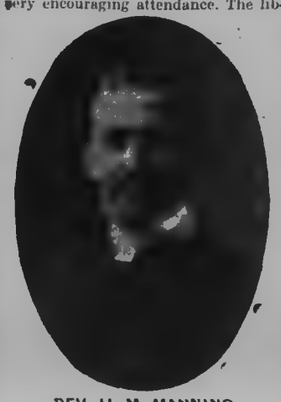
for a Sunday School and is also well laid out for church services. The main entrance facing Aylmer St. leads into a porch from which there is a stairs leading to the gallery, a door into the pastor's private room and the general entrance to the auditorium. There is also a side door facing the north. From its porch there is another stairway to the gallery and a door leading to the body of the church. The primary room is on the east side of building on the main floor and opposite is the Adult Bible Class room which will be used for mid-week prayer meetings. The first meeting in this room was held last Wednesday night with a very encouraging attendance. The library is on the gallery floor which otherwise is divded into class rooms.



REV. H. M. MANNING

Pastor of St. James Methodist Church Which Will Be Opened To-morrow Morning.

These face the platform, which has been erected on the north side of the ground floor. They are large and well-lighted and a person from any part of the gallery is not isolated from the service on the main floor, the design having provided for this splendid arrangement.

Will Seat 550.

The main part of the auditorium will seat 250 persons. The entire ground floor will accommodate 350 and the gallery provides accommodation for 200 more, thus seating a total of 550 persons. The seats are very comfortable and were supplied by the Valley City Seating Co., Dundas, Ont. They are provided with a little rack for hats under the seats, and books will be similarly provided for with a rack adjusted to the back of the seats.

The interior wood work is of Georgia Pine, with natural finish. The gallery railing is bronzed, in contrast with the woodwork. A feature is the stout buttresses, also of Georgia Pine, giving the interior an effect of strength.

One of the finest adornments is the large coloured gable window inscribed "In Honour of Rev. H. M. Manning." It was presented by Mr. Samuel Jeffrey, of Port Perry, a friend of Rev. Mr. Manning. From an exterior and an interior viewpoint all the windows of the church, while not elaborate are in keeping with the general plan and give the church a distinguishing appearance. The organ was purchased from the Omemee Methodist church.

The Basement.

The basement has been used during the winter for church services by which the pastor has gathered a congregation which has already had an encouraging growth. Two "Sunshine" furnaces heat the building and are giving good satisfaction. If the occasion should ever arise, extra Sunday School rooms can be provided in the basement. The kitchen apartment is also found here and any teas which may be held will be served in the basement.

Considered as a whole the church has been well equipped for the demands which are expected in the future.

Rev. Mr. Manning, the pastor, has been indefatigable in his efforts to receive this church for the south end and has been one of those most interested in its erection. He has already 100 members in the Sunday School, which is expected to flourish. His friends extend to him their best wishes for success in his pastorate as first minister of St. James church.

It has been learned that Mr. Roger Manning of Toronto, will assist in the singing on Sunday.

The contractors of the new church were Messrs. James Finnie and R. Gordon. Their work has been carried out with despatch and to the entire satisfaction of the building committee.

noon, at the Oriental Hotel, the Hotel National and the Snowden House, the party and local guests being divided into three sections. At each luncheon short informal addresses of welcome were given by the chairman, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., at the Oriental, Mayor Rush at the National and Ald. J. J. Turner, Jr., chairman of the Reception Committee of the City Council, at the Snowden House.

Afternoon's Programme.

The programme this afternoon will include a visit to the Quaker Oats Company's magnificent building, one of the finest on the continent, where the visiting journalists will be enabled to see the process of manufacturing "Quaker Oats," "Pettijohn's Breakfast Food" and the other cereal food products for which the firm is noted. Mr. W. H. Denham and his staff will be on hand to receive the visitors.

Afterwards the lift-lock will be inspected and the party will leave for home at 4 o'clock, boarding their train at the Junction of the Canal and the C. P. R.

CLAIM TO A PEERAGE.

James Somerville, a young Toronto carpenter, is coming to England to claim the Scottish barony of Somerville, as heir to his grand-uncle, Samuel Somerville, of Tasmania, telegraphs our Toronto correspondent.

"Mr. Somerville may possibly be entitled to call himself Baron Somerville," said an official of the College of Heralds', "but if he is a carpenter it is not reasonable to suppose that he will have the means to establish his right to the title by application to the Committee of Privileges. That is a very expensive matter.

Even if successful the claimant would succeed only to an empty title without estates. He might exercise the privilege of voting for a Representative Peer, if an election happened to occur during his visit to Scotland, and there the matter would end."

The Somerville barony is a Scottish creation of 1430, and became dormant when the nineteenth baron died in 1870.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"THE TRIUMPH OF TRUTH"

This play will be put on at the "Grand Opera House" next Monday night by local artists and a worthy performance may be expected. "The Triumph of Truth" is a fitting title for the play and the fact that it was translated and revised from a play written by Moliere, whose name is as dear to the artistic element of France as Shakespeare is to England, is a sure guarantee that it is of a high order and not cheap.

Mutilated versions of this play have been given but the production is from the original Frazer manuscript. It is clean and wholesome, has a high moral and there is no character in the

"The Littlest Girl," a one-act domestic problem play which is already well known to you will be put on as a curtain raiser by Mr. Charles Barber, Mr. Beers and Little Miss Garden. A story of this play was promised for this issue, but space will not permit. The principals forming the cast of the main play are Arthur Graham, Geo. Clark, Mr. Johnston, Ed. The subject will be "Poultry Raising," and it will be illustrated. It should prove very instructive to all those interested, as Professor Graham is one of the best known authorities in the Province.

Paper Wall Hangings

Artistic from the Floor Up

YOU may not know that you are indeed a true lover of Art—you unconsciously have a feeling that you are not satisfied with the hangings of your rooms and when you see an effect that is the something that appeals to your ideas of what is pleasing, you say "Now there is the style I have wanted for a long time, but it must be very expensive and difficult to make." Yes, perhaps you are right, but then again you may not be—there are many very elaborate effects attained by simply "knowing how." "THE COTTAR'S SATURDAY NIGHT"

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's Church were not mistaken in their confidence that the ability of Rev. E. A. Knowles, M. A., pastor of Knox Church, Galt, would be apppreciated by Peterborough people. His lecture on the "Cottar's Saturday Night," given under their auspices at the Conservatory of Music Hall last night was well attended, and had there not been so many counter attractions the few remaining seats would assuredly have been occupied and the accommodation overtaxed. As it was the assembly was of no mean proportions, and in point of appreciation for the lecturer's skill in portraying the beauties of Burns' poem of humble peasant life in Scotland, the reception accorded him was indeed a compliment.

Mr. Knowles stated that if you love a great poem it is because your nature is intertwined with a poetic strain. It may be concluded, therefore, that each individual who listened to his treatment of the Cottar's lowly but happy home at the close of the week's toil, possesses a poetic nature judging from the manner in which his every word was received. He helped to place the minds of the audience in the same position as the poet, who saw beneath that thatched roof a family wherein the grace of God abided and where there was peace and happiness which neither luxury nor palatial richness could augment.

Mr. Knowles lent to the poem a sympathy and tenderness, which Scotchmen say were two noble characteristics of their favourite bard. Burns brings us out to meet the peasant returning to his home in the growing twilight of a November Saturday night. He is met by his little children whose glad caresses dispel any cares that may have been furrowing his weary brow. Arrived at the threshold of his cottage he was met by his wife and is once more received into his own little happy realm. Afterwards the older children come home with their small earnings to add to the family purse.

In this manner the story is followed out. Mr. Knowles presents the conditions that exist in this family in a most appealing manner. Everything that goes to make a happy family is found in this humble home. The family hearth spreads its cheer and warmth drawing the members together in closer union. In this respect the speaker stated that the poor enjoy the essentials of life in the same measure as the rich. The pure air is theirs, likewise is health and vigour, the hearth fire burns just as brightly and as cheerily and happiness is the heritage of the one just as much as it is of the others.

Incidentally Mr. Knowles drew a beautiful picture in eloquent language of what happy home life really means. Burns' poem was not slighted under his interpretation, and he particularly emphasized the poet's genius in treating this sublime though humble subject with the power and naturalness that is displayed in its every line. Those who were fortunate in hearing Mr. Knowles assuredly went away with a better and more intimate knowledge of Burns, a deeper appreciation for his nature which assisted him in or inspired him to write this poem and lines which appeal to the humblest of us all as "the honest man is the sublimest work of God."

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt was chairman for the occasion, introducing the lecturer and the other artists on the programme.

The lecture was preceded by a short musical programme. Misses Foy and McKee were heard in a delightful piano duet. Mr. Kenneth Shook sang two solos in splendid voice. His rendering of Loch Lomond deserved the well-merited encore he was accorded. He sang in return "Annie Laurie." Mr. Shook's voice is clear and strong and he gives his selections fine expression.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham Deals With The City's Power Bylaw

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As citizens w must soon decide what we will do with this $15,000.00 power proposition. The only real information we have thus far is furnished by Mr. D. S. Harvie.

He certainly is in a position to know and as a practical expert in this line, his statements are well worth considering. His experience and familiarity with local conditions make his statements of more value than a mere mathematical calculation.

The power question is a very important one for Peterborough, we are practically at the limit of efficient service now and if the city takes up the question it must acquire something worth while, it will only be a waste of money to deal in remnants on this line.

This power question looks like a piece of superficial calculation. We do not question the motives of those in favour of it but it requires more intelligent thought along practical lines.

This $2.00 horse power is a "gold brick": it may appeal to the sudden enthusiasm of inexperience, but where will it end? What will the final cost be? What will machinery cost? What will transmission, distribution, maintenance, supervision, operation, street lamps, etc., cost? But the all important question is have we the power? Engineers' hand-books say yes, but every power plant on the river proves otherwise.

This is where Mr. Harvie's experience is more reliable and of greater value than any theoretical calculation.

The power committee state this plant may stand for two years before it is used, no need therfore to go it blind, we had better postpone it until any element of doubt concerning the flow, head, power, etc., is intelligently investigated.

There is no doubt the citizens would support a practical comprehensive power scheme such as Burleigh Falls if it can be secured, but Water Works and Auburn remnants would only prove an expensive farce.

We hope this unfortunate by-product will not interfere with the by-law for a new Water Works dam. We should support our Water Commissioners in this most important requirement.

Yours truly,
A. B. CUNNINGHAM.

THE BOMB INTENDED FOR KING VICTOR

Examiner Special.

Rome, March 26.—The accidental discovery yesterday of two bombs hidden in the Aurelian wall near the Porta San Lorenzo, is reported to have brought to light an anarchist plot to kill King Victor Emmanuel Wednesday on the occasion of the opening of Parliament. For some reason the plot miscarried.

In appearance the bombs are like the counterweights used in balancing heavy hanging lamps. They were loaded with dynamite. The police in investigating the affair found a handkerchief in which gunpowder and nails were tied near the spot at which the bombs had been found.

The presence of the bombs first became known when one of them exploded yesterday morning. It was at first reported that two boys who found them were injured while playing with them. Later it was learned two men were injured and that they have been held as suspicious characters. One of them is 19 years old. The ruins of the old Aurelian wall have been used as a shelter and hiding place by criminals. It is believed that the bombs were manufactured there and that one of them exploded while it was being handled.

Two uninjured men who were arrested insist, although they were present at the scene of the explosion, that they knew nothing about the bombs. Two who were injured are unconscious. The bomb that burst was loaded with a high explosive. It had a metal shell and was fitted with percussion caps and fuse. Artillery experts are of the opinion that either of the bombs, had it exploded in a crowd, would have played great havoc.

An Important Real Estate Deal Was Made Yesterday

One of the most important real estate deals which have been put throug in Peterborough this year was consummated yesterday by Messrs. A. Brown & Co., when they closed a deal whereby Mr. Thomas Hooper, one of Peterborough's most progressive business men became proprietor of the property and business owned and conducted by Mrs. Mann, of Mann's bakery. The Mann bakery has been known to local citizens for many years. It was started by Mr. Mann, Sr., on a very small scale, in fact he supplied his first customers by carrying the bread around in baskets. But the quality of the staff of life which he produced was such that his business rapidly increased and to-day Mann's bakery is one of the leading business concerns in the city.

It is not long since that Mrs. Mann, who has been conducting the business for some time, erected the large and modern premises now occupied by the firm at the corner of Dublin and George streets. These premises are without doubt the most modern bakery between Toronto and Montreal. The building was constructed especially for a bakery and the latest type of machinery which guarantees quality and speed was installed.

It is understood that Mr. Hooper will conduct his new business in connection with the present stores which are already known to everyone in the city, and it is also understood that he will take possession early in April.

The Mann bakery business was only placed in the hands of Messrs. A. Brown & Co., real estate dealers, for sale on Wednesday of this week and the sale was completed on Friday. The price is said to be between $15,000 and $20,000.

Finds Her Husband After A Chase Covering 6000 Miles

Examiner Special

Pittsburg, Pa., March 27 (Special).—Mrs. Robert Bell, of Montreal, accompanied by her 2-year old babe, yesterday completed a chase of 6,000 miles after her husband, who, she says, deserted her last August.

Through the assistance of the Pittsburg police, she found her missing spouse, effected a reconciliation, and last night the reunited couple remained together at the home of Bell's brother at Lincoln Place in this city.

Last August, Bell, who is a marine engineer, and who was then living in Montreal, sent his wife to England.

From the moment he placed her on board the boat, according to the woman's story, he forgot her until yesterday. She arrived in England where her second child was born and died almost immediately afterwards. Then Mrs. Bell endeavoured to get into communication with her husband. She was unsuccessful, and started the long chase which has just ended.

Taking the boat at Liverpool, Mrs. Bell disembarked at Halifax. She then started a long hunt through the lake towns, exploring on her search Montreal, Peterborough, Toronto, London, St. Thomas and Hamilton. At Hamilton she learned that her husband had a brother in this city. Obtaining a letter from the Chief of Police of Hamilton, she came to Pittsburg where Detectives Wills and Crane hunted up the brother and located Bell. The reconciliation followed.

Mrs. Bell had $2 left when she arrived in this city.

SPLENDID WORK OF PETERBORO BOY IN TORONTO

The cover design of the Canadian Courier last Saturday was a very pretty and attractive one. It was from the pencil of Mr. Harold W. McCrea, of Toronto, and son of Mr. George R. McCrea, Water St. The design was that of a girl's head, and shoulders. It is drawn in red and white and makes a very handsome cover.

Mr. McCrea is to be congratulated on the progress he is making in the line of art and the wide notoriety his work is receiving.

The purity, flavour and strength of "Salada" Tea make it incomparably the best value on the market. It is infinitely more delicious and decidedly more economical than other teas. 129

PART OF FINGER WAS SEVERED CHOPPING WOOD

Mrs. S. Eccles, Concession St., East City, while chopping some kindling wood yesterday evening, met with a painful but not serious accident. She was holding the stick of wood in one hand and splitting with a hatchet with the other. In chopping the hatchet missed the wood and came down on her first finger, severing about an inch of it. A physician was called and dressed the injury.

One Of "The Twins" Passed Away This Morning, Was Given Every Care

One of "the twins" for whose benefit the public gave liberally under the auspices of the King's Daughters of St. John's Church, passed away this morning at the residence of Mrs. Yost, opposite the Children's Aid Society Shelter. The twins were little girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Nalsh. The mother being so seriously ill, the King's Daughters undertook to take care of the twins and placed them in charge of Mrs. Yost, who gave them every care and attention that was possible, and who keenly feels the loss of the little one. The names of "the twins" were Edith Rose and Rose Eva, and so much alike that it was not known which one was dead. The surviving one is also ill.

The King's Daughters wish it said that Mrs. Yost has given the twins the most devoted care.

CHOSEN FRIENDS HAD ENJOYABLE EVENING

A very enjoyable social evening was spent last evening by the members of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends in the Sons of England Hall. The room was crowded, and the hearty applause which greeted each number on the programme was an evidence that they were appreciated.

COUNTRY ROADS VERY BAD IN SOME PLACES

The roads in the country in some places are almost impassable. This statement almost seems incredible on account of there being such little snow this winter. But an Ennismore farmer was heard to remark that he had had a very hard time in getting to the city yesterday. After the snow storm and wind storm on Thursday the snow was in big drifts all along the roads and the Ennismore resident said that he was obliged to cross fields to get into town.

THE GAS LIGHTING GAVE SATISFACTION

From general reports at the Curling ring the officers and members of club are highly pleased with the Siche gas lighting system which they installed. It is stated that the generation of the gas cost them $90.00, whereas for electric lighting the price offered them is said to have been in the neighbourhood of $200. The quality of the light was also most satisfactory.

GREAT STORM OF MARCH '70

The church attendance that night was almost down to the vanishing point. In fact at the Presbyterian church the pastor and the sexton and one of the elders were all that were in evidence.

That was the year of the great flood. the snow remaining until April and going almost at once, with the result that the streets were flooded.

SMALL POX CASE AT CAMPBELLFORD

Dr. R. W. Bell, Provincial Medical Health Officer, was in the city today on his way home from Seymour Township, looking after an outbreak of smallpox. In the northern part of the Township there are twenty-five cases in ten families. The outbreak has been somewhat neglected but the authorities have it now pretty well in hand.

WRITES IN BLOOD.

English Suffragette Overcomes Prohibition of Ink in Jail.

New York, March 27.—The American has the following London cable:

There was a storm of hisses and shouts of execration against the Government last night, when Lady Constance Lytton, daughter of the Earl of Lytton, with flushed cheeks and quivering voice, addressed a large company of ladies and gentlemen at a dinner of welcome to her and her twenty-five sister martyrs in the suffragist cause on their release from Holloway Prison Thursday.

Sitting beside Lady Constance was Daisy Solomon, daughter of Saul Solomon, late crown minister to Cape Colony, and other prominent women who have been playing the roles of prison martyrs.

Lady Constance told a thrilling story of how she overcame the rigid and almost barbaric prison regulations enforced against her and her sister suffragettes, and managed to make notes in writing—notes for use in her speech on liberation.

"They would not let me write," said Lady Constance. "But despite these harsh and inhuman prison rules invoked against me, they could not prevent me from using ink, for nature had provided me with a sealed bottle of scarlet writing fluid.

"Here 'tis is," she said, displaying the letter, "It is written in my own blood!"

The audience applauded frantically and wound up by hissing the Government for five minutes or more.

On Feb. '25 Lady Constance Lytton was sentenced to one month's imprisonment for disorderly conduct, the charge growing out of the part she took in the attempt to see Premier Asquith and present to him a "votes for women" petition.

Flag Incident at Boston.

Boston, Mass., March 27.—Through the error of a workman engaged to decorate the Parker House exterior in honor of the Canadian Club, which met there last night, a stormy scene occurred on the street in front of the house yesterday. In place of the national colors there appeared alone the British flag. A crowd gathered about, the clerks in the hotel were besieged with questions, and the telephone was kept busy by people who wanted to know what it meant.

Finally Manager Pierce of the hotel ordered a porter to send an American flag to the peak of the staff, with the English flag and club pennant following.

Shoots Himself Three Times.

Quebec, March 27.—A young man attempted suicide on Pacific street, near the Hotel Dieu Hospital, yesterday morning by discharging three shots from a 32-calibre revolver, inflicting three wounds in the vicinity of the heart. The following note was found in his pocket: "I, Otto Lindstrom, shall commit suicide. I am 21 years old, birthday on the 17th of March. Shall not give you any more information regarding my past life. I am tired of life on this earth."

He arrived Thursday night from Boston, via Montreal.

Transfers of Governors.

London, March 27.—The following changes in the British colonial service have been announced:

Sir Wm. MacGregor, governor of Newfoundland, has been made governor of Queensland; Sir Ralph Chayneys Williams, governor of the Windward Islands, succeeds to the governorship of Newfoundland, and Sir James Hayes Sadler, governor and commander-in-chief of the East African protectorate, becomes governor of the Windward Islands.

Passed the ..... day of ....., 1909.

WHEREAS, the Peterborough Water Commissioners have represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough that it is necessary, in order to ensure a permanent, increased and satisfactory supply of water to the City for public and private use and for fire protection, that the present waterworks dam should be replaced by a new concrete dam and that a new pump plant, together with the other works and appliances required to control and develop the water power at the said dam and to supply water to the waterworks system of the said City should be constructed and installed, and it is estimated that the cost of same will be the sum of $120,000 and the said Water Commissioners have applied to the Council for the said sum for such purposes.

AND WHEREAS, it will require the sum of $5,100 to be raised annually for a period of thirty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this By-law to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $2,324.56 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at maturity thereof —such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $7,424.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This By-law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $120,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust, and to be made payable within thirty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough.

3. The said waterworks and lands shall be specially charged with the repayment of the said sum hereby authorized to be borrowed and the debentures to be issued therefor and the holders of such debentures shall have a preferential charge on the said waterworks and lands and the revenues arising therefrom, after providing for the payment of the expenses attendant upon the operation and maintenance of the said waterworks and the interest and sinking fund in respect to debentures already issued for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks system, for securing the payment of the said debentures and the interest thereon and the said debentures and interest shall also be a charge upon the whole rateable property of the municipality.

(2) Provided, however, that the revenues arising from the said waterworks shall, after payment of the expenses of operating and maintaining the said waterworks and the payment of the interest and sinking fund in respect to debentures heretofore issued for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks system, be applied towards payment of the annual interest and sinking fund on the debentures to be issued hereunder and the Council of the said City shall only be required to raise in each year during the currency of the debentures to be issued hereunder a sum sufficient with the moneys arising and available from such revenue to make up the said annual sum of $7,424.56 required for payment of the interest and sinking fund of the debentures to be issued hereunder.

5. As the proposed expenditure upon the objects for which the debt to be created by this By-law is estimated to extend over more than one year and it is undesirable to have large portions of the money on hand unused and uninvested it would in the opinion of the Council be to the advantage of the Municipality to issue the debentures hereby authorized in instalments and it is, therefore, hereby provided that said debentures may be issued in instalments of such amounts (not exceeding in the aggregate the total amount for which provision is made by this By-law) and at such times, as the exigency of the case demands, but so that the whole shall be issued within five years and the first instalment within two years after the passing of this By-law and the proceeds of the said debentures when sold or a sufficient part thereof for that purpose shall be paid over as required to the Peterborough Water Commissioners, to be applied in payment of the amount expended in the construction of such new dam, pump house and pumping plant and the other works and appliances constructed and installed to control and develop the water power at the said dam and to supply water to the water works system of the city.

REVIEW OF CURLING SEASON
MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR IN THE HISTORY OF CLUB AT AN END

Something About the Season's Games and the Campaign of the Club at Home and Abroad.

SOME OF THE EVENTS.

What has proved to be the most successful season in the history of the Peterborough Curling Club is being brought to a close and at this juncture a short review of the year should be read with interest by the curling fraternity. It has been a year of solid enjoyment of well played games and of considerable success at home and abroad, and will long be remembered by the members of the club.

In the first place the membership this year was the largest in the history of the club, over 150 members have joined the club during the past season, a large number of new men having come in who have picked up the game rapidly and have made a good showing.

A regular schedule of games was played during the season and proved decidedly interesting, keeping the enthusiasm of the knights of the broom and stone at a high pitch throughout. The competition resulted in a tie between Skip A. Moore and Skip W. M. Lang, whose rinks won the same number of games.

The first special event of the season was the club's annual bonspiel, which was held in January, and although the attendance was not as large as on other occasions the event proved a great success. The Lindsay curlers once more demonstrated their ability to win games, Skip G. A. Little winning the primary honours and the veteran Flavelle, taking second prize in the primary. Skip J. S. Ham, of Napanee, won the consolation event, with Skip W. G. Morrow, of Peterborough, in second place.

Peterborough rinks skipped by Messrs. D. Davidson and Geo. Giroux reached the finals in the Governor-General's competition, being beaten out in the last game by eight shots, after making a splendid showing. The annual competition for the Peterborough-Lindsay Cup, resulted in a win for Peterborough, by the small margin of three shots, the representatives of the local club being four up at home and one down in Lindsay.

The Shepherd Neill trophy, however, which is curled for annually by the Peterborough and Orillia clubs, was won by Orillia, by a small margin. The Fitzgerald-Bottum shield, donated by Mr. A. E. Bottum, of Bobcaygeon, and Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, was played for this year for the first time by the Peterborough and Bobcaygeon clubs, Peterborough winning after a most exciting series by a few shots.

The season was brought to a close by a most interesting and successful Bonspiel for club rinks. This was won by Skip W. G. Ferguson, with Skip J. H. Connal as runner up. The consolation honours fell to Mr. J. H. Burnham's rink, which was skipped during the last games by Skip J. S. Knapman. A feature was the playing of Mr. R. J. Winch, one of the oldest members of the club, who was on the winning rink and played all the games. Skip W. J. Thompson won the second consolation prize.

The first season in the new rink will go down to posterity as a red-letter one. Great credit is due to the officers, especially to Secretary J. H. Ferguson, whose efforts have been untiring.

Toronto, March 25.—One of the chief events of the closing winter in sport or out of it was the wonderful success of the curlers of Canada in Europe.

Scotland, the home and stronghold of the grand old game, was stormed and her sons left disappointed, though admiring and wise curlers. The Strathcona cup's departure with the Canadians tells that little story.

But no less important was the expedition of the lone Canadian rink to Switzerland. There additional honours were won for Canada. At Villars, the winning of nine games out of ten played gave the representatives of our Dominion possession of the trophy emblematic of the championship of the Swiss international bonspiel.

The rink which accompanied this remarkable feat was composed of W. L. Parrish, Winnipeg, second; J. C. McLean, Winnipeg, third; A. C. Riddell, Glasgow, lead, and J. McDiarmid, Winnipeg, skip.

Mr. Riddell Filled In.

Mr. Riddell filled out the rink, because the other Canadians were engaged in the Scottish programme, and were unable to get away for the trip.

Considerable has been said about the matches played in Scotland. The Swiss bonspiel has been scarcely touched upon in this country, either by descriptive article or by illustration. Mr. Parrish, of the rink competing in Switzerland, was in Toronto yesterday and he gave an excellent story of the big event with photographs taken by himself.

"Not only did we receive a grand reception this time," said Mr. Parrish, "but they are more than anxious for Canadians to return to the international bonspiel next year."

Dr. Lunn, who is interested in the tourist traffic of Switzerland, has made an offer to Canadians for the coming season. He has instructed the men who were there this year to obtain three rinks of Canadians for the next event. They will be taken in charge at London and from that time will be the guests of the men running the bonspiel.

WHO WILL WIN THE BIG AMERICAN DERBY ON APRIL 3

With a field, instead of a matched race, and outside on the turf instead of indoors, on a dizzy track, past performances are of little help in doping out the winner. What one man may do outdoors, even after losing consistently on the clay circle all winter, is problematical. What one man usually does in a matched race, where only two are legging it, is no sure sign that he will do the same where there are half a dozen contestants to be matched. With no smoke or foul air to bother the runners, certain of them are sure to make better showings.

New Yorkers are certain that Alfred Shrubb will give a good account of himself in the open, and he may at that. He has never said that he could run indoors. Very few indoor races are run in England, and they are somewhat of a novelty to Alfred. But he is used to the turf, and so some of the money is being placed on the Englishman, although he never was, nor never will be, a Marathoner.

Longboat Schooled

Longboat is being taught that if he pays the slightest attention to Shrubb there will be doings after the race for Tommy. They are driving it into his head that he is to stick to Dorando until the latter shows signs of distress, and then let her go, full steam ahead.

Opinion is pretty well divided as to how our own Tommy Longboat is going to fare. The Onondaga is training faithfully, but yet many there are that don't like the looks of things. They are asking why has Longboat allowed himself to take on so much weight that he resembles a weight-thrower or a sculler more than a runner. These people say that he will go into the race with so much extra avoirdupois that he won't even finish.

"Longboat weighs 152 pounds today," began a certain Marathon expert, "and he will have so much extra flesh that he will be trailing in behind when the rest are making their final sprints. His legs will be alright, but his wind will be affected. He will become choked, his thorax will tighten, his stomach may cramp, and his feet will strike the ground so much harder, all on account of the extra fifteen pounds which he will be carrying. In a small man, like Dorando or Shrubb, who are much more compact in body, it wouldn't make a great difference."

Will Be Right

In answer to all this, Longboat's handlers have this to say:

"Longboat's weight can be easily reduced before the day of the race. To bring Tom's weight down to 135 pounds would be weakening. Better have a few pounds to the good to burn up than to become exhausted through underweight."

Many still look upon Dorando as the best of the lot, and expect him to give them all the run for their money. But it is a little early yet to make predictions, and before the race there is bound to be many changes in opinion.

Shrubb says that if Longboat is left alone, the pair of them will pull off that little fifteen mile jaunt of theirs on April 15th at Rosedale.

But it is not probable that this race will be run on the 17th, if the statements of interested persons are to be believed. 'Tis true that Longboat will soon be back into the old rut if he is to race so often. When Tom raced Shrubb in that New York Marathon he was in very poor condition—Longboat was lucky to win. He took a rest after that he built himself up. But if he is going to turn out now and run a series of hard races in quick succession he will run himself down again. Shrubb caught him at a nice time, so his handlers say, wanting him to race just after a hard Marathon, and accordingly it would not be a surprise if the race fell through.

Race at Brantford

Last night the Irish-Canadians went for a jaunt to the Ocean House and back to the Grand Central. Longboat and Harry Jackson, Smith, Westerby and others took the trip in fast time. Jackson is training for the twelve mile race with Simpson in Brantford on Thursday next. Jackson will take six miles, and Cummings the last six against Simpson, who will go the whole distance. The Ojibway Thunderbolt will have a lively time beating those two, especially on a track which runs eighteen laps to the mile.

DAVE HARTLEY INVITED TO TAKE PART IN RACE AT MILWAUKEE

Dave Hartley, Peterborough's veteran walker, has received a letter from H. C. Messier, the well-known Western long-distance walker, in which "Hank," as he is familiarly known among the gentry of the sawdust track, states that he is going to pull off a six night walk in Milwaukee in April, in which a number of Western cracks will compete. Messier took a part in the walk at Kansas City last Spring, finishing fourth, and it was there that he struck up an acquaintanceship with the Peterborough man. He is very anxious to have Hartley go to Milwaukee for the race and offers him splendid terms. The Peterborough ped is undecided, but will hardly go, as he intimated to the Examiner yesterday that he thought he would drop out of the walking game.

WILL HOAGLAND MEET HIS WATERLOO IN THE LOCAL WALK

The hours for the big six-day walk in Brock St. rink, commencing April 26, are slightly different from those which governed the contest last year. It will be remembered that the walkers had to go thirty-six hours, four hours on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and ten hours on Saturday and Wednesday. The long stretch on these two days took the heart out of the walkers and tended to slow up the contest.

The promoters in charge of this year's affair have decided to eliminate the grinding features and the only long day will be Saturday, when the peds will be called upon to go eight hours. This will make it a sprint all the way and the fat men will have a chance. Champion Hoagland will be one of the starters and it is a pretty safe bet that he will not find things so easy as last year. A number of men from across the line, who are coming over for the battle are said to be cracker-jacks at the six-day game. The day comes when every champion must yield the palm of victory to a younger adversary and this may prove the case with the Auburn walking machine when he visits Peterborough again, although local people who have a whole hearted admiration for the stalwart and genial "Yank" will be loth to believe so.

It will be a great race and Peterborough people will be glad to learn that they are to have another week of exciting scenes such as characterized last spring's affair.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MIDLAND FOOT BALL LEAGUE APRIL 3

The annual meeting of the Midland Association Football League will be held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours on Saturday, April 3rd. All clubs intending to enter the League this season are requested to send representatives to this meeting.

FOOTBALL.

Sporting Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir: — Now that "the hockey days are over, Jessie, Dear," and the running and walking stunts are engaged in chiefly by "pros.," the admirers of amateur sport will welcome a new subject.

How about association football or soccer"?

Let's talk about corner kicks, star half backs, grand rushes and phenomenal stops, and give this game its due share of popularity. When a contest has speed and combination as its chief features, and the players are almost exempt from injury, it should be patronized and encouraged in a more liberal way. Why is the Ontario championship in "soccer" not as eagerly sought after as in hockey or Rugby?

In order that the teams in Peterborough and surrounding districts might have a series of pre-arranged games and aspire to a championship, the Midland Football League was formed in 1903.

The handsome trophy, emblematic of the highest honours in this league, was presented by the Hon. Mr. Stratton to further the interests of this good old game.

A solid foundation for the Midland League for 1909 is in the course of erection, and the corner stone of this foundation is to be put in place at the annual meeting at the Y. M. C. A. parlours, Peterborough, on Saturday, April 3rd, at 1.30 p.m. At this meeting the officers will be elected and the season's prospects discussed. Football clubs in this city or in the neighbouring towns and villages are requested to send representatives, so that all concerned will receive proper consideration.

By the Toronto Star it is seen that Bowmanville (the mainstay) is in the advance guard with its annual meeting on March 20th, and a decision to enter the Midland League.

Neither boosting nor boasting will be indulged in at present, no, not even when justified by actual results. Just keep in mind the annual meeting on April 3rd.

"SOCCER."

Hon. President of the Midland Foot Ball League, the Annual Meeting of Which Will Be Held on April 3.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

J. N. Barber, (Special)

New York, March 27.—The stock market opened strong and higher, B. & O., Con. Gas, Reading and U. P. the features. London sent higher prices at the close there and this was followed by big buying orders here which advanced the market sharply in all directions. A rumour that the battleship Mississippi had been blown up was denied in Washington and bulls started right out to run in some of the bears who have been putting out such rumours with a view to depressing stocks.

WHY THE WATER WORKS DAM SHOULD AND MUST BE BUILT

The present dam has not that degree of permanency its vital importance to the ratepayers demands, and having been placed on a gravel or earth foundation its leakage is very great, probably one-third or more. For these reasons, in mid-summer it has about reached its pumping capacity.

The Underwriters' Association demands increased pumping power, and for default will require higher insurance rates on City property.

The cost of maintenance and repair on the dam are very great, representing a capital of $20,000.00 if put into a new dam. The Engineers' estimate of putting even new sheeting on the present dam will cost over $10,000.00.

The surplus annual revenue from water rates is now nearly $2,000.00 more than enough to pay both the sinking funds and interest on the cost of a new concrete dam and the other plant required, and no sum will need to be raised by taxation, or in any other way except by the present water rates.

The electors should not confound the proposal of the Commissioners with any other relating to power. They simply have to do with water supply, but nothing with power for any other purposes. They have no authority to enter into any general power project.

If the new dam should develop more power than is required for pumping, as the Commissioners are assured it will very greatly do, they will sell such power undeveloped at the dam at so much per horse power to the City or any one else, and what is received in this way will go to the credit of water consumers and be applied for their benefit.

For the reasons given the Commissioners strongly recommend the passage of their By-law for a new dam.

T. F. MATTHEWS,
W. H. HILL,
W. H. MOORE,
Water Commissioners.

BASKET-BALL.

The usual Saturday night League basketball game will be played to-night at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock, when the Arabs will meet the Tigers. An interesting game may be expected as both teams are playing splendid basketball. A good crowd should be on hand for the exhibition.

Clothes Style Preferred

Intuition or Environment?

Men consult not only their own preference but often the opinion of others in purchasing their clothes. We seem compelled to strive for those things which will make us rise in the estimation of others, and we purchase those things which are approved by those whose esteem we most covet.

That particular style of clothing which is preferred by one's own class of society is always an argument and an influencing factor in the choice.

So that one's own taste must always be influenced by environment.

In the Semi-ready Tailoring we study the important and the minute details of correct and cultured dress for men.

BIZET'S "CARMEN" AT THE OPERA HOUSE LAST NIGHT

The Italian Grand Opera Company presented Bizet's "Carmen" at the Opera House last night to a rather larger house than on their first visit. The opera was given with splendid effect, the principals, especially Carmen, Jose and the Toreador, singing their fine roles magnificently. Carmen especially giving a piquantly dramatic character reading of the gay and fickle inamorata. The chorus was splendidly effective, and the scenic settings irreproachable. The Italian colony was present en masse, and in compliment to them the orchestra followed their playing of "God Save the King" by the Royal Italian Grand March. In connection with the opera last night it is to be stated that by an error of the advertising manager of the company the prices were announced "25 cents to $1.50," instead of "50c to $1.50," resulting in a misunderstanding which the local management greatly regrets.

NORMAL SCHOOL DEBATERS WON ON THEIR OWN GROUNDS

Were Successful in the Return Debate With the Collegiate Institute at the Normal School Last Night.

ENJOYABLE EVENING SPENT

Last night the return debate between the Normal School and Collegiate Institute held in the Normal School hall, resulted in a victory for the Normal students, who took the affirmative.

The subject, "Resolved that independence is a likely destiny of Canada" was one that interested all present, and the debaters handled the subject in a way that showed wide reading and thorough preparation.

Mr Austin, president of the Normal School Literary Society, filled the chair in a most acceptable manner. He expressed pleasure at seeing so many P. C. I students, and dwelt at some length upon the purpose and mission of the inter-collegiate debates.

Mr. Colin Lees, the leader of the affirmative, was the first speaker. He advanced many strong arguments for his side, and every point made was clinched in such a forceful way that it could not be forgotten. Also the arrangement and system of Mr. Lees' speech was excellent and was to a great extent responsible for the result. Practice will make Mr. Lees an eloquent and fluent platform speaker.

Mr. John Garvin was the next speaker, being the leader of the negative. His arguments centred around the one point that to-day Canada is independent, that she now enjoys a full measure of constitutional freedom. Mr. Garvin is a good speaker and his speech was marked by clear pronunciation and well-chosen language.

Miss McKellar, the second Normal speaker, successfully negatived some of Mr. Garvin's arguments, and greatly strengthened her own side with several strong points.

Miss Smith, the second speaker for the negative, argued that the destiny of Canada was participation in a federal union. She also combatted some of the affirmative's points.

The leader of the affirmative was allowed a five-minute reply, in which he showed that the way to maintain peace was not to be prepared for war. He also showed how a federal union meant independence for all states implicated. In closing, Mr. Lees emphasized the fact that the affirmative's arguments were those of prominent Canadian men. The affirmative had quoted Mr J. S. Ewart, Professor Leacock of McGill University, and also Principal Peterson of McGill, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

After due deliberation Mr. F. D. Kerr gave the decision of the judges, Messrs. Dumble and Brown and himself.

The rest of the programme was as follows:

Solo—Miss H. Mason.

Recitation—Miss Shaw.

Recitation—Miss Argue.

Selection by P. N. S. Glee Club.

Quartette, by Normal students.

Also Mr. Downey, principal of Central School gave a much appreciated vocal solo, and very kindly responded to a hearty encore.

The Literary Society are to be congratulated on the success of their first open meeting. Every one was pleased and the programme was excellent.

The meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Foster's Weekly Weather Report Announces Earl Killing Frosts

Washington, D.C., March 27. — Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 27 to 31, warm wave 26 to 30, cool wave 29 to April 2. This disturbance was expected to cause unusually high temperatures and be immediately followed by colder weather and more rain than immediately preceded it.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about April 2, cross Pacific slope by close of 3, great central valleys 4 to 6, eastern states, 7. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 2, great central valleys 4, eastern states, 6. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about April 5, great central valleys 7, eastern states 9.

The disturbance will not bring the most severe storms of the month, but all weather features connected with it will be of greater than usual intensity. It will be preceded by a cool wave and followed by a cool wave which, in northern sections, will be a cold wave. North of parallel 40, temperatures will fall as much as 70 degrees and cause killing frosts.

My forecasts for March have proven remarkably good: at least 90 per cent good for crop weather. April will not be a good crop weather month. Up to 13 temperatures will be about normal and fairly good, and then for 15 days very bad. Last half of April will be too cold for all crops, and in mid-latitudes tender plants will need protection from the ravages of killing frosts.

From April 13 to 24, a period of 12 days, crop weather will be radically bad on all parts of the continent. First two weeks of April will provide an early spring with good crop prospects and the last half of the month will spoil all these fine prospects.

Look out for bad storms and all kinds of weather extremes from April 10 to 21. All the furies of the elements will be turned loose.

Watch the Contest

This bulletin begins a long test of long range forecasts. The weather bureau promises forecasts a week in advance and I will publish my forecasts a month in advance. Before the 1909 crop season shall have passed, I expect to demonstrate the immense value of my lately improved methods of forecasting and that no other system will compare with it.

This is a friendly contest. I have no desire to ignore the weather bureau but if my system of forecasting proves to be more valuable than that used by the weather bureau, that institution should adopt my system.

MY CHILD SUFFERED AWFULLY

Mrs. M. E. Brewster, Clifford, Ont., says: "My little girl who was born in 1903 had been subject to Bronchitis from the time she was twelve months old until two years ago when she began to take PSYCHINE. The little darling suffered awfully. Her breathing was so hoarse that you could hear it all the time and she scarcely got any rest at all. We did not dare to take her out much as the least wind or cold affected her and brought on a severe attack.

"We tried all sorts of medicines, but nothing did the child any good or proved the slightest safeguard against this dreaded complaint. One day a friend told us about PSYCHINE and the wonderful cures it had brought about, so we decided to try it. The sample bottle suffice I to show us that its merits had not been exaggerated, and that we had struck an A1 remedy. One would scarcely believe such a small quantity of medicine could effect so great a change. There was no difficulty in getting her to take it, as it is not at all unpleasant, and she obtained relief immediately."

"After giving her four bottles the child was completely cured and she has not had a touch of the old complaint since. This is two years ago. The cold weather has but little affect on her now, the tendency to Bronchitis seems to have been entirely eradicated, and she enjoys the best of health."

I always keep a bottle of PSYCHINE in the house, and find an occasional dose is a sure safeguard against colds. It also thoroughly builds up the system and it is certainly a grand tonic. I would advise all mothers to keep it by them. We are deeply grateful for what it has done for our little one."

It would be folly for us to add to Mrs. Brewster's splendid testimonial, but we would emphasise the following facts: I. PSYCHINE is pleasant to take. The children like it. II. PSYCHINE is a wonderful remedy. III. You may try it before you buy as Mrs Brewster did, by sending Coupon to Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto. Do so to-day.

Classes At Y. W. C. A. Had Enjoyable Evening Together

One of the happiest of the many happy social evenings which have been given at the Y.W.C.A. during the winter was enjoyed on Thursday evening, when the members of Dr. Greer's First Aid Class and those of Mr. A. Mowat's Literary Class met together for a social time, as a fitting closing to the course of lectures which have been given weekly for the past five months by each of these gentlemen.

A bright, lively hour was spent in a progressive literary contest, followed by a musical medley played by Miss Hazel Dean. Mrs. Greer and Miss Amy McKee succeeded in winning the first prizes.

Then followed a pleasant part of the evening's programme, when Dr. Greer and Mr. Mowat were adressed by representatives from each class who expressed in a tangible way their appreciation of great benefit received through the lectures. Both gentlemen replied expressing their pleasure in having had some share in the educative work of this Association, and signified their willingness and help another season. After the hearty singing of "Blest be the tie that binds," dainty refreshments were served.

The closing lecture of the Literary Class will be given next Friday evening, in the Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium Hall, when Prof. A. H. Young, of Trinity University, will give a most interesting stereopticon lecture. His subject is "The paintings of Michael Angelo in the Sistine Chapel." Many pictures of the wonderfully beautiful sculptures and paintings found in this old chapel will be shown on the large canvas. We hope a large number will enjoy this with us on Friday evening, April 2nd.

The Closing of the Gymnasium Lesson takes place on Tuesday evening, March 30th, in the Collegiate Hall. A long programme of beautiful fancy drills, marches, etc., will be given by the different classes — Seniors, Intermediates and Juniors, also the junior boys. We would urge all who are interested in the work of the association to attend this exhibition on Tuesday evening, as it is the only opportunity given the public during the season to see just what is taught in the gymnasium course.

He has a wife and three children, has belonged to the brigade five years and was appointed assistant chief four months ago. The stock was badly damaged by smoke and water.

Assistant Fire Chief Scott was well known by Chief Howard of the local brigade. To an Examiner reporter last evening Chief Howard said that the fatally injured man's home was right opposite his mother's home in London. Chief Howard received his early fire fighting experience in London, his home city. Scott joined the brigade a short while previous to the local Chiefs' appointment to the head of the fire department in Windsor. He was a fine fellow, the Chief remarked, and a splendid fire fighter. His unfortunate accident will make a break in the brigade that will be hard to fill.

ARRANGING TO HELP BRITAIN

Premier Will Amend Foster's Navy Resolution.

TO OUTLINE DEFENCE PLAN

In Commons To-Day Sir Wilfrid Will Definitely Assure Imperial Parliament of Canada's Co-operation In Amendment to Mr. Foster's Vague Resolution—Will Spend Last Cent If Necessary.

Ottawa, March 29.—The Cabinet sat in council nearly all day Saturday, the principal subject under discussion being that of Canada's attitude with respect to Imperial naval defence. A statement of the Government policy in the matter will be made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Commons to-day in moving a resolution in amendment to Hon. Geo. E. Foster's resolution on the order paper, stating that the time has come when Canada should assume her proper share of the burden of providing for the defence of her exposed coasts and maritime ports.

The Premier's resolution will be along the line of a statement of policy on the Imperial defence question laid down by the Canadian Ministers when the subject was under consideration at the Colonial Conference of 1902 and 1907. The Government believes there is nothing in the present situation that calls for any immediate or hastily considered departure from the policy of past years in respect to Canada's contribution to Imperial defence. There is, as Mr. Asquith has stated, no immediate danger to Britain's naval supremacy. At the same time the Government believes that it is the duty of Canada, as the Dominion advances in population and wealth, to make a more liberal outlay for national and consequently for Imperial defence.

The general principle endorsed by the Government is that Canada's gradually expanding defence scheme should be carried out in co-operation with the Imperial authorities, and on the advice of experienced Imperial officers, with due regard always to the principle of local self-government.

That Canada is prepared to give her last dollar and send her last man to the defence of the Empire in the case of need, and is now working to the end of co-operating along the wisest and most permanent lines in a uniform scheme of Imperial defence, will be the message of loyal support that the Premier will send to Great Britain to-day, through the medium of his speech in Parliament.

Socialist Will Prevent War.

Ottawa, March 29.—At a meeting of Socialists held here on Saturday, the woman's suffrage movement was discussed.

Charles Lestor, an English Socialist, claimed it was really an indication of advanced socialism, and the meeting endorsed the movement unanimously.

Talking of advance of socialism, Mr. Lestor said: "They are talking of war between Japan and the States, and between Germany and England. Let me say there will be no war between the Germans and British. There are now too many Socialists in each of the countries, and they would not allow such a thing as war."

Arrested For Bigamy.

St. Thomas, March 29.—Mrs. W. C. King was arrested yesterday on a charge of bigamy, preferred by her first husband, Joseph Campbell, and was committed to jail until Monday, when she will receive her preliminary hearing. Her husband is an employe of the Canada Iron Corporation, and the marriage took place March 16. Mrs. King admits that her husband is spouse No. 2 and pleads ignorance of wrong-doing on the ground that a few months ago she got a legal separatin from her husband in Ridgetown. This separation she accepted as a divorce, and she says she thought she was then free to start life over with another man.

Treaty Not Satisfactory.

Ottawa, March 29.—The international waterways treaty is still in suspension, all because the Senate of the United States, in the exercise of its constitutional prerogative, saw fit to tinker with the convention as signed by the plenipotentiaries.

Canada could have been willing to assent to the treaty in its original form, but the rider added by the U.S. Senate raises new issues, and on Saturday Hon. A. B. Aylesworth and George C. Gibbons, K.C., left for Washington to look into the matter.

One Thusand New Citizens.

St. John, N.B., March 29.—With the finest lot of emigrants ever landed at this port, the C.P.R. steamship Lake Champlain arrived here with a thousand people on board. They went west.

PAYS THE PENALTY OF AWFUL CRIME

Mrs. Farmer Dies in Electric Chair at Auburn, N.Y.

HER HUSBAND MAY GO FREE

Murderess Who Helped Spouse Slay Neighbor For Her Money Pays Full Penalty For Her Crime—Farmer Awaits Result of His Appeal—Affecting Scene at Couple's Farewell In the Death Cell.

Auburn, N.Y., March 29.—The current of events last night and the final hours of the life of Mrs. Mary Farmer, who died at sunrise to-day in the electric chair, for the killing of Mrs. Sarah Brennan at Brownville, moved on relentlessly though dramatically after nightfall in Auburn prison.

Brought from the woman's prison to the receiving cell in the condemned row, Mrs. Farmer bade farewell to her husband, and was then lodged in the cell that adjoins the execution chamber to await the call to the chair.

James Farmer, the husband, also under sentence of death for the killing of the Brennan woman, and whose case is now before the Court of Appeals, was taken to another part of the prison that he might not hear the witnesses on their way to the execution.

Mary Farmer was sentenced to death for a shocking and brutal murder. The Farmers, man and wife, on April 23, 1906, enticed Mrs. Sarah Brennan, 55 years old, a neighbor, into their home in Brownsville and killed her. While Mrs. Brennan stood looking out of a window she (Mrs. Farmer) stole up behind her and struck her on the head with an axe. Then Mrs. Farmer and her husband chopped up the body so that it would fit into a small trunk.

The motive for the deed was possession of Mrs. Brennan's property.

Attempts were made to have Governor Hughes commute the death sentence to life imprisonment, but a week ago he announced that capital punishment knows no sex, and refused to interfere.

Facing death at dawn, the wretched woman showed no evidences last night of collapse though the last words between herself and husband, separated in their parting interview by heavy bars and an impenetrable screen, were affecting to the two women attendants and the children of the guard. As the law does not permit it, there was no farewell embrace last night, when the time came for separation. When the steel door of Mrs. Farmer's cell had closed, and James Farmer, weeping, had been led away, the woman fell upon her cot and wept for a few moments and then began to pray. Her attendants did not tell her of the death chair in the next room.

Father J. J. Hickey, pastor of the Holy Family Church, visited Mrs. Farmer yesterday and prayed with her. The priest early this morning administered the last sacrament and offered prayers for the dying before the short march to the execution chamber.

"Mrs. Farmer died a good Catholic," said Father Hickey this morning, "and went to her death bravely."

Preparing to Reduce Pullman Rates.

Denver, Col., March 29.—Local officers of the Pullman Car Co. say they have been notified that the company is preparing to make a general reduction in rates, which will give the long-desired differential between upper and lower berths.

The preparation of the next tariff will occupy some time and the reduced rates will probably not go into effect before June 1.

Children In Search of Father.

Port Huron, Mich., March 29.—Mary and Archie Hoffman, sister and brother, aged both under 15 years, were detained by the local immigration officers and sent to their home in Brantford, Ont. The girl and boy said they were on their way to Chicago in search of their father, who had deserted them some weeks ago. They had very little money.

Killed on Track.

Fort William, March 29.—The fearfully mangled remains of Nello Jandu, aged 30, a Finlander, were found scattered on the C.P.R. tracks, near elevator D, are having apparently been hit and dragged two hundred feet.

FEAR OF BALKAN TROUBLE ALLAYED

She Suddenly Changes Front on Balkan Question.

PEACE ASSURED FOR TIME

German Influence In European Situation Seems to Have Won a Signal Victory — Russia Suddenly Acknowledges Germany's Right Without Consulting Either France or Great Britain.

London, March 29.—Peace for the present seems now sufficiently assured in the Balkans to permit closer attention to a greater crisis, of which the Austro-Servian quarrel is but a single feature. It must be recorded that unless the situation changes unexpectedly within the next day or two Austro-Hungary and Germany will have gained a complete victory in the bold game which they began to play last October.

The developments of the last two days are most illuminating and significant. It was suddenly announced that Russia, which was supposed to be the last power to assent, had yielded in advance of England, France and Italy her unqualified recognition of Austria's annexation of the Serb provinces. To-day we know that she surrendered to force majeure in the shape of unmistakable threats by Germany.

These threats took the form of a definite military demonstration. Austria for weeks past, as is well-known, has been concentrating her military forces upon the Servian and Montenegrin frontiers. To do this she practically denuded her garrisons on the Russian frontier. To these places came German officers in mufti and in some of the frontier towns notices were posted to the effect that German soldiers were to be received and treated as if they were Austrian troops.

The German army corps on the eastern frontier were strengthened, and it was definitely arranged that in case of war Germany was to take the initiative in hostilities against Russia.

When all was ready the German ambassador at St. Petersburg urged Russia to recognize Austria's action as to Bosnia and Herzegovina immediately. One account says that the Kaiser wrote to the Czar to this effect. This is very likely true, despite German denials. At all events the desired effect was produced and Russia succumbed to the German pressure.

Mailed Fist Shown.

New York, March 29.—The Tribune's London cable says: The spectre with the spiked helmet is still seen at every turn in foreign and domestic politics. The discovery of a formula more or less humiliating to Servia by which wanton and unnecessary war may be averted in the Balkans is less important than the sudden intervention of Germany in Russian diplomacy with overmastering effect. The Russian Foreign Minister, instead of consulting France and England, with whom he has been acting for many months on Balkan affairs, has abruptly recognized the validity of the Austrian action annexing Bosnia and Herzegovina.

It is not yet clear whether the change of front is due to the German Emperor's influence over the Czar, or what pressure was brought to bear on St. Petersburg, but the processes of Sir Edward Grey's diplomacy were suddenly interrupted, and the triple alliance was reinforced from an opposite coalition. Berlin has become the centre of power in the settlement of the eastern question, the balance of power created by the two coalitions has been overthrown, and Austria-Hungary has been left to act at her own discretion in the Balkans, while Germany regains her supremacy in continental diplomacy. The German Emperor's coup de main may bring about peace, unless Austria-Hungary is bent on crushing Servia, distracted by dynastic scandals and virtually defenceless, but the mailed fist in European diplomacy is not a pleasant apparition before English eyes.

The action of the Reichstag in voting the naval estimates, including a heavy bill for new construction, without a dissenting voice or a single half hour wasted in debate has exerted a sobering effect upon the panicmongers here. They are beginning to understand that they are playing into the hands of the German Emperor and helping to keep Von Buelow in power notwithstanding the talk about the break-up of the combination groups supporting him in the Reichstag.

The construction of Dreadnoughts will probably be hastened in consequence of the fortnight's agitation, but they come high at $9,000,000 each, with $1,250,000 for upkeep and maintenance, and not one having a chance of a longer life than fifteen or twenty years, every new one is better than the last one built.

Shoots Wife and Self.

Boston, March 29.—A tragedy was enacted in the public garden near the entrance of the Boylestor street subway Saturday night, while the early evening suburban crush was at its height. Suffering from nervous trouble, with which he had been afflicted for several years, Lawrence E. Boyce, a well-known newspaper man, shot and killed his wife and then ended his own life by the same means.

Snowslide Kills Boy.

Montreal, March 29.—A sad fatality occurred on Saturday when Earl Efner, a young son of E. Efner, formerly of Lorneton, Ont., was killed by ice falling off a roof on St. Catharine street, while the boy was passing along the street.

Mr Ward vainly tried to keep order, b whenever any speaker suggested th woman's place is her home, he she was roundly hissed.

Suit Against Haldane.

London, March 29.—H. C. Woods, former lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards, who was removed from the army more than a year ago after hi refusal to resign when asked to do so, has thrown a bomb into army ranks by bring suit against War Secretary Haldane and other members of the army council, demanding $375,000 damages. Woods asserts that the council acted unconstitutionally, as an act of Parliament empowers the commander-in-chief alone to deprive an officer of his commission.

Boy Shoots His Comrade.

Joggins Mines, N.S., March 29.—A shooting accident took place here yesterday afternoon, resulting in the death of James Holmes, aged 15.

Holmes, accompanied by a boy named Logue, aged 14, had started for the woods with a small rifle on a shooting expedition. The Logue boy was carrying the rifle and was under the impression it was unloaded. He aimed at a tree and pulled the trigger just as Holmes, who was a few steps ahead of him, stepped in front. The bullet entered his head.

IN DEBT TO FREDDY.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

With a wall of anger Freddy dived under the dining room table and took shelter close to the center leg, where he knew that the portly Carson could not follow.

The laughter of the other guests at the uniqueness of Freddy's escape angered Carson, whose self esteem was as huge as his girth, and his face turned an angry red.

"You come out or I'll go after you," he threatened as he sought to pull the leaves of the table apart.

"I won't come out," defied Freddy. "I guess you wouldn't let me read your letters."

Another outburst of laughter greeted this sally, and Carson's face grew even more apologetic. His penchant for writing tender notes was well known to his friends, and he lost the last vestige of self restraint as with a savage jerk he pulled the sections of the table apart that he might reach through and capture the defiant small son of his hostess.

His jesting demand for the love letter which the eight-year-old had written to his baby sweetheart now threatened to pass from a joke to an ugly incident, and several of the men who made up the Bayard house party quietly but quickly moved through the archway landing to the library.

"I CAN LEND YOU MARJORIE," HE OFFERED.

Mrs. Bayard stirred uneasily in her chair and glanced around for her husband, but he was not in sight, and before she could rise to call him Freddy had shown that he needed no assistance. There was a sudden scramble, and then from the end of the table Freddy rolled out upon the floor to regard Carson with an irritating look of content.

"Where's the letter, youngster?" the man demanded rather sternly.

"Eatin' it," explained Freddy, momentarily pausing in his mastication to regard Carson with a pleased smile. "I can write another after you're gone."

"And that's what you went under the table for?" demanded Carson, a smile breaking through the scowl.

"Sure," assented Freddy. "I knew I could eat it before you could get me. That's the way they used to do when they plotted against kings, only they didn't climb under tables," he added proudly. "I thought of that myself."

"Take thy freedom, sapient youngster," decreed Carson. "Mrs. Bayard, I owe you an apology. I am afraid."

Mrs. Bayard nodded and tried to smile, and her small son slipped from the room to the den upstairs. Paul Dayton sat in the window seat watching the white flakes of snow sifting down upon the winter landscape.

"Come in, Freddy," he said kindly as he saw the youngster hesitate. "Two letters in one afternoon is rather an embarrassment of riches, isn't it? Who is the fortunate maiden?"

"It's Bess Pyfrom," explained Freddy. "I can always write her after school. I put the letter in a box in the hedge, and she comes and gets it; then she writes me one, and I get it, and then I give her the answer in the morning, and she gives me the answer at recess, and we're going to be married some day," he added irrelevantly.

"My congratulations," offered Dayton gravely, and Freddy beamed his youthful thanks. Just so did Dayton speak to the "big men," and it was delightful to have his love affair treated with the seriousness it deserved, particularly after the adventure downstairs.

"This isn't the second letter," he explained. "I was going along the hall, and Mr. Carson met me and asked me what I was up to, and I told him, and he said to let him see the letter."

"And what response did you make to his impertinent curiosity?" demanded Dayton.

"I ran under the table and ate it," explained Freddy, with a grin. "Now I got to write another."

"Which I trust will meet with a happier fate," said Dayton.

"You bet it will," assured Freddy. "I'm going down the back stairs. I don't see why the big fellows can't let me alone. They all have sweethearts. I guess everybody has a sweetheart. Her name's Evalinda, and her skin's blacker'n his."

"I suppose that every man should have a sweetheart," assented Dayton a little wistfully. He felt that he cut but a poor figure with the other men in the Bayard house party, but Marjorie Bayard had no more devoted admirer than himself, though he did not tell his love.

He was still weak and wasted from the fever that had sent him back from the Philippines a mere wreck of his old self.

"Marjie said it was all right when I asked her," volunteered Freddy. "Marie—that's my nurse—said it was silly, so I asked Marjie, and she said every man has a right to a sweetheart."

"I guess she must be right," replied Dayton absently.

"Sure she is!" assented Freddy. "She's always right. Who's your sweetheart?" he demanded, making conversation tangent.

"I'm afraid that I have none," said Dayton, with a laugh that sounded dreary in spite of effort.

"I told you who mine was," reminded Freddy.

"But I can't tell you when I have none," pleaded Dayton.

Freddy regarded him searchingly for a moment. His silent query seemed to be answered, for he tossed his head.

"I can lend you Marjorie," he offered. "She hasn't any real sweetheart." Of course a lot of men want her to be their sweetheart, but she gets tired of 'em so soon."

"That would be very nice," said Dayton politely.

"I think I'd like you for a brother," said Freddy appraisingly. "I never had a big brother."

"They are great stuff, big brothers are," assented Dayton, and in spite of himself a note of eagerness crept into his tones. Freddy nodded his head vigorously and, taking his place at the desk, laboriously composed a second letter, while Dayton stared out of the window in moody reflection.

Since his return from the Philippines he had hated himself for the weakness that seemed to set him apart from the other men. He loved Marjorie Bayard more than ever, but Carver Carson seemed to be the favored suitor.

Dayton's illness had made him actually sensitive, and he feared the contrast between himself and the buoyant animalism of Carson.

He was still looking out across the snow covered street, wrapped in a deep melancholy, when he heard Freddy out in the hall speaking.

"I'm going to take this across to the hedge," he said. "Is Mr. Carson about?"

"He will not interfere this time," said Marjorie, with a significant laugh. "Even Mr. Carson seems to realize that the exhibition he made of his temper was very uncalled for. You can take your little letter out without fear that he will trouble you, dear."

"Bess will be waiting," explained Freddy, putting up his face to be kissed, "and, Marjie, I told Mr. Dayton that he could have you for a sweetheart. He hasn't any, and you haven't any. Is it all right?"

"I don't think Mr. Dayton needs your help when he searches for a sweetheart," said Marjorie. She had not quite forgiven Dayton for his coolness since his return.

"Not his help, but his encouragement," corrected Dayton, swinging around suddenly. "He has convinced me that even a wreck like myself may aspire to happiness. But buoyed by hope, Marjorie, I would soon be myself again. I had not dared hope that you would care for me with stalwart Carson always by your side."

"Mr. Carson," repeated Marjorie, with a little shudder, "if you could only have seen him a little while ago."

"Then I am doubly indebted to Freddy!" cried Dayton as he caught her hand, but the look in Marjorie's eyes told him that he was indebted only to himself.

Taming Lions by Tobacco.

We have all heard the old wheeze of taming a lion or tiger by steadily keeping your eye fixed on him. According to one of the keepers at Bostock's, a more effective method is a cigar or cigarette.

"Nearly every wild beast that I ever come across," said this official to the writer the other day, "is fond of tobacco in some shape or form. I made this discovery quite accidentally. Once, when I was in America with this show, one of the visitors, who was smoking a cigar, puffed some of the smoke into the lion's face as he lay asleep in the cage. I expected to see a real riot, but instead of that the lion, after giving a couple of sneezes, moved quietly up to the bars and raised his nose sniffingly as if asking for a second dose. I have made the experiment on all sorts of wild animals since, and I have found that most of them enjoy thoroughly a big sniff of tobacco. We had a bear here once that used to rub his nose and back against the bars of his cage, just like a cat asking to be stroked, whenever any one smoking a cigar came near him. Antelopes and wild goats aren't satisfied with the mere whiff. If you give them a cigar or cigarette they will swallow it eagerly and, what is more, seem to suffer no bad effects from their meal."—London Scraps.

Homemade Lamp Shades.

Charmingly dainty lamp shades may be made at small expense if a girl has any knowledge of working with water colors. Even with tracing paper and a pencil decidedly pretty Japanese effects may be secured. For a foundation wire frames of various shapes can be purchased, but if stiff paper is to be used as a covering the simple, straight shades are best. When covering either frame, at the top should be tacked a piece of asbestus that is at least two inches deep. This will entirely prevent the paper from burning.

If the paper is to be painted the easiest method will be to cut a pattern and lay this on rough white water color paper. When the exact size has been determined the stiff paper should be neatly pasted at the two edges and held in place over the frame until it has "set." White cotton thread and a few stitches are the easiest and firmest way of attaching it to the frame at top and bottom.

This done, the background is ready for decoration. What this shall be depends upon the individual skill or desire. Medallions, heads set into little backgrounds of color and framed with fine lines of gilt and silver, are always charming. The frame effect may be joined by tying bowknots together at the top, so that little medallions seem to be suspended by ribbons of gold or a color. Large birds, such as storks, are most decorative and when done in a flight are not difficult. Flowers and rural scenes of various kinds may be used.

It is sometimes possible to find beautiful photographs, and with these, unmounted, novel effects can be made. They may be placed on the paper in a line or irregularly, cutting out the background. This renders the pictures transparent when the light is waning. They should be neatly pasted on, first trimming the paper edge in scallops or points to make a finished frame. If one does not wish to do this, a design may be done with a paint brush in such manner as to simulate a frame. One who cannot use brushes will find that gilt and silver beadings in the fancy paper departments are very pretty and not hard to put on. These "frame effects" may become most elaborate by pasting on different decorations.

Practical Education.

Dr. Helen C. Putnam, who has been appointed by the American Academy of Science chairman of a committee to investigate the teaching of hygiene in the public schools, thinks that most of the teaching by present day methods is not what it should be and especially is opposed to the so called nature teaching. She believes that biology should be taught and that the lessons in hygiene should be personal ones. For instance, she would give no perfunctory lesson on cleanliness to a dirty child until he is no longer dirty. The habit of keeping clean should be insisted upon from the time the pupil enters school

Dreadnought Question Has Raised Hot Dispute.

KING THANKS NEW ZEALAND

His Majesty Cables Appreciation of Colony's Offer of Warship—States of Commonwealth Cannot Agree on Question of Helping British Navy—Asquith Explains Mistake Regarding Germany.

Sydney, N.S.W., March 27.—Public opinion here is sharply divided over the question of the British navy increase, the Federal Government having declined to follow New Zealand's example and grant the funds to construct the additional vessels many clamored for.

Wildly enthusiastic demonstrations were held simultaneously at Sydney, Melbourne, Hobart and Perth. Resolutions were adopted urging that the payment be increased for a subsidy for the imperial navy and asking for subscriptions to defray the cost of presenting a battleship. Patriotic songs were sung at all the meetings.

Mr. O'Sullivan, formerly a Cabinet Minister at Sydney, declared that Great Britain should terminate Germany's rivalry by at once seizing the Kaiser's fleet, said that the Germans were the most callous, sordid and selfish people in the world, and declared that England should repeat Nelson's performance at Copenhagen.

The mayors of Brisbane and Adelaide refused to participate in the demonstrations by calling meetings, and in their respective cities counter meetings of the Labor parties were held to deprecate what was termed patriotic hysteria.

Claiming that the Commonwealth can best assist the mother land by relieving her of responsibility in defending Australia in the present position, the Federal Government here looks with disfavor upon both the subsidy and the additional Dreadnought. The Premiers of five states support the subsidy plan without the Dreadnought, the Victorian Premier alone favoring both, and declaring it to be his determination that his Government shall present a battleship in behalf of the state of Victoria.

How Mistake Was Made.

London, March 27.—Premier Asquith has explained to the Commons the discrepancy between his own statement and that made in the Reichstag by Admiral von Tripitz, Secretary of the Admiralty, concerning the number of new battleships which Germany would have by the end of 1912.

He said that Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, had been verbally informed on March 10 that the German Government did not intend to accelerate its naval program, and that it would not have thirteen Dreadnoughts until the end of 1912. Comparing this statement with the information of the British Admiralty, to the effect that the number of such ships would be seventeen, the British Government had concluded that the new battleship and the new cruisers had not been included in the total of thirteen.

Speaking in the Reichstag on March 17, Admiral von Tirpitz made it clear that these cruisers were included, and on March 18 the British Government was further informed that, while two of this year's ships on the German program had been promised by the constructing firms in advance of the usual time, this fact did not nullify the previous statements regarding the date of production.

Premier Asquith intimated that the information might affect the British naval program.

King Cables Thanks.

London, March 27.—(C.A.P. Cable.) The King has wired Premier Ward, through Lord Crewe, expressing his gratitude and high appreciation of the fine patriotism and generosity shown by New Zealand in the magnificent offer made so promptly and spontaneously.

The Lord Mayor of Sydney, Australia, has appealed to the people of New South Wales for $1,000,000 towards a Dreadnought, while Premier Wade of New South Wales advocates an increase of the naval subsidy to $2,000,000.

Ontario Boy Fatally Shot.

Buffalo, N.Y., March 27.—Clement Evans, 12-year-old son of C. Evans, school teacher at Bayaing Stoke, Ont., was shot here last night by a playmate. The bullet pierced the left lung. They were playing hold-up in one of the best streets. Two of the boys were armed. Evans will die.

Everything She Ate
SEEMED A BURDEN TO CARRY.
HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOUR YEARS.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated undigested portions of food which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, thereby only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health and strength to the debilitated system.

Mrs. D. A. Francisco, Rowland, B.C., writes: "I was suffering from stomach trouble of the worst kind for about four years. Everything I ate seemed a burden to carry. I always arose in the morning with a sickening and feverish taste in my mouth and was also troubled with swellings in my hands and feet, which my physician said was due to the disordered state of my stomach. I tried everything that was purchasable, and also consulted two or three physicians, but could find no relief until one of my neighbors told me of a wonderful cure by Burdock Blood Bitters. I used altogether ten bottles and am now perfectly cured. I wish to recommend B.B.B. to anyone who may be as unfortunate as I was.

THE HOME PHYSICIAN

Some Hints to Keep People Well.

As you know, these organs are the great purifiers of the human system. They filter impurities from the blood and pass them from the body. If the kidneys, bowels or skin weaken or get tired out or fail to do their regular work—then the blood becomes laden with impurities and poisoned. If it be the fault of the kidneys, then the skin is overworked in its efforts to throw off the excess of urea or waste matter. The glands become inflamed and enlarged—pimples break out—and there may be a rash or eczema of the skin. If it is the fault of the skin, then the kidneys are strained by overwork and there is constant pain in the back, dizziness, neuralgia, headaches and rheumatism. If it be the fault of the bowels, the blood is poisoned, the skin and kidneys weakened, the stomach upset—and, of course, there is Constipation and Billousness.

How easy it is, then, to be free of all these troubles!

"Fruit-a-tives" is not merely a remedy for any one of these troubles but a cure for all. "Fruit-a-tives" acts on the skin, the liver, and the kidneys. "Fruit-a-tives" keeps all these great organs well and strong, and thus insures the blood being always pure and rich. With "Fruit-a-tives" in the house to take at the first sign of not feeling well, you need not have a day's sickness. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Wallaceburg Sugar Co. will pay dividends, after nearly six lean years.

Col. Charles Clarke, late Speaker of the Legislature, is seriously ill at his home in Elora.

The Grand Trunk will establish a two-cent-a-mile passenger rate between Toronto and Montreal.

Assistant Fire Chief Scott of London, Ont., who fell down a shaft at a fire, is now expected to recover.

A pianist in a Montreal burlesque theatre, driven crazy by the jokes, had himself committed to the asylum.

Flyer In Collision.

Bowmanville, March 27.—While running at a fair rate of speed the Montreal flyer of the Grand Trunk collided with an engine and a caboose on the front of a freight train at 6.30 yesterday morning.

The only one injured was Fireman Arnold Johnston, who had his face badly cut by jumping from the engine of the freight.

Had it not been for the nerve and pluck of the engineer, McKibbon, of the fast train, who stuck to his post and applied the brakes, many of the passengers might have been seriously injured.

The passengers subscribed $100 for the engineer.

The accident was due to freight engine No. 748, in charge of Engineer Zimmerman, failing to reach a siding in time to open the switch for the flyer, which was one-half hour late.

The engine of the passenger train was turned over on its said and the escape of McKibbon with his life was a miracle. The engine and caboose of the freight train also left the rails.

Snowstorm Causes a Fire.

Smith's Falls, March 27.—Snow played havoc with the electric wires here and as a result the telegraph and telephone service is badly demoralized to-day. The weight of snow caused an electric light wire to break and in falling the stay wire of a huge telephone cable was burned and the cable fell to the ground. The telephone, telegraph and electric light wires all became crossed, and this narrowly escaped causing a serious fire in The Record office, where the G.N.W. office is located. The fire was carried into the building. Fortunately it was early in the evening and it was noticed at once and extinguished.

Kidnapped Girl Found.

Chicago, March 27.—A kidnapping which remained a mystery for a quarter of a century, apparently was cleared up here yesterday by the finding in South Chicago of Mrs John Warner, long sought by member of her family in Montreal. The police here received a letter Wednesday from Madame Dame Longevin, of 415 La Gancuetier street, Montreal, asking them to search for her sister Elizabeth, who when five years old was kidnapped from her home in Montreal 25 years ago. The hunt was kept up for six years.

Aerial Science Society.

Ottawa, March 27.—In connection with the visit here Saturday of Dr. Alexander Bell, it is understood that preliminary arrangements will be made for the formation of a National Association for the Promotion of Aerial Navigation.

Dr. Mark G. McElhanney, a local experimenter, has had some correspondence on the question and some of those interested in the science in Montreal and Toronto are expected to meet here.

Dampens the Ardor.

London, March 27.—Considerable doubt is expressed here as to whether the ardor of both Canada and Australia will not be dampened by Premier Asquith's reply to New Zealand saying that the immediate position is "amply secured" and postponing until next year the acceptance of the ship which New Zealand apparently wanted to have laid down immediately.

Subjects for Press Conference.

London, March 27.—The matters to be discussed at the Imperial press conference from June 7 to June 10, are cable news services and press inter-communication, the press and imperial defence, the navy and the army literature and journalism. The chairmen will be Earl Crewe, Hon. Mr. McKenna, and A. J. Balfour and Lord Morley.

FRUIT INSPECTION

Mr. Armstrong Makes Plea For More Officials.

TO GRADE AMERICAN FRUIT

Martin Burrell Argues For Some System of Preventing Dumping of United States Product In Alberta—Railread Sanitation Measure—Policemen Are Barred From Joining Canadian Militia.

Ottawa, March 27.—Suggestions for the development of the fruit-growing industry were made in the Commons yesterday afternoon by many of the rural delegates.

Martin Burrell (Yale-Cariboo) first called attention to some of the weak spots in the Fruit Marks Act. He held that imported fruit should be graded and marked as Canadian fruit is. In the west, they had to face strong competition from the U.S., and there were only two ways to meet that competition; by the protection afforded by the tariff, and by a rigid enforcement of the regulations. Two dangers in imported fruits had to be met, pests and insufficient grading; and the fruit men of British Columbia had learned by experience that eternal vigilance was the price of safety. They had rejected thousands of consignments of all kinds of U.S. fruits as a result of the work of the provincial inspectors, but in the neighboring Province of Alberta the regulations were very feebly enforced and the province was made a dumping ground for culls and diseased fruit.

Mr. Armstrong pointed out that Ontario produced last year 14,000,000 barrels of apples, and he made a plea for more inspectors in that province. He alleged that fruit not up to the act had been exported to England, and if we were to retain our trade there must be a more rigid inspection.

Replying, Hon. Mr. Fisher said it would be impossible to secure enough inspectors to inspect all the fruits of the Dominion. Last year three inspectors had been added to the staff in Ontario and he believed that more should be engaged. The regulations under the fruit marks act applied to imported fruit.

Mr. Lalor believed that there should be an inspector in each county during the packing season. He regretted to notice that last year 37,000 barrels of American apples were imported into the Northwest provinces and he thought the duty might well be increased a little so as to offset the disadvantage of heavy freight rates from Ontario.

Malcolm Schell urged a more active educational campaign for the development of the apple industry. By thorough and systematic spraying he believed the profits on an apple crop could be doubled. The Ontario Government, he believed, was not doing its duty in this regard.

In the House yesterday E. N. Lewis introduced an amendment to the Railway Act to provide for more sanitary conditions in railway carriages and stations, and to secure the appointment of five inspectors to enforce the present law, as wall as a public prosecutor to look into all complaints by private individuals against the railways and to take them before the commission, if necessary.

According to militia orders no policeman may hereafter join the active militia. They are exempt from military service and therefore cannot be counted upon in the event of necessity arising for calling out troops. It is therefore not considered advisable that they should be carried upon the rolls of active militia.

Sir Frederick Borden has received from Lord Strathcona a cablegram in reply to the cable accepting the offer of a quarter of a million dollars for the promotion of physical and military training in the schools.

The high commissioner is "touched" by the action of Parliament, and regards it as a "special privilege to be permitted to assist a movement which I cannot but think will have an important influence in strengthening the self-reliance and usefulness of the rising generation as citizens of the Dominion and the Empire."

Discussing Lord Strathcona's gift of $250,000 for the encouragment of physical and military training in the schools, Senator Choquette in the Upper House yesterday said that the provision that the whole of the money should be devoted to educational establishments, which are maintained entirely out of public funds, would exclude all the schools, colleges and academies of Quebec from the benefits of the fund.

On the third reading of the Blackhall divorce bill, Hon. Mr Cloran moved an amendment that the woman who has been the offender, should not be allowed to marry again in Canada under penalty of the bigamy law. Senator Kirchhoffer doubted if it would promote morality for Parliament to forbid the offender of a divorced pair to remarry. It would have a tendency to prevent one who had once offended reforming and living a respectable and useful life. The amendment failed and the bill read a third time.

Coal Prices Unchanged.

New York, March 27.—There was no reduction in the price of coal here yesterday, the meeting of the Coal Merchants' Association, which had been called to declare the usual spring reduction being postponed, as the expected notification of a reduction in the wholesale price by the operators was not received.

SESSION NEARS END

POWER MOTION RULED OUT

J. C. Elliott of West Middlesex Presents Motion Opposing Act For Validation of Contracts, But It Is Shut Out on Point of Order—Mr. Downey's Tuberculosis Notification Bill Read.

Toronto, March 27.—Pressure is growing on the business capacity of the Legislature in view of the intention of the Government to get through by April 8. A batch of third readings was rushed through yesterday, to which his honor the Lieutenant-Governor will give assent on Monday at 2.30 p. m. The chief items of business were the completion of the validating and dealing with the Hydro-Electric power contracts, and the debate on Joseph Downey's consumption bill requiring notification, which was adjourned at 6 o'clock by Dr. R. F. Preston.

J. C. Elliott, seconded by D. Racine, who is the counsel for J. M McEvoy of London, one of the leading opponents of the Government policy of cheap power for the people of Ontario, presented a long motion on the third reading of the bill by which the electric power bylaws and contracts with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission are validated. It wound up with a proposal to re-submit the whole question once more to the ratepayers; another to repeal the power transmission measures, and one declaring the Hydro-Electric Commission a body corporate.

Premier Whitney called attention to the fact that Mr. Elliott's motion was quite out of order under the rule that no motion shall be prefaced by recitals or preambles. Besides it professed to repeal three different acts by which the power scheme is instituted.

"I brought the bill into committee this afternoon and went through it from end to end, amending every section," remarked the Premier. "That was the time to introduce motions and discussion, and we never heard a word from the Opposition." The motion was ruled out of order and the bill read a third time.

Joseph Downey introduced his bill requiring notification of all cases of consumption. There are from 12,000 to 15,000 infected people in Ontario, with 3,000 deaths annually, and Mr. Downey made a strong and eloquent plea for his bill. New York began with compulsory notification and it had brought about a reduction in the death rate. Education of the people to the advantages of open air treatment would follow the bill.

The House went into committee again on Hon. Adam Beck's bill respecting certain municipal bylaws and agreements.

J. D. McDougall (Ottawa) admitted the bill was meritorious, and was as anxious as any member to further it, but he thought that the ratepayers of a municipality should vote on all questions involving the expenditure of money, and contracts with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission should not be excepted.

Sir James Whitney stated that, as the law stood at present, it was impossible for any municipality to enter into a contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission without first submitting the question to the ratepayers.

Sir James Whitney's bill to validate the power bylaws and contracts which had been passed by various municipalities was again considered in committee, and several amendments made. The Premier was anxious to have this bill passed by the House and thereupon moved the third reading.

J. C. Elliott, member for West Middlesex, complained that the provisions of this bill would work a hardship upon farmers and others through whose lands the transmission lines would pass. They did not receive the same benefit as a farmer would through whose lands a railway might pass. They had no redress for injury or damage to stock, crops or buildings.

The Canada Central was given another opportunity to utilize its charter to build from Sudbury to Little Current and on Manitoulin Island by the private bills committee. A clause will be inserted guaranteeing that certain work will be commenced.

The Southwestern Traction Co., which will run to Port Stanley, were given power to issue new bonds to the extent of $6,000 per mile to liquidate a floating debt of $150,000.

Port Arthur and Fort William may continue to operate Sunday cars, decreed the committee, but the men shall not be compelled to work more than six days in any week, and cars shall not run outside the municipalities.

Natural Gas For Windsor.

Windsor, March 27.—D. A. Coste, representing the Volcanic Oil & Gas Co., has applied to the city for a franchise to supply Windsor with natural gas from the Tilbury field. He claims there is an abundant supply and plenty of capital to provide for expenditure of piping.

DAINTY FROCKS in SILK and CLOTH for EASTER DANCES

FROM Easter week on through the spring and early summer is the time when the school girl and débutante of the coming winter have the greatest amount of gayety of the entire year. Before Lent all interest must be devoted to the older sister, but once the Easter holidays commence then the débutante is a débutante no longer. She must take her place with those who have been out for one winter and more, while all attention is directed toward the school girl—her informal dances and dinners of holiday week, the various festivities connected with her graduation or school commencement, and then, later on, the college "proms" and class day exercises of the different universities, which mean to the school girl all of the delight and considerably less of the dread of ' first ball to a débutante.

Just what style of dress is most suitable for a girl to wear at these more or less informal gayeties which she attends before she is a full fledged débutante occasions, year after year, considerable discussion. Should she wear a low cut evening gown? Is a real train permissible and are silk and satin suitable for the girl who has still one term to serve in the schoolroom? These are the questions which are brought up with clockwork regularity, and it is interesting to note that during the last few years there has been considerable change in the ideas of just what is the suitable evening frock for the girl of from seventeen to eighteen years of age. Until within a few years the rule was rigidly held to that until she had been formally introduced no girl should wear a train skirt nor a conventional evening gown, the idea being that no gathering sufficiently formal to warrant a low cut gown should be attended before her own début. Comfort, however, has perhaps been the chief agent in installing the short sleeve, collarless bodice for dancing, and to-day even very young girls wear the cut out, V-shaped, round or Dutch neck, with elbow length sleeves, while the girl of seventeen, and even sixteen, if she be unusually tall for her age, is sometimes permitted to wear a full length skirt and a bodice cut some two or three inches lower than the regulation Dutch yoke. Invariably, however, the ordinary Dutch neck or collarless yoke is the most attractive, and the low gown should not really be worn until the summer, or perhaps the spring, before the girl is to leave school.

Motives of pure economy, nothing else, have brought into fashion the wearing of silk and soft satin fabrics by girls just entering their teens. Chiffon and dainty nets and mousselines make unquestionably the most attractive frocks for young girls, but so very perishable are nearly all of these soft, sheer textures that an extravagantly extensive trousseau would be necessary for the popular girl of to-day, whose festivities are quite as numerous, if of a different kind, as are those of any débutante. So soft and clinging and so becoming, with their delicate satin sheen, however, are the silk fabrics now thought permissible for even girls of about fifteen years of age that the passing of the old custom of not allowing silk to be donned prior to the eighteenth birthday cannot be regretted. One simple gown of soft white, pale blue or pink silk, fashioned in the extreme of simplicity, is to-day an almost necessary part of the school girl's outfit.

With one soft silk or satin gown to build on there should be in every young girl's outfit one or more evening gowns in such textures as chiffon, chiffon cloth, voile ninon, crystalline, silk mousseline, finest lace trimmed organdie or any other of the numerous varieties of voile and chiffon. The finer voiles this year are exquisitely pretty, especially those with a small check, stripe or figure in the weave. In the less perishable shades voile is always excellent for any afternoon gown for the early spring, while in the delicate hues this texture is exceedingly pretty for evening wear.

No matter what bright or unusually effective shades may be fashionable for evening wear for the grown-ups, for young girls the colors always remain about the same. First in popularity stands white, next pink and blue, according to the wearer's coloring, and then yellow and pale, cool shades of green, these last being possible only for those girls to whom the shade is especially good with their coloring. Old rose, in all its varieties, and cerise are also smart, but are kept more for afternoon, unless as trimming for gowns mainly white.

In the fashions of this spring there is noticeable a reversion to many of the models of two, three and even four years ago, last year's gowns alone being apparently hopelessly old fashioned. That so popular model of a princesse gown, for example, fashioned with a wide band of gathering or smocking about the waist and l.ps, the skirt somewhat full, trimmed simply with bands of insertion or of tucks above the hem and the waist adorned only with a deep lace yoke of the material inset with lace, is once again to be seen. This model, however, is not yet so popular as are some of those which are quite unlike any that have been made up for some time past. The draped gown made all in one piece, with the effect of an overskirt where the material is draped across the figure, is extremely pretty and especially good for a slender, youthful figure. This style of gown should be finished with a collarless yoke of lace and sleeves of elbow length.

High waist lines are still in evidence on a great majority of the newest frocks, but it is doubtful if this exaggerated line will remain long in favor on the gowns designed for young girls, as unless cut with absolute perfection this style of dress calls for a long sweep of train to give a good effect of proportion in line. Sashes and girdles of all kinds are seen on a number of the smartest party frocks, and indeed the long ribbon ends falling down the skirt from a knot or rosette fastened a little to one side of the centre back or front do much to trim the otherwise rather severe skirts, which, while extremely graceful and attractive when of full length, are seldom so good when the skirt clears the ground, whether it be two or twelve inches from the floor.

Just what the prevailing fashions of the moment are it is as difficult to state positively in the clothes for young girls as it is for the older women. Among the very newest importations from Paris are gowns more than ever sheathlike and with sleeves of elbow length and these are displayed to the would-be purchaser simultaneously with costumes designed quite evidently from the pictures of Mme. de Pompadour and the styles prevailing at the French court toward the middle of the eighteenth century. The long pointed bodice and wide skirt with considerable fulness gathered in about the hips are certainly a decided contrast to the narrow, skimpy skirts now everywhere familiar and the development of the latter style to the former will be an interesting one to study. For young girls of course there are never the same extremes, but the question of whether the skirt is to be full or close fitting and the waist band abnormally high or exaggeratedly long and pointed must surely be taken into consideration.

It is safe to say that for the next few months anyway schoolgirl fashions will show little that is extreme. The waist bands will be somewhat more close to the natural waist line and the skirts, fortunate to relate, will have greater width and more flare than was seen during the winter. Some few of the dresses of the sheer materials will show shirrings and gatherings about the waist and hips, but the majority will be trimmed just above or near the hem, if trimmed at all, and plain gored and circular skirts will be seen to a large extent.

The question of sleeves is an interesting one. With few exceptions, and those only in the most elaborate style of afternoon and theatre dress, sleeves are all to be long. With the so-called dinner gown, however—that is, the dress cut out slightly at the throat—short sleeves are frequently seen in the latest models, although long sleeves are evidently in favor. A girl dancing frock, however, must stand a comparison with the ball gown of a few seasons hence, and long sleeves with short gloves never seem so appropriate for evening wear as do those of elbow length with long gloves to correspond. Then again the short sleeves are apt to be the more comfortable.

A gown finished with a high collar, even of the sheerest transparent lace or net, calls for full length sleeves, but a frock with collarless yoke, if made of some such material as chiffon, net, crêpe de Chine, organdie or silk mousseline, will be very smart with half length sleeves.

The short sleeves this year are quite different from those of last spring. The full puff effect has given way to a tight fitting sleeve of the material of the dress itself, not a sharply contrasting white, and the old Mandarin armhole has disappeared from view. It will be found infinitely easier this spring to alter any waists or gowns of two years back, provided there are any such still in existence, than it will be to fix over and make up to date the dresses of only a year ago.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

PRESENTING persons to one another promiscuously is exceedingly bad form, and too much care cannot be taken to avoid making blunders in this matter.

It is not customary to make introductions in the street or in public places, although there may be exceptional occasions when it is permissible. If while out with a friend you encounter another friend with whom you wish to stop and speak—the two not being known to one another—just step aside with the newcomer, chat only for a moment and rejoin your friend who waits near by for you or strolls slowly ahead. To keep this friend waiting any length of time would be extremely thoughtless and selfish.

This rule of etiquette should be clearly understood and rigidly acted on, else bad feeling may arise, for it will easily be seen if one were so careless as to behave one way at one time in regard to this matter and another way at another time one's friends would not know what to expect and would be likely to have cause for offence.

Never present persons to each other without first finding out if an introduction will be agreeable. This, of course, does not apply to intercourse under your own roof, where as hostess you have latitude and can properly assume that those whom you have selected to bring together on the occasion will wish to meet one another. But when you are the guest you must not feel the same freedom. At such a time should any one ask you to present him or her to another, you should refer the person to your hostess or to your chaperon or consult them yourself before taking any action.

When you are presenting your young friends to older persons you are naturally on your guard to do it in a formal and dignified way, but do not think you can throw formality to the winds on other occasions. A very pretty girl on the porch of a country club the other day made herself conspicuous by an exhibition of bad manners due to indifference rather than to ignorance, one felt, for her appearance indicated social advantages. So she must have known that when she dashed across the porch, snatched a girl friend by the arm, pulled her across to the rail and presented her there to a young man with whom she had been previously talking, and who was obviously waiting for this hara-kiri introduction to take place, she was doing an exceedingly ill bred thing.

It was rude to the girl, dragged over in this manner without knowing what it was all about. Had she known she undoubtedly would not have come, for we all recent liberties, and all girls know perfectly well that it is not their place to go forward when a young man is to be presented, but that it is his place to go or to be brought to them. And all properly brought up young men know this, but perhaps this one was not conversant with the usages of good society, or perhaps he thought it a "joke" to ungallantly stand there and let the girl be brought to his side. Whatever his reasons he put himself in a bad light as did also the pretty girl, who acted thoughtlessly, no doubt, without realizing her discourtesy to her girl friend.

Latest Neckwear Novelties.

SO easy is it to copy the latest neckwear novelties that any girl who sews neatly may have an extensive collection of stocks, collars and jabots. Some of the Dutch collars are made of sheer, fine linen, hand embroidered and trimmed with real Cluny or Valenciennes; others have two rows of narrow lace insertion and a lace edge finishing and a third sort are of muslin embroidery, all white or partially colored, bordered with a narrow frilling of lace. Lingerie Dutch collars are mounted smoothly upon inch wide lawn bands with projecting ends, which are fastened beneath the neck of the bodice, while those composed wholly of lace all over and frillings are finished at the top with a narrow edging or beading and at the ends with medallions or motifs.

Exceedingly pretty turned over collars consist of straight bands of embroidered heavy or fine linen, of muslin embroidery or of wide lace edging mounted upon a narrow strip of linen with projecting ends, which join beneath a butterfly bow of material matching the collar. More elaborate collars, which hook about the throat, consist of a band and bow of Irish crochet lace and French lawn or a silk band with a lace and silk bow.

Some of the new stock, bow and jabot combinations are made of linen or soft lawn embroidered with colored polka dots and other small designs, but among the prettiest and most easily made separate jabots are those composed of handkerchief sized squares, bordered with lace insertions and edgings. They are narrowly side plaited from the sides toward the centre and at the top are turned back slightly, thus making a blunt cornered diamond shape of the original square.

Plain linen Ascots have four-in-hand ends embroidered in Japanese and Oriental patterns done with white or red, navy, black, brown, Alice blue, mauve or pastel launderable floss.

Japanese Flower Effects.

GIRLS who are studying Japanese flower arrangement, which is one of the fads of the hour, have for use in their work [illegible] the most fascinating little tools imaginable. They are practically uniform in size, about eight inches long and of the fine workmanship for which the Japanese are noted. The tools, which include a pruning knife and a quaint little saw, are used both in the woods [illegible] when gathering branches and flowers as well as at home in preparing them [illegible] to exactly fit into the pale assigned them in the artistic compositions [illegible] the creative Japanese delight in.

FANCY APRONS FOR EASTER BAZAAR

GIRLS who have pledged themselves to contribute toward an Easter bazaar may easily make a number of aprons from materials which may be purchased with a comparatively small amount of money and at an expenditure of a few hours' time, as much of the labor may be done with a sewing machine.

Among the most salable aprons are those worn when serving five o'clock tea. They are small heart shaped affairs of plain or dotted Swiss with heart shaped bibs and pockets, trimmed with ribbon threaded beading and lace and with ribbon strings and bows.

Diamond shaped tea aprons with diamond bibs and pockets are simply squares of plain lawn, striped or checked dimity or flowered organdie narrowly frilled with Valenciennes or Cluny lace and attached to the string belts by one point. The two points at the sides of those sewed to the belt are tacked to the frock with fancy pins.

Sewing aprons are rather small ovals or rounds of plain or crossbar lawn trimmed with narrow ruffles and one ribbon bow decorated pocket. Or a deep square of lingerie material is attached to a sash band and turned up at the bottom to form a six inch deep pocket. The same models are employed for the little black sateen aprons which some women prefer to white, and for those dainty and rather quaint affairs of black China silk with herringboned hems done in colored silk floss.

Parisiennes afternoon aprons are of white batiste cut into medium squares or ovals and ruffled all around, including the straps which go over the shoulders and join the strings at the back of the waist.

Maids' morning aprons are of white lawn trimmed with a row of tucks surmounting a deep hem or a wide ruffle of embroidery.

Housewives' work aprons of Scotch and Madras gingham are of dress length and consist of four straight widths shirred onto a wide bias band which forms a Dutch neck and finishes the sleeveless arm eyes. Sometimes the widths are gathered into a deep square shoulder yoke finished with a band collar to match the cuffs of the full length balloon sleeves.

Shirred Ring Mesh Bags.

SHIRRED ring mesh German silver handbags and fancy bead bags with shirred tops are carried by many young girls to the matinee, as they readily accommodate the folding opera glasses and several minor "vanity" tools, as well as the exceedingly tiny gold chain or metal coin purse usually slipped between the palm and the inside of the glove. These bags are not so substantial now ever, as those of pure seal or beaded leather, which come in many sizes and shapes and in colors to match any costume, though white, the bisque and the pearl tones are preferred, especially when the mountings are of gold, silver or precious stones.

Lizard skin is considered an exceptionally smart leather bag for a matinee or an afternoon shopping bag.

More practical bags to be used for travelling or for motoring are of pigskin, ruffed alligator, black seal or sole leather. One size contains receptacles for a comb, several small brushes, hairpins, tooth powder, cream, bottle and soap and manicure tools. Another more capacious bag will accommodate everything [illegible] could possibly be needed by the traveller, even to a sewing tube, an alcohol lamp and one or two candles.

SUITABLE GIFTS FOR THE TRAVELLER

ARTICLES suitable for steamship presents are of infinite variety and many of them are ornamental as well as practical. A folding tourist case which will roll up into a compact parcel, secured by a buckle fitted attached strap, is developed in enamelled leather, pigskin morocco and seal monogram decorated on the exterior and silk lined. It contains compartments for combs, brushes, soap, sponge, mirror and hairpin cases and a twelve space for keys and other small articles.

Less expensive cases of canvas, cloth, denim or cretonne are neatly tape edged, buckle fastened and lined with padded cardboard. Hanging soap and sponge bags are made of flowered cretonne, crash, linen or silk mesh or lace [illegible] ornamented with ribbon rosettes and lined with rubber or oil cloth. They usually close with drawstrings at the top.

Night robe cases of taffeta, satin or fine linen, embroidered in floral designs and equipped with ribbon hangers, are of oblong envelope shape, with deep flaps to be fastened down with large ornamental buttons.

Shoe cases of stout material like natural colored canvas, printed cretonne or figured pique are decorated with ribbon work, soutache braiding or German embroidery floss and lined with oil silk or rubber. They are made on the same plan as are the folding tourist outfits but on a larger scale and divided into compartments of shoe, slipper and rubber size.

Ribbon bound kimonos are made of French flannel, outing stripes, cashmere, serge or any soft worsted fabric that promises warmth. They are long enough or taste to cover the entire figure, have wide sleeves shirred into a wrist band and fronts provided with military [illegible] set at intervals between the throat and the hem. Some of them have an attached hood of the Red Riding order and also a deep patch pocket to hold the toilet articles in case the tourist has not a private bathroom.

Every woman will appreciate a fancy ribbon trimmed lingerie cap with which to cover her disordered tresses in case of illness, and these are readily contrived from embroidery edged fine lawn handkerchiefs, from odd bands of muslin embroidery, batiste or Valenciennes allover lace.

Immensely long and wide veils of satin silk, chiffon cloth, mousseline or gauze attractively bordered are always welcome steamer gifts, especially if they are of a becoming shade or one likely to prevent the face from tanning. The safest choice is modest brown, dark red, straw

To Clean Lace Waists.

IF you wish to cleanse a lace waist without any trouble at all just get a covered stone crock, fill it full of naphtha, put your waist in it and leave it there over night. Every vestige of dirt will sonk out and all you have to do the next morning is to rinse the waist in fresh naphtha and hang it up in the sun to dry. Put it on a dress hanger to dry, and put the shoulders down straight, for this shapes it, and no ironing will be necessary if while it is damp you will smooth it out with your hand. For safety it is well to have the crock of naphtha out in the yard over night, and the odor will more quickly evaporate if the rinsing and drying are done out of doors.

Beauty Patches Again.

WITH the revival of the picturesque in dress, bits of court plaster on the face have again come into fashion, and there is quite a blossoming of the tiny disks and crescents of yesteryear. It is not good form to put on these beauty patches in the day time, but with evening dress, which is always embellished with ornamentation, it is now the fashion to use them, and older girls may put on one tiny little patch with propriety.

The Breakfast Food Man.

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Hugh Sommers, tearing down the snowy road in his huge red automobile, spied the girl a little distance ahead of him. He pulled the car to a standstill beside her and smiled appreciatively at her rosy cheeks and her becoming tam o' shanter and sweater jacket.

"Hello, neighbor," he cried.

"Hello, Mr. Breakfast Food Man," the girl replied rather grudgingly and somewhat sarcastically.

The man grinned, though rather uncomfortably.

"I suppose," he said, "that you think it's something awful for me to be making my money in such a prosaic way as feeding the public at the breakfast table. Would you think any the better of me if my money was tied up in railroad and government bonds, as I suppose your father's estate is?"

The girl surveyed the man critically from heel to head while he reddened under her glance.

"It's hard to tell," she replied candidly at last. "When I think of that awful wheatflaka that you manufacture it seems to obscure whatever good qualities you may have. I see you through falling flakes of that unspeakable stuff."

"Wheatflaka is every bit as good as and better than wheato!" he flared. "And that's the only other brand on the market that has sales anywhere nearly as big as ours!"

At this the girl simply raised her eyebrows. Then on second thought she said:

"Naturally that's your opinion. But we eat wheato at our breakfast table."

She turned defiantly and started down the road.

"Wait!" cried Hugh, jumping from his machine. "Don't go away like this.

"HAVE YOU COME TO MARRY ME, MR. FOOD?" SHE ASKED GAYLY.

You probably think of me as utterly impossible, but I'm hanged if I'm going to let a breakfast food come between us.

"I could explain to you how wheatflaka is made and show you how perfectly pure and wholesome it is, but you wouldn't understand it. I might tell you that we are soon going to begin an advertising campaign that will wipe wheato off the market, but you don't understand business."

"Indeed!" ejaculated the girl.

"But you can understand this," Hugh rushed on. "You can understand me when I say I love you. I've loved you from the moment I saw you, and, no matter how you think of me now, no matter what you say, I'm going to make you love me and marry me! Just as I'm going to be successful in this fight against wheato, I'm going to win you!"

A deep, indignant flush suffused the girl's face. Then she laughed mockingly.

"Really, Mr. Breakfast Food Man," she cried, "you can't make a girl marry you by the same tactics you would employ in a business campaign. If your endeavors with wheatflaka are no more successful than your endeavors will be to win me, it will certainly go hard with you."

Haughty and stern, she stood with averted face until Hugh, somewhat abashed, climbed into his machine and whirled down the road.

But Hugh's buoyant nature soon reasserted itself. He had never yet failed in anything that he had undertaken. Why, then, should he fail when it came to winning a wife?

Confident that when the time really came the girl would capitulate, he pigeonholed his courtship for future attention and gave all his energies into the prosecution of his campaign against wheato.

For a week or more the campaign progressed in a most satisfactory manner. Consumers and jobbers throughout the country responded in a wonderfully gratifying manner to Hugh's aggressive advertising. He felt that his efforts were already crowned with success. His salesmen everywhere reported that the sales of wheato had greatly decreased.

Then suddenly out of a clear sky came a storm cloud. The wheato company in page advertisements in many leading newspapers published a complete report of the method by which wheatflaka was manufactured. In this report it was shown that three times during the process the food was touched by human hands.

The wheato company pointed out to the public the danger of contamination and pollution of the food through this agency and further declared that wheato was manufactured by the most cleanly process which could possibly be used.

The effect of this advertising was to cut the sales of wheatflaka in half at once. Hugh immediately ordered the entire process of manufacture changed, but he realized that it would be some time before the food recovered from its slump.

For the time his campaign against wheato was abandoned. He was too busy endeavoring to hold his own business together to bother much about the enemy.

It was a rather discouraged Hugh who came upon the girl for the second time as he plowed through the deep snow in his big car.

Arrayed as before, she was standing just inside the gate leading to her home. The house where she and her widowed mother lived was a big affair, a half mile or so down the road from Hugh's home.

The girl actually smiled as she saw Hugh's disconsolate and haggard face.

"Why, it's the breakfast food man," she laughed. "Have you come to marry me, Mr. Food?" she asked gayly.

"Not yet," replied the man doggedly. "But I'm going to some day. Heavens, how I love you!" he cried as he gazed hungrily at her flushed face. "I never knew what it was before to love. Now, when I can't have you right when I want you my whole being cries aloud for you."

The girl, her face all aflame, laughed again, this time rather constrainedly.

"Really you are a very original lover, Mr. Food," she said. "None of the other men has ever said such things to me so unconcernedly."

"Who are the other men?" demanded Hugh fiercely. Then he laughed at himself. "I'm hardly in a position now to ask," he went on. "But I'm going to win out. I'm going to win at that factory, and then I'll come and win you!"

He jerked the lever forward, and the great car shot away.

However, despite Hugh's confident prediction, he found it exceedingly difficult to win out in his fight against wheato. In fact, the campaign went so severely against him that in a short time he found himself facing failure.

It was then that the girl rose uppermost in his thought to the exclusion even of his business worries. Finally doggedly he went to see the girl herself.

She entered the room in her home, where he awaited her, with a smile on her lips. She became serious instantly, though, when she saw his haggard face and the new lines lately etched in it.

"Dear," said Hugh abruptly, "I've come to you now in a different mood. For the first time in my life I face defeat in my business, and I know now - I realize that I cannot win you.

"It is to tell you that I still love you and that some time, when I have begun life anew, I'm going to return and try, as best I can, to win you. I want to apologize for the manner in which I have courted you heretofore."

For a moment the girl looked at him; then, averting her eyes, she spoke quickly:

"I know exactly how you stand in your business," she said. "I am the cause of it. Don't interrupt me. Just before my father died he purchased a controlling interest in the wheato company, and the fight which was waged against you was at my instigation. I —I thought I hated you."

Hugh rose abruptly, but the girl hurried on.

"You need lose but little, after all," said the girl. "The demand for wheato has increased, so that additional factories are imperative. We will take over your factories for a price that will let them out, or we will consolidate with you."

"Bother the business!" cried Hugh, jumping to his feet. "You—you don't hate me?"

"No," murmured the girl.

"Then is it—can you possibly"—

The girl looked upward at him shyly. What Hugh saw there gave him courage.

"We'll consolidate!" he cried, great joy in his voice, and he ratified the consolidation with a kiss.

Inventor of Roller Skate.

It will surprise many old and young American boys and girls to learn that the inventor of the roller skate was a Dutchman named Merlin, who visited England in 1760. Eight years later he exhibited a "pair of skates contrived to run on wheels" at a museum in London and also gave public exhibition of his prowess in skating over a smooth floor, playing a violin the while. It appears, however, that his demonstrations were on occasions rather more exciting than successful, for it is recorded that he used to fall about and smash into mirrors and pictures which covered the walls of the room.

Needn't Hurry.

An old Kansas citizen who had been henpecked all his life was about to die. His wife felt it her duty to offer him such consolation as she might and said, "John, you are about to go, but I will follow you." "I suppose so, Maud," said the old man weakly, "but so far as I am concerned you don't need to be in any blamed hurry about it."—Argonaut.

King Congratulates Shackleton.

London, March 27.—King Edward has joined in the congratulations which are being showered on Lieut. Ernest H. Shackleton since the news reached England of his achievement in almost reaching the South Pole. In a telegram of congratulations the King accedes to Lieut. Shackleton's request for permission to name a new range of mountains he discovered in the far south after Queen Alexandra.

The explorer's father, who is living in London, also was inundated with telegrams and letters of congratulations.

Auto Liability Settled.

New York, March 27.—The somewhat novel legal question as to whether owners of automobiles are liable for injuries received by their guests while speeding was raised in a suit for $25,000 damages brought against Dr. Julian P. Thomas, the aeronaut, and decided in his favor. The suit was brought by Miss Francis Haas, who was riding with Dr. Thomas when his machine was wrecked against a telegraph pole two years ago. She lost a leg.

Students Clash.

Sackville, N.B., March 27.—Mount Allison University students got into a bad mix-up with the police here last night.

While celebrating their victory in a debate with the University of New Brunswick, they pulled the fire alarm, rang church bells and lit bonfires in the streets.

The whole police department turned out, and after some injuries had been received, the students dispersed.

Tug Captain Drowned.

Vancouver, B.C., March 27.—Married only two weeks ago, Capt. Barron of the tug Mystery was drowned on Thursday night.

When Bureau Drawers Stick.

To prevent bureau drawers from sticking wax the bearings. Use a good floor wax, rubbing it to a gloss. This is much better than the old, untidy way of using soap, which is rarely satisfactory, and, besides, the wax will not catch and hold dust and dirt as the soap would.

THE VALUE OF TEARS.

A Good Hearty Cry Often Leaves the Person Refreshed.

Tears are a valuable and incidentally a much abused means of relieving nervous tension. For relief their importance cannot be overestimated, but when they are allowed to flow to the extent of creating weakness they become a source of danger justifying heroic measures to stop. A little crying at times is excellent and has often saved the mind of more than one woman, but the crying habit is almost as deeply to be deplored as that of taking a drug.

In effect the results of the two are not very different. Excessive weeping weakens the mind and nerves as well as the character. It also taxes the physical strength, and a woman who allows herself to indulge in a burst of tears every time there is the slightest cause shows no more strength of mind and character than might be expected of a child.

One of the times when tears are justified is when a woman has been through a severe nervous strain of some kind and is wrought up to a point of exhaustion. But this point has by no means been reached simply because she is annoyed, for example, or has been disappointed. A child cries when refused candy. If a woman also sheds tears because she cannot have a new gown or go to the theater there is little to choose between the two individuals except that she is old enough to know better. No wise person permits the child to continue crying, and certainly the woman should not permit herself such outbursts.

Yet if she is experiencing great grief, whether it comes suddenly or after weeks, such as death through illness, tears for a time will help. But should she allow them to continue they will take from her strength just as surely as would the constant use of a drug.

This fact a woman who does not wish to belittle her mind and character should remember. Whining tears being squeezed out on the slightest provocation are unjustified. A good hearty cry that leaves the person refreshed and stronger none need object to.

THE UNUSED DOOR.

Two Very Artistic Ways of Covering Its Unsightliness.

A doorway unused for some reason or other and the door kept locked can be utilized by converting its recess into a bookcase. This can be done by setting up two vertical boards on each side of the door jamb and on these boards nailing the crosspieces on which the shelves are to rest or, better still, fastening them with screws. The entire woodwork should match that of the door and casing. If this cannot be done, then the wood should be stained to match it as near as possible. A curtain may be hung from a rod fastened just inside of the door jambs or, if the recess be shallow, from a rod fastened across the outside of the door recess, as shown in the illustration.

A closed door also makes a fine recess in which to place a painting. If the painting is not long enough to fill the space a stand can be placed in front, as shown in the other cut. Draperies may be applied in this case should the particular painting not be of sufficient width to fill the space.

POPE'S DAYS NUMBERED?

European Correspondent Declares Pius X. Is Not Very Well.

Chicago, March 29.—The Marquise de Fontenoy in The Chicago Tribune: That Pius X.'s health is far more seriously impaired than is admitted by the official bulletins issued at Rome is known to the Cabinets and diplomatic Chancelleries of every capital of Europe as well as at Washington, Rio, Buenos Ayres and Santiago. The gravity of his condition led to an extraordinary meeting of the members of the Sacred College, which took place on the evening of March 3 at the residence of Cardinal Rampolla, in the rear of St. Peter's. Sixteen cardinals were present, and, while the proceedings were strictly secret, it is learned that at the conclusion of the conference long cipher despatches were sent over the wires to absent members of the Sacred College in other parts of Italy and abroad.

While it is impossible to speak with any degree of certitude as to the contents of these messages there is every reason to believe that they refer to the imminence of a conclave and to the conviction that the days of kindly old Pius X. are numbered.

The suffragettes on Saturday found a woman at Croyden, Eng., whose name had been placed on the voters' list by mistake. She refuses to vote in spite of their entreaties.

Third Wife Is Sighted.

St. Catharines, March 29.—Another woman has appeared who claims Walter Blizzard, the young ex-city fireman, charged with bigamy, as her lawfully wedded husband. Saturday morning Blizzard was put on his trial charged with marrying Alice Krick of Smithville, last September, when he had married Mrs. Goff of this city in 1904, and has lived with her ever since. Both marriage certificates are in the crown's hands.

The crown attorney read a letter from a young woman, living in Chicago, in which she stated that she was Blizzard's wife, and that he had married her before he married Mrs. Goff. The prisoner was accordingly remanded to jail until April 15, so that the Chicago woman may be brought here as a witness.

New Fire-Killer.

New York, March 29.—With dozens of representatives of large corporations, Edward Croker, chief of the fire department, witnessed a demonstration on Saturday of the power of a new flame extinguisher.

The test proved that the extinguisher was of special value in fires having origin in electrical apparatus. In the natural state it is a liquid, but when projected toward a flame the heat hereof transforms the fluid into a vapor which destroyed the oxygen around the flame and thus robs the fire of its source of life.

Stole Money and Trousers.

Columbus, Ohio, March 29.—J. J. Tierney, a coal operator of Elkins, W.Va., who left Cleveland Friday night over the Big Four Railroad, found himself in the embarrassing position of not being able to leave the train at Columbus on Saturday for want of proper clothing and without money enough to purchase a meal. As he slept someone stole his trousers, $65 in money, a gold watch, chain and secret society locket, two railroad mileage books and everything else in the pockets.

Turkish Parliament Censors Press.

Constantinople, March 29.—Parliament has decided to ask Hilmi Pasha to expel the editors of the English newspaper, The Levant Herald, and the Greek journals Neologos and Prodos for attacking the Young Turk Committee. It declares that they have no right to criticize the present organization of the country. There is, however, little probability that these expulsions will be consented to by the Government.

West Favors Naval Aid.

Winnipeg, March 29.—Throughout the Pacific west Boards of Trade are passing resolutions favoring a contribution by Canada of a Dreadnought or a lump sum to the Imperial navy.

A local paper has asked the mayors of western towns and prominent members of the various Boards of Trade for their opinion as to what action, if any, should be taken by Canada, to contribute to the navy, and the response has been practically unanimous in favor of aid, though opinions are divided as to the precise form.

Chief Asked to Resign.

Kingston, March 29.—At a private meeting of the fire committee, the resignation of Chief Elmer was asked for as part of the scheme of reorganizing the fire department. His resignation has not yet been received. There is opposition to this disposing of the chief and a petition is in circulation against it. Council will be divided on the matter, as it is held the chief has never had the authority he should to conduct the department satisfactorily.

Shoots Boy and Self.

Pittsburg, March 29.—After firing two bullets at his wife, pointing a revolver at his mother-in-law, when she attempted to help her daughter, and trying vainly to get his little daughter out of a neighbor's house that he might kill her, Barry Smith, aged 31 years, a motorman, living at Corapolis, sent a bullet through the brain of his 6-year-old son Richard, killing the boy instantly, and then shot himself through the head. Cause, liquor and jealousy.

WOOD PULP INVENTION.

Minneapolis Man May Have Solved Paper Problem.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 29.—A method which Dean George B. Frankforter of the college of chemistry of the University of Minnesota, said yesterday he had discovered, and by which it is claimed that the United States will produce a hundred times as much wood pulp paper as was believed possible, is causing interested discussion here.

It is claimed that the discovery means that every cord of fir timber will yield $10 on bye-products alone, and that most of the 60 per cent. of a tree now wasted will be utilized.

Dr. Frankforter says he superintended for twelve years. He describes the perfected process as placing small pieces of waste wood or sawdust on a steel incline over a furnace and forcing distillation of the waste wood by saturating it with carbon disulphide, or gasoline, thus causing the turpentine and resin to pass off as gases and leaving wood pulp free from pitch and perfectly adapted to the manufacture of paper. The common method of distillation leaves the pulp in the form of charcoal, chemically of little value.

Dr. Frankforter extracted from one cord of Norway pine, worth $7.50, turpentine worth $41 and wood pulp worth $39, a yield of $80 from $7.50 worth of raw material.

Boys Sentenced.

Brockville, March 29.—Joseph Laroque, Gilbert Russell and James Murray, the three small boys committed for trial and who later pleaded guilty to opening and stealing letters from postoffice boxes, were sentenced to Industrial Schools, each to serve not less than three nor more than five years. Laroque goes to St. Joseph's, Toronto, and Russell and Murray to the Victoria at Mimico.

Countess Issues Cook Book.

London, March 29.—The Dowager Countess of Dudley, who is the mother-in-law of Mrs. John Ward, formerly Miss Jean Reid, appears as a reformer of English cooking.

She publishes a cookery book containing innumerable receipts and good advice about scientific cooking.

Stumbles on Saw; Loses Arm.

Alvinston, March 29.—George Routley, a laborer, living about four miles from here, while helping to saw wood with a circular saw, stumbled and fell on the saw, cutting his arm off over the elbow.

Coal Co.'s Ultimatum.

Montreal, March 29.—The Dominion Coal Co. sent what might be called an ultimatum to J. H. Plummer, president of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., on Saturday evening.

Mr. Plummer claims the sum of $443,443 on account of loss sustained by the company in the way of failure to secure contracts because of the non-delivery of coal. The company insist that this claim is mainly unwarranted, and demand a specific statement.

Little Girl's Sudden Death.

London, March 29.—Death came most suddenly and unexpectedly early Saturday morning to Kathleen, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late Fireman Harry Seccombe. Although apparently in the best of health, she awoke with a cry of alarm at 5 a.m., and fell back dead, due to a clot of blood on the brain.

Opium Must Go.

Washington, March 29.—After April 1 next neither opium nor any mixture or compound containing opium in any form can be legally brought into the United States or any of its outlying possessions except for strictly medicinal purposes.

A Mere Hint.

The young man had married the rich man's daughter and wasn't killing himself with work to support her. One day the old man took him to task.

"Look here," he said emphatically, "why don't you go to work?"

"I don't have to," the son-in-law replied, with brazen effrontery.

"Well, you will have to."

"Why will I?"

"Because, sir, I cannot live always to support you."

"But you will leave us something?"

"Not much I won't. There won't be anything to leave."

The son-in-law was alarmed.

"Great Jupiter!" he exclaimed. "You don't mean to tell me you have nothing?"

"That's about the size of it."

The son-in-law devoted himself to profound thought for several seconds.

"I have a suggestion to offer," he said in a businesslike manner.

"What is it?" asked the old gent.

"Well, I suggest that you take out, say, £25,000 life assurance on yourself to save wear and tear on my mind."—Illustrated Bits.

New Zealand Satisfied.

London, March 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Premier Ward wires that New Zealand is gratified at the acceptance of the offer of a battleship. New Zealand's sole desire being to assist the Empire, she feels that the Imperial Government can best determine what shape and what time a contribution will promote that end.

A Pleasing Thought.

"Well, the doctor says, my dear, that it will be months and perhaps years before I can hope to get my strength back."

"Don't be discouraged, George. It might be worse."

"Well, there's one thought, dear, that helps to keep me from despair."

"And what is that, George?"

"I won't have to tote around that ding banged rubber plant any more!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

So Sweet of Him.

"Hello, old man!" exclaimed Dubley at the literary circle reception. "It's a pleasant surprise to meet you here."

"Good of you to say so, old chap," replied Brown.

"Yes. You see, I was afraid I wouldn't find anybody but bright and cultured people here."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Shouldn't Punish Children.

Brockville, March 29.—In the Police Court Saturday morning Bismark Green, the Glen Elb resident, charged with ill-treating Samuel Lawrence, a 12-year-old Barnardo boy, changed his plea to guilty. The magistrate imposed a fine of $10 and costs, the latter amounting to $72.80, all of which was paid. The magistrate said that punishment of the children could not be tolerated and there was little excuse for Green doing what he had done, but he would comply with the wishes of the Barnardo officials and make the fine one-tenth of what he could under the statute impose.

London, March 29.—"I have three little children and I just thought how his mother would feel," said Mrs. James Bear, of 44 Walnut street, an heroic little English woman, who rescued Arthur Curtis from drowning in the swollen Thames, at the risk of her own life, by rushing into the water, while an unknown man stood on the bank and a dozen women, rooted to the bridge, set up a lusty chorus of screams.

PETERBOROUGH MONDAY MARCH 29 1909

THE VISIT OF PRESS ASSOCIATION TO PETERBOROUGH WAS A GREAT SUCCESS HOW THE VISITORS WERE ENTERTAINED

Their Six Hours in Peterborough Were Profitably Spent in Visiting the Principal Industries—Short, Bright Speeches Were Made at the Different Luncheons.

INCIDENTS OF THEIR VISIT.

The visit of two hundred members of the Canadian Press Association to Peterborough on Saturday was, to use a hackneyed but happily apt expression, a happy success. The visitors arrived in their train de luxe—newspaper men earn a little luxury now and then—shortly after ten o'clock, and from that time till four o'clock they were kept "on the move" in a manner that must have suggested the busy hour before going to press. They could not doubt the warmth of their welcome, for everything that could be done to emphasize it was done or aimed to be done. If in any way the flesh was weak the spirit was willing. The pressmen combined business with pleasure; they came to see something that would intensify their intelligence in dealing with the conditions that affect the industrial progress of the country. They manifested the inquisitive spirit, which the unthinking, ignoring the honesty of spirit behind it, sometimes call impertinence. They came to see and they saw with informed eyes. At the Electric Works they insisted, as far as time would permit upon understanding what they saw; at the Cordage Works they sought to know the ropes; at the Quaker Oats factory the same interest was manifested, and some of the more enterprising lingered so long that they nearly missed their train.

The visitors expressed themselves delighted with their reception and visit, and what they saw will be like seed dropped in fertile soil and the hospitality and enterprise of Peterborough the importance of her industries and her admirable transportation facilities—for all our establishments were reached by the press train—will be known through the press of the province. The Queen of Sheba was dumbfounded with the glories of Solomon, which she had ample opportunity to see, but the Pressmen unfortunately had not time to see a tenth part of our industrial establishments and few of the other features that go to make this city one of the liveliest and most flourishing of the lesser cities of the Dominion. We deeply appreciate the visit of the Press Association, both on account of the merit of the personnel present, and also on account of the opportunity to show the shrewdest body of men in Canada, that this good city of Peterborough is an industrial, commercial and civic community, to be reckoned with in writing the story of Canadian growth and progress. Below is a continuation from Saturday of the report of the memorable visit of the Canadian Press Association to Peterborough:

The special train carrying the members of the Association was stopped at the Aylmer St. crossing and the party immediately descended upon the plant of the Canadian General Electric Company in full force. Hardly had they passed through the gatehouse when their journalistic tendencies were made apparent. They were to use a slang phrase "from Missouri" and they wanted to be shown. With the instinct that is characteristic of newspapermen they wanted to know the reason for and the use of everything and as they were in charge of Mr. E. G. Patterson and some of his able assistants all the information possible was forthcoming. Every part of the big plant was inspected and it is safe to say that no party of visitors has ever carried away from the buildings such an amount of information as did Saturday's delegation. They were most enthusiastic in their praises of the magnificently equipped plant and as one member of the Association remarked to the Examiner, "Our visit to Peterborough was well rewarded if we were to leave for home now without seeing anything more."

The officials of the Canadian General did everything in their power to see that the visitors were well entertained and that they saw everything of interest throughout the different departments. As a souvenir of their visit to Canada's greatest electrical manufacturing plant each member of the party was presented with a dainty little stick pin embellished with a tiny incandescent lamp of the type manufactured by the company, a neat and appropriate remembrance of the occasion.

Leaving the Canadian General the party proceeded to the Canadian Cordage Company's building, and a tour of inspection was made there in charge of Mr. Bruce Fowler, the secretary of the company, who quickly made the visi-

Prominent Canadians Give Interviews In Regard To Lord Strathcona's Fine Gift

Ottawa, March 29.—Several politicians and others have given brief views on Lord Strathcona's gift of $250,000 towards teaching drill and calisthenics in the schools of Canada.

Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, said: "I have already expressed my very earnest and sincere appreciation of Lord Strathcona's munificent gift for this very worthy and patriotic purpose. His action illustrates once more that keen interest in the welfare of Canada, which has always distinguished him."

Hon. George Foster: "Lord Strathcona's gift was not only a munificent one, but also a very timely one. It furthers one of the most practical methods for upbuilding and strengthening our defensive forces throughout Canada. It is in line with the many thoughtful opportune and generous benefactions of Lord Strathcona to the Canadian Imperial cause. We are proud of our Canadian representative in London, and all the more so that his many gifts have been extremely practical."

Mr. H. B. McGiverin, M. P.: "I think Lord Stratchona's gift is a splendid one, and that his generosity is in line with so many other things he has done for Canada. The idea of affording instruction in physical culture for the boys, is, to my mind, a good one."

Mayor Hopewell: "A magnificent gift and one that will be appreciated by the people of Canada."

Guides Must Be Licensed And Must Extinguish Fires

It is also provided that such guide shall be responsible for the extinguishing of fires that may have been kindled by the party employing him and that he is required to report any violations of the game and fishery laws that he may know of within one month after the offence has been committed, giving the name and address of the offender, and such other particulars as shall lead to that offender's conviction.

A failure to comply with these regulations shall be followed by the revocation of the license.

THE FINAL STATEMENT FROM THE WATER COMMISSIONERS IN REGARD TO THE BY-LAW

States the Necessity of a New Dam and the Practicability of the Measure the Ratepayers Will Vote Upon To-morrow.

REASONS FOR SUPPORT.

There has been one consideration touched on, in discussing the question of a new dam, by the Commissioners but not emphasized, as they did not wish to cause any alarm that could be avoided. But as a concerted effort is being made in some interested quarters, and by misrepresentation, to defeat the By-law, they think it proper and only just to the electors to state the true situation in plain terms.

The water mains, as all know, have been very greatly extended in recent years, for fire protection and house and other service. In consequence of this, the pumping capacity of the present dam and plant has been reached, in the summer season. Before a new dam can be built, the limit of power will have been exceeded, unless refusal is given to any further extension of water supply. The central part of the city has been mostly covered for domestic and fire purposes. It will be the outer portions, generally, that will suffer by such refusal, and it will be particularly unfortunate for those making or intending to make building improvements.

Reserve of power, however, must be maintained to fully guard against danger from fire, and this without reference even, to the demand that has come from the Fire Underwriters' Association. If the By-law is turned down, the Commissioners will then have seriously to scan all applications now pending or that may come to them, and will reserve and exercise their right of refusal, however regretfully, until more power is assured.

This is the true position of affairs that confronts the city, and electors must choose which course they will pursue.

The Commissioners have given much thought to the condition of the present dam and to the needful provision for greater power, and they strongly advise against spending money on it(except to keep it in position until replaced by a new dam, which in all respects, in view of the momentous interests at stake, should be of the most modern type and construction, which is the character of dam designed in the By-law, and which can be built without a dollar of cost, beyond the present water rates.

W. H. MOORE,

The First Dividend Will Be Declared In November Next

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Toronto, Ont., March 29.—The first dividend will be declared in November or shortly afterwards. This statement the National Trust Corporation, Ltd., liquidators of the York County Loan and Savings Co., is now issuing to inquiring shareholders. The liquidators appear to be in a position to announce the rate of the dividend about October 1st, or about one month before the dividend is declared. Young Italian Prisoner Tried To Set Fire To His Bed In Local Jail

Rocco Piucci, the young Italian who was remanded on a charge of stealing a caddy of tobacco and a number of other things from the G. T. R. freight shed, appeared before the Magistrate at the Police Court this morning, and was again remanded for a week. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the prisoner. He stated that from all reports, he did not believe the Italian to be of sound mind. Gaoler Nesbitt had informed him that during Piucci's incarceration he (Piucci) had tried to set fire to his bed by placing in it red hot coals from the stove. It was fortunately noticed before much damage was done.

His Worship said that he would have the young man examined as to his sanity by two doctors during the week.

Piucci seemed to be in a very cheerful and happy mood. After being taken to his cell he was singing and laughing to himself, apparently enjoying the situation.

THE TWO BY-LAWS

To-morrow the qualified electors will vote on two most important by-laws.

The outstanding features of each may be recalled in order to assist the electors in forming a judgment.

The Waterworks by-law to raise $120,000 to build a new concrete dam is intended to place our splendid waterworks system in an unimpeachably sound position.

The new dam is necessary to provide increased pumping capacity, which the present unsound dam will not permit being done, to meet the demands of the Fire Insurance Underwriters' Association.

For our further protection from fire we need increased pumping capacity, and also an auxiliary steam plant to be used in case of emergency—the breakdown or stopping of pumps from low water, frasil, or anchor ice, or other causes.

The new dam will provide increased pumping capacity and permit the extension of mains and water supply to the outlying districts now unserved from lack of pumping capacity, chiefly.

The new dam, costing, complete, $120,000 will not add one cent to the tax rate. The waterworks surplus, after paying all expenses and charges is practically $10,000 per year. The dam debentures, interest and sinking fund call for $7,245, leaving a balance of more than $2,000 a year after paying the annual charges on the cost of the dam.

In other words the waterworks dam will pay for itself and not add a cent to the general tax rate.

THE POWER BY-LAW

The new dam will not only give us a humanly perfect waterworks system but permit needed extension of mains, give adequate fire protection and prevent increase of insurance rates, but will afford incidental advantages.

The new dam will, at low water, develop 1,200 horse power. Of this 200 or 300 will be needed by the waterworks, leaving 1,000 or 900 horse power going to waste, unless utilized.

The proposal under the power by-law is to have the city utilize this ultimately for street lighting and power purposes.

It will take $15,000 to put in foundations, power house, wheel pits, tores bays and tail races, if the work is done in connection with the construction of the dam. It will cost at least twice as much if the work is undertaken after the dam is completed.

The city will then have a power plant of its own ready to instal the machinery, generators, etc., to enable us to do our own street lighting when the time arrives, or be in a position to prevent a "hold up" in making a new lightning contract, and have a considerable surplus to sell to manufacturing industries to induce their location here.

It is all very well to talk of Auburn power, and Burleigh Falls power, two costly proposals, but this is the wrong time to urge their adoption

What is practical, what is to the point now, what invites consideration from a business and practical point of view is the $15,000 by-law—whether or not it is good business foresight to take advantage of the building of the Waterworks dam to provide for power production at a figure twice as small as would be needed after the dam is built.

If Peterborough is to grow, it she is to tempt factories to locate here, we shall need to acquire control of a great deal of power. We shall need all we can get at the Waterworks dam, all the Auburn dam can produce and all that Burleigh or Healey's Falls can contribute.

Then let the ratepayers ask themselves whether or not it is wise to spend $15,000 to prepare for developing our own power for our own street lighting which now costs $9,000 a year.

Looking ahead is always wise in doing business on business principles.

ASQUITH ON FREE TRADE.

(The Toronto News.)

People in Canada must not get the notion that there are no Free Traders left in Great Britain, or that they have abandoned the field to the Tariff Reformers. We hear more about the latter because they are the attacking party, but those who oppose the introduction of protection in any degree are still the preponderating mass of the British people. Mr. Asquith and his Ministry are squarely for free trade. At a meeting in Queen's Hall recently, where Premier Asquith spoke strongly in favour of free trade as the only policy for the United Kingdom, Lord Avebury presided, and was careful to explain that he was a Conservative, but, like many others in his party, a staunch believer in free trade. Lord Balfour of Burleigh, also a Conservative, expressed himself along similar lines.

Lord Avebury said that in the last ten years the exports of France had increased £80,000,000; ours £170,000,000. (Cheers.) Our exports were 17,000,000 more than the United States, and 45,000,000 more than Germany. (Cheers.) They were in fact greater than any other country in the world.

Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, won great applause during the course of his speech, defending Free Trade as the only policy for Great Britain, and one that experience had demonstrated the worth of. He said:

> We are defending it on the platform and in the House of Commons on the ground that experience has shown that it is the system best suited, nay, that it is the only system fitted at all, to the actual condition of industrial exigencies, and practical everyday necessities of British trade.
>
> Mr. Cobden may have been right, and we believe that he was—(cheers) — when sixty or seventy years ago he defeated Protection. (Cheers.) But that is not the question now. What we have been concerned to prove is this: That while Protection may have been and was injurious in the days of our grandfathers, the revival of Protection in any shape or form under the altered conditions of to-day—when we depend as a nation to an infinitely greater degree for the bulk of our food and for our raw material upon the cheap and constant influx from the whole world—would be not only injurious, but fatal to our commercial capacity in the markets of the world. That has been throughout, and continues to be, our case.

Mr. Asquith, after discussing the intricate operations of tariff and finance, declared that under Free Trade British capital has not only exploited British industry at home, but has built up the Empire abroad, and the return which it brings is the supply of the food and the raw material without which Great Britain's industrial system could not be maintained. As to the proposed tariff he wanted to know who would get the benefit of the protection afforded. Would it be the English producer, the British consumer, or what combination of the three? "Those," he said, "are the questions which remain as wrapped in obscurity to-day as they were sixty years ago." He continued:

> The whole affair of the foreign manufactured goods which come here, with the exception of, at times, the dumping processes, which I beg to remind you prevail quite as much if not more in domestic than in international trade—fall into two or three classes—either raw material, and therefore ought not to be taxed, with unfinished stages to be applied by our own manufacturers, or next they are articles which, we could not produce at all ourselves; or, thirdly, they belong to the category of articles in regard to which for the time being, either through natural advantages or from a better training and education the foreigner enjoyed a prohibitive advantage.
> In regard to the first two, no human being out of a lunatic asylum would propose to tax them at all, and in regard to the third, if you were to tax these articles you would not only be fining the British consumer but removing from the British manufacturers the main and only incentive to the improvement of their industries.

It is evident that Free Trade is not to go unchampioned in England. Mr Asquith says it is not in danger, although it is going to be strongly attacked. A call has gone forth for two thousand speakers to defend it on the public platform, and volunteers are plenty. "There are no laborers," he said, "more plausible to the superficial mind than the fallacies of Protection." He summed up the benefits from Free Trade as follows:

> What is it to sum up the whole matter—what is it that Free Trade has done and continues to do for us here in this United Kingdom? It has given us a higher standard in regard to wages and hours of labour—(cheers)—than is to be found anywhere else. It has enabled us to develop from these islands the fabric and the resources of the British Empire. It has made our marine the chief carriers of the world's traffic—(cheers)—and our capital the clearing-house of the world's commercial and financial transactions. (Cheers.) And last, but not least, by excluding from our politics the sinister and illegitimate pressure of selfish forces—(loud cheers)—and of artificially fostered and manipulated interests, it has maintained the purity of our public life. (Cheers.)

In Canada, where we hear so much about the activities of those who are urging Great Britain to go back to the protectionist theories of two generations ago, it is worth while to know that the real fight on this question has not begun as yet.

The Partners

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.

Among the applicants answering the advertisement of Klein & Klippert for a stenographer was Miss Rose Williams of a suburban village. Both partners were old bachelors, and when the advertisement was inserted Klein said to Klippert:

"There will probably be a hundred girls come tomorrow, and as I know more about human nature than you do I will see them and pick out the one we want."

"But as I know more about stenography than you do it should be left to me," was the reply of the partner.

They wrangled over the matter for ten minutes and then agreed that both should receive and question the applicants. When Miss Rose entered the office each partner said to himself that she would do, no matter whether she knew anything about stenography or not. Each tried to impress upon her mind the fact that he was fatherly and kind hearted and wished to run an orphan asylum. Klein wanted to offer her $20 a week, and Klippert wanted to offer $5 more, but they finally settled on $15 to start with. This was $5 more than they had intended paying, and the bookkeeper wondered if the well known economy of the establishment was to fly out of the window. When the terms had been settled and the applicant had departed, to reappear on the morrow, Klein bitched about on his chair for a couple of minutes and then said:

"As my room is rather the largest and lightest, I am willing to make a place for the young lady. Did you notice the lines of sorrow around her young mouth? I shall speak very gently to her."

"There is a fine, light space in my room for the young lady," replied Klippert, "and I will take her in there.

"SHE WILL EXPECT ME TO INVITE HER OUT TO LUNCH."

There is a sad look about her eyes, as if she had some great grief, and I shall not expect her to do much work."

They disputed for half an hour over the point, and next day Miss Rose was given the hall between the office rooms of the partners. It was a gloomy, contracted space, but she made no complaints. Each partner had made excuses to address her half a dozen times when it came half past 11 o'clock. Then Klein passed into the room of the other and said:

"You seem to have lots of business with the new girl this morning. If you are not more careful she will become afraid of you."

"I was going to say the same thing to you," was the prompt reply. "I have simply been treating her in a fatherly way. I think she has lost her natural father, and that's the reason she looks so sorrowful."

"But she will expect me to invite her out to lunch. I am the senior partner, you know."

"But I was intending to do that courtesy myself. It belongs to the junior partner."

"But I contend that it would look forward in you. Remember, she is a very timid girl."

"I shall be gentleness itself. You with your brusque way would certainly frighten her."

They went out into the store to argue the matter out, and it took so long to do it that Miss Rose had gone to her lunch when they returned to ask her to go with both. The partners felt that the other was to blame, and at half past 1 o'clock, in order to get even with Klippert, Klein called the stenographer into his room and dictated a letter and then said:

"Miss Williams, your work has proved so satisfactory that your salary is raised to $18 per week."

She expressed her thanks and backed out, but scarcely had five minutes passed when Klippert called her in to ask if she was satisfied with her salary and to add before she could reply:

"You take hold of the work so well that I shall make your salary $20 a week. If you are in sorrow and trouble don't hesitate to ask my advice. It is $20 a week and advice. My partner is so busy that you hadn't better ask him anything except as to strict business."

Klein had been in the habit of leaving the store every afternoon at half past 4. On this occasion he hung about until 5. Klippert and the employees left at half past 5. Klippert sauntered after the new stenographer to see what car she took. He had just ascertained when he encountered his partner. They eyed each other suspiciously for a minute and then lied. Each had a ready excuse on his tongue. Next morning at the store the senior partner called the junior partner into his room and gravely said:

"Mr. Klippert, I should be grieved to know that you were following Miss Williams to the car, but the more I think of it the more suspicious your conduct appears."

"But what were you doing there?" was promptly asked.

"Business unconnected with the store called me to the spot."

"Same here."

"Um!"

"Um!"

"I would suggest that neither of us ask the young lady to lunch. She might misconstrue our action."

"Just what I was about to suggest. We will go out together, as heretofore."

But things rankled in the mind of the senior partner. As a matter of fact, he had gone to the car half an hour ahead of the girl to make sure that she took the right one for home and did not go sauntering off into the swamps and become a victim of the Black Handers. The junior partner had come upon him and wronged him in thought. He did the only thing he could think of to get even. He called Miss Rose in and raised her salary to $22 a week.

The junior partner was not at all satisfied with the situation. He had followed the stenographer to the car to see that the bookkeeper, who was known to be a masher, didn't do the same. There he had met his partner and been looked at distrustfully. In wronging him the partner wronged Miss Rose, and he called her in and dictated a fictitious letter and added:

"I am pleased to say that our work was never so well done before, and I wish to inform you that your salary has been advanced to $25 per week."

Miss Williams came to her place on a Wednesday. On Saturday afternoon there was a half holiday. On Saturday afternoon also Mr. Klein met Mr. Klippert in the village where the stenographer lived. Each was sauntering about when he met the other. They came to a dead stop and glared and scowled. Each wanted to ask the other what he was doing there, but he didn't ask. Klein finally took Klippert by the arm and walked him to the car, and when both were seated and headed for the city he said:

"Klippert, it's hard times in business."

"You bet!"

"We don't need a stenographer."

"Not in the least."

"We can save that $25 per week."

"Every cent of it."

"And we will do it?"

"We will."

And on Monday morning Miss Williams received a letter from the firm that owing to her inexperience her services would no longer be required.

Realistic.

"Why is Rosalie weeping so?"

"She and bessie and I were playing at keeping house. Rosalie was the wife and I was the husband."

"I hope you were not cross to her. Husbands and wives should never quarrel, you know."

"Oh, we didn't fight. Bessie was our maid, and she quit without giving us notice."—Minneapolis Journal.

tors feel at home. They were initiated in all the mysteries of rope making every detail of the process being pointed out and the splendid equipment of the building came in for many words of praise from the observant visitors. Time did not permit of an extended stay in the plant, but the visitors went away with a realization of the importance of the industry. Each member of the party received a device for measuring rope that formed an interesting souvenir of their visit.

The party then suspended their sight seeing operations long enough to satisfy the needs of the inner man, adjourning for that purpose to the Oriental Hotel, the Hotel National, and the Snowden house, the party being divided into three sections. All three hotels had made extensive preparations for their entertainment and the exterior of the buildings was decorated with flags, bunting and appropriate mottoes. The menus left nothing to be desired and the service was prompt and satisfactory, meriting the many good things said about it by the guests.

At The Oriental

At the Oriental Hotel after the discussion of an excellent and well served bill of fare, Hon. J. R. Stratton, as chairman, gave the welcome on behalf of the publishing guild of the city. Beginning in a playful mood, he said:

Ladies and gentlemen of the Canadian Press Association.

In the name of the citizens of Peterborough, whom I have the honour of representing in a Parliamentary capacity; in the name and on behalf of the printing and publishing guild of Peterborough and as the oldest, if not the most venerable publisher in this city, I give you a double-leaded welcome to Peterborough. We have had in the past of our history visits from princes, from governors-general, from governors-provincial, from premiers and politicians, but never before have we had at one fell swoop such an aggregation of good fellows, ladies included; such a conglomeration of gray matter, such journalistic genius, such high moral worth, such salt of society, such embodiment of enterprise, as is represented by some two hundred members of the Canadian Press Association. We all—seventeen thousand of us—join in giving you a most cordial welcome, to what, in our simplicity and also in our sincerity, we regard as the best and brightest of the minor cities of Canada. You have seen already two of our important industries, respectively one of the greatest industrial establishments in the Dominion and one serving the most important interests of the country. In the Canadian General Electric works, you have seen the potential creator of light, heat and power, which is now busy with the great work of transmitting the harnessed power of the world's greatest cataract to Ontario's greatest city and the thriving towns and cities of the most fertile region of Ontario except, of course, the Midland district. You have also seen in operation the works of the Canadian Cordage Company, engaged in filling the wants of the greatest national industry, the work of the farm. You have just had an excellent luncheon; you will next see your breakfasts in preliminary course of preparation, a natural connecting link between the oat fields of the farmer and the breakfast tables of our land. You will also see the Hydraulic Lift Lock, the first of its kind built on this continent, and the largest of its kind in the world. If you had postponed your visit, until navigation had opened we could have demonstrated to you that Peterborough possesses a tremendous physical as well as moral up-lift—this last, of course, applies to Peterborough's three newspapers.

But, remember, when you have seen all these in addition to what you have already seen, you have by no means seen all that makes Peterborough justifiable pride in her cluster of industrial establishments—you will not have time to see our engine and boiler and mining and mill machinery works; our lumber mills; our flouring mills; our pork packing establishments; our woollen mills; our silk weaving mills; our agricultural implement works, among the oldest in the province; our shovel and tool works; our pump factories; our lubricating oil lock and house hardware works; our repel tool factory; our tent, awning and sail factory; our three canoe factories, (for you know we are the original home of the world-wide used Peterborough canoe); our Kidderminster, Axminster and Wilton Carpet factory; our pump factories; our lubricating oil works; our furniture factory; our elevating gear factory; our malting and brewing works; our cooperage works; our matting factory; our German wood board factory; our sash, door and blind factory; our neck tie factory, our prepayment meter works, and man's first needs—our monumental and marble works, and other minor industries that combine to make Peterborough so important an industrial centre. In illustration of this I may mention a fact perhaps known to most of you, when I tell you that Peterborough increased its total output of manufactured products from $3,589,164 in 1901 to $11,566,805 in 1908, a nearly four-fold increase in five years.

You will not be able to see on this, altogether too short a visit, our three power development plants, which supply our light for civic and domestic purposes and power for industrial and electric traction purposes—the sources of our cheap power to tempt the location of industries seeking an ideal home.

You will not have time to see the power houses of our splendidly built waterworks, which in addition to supplying at very low figures all public and private needs, yields a surplus of revenue over operating expense and sinking fund of $10,000 a year.

You will not be able to see our numerous factory sites, accessible to railway sidings and to water transportation.

You will not have time to see our nine splendid public and separate school buildings, nearly all new or recently renewed. You will not have time to see our splendid new Collegiate Institute and Normal School buildings.

You will not have time to visit our fourteen fine church buildings, one a Cathedral, and two built the past year and two to be replaced the present year by larger buildings.

You will not be able to see—on account of snow and lack of time—our half dozen beautiful parks, varying in size from thirty-five to three acres.

You will not be able to see our two splendid general hospitals, and our isolation hospital—on paper—plans prepared and site provided—nor our Public Library building in the same state of forwardness; nor our splendid new armouries to be occupied next month and in which the gallant 57th Peterborough Rangers will, on Victoria Day, entertain the Dufferin Rifles of Brantford, with one exception, which I need not name, the most beautiful and progressive minor city of Ontario.

You will not be able to see as can be seen in summer, almost hourly trains and steamers, loaded with tourists and summering citizens, leaving Peterborough for the finest group of summer resorts accessible to any Canadian city—Chemong Park to the northwest, Stony Lake, the largest of that beautiful silver chain of lakes surnamed "Kawartha," and the river and Rice Lake region to the south.

You will not be able to see many other things which, combined with what you have seen and I have mentioned, go to make Peterborough one of the most thriving and best industrial and residential minor cities in Canada.

Such as it is, it is honoured by the visit of the Press Association.

If you have not seen as much as there is to see, you have enough newspaper imagination to make a good "story." Time will not permit the customary tribute to the power of the press, nor if I had the wisdom and words could I tell all the virtues it enshrines and stands for. We know that what Canada is, the press has helped to make it, and our three thriving daily newspapers in Peterborough, have by co-operation with the Press of Canada, done more than perhaps any other agency to build up Canadian Nationhood. Canada is growing so fast that a new geography must be compiled every two or three years, and a new newspaper directory every two or three months. I have in my office, No. 1, Volume I, of the "Outlook" newspaper, published in a town of that name in Saskatchewan. The first house in this town was built as late as last August. To-day its eight or nine hundred inhabitants are reading their own weekly paper. Six months ago this town was only a spot in space; now it is a newspaper centre—it has the one thing needful and its future is assured. Thus goes on the good work being advanced by the Canadian Press Association, which is keeping up the highest standard of journalism, and giving a fresh fillip to the characteristic enterprise of the fourth estate, and all of enterprise and enlightenment and impulse to national ambition and national advancement it represents. Ladies and gentlemen, once more welcome to Peterborough. Come again.

Come in the evening or come in the morning,
Come when you're looked for or come without warning,
Kisses and welcome you will find here before you,
And the oftener you come the more we'll adore you.

Mr. David Williams, of Collingwood, the retiring president of the Association, replied on behalf of the members present, thanking the press and the people of Peterborough for their hospitality and stated that the Association had enjoyed its visit to Peterborough immensely. He thought that in addition to the beautiful factories, beautiful stores and beautiful parks, that Mr. Stratton had mentioned, that Peterborough might well feel proud of its beautiful women.

At The National.

Mayor Rush presided at the luncheon at the National, and at the conclusion of the repast, read the following address, which was enthusiastically received by the visitors:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—As Mayor of the City of Peterborough I wish to add to my personal welcome a most cordial welcome to the visiting members of the Canadian Press Association and their wives on behalf of the citizens in general. Because this welcome is official, it is not to be held as any less hearty or less an expression of the popular pleasure afforded in welcoming as guests of the city so important and influential a body of gentlemen with such opportunity for the exercise of an inexpressibly great influence.

If I were to speak of the influence and power of the press I would be expressing what would sound to you like platitudes, for that influence and power are so generally recognized that to point them out would be to state perfectly obvious facts. But because they are so well known does not lessen the importance to us of this visit with which you have honoured us, and our only regret is that the time at your disposal here is so short that we cannot show as much of the city as we should like to do. You have seen a couple of our industries, and we hope to show you at least another, but we have a number of other manufacturing industries of sufficient importance to be well worth visiting if you had time, and we would also have been pleased to show you the water powers which furnish the motive power for these industries. And while we are not a little proud of our industries, we would also like you to see other evidences of the progressiveness and importance of our city, such as our educational institutions, including the Normal School and Collegiate Institute, and the several large and well-equipped public schools and the churches and other public buildings. If the season were further advanced the city parks would, we believe, repay inspection and we would have been pleased if you had time for a general view of the city and its homes. What you have seen and will see will give you an idea of the size and importance of Peterborough, and I may tell you that we are proud of our city and of the progress it has made and is making. I do not wish to trespass on the short time you have with us, but let me again tell you that we are highly gratified because you have paid us this visit and express the hope that you will share the pleasure that we feel.

The Reply.

Mr. L. S. Channell, of the Sherbrooke Record, the newly-elected president of the association, in reply, thanked Mayor Rush and the people of Peterborough for their cordial reception, which, he was sure, every member of the Association would long remember. They were glad to have had the opportunity of visiting Peterborough, of which they had heard much, and of inspecting the great manufactories which were famous throughout Canada. Peterborough was to be congratulated upon possessing such institutions and also on having in its midst so many clever and enterprising newspapermen as were to be found here.

Mr. J. H. Burnham extended to the visitors a cordial welcome on behalf of the Peterborough Press Club. They had been welcomed by the city and it was fitting that their brethren of the press should also extend greetings. When the members of the Peterborough Press Club had heard that the members of the Canadian Press Association were not only coming themselves, but bringing with them their wives and their daughters they had trembled with anxiety to see them and now that they had seen them they could only hope that they would come back to Peterborough again as soon as possible.

Mr. H. R. Moore, of the Acton Free Press, made a brief but graceful reply in acknowledgment of the Press Club's welcome, in which he referred to the greatness of Peterborough's manufactories. The members had enjoyed what they had seen in the morning, and he was sure that they would appreciate what was still before them, the prospect of going through one of the largest cereal mills on the continent.

After the way in which the party had been received by the people of Peterborough he had no doubt that the members would welcome any opportunity to return.

The luncheon was brought to a close with three cheers and a tiger for Mayor Rush and the Peterborough Press Club.

At The Snowden House

At the Snowden House, after luncheon was concluded, Alderman Turner, in a short speech extended to the members of the Press Association the cordial welcome which the citizens of Peterborough offered them and the sincere wish that their visit to the city would be enjoyed and always remembered with pleasure. He referred to the great advances that had been made in the preparation for sale of the papers of to-day. Ingenious machines had supplanted the old time work by hand, thereby enlarging the scope of the newspaper. As a moulder of public opinion and as an educative its power has grown to such proportions that it is one of the great influences of to-day. Peterborough recognized the importance of the visit of the Press Association and it was hoped that the visitors would be impressed with the activities and progress the members would find here.

Welcome Acknowledged

Mr. A. E. Bradwin, of the Galt Reporter, thanked Alderman Turner for the cordiality of his welcome and asked Mr. W. R. Givens, of the Kingston Standard, representing the dailies, and Mr. W. A. James, of the Bowmanville Statesman, for the weeklies to respond.

Mr. James stated that he was delighted with the hearty welcome with which they had been greeted by the citizens of Peterborough. The press of the city was a decided credit. "The advancement you have made and the progressiveness you possess is undoubtedly largely due to your papers, to which you scarcely know what you owe." Mr. James was enjoying the visit very much and was surprised with the public spirit manifest and evidences of business and prosperity which he had witnessed.

Mr. Givens remarked that the generous hospitality and good wishes which the visitors had received were better than he had expected. He was amazed with the evidence of Peterborough's prosperity. He thanked Alderman Turner for his cordial welcome which was fully appreciated.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt congratulated the Press Association on coming to such a city as Peterborough. It was second to none in the Dominion. He was pleased to meet the members of the press and as editor of his parish magazine, claimed membership in the association. He referred in a happy spirit of Mr. M. J. Hutchinson, formerly city editor of the Examiner, with whom he had always enjoyed friendly relations. The style in which he had presented the news to the readers of that paper had been a credit to himself and had raised the Examiner to a position of importance in the journalistic world. In conclusion he thanked the members of the Association for the privilege of speaking before them.

At the Cereal.

After luncheon the party assembled at the National Hotel, and wended their way to the Quaker Oats' Company Mills, where Mr. W. H. Denham and his staff were in attendance to receive them. In charge of the officials of the mill a thorough inspection was made of the mammoth building. The visitors were shown the different details of the manufacture of Quaker Oats, Quaker Pulled Rice and the other commodities of a similar nature, for which the institution is famous. They found their visit highly interesting. Every department visited produced new wonders and while the puffed rice department with the cannon-like noise of its explosion momentarily alarmed the ladies of the party they were quickly reassured and they watched the operation of the machinery with interest and afterwards tasted the product as it came warm and delightful from the "gun." The party was still engaged in the excitement of exploring the mill when the word was passed around that it was train time and it became necessary to say good-bye. The officials of the company had made careful preparations for the party and in the offices dainty refreshments, in the shape of puffed rice and cream were served, while there was a bountiful supply of cigars for the masculine end of the party. The C. P. R. had the visitors' train waiting at Hunter street for the party, who, after giving three cheers for the staff of the Quaker Oats Company, boarded the cars at four o'clock and the first visit of the Canadian Press Association to Peterborough was at an end.

The co-operation of the manufacturers, of the Mayor and Council, and of the citizens generally did much to make the event the success it undoubtedly was, and the thanks of the press of Peterborough is extended to those who did so much to help entertain the visitors of Saturday.

OPINIONS PRO AND CON OF RATEPAYERS TWO BY-LAWS ON WHICH TO VOTE TO-MORROW

ALD. McINTYRE'S VIEWS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir:—The Mayor has, I notice, replied to that part of Ald. Hicks' letter in which he says that we did not write the letter published by the Power Committee, and there is one other matter to which I wish to refer. He questions the statement that the city pays nearly $5,000 for light, and says that this sum includes a bonus to the Street Railway. Now there is nothing in the contract with the Peterborough Light & Power Company referring to the Street Railway, and no reference to any bonus, the contracts with the two companies being separate and distinct. Further, at the time the contract for street lighting was made, the Otonabee Power Co. tendered on enclosed arc lamps of 7.6 amp. capacity, and the Peterborough Light & Power Co. on open arc lamps of 9 amp. capacity, and the contention made by the latter company was that the open arc lamps at $50 each were cheaper than the enclosed lamps at $35, because the open lamps gave a stronger light and were preferable. Mr. G. M. Rogers, who was Mayor at the time, and Dr. Morrison, who was Chairman of the Committee, visited another town where the enclosed arc was in use, and they supported the argument that the open lamp, while being more expensive to maintain, gave a better light, and that it would take fewer of them to give the same service, and because of this the tender of the Peterborough Light & Power Co. was accepted. Since that, two years ago, the Peterborough Light & Power Co. asked the Council to permit them install the enclosed arc lamps, but after members of the Council had enquired into the expense of operating the two kinds of lamps and seen the enclosed lamps in use, the request was refused unless the company gave a larger number or reduced the price.

The cost to the city of the light it uses is nearly $9,000, and if the city is ready to do its own lighting when the present contract expires, it will have that sum to apply on the cost of developing and supplying light and power.

Yours truly,

A. A. McINTYRE.

ALD. HICKS' VIEWS.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:—In your columns I noticed a letter from Ald. Gillespie recommending the passing of a by-law to raise $15,000 for a power house. The conspicuous part of this letter is that it is void of all information on the subject. No positive statements are made, and while I, out of courtesy to the writer, would like to reply to his letter, there is no material to work from.

With regard to the other letter signed by Mayor Rush and A'd. McIntyre, I cannot say the same because neither of the gentlemen wrote the letter, but what was supposed to be their ideas on the matter was very ably put together for publication and inserted in the papers. The statements, however, are misleading, and the people are also paying for the cost of boosting the wild scheme of the mayor and his chosen few. If the figures were doubled would the mayor sign the bills just the same if he were asked by certain members of his remarkable cabinet.

When the statement is made in the letter that the city is paying nearly $9,000 for street lighting, I challenge this statement, as the figures referred to include the bonus to the street railway. This, however, has no bearing on the merits of the question as these have not been intelligently discussed because the council lacked information.

I credit Mayor Rush, Ald. McIntyre and Ald. Gillespie and the others responsible with creating a new precedent in municipal affairs — that is, publishing statements under the guise of facts, and recommending in council the payment of all expenses for same. At the same time those who are trying to keep the council and ratepayers safe, must, if they wish to distribute or advertise the true facts, pay the same out of their personal funds.

Writing, however, at this date, with one day between now and polling day, there is this redeeming feature in the situation — the minds of the mayor and cabinet, being like a wholesale price list on a rising market, "subject to change without notice,"— are likely to make a turn once or twice in the meantime, and I believe when they get in the polling booth on the 30th of March, with a curtain drawn between them and the outside world, they will be faithful to the trust the people have placed in them, and will mark their ballots against the power by-law for $15,000.

Yours truly,

R. HICKS.

MAYOR RUSH'S REPLY.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—I have read the letter of Ald. Hicks in regard to the Power By-law, and although he does not give any new information bearing on the question, I wish to refer to it briefly. He says that I did not write the letter signed by myself and Ald. McIntyre, which he, of course, knew was true, because he is a member of the Power Committee, and was present when instructions were given to have the explanation drafted, and also when the letter was read to the Committee and the chairman and I were asked to sign it on behalf of the committee. It was done to give the electors an explanation of the matter as it stands, and was an entirely proper proceeding. In the letter it is stated that it was published on behalf of the Power Committee, and not merely as a personal statement.

I do not see how the statements in the Power Committee's letter can be said to be misleading. Just what work it was proposed to do with the sum asked for in the By-law is plainly stated, and the authority for every statement made was given. Eleven of the Aldermen were in favour of submitting the by-law, Ald. Hicks only opposing it.

Ald. Hicks' reference to the Mayor and his cabinet I do not understand. I have, since the electors honoured me by electing me Mayor, never made any difference between one alderman and another, and I do not know any case in which I have shown any lack of courtesy to, or consideration for, Ald. Hicks. If he thinks I have, he has only to make it known to me and I will make any explanation or amends that may be called for, but I have no knowledge of any act of mine towards any member of the Council that was in any way discourteous, or of treating one member different from another.

I have no intention of continuing a discussion, as I do not see that any good would come from it, and I do not wish to have any contention with any member of the council.

Yours truly,

H. RUSH.

A NEW PROPOSITION.

Editor Examiner.—

Dear Sir.—This matter of a new dam and filtering bed creates a great deal of thought to a reader of one interested. For my part permit me to state that if the present water mains were to be extended from the pumping house to Chemong Lake —which is about 300 feet higher than the present pumping house — it would give about 140 lbs. water pressure, ebing about twice the pressure we now have, and this high pressure could be regulated to any desired pressure in a few minutes by a governor valve. This water would be connected by pipes from the lake to the present main, a distance of about four miles, and would have a gravity pressure, and of good spring water which would not require any pumping house nor filtering beds at an annual expense for operation of machinery, labor and repairs of the beds and dams. I believe to extend the mains as stated would not cost as much as the proposed scheme, and would be a permanent one. An extra large pipe could be installed if so desired and the surplus water could be used for power under an enormous pressure. Great power could be obtained in this way, and in a very few years the power sold would pay for the installation of this connection with Chemong Lake.

T. D. MACGREGOR.

ALD. MORROW'S STAND.

Peterborough, March 26th, 1909.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner,

Sir, — In reference to the Power bylaw for $15,000, which will be voted on by the ratepayers on Tuesday, the 30th inst., I would like to give my reasons why I think this by-law should be supported by the public.

In the first place, the property is owned by the Water Commissioners in trust for the people. We are informed by the Water Commissioners that at the minimum flow of the river there will be developed about 1200 H.P., and for the greater part of the year there can be developed from 1500 to 2000 H.P.

There is used for waterworks purposes at the present time 200 H.P. It will take about 200 H.P. to do the street lighting, so that we will have at least 800 H.P. additional to be used by the waterworks commissioners as required, and for commercial or house lighting if the citizens do desire.

The city is at present paying $9000 a year for street lighting and I think with the development of their own power the city will save at least $5000 a year.

I think as a busines proposition that the ratepayers should spend whatever is necessary to develop and utilize their own property.

A number of the letters which have appeared in the public press have been written and inspired by owners or those interested in power properties, and I hope the ratepayers will not allow anything of this kind to interfere in voting for the adoption of the $15,000 By-law. I trust every freeholder, if he supports the water works by-law will at the same time vote in his own interests and vote for the power by-law.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am,

Yours sincerely,

W. G. MORROW.

A quiet wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parsonage of the Grace M. E. church, when George A. Hubbard and Miss Ida M. The parsonage had been beautifully decorated in white blossoms, and greenery, and the bridal couple stood beneath an arch of blossoms and foliage during the ceremony. Standing with them were Miss Ethel Morgan and Mr. Samuel Snyder. The bride wore a gray travelling suit with pretty hat and gloves to match.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard left on a short wedding trip, including Los Angeles and coast points. Presentation Made On Return Trip Of The Press Association

The return trip to Toronto of the Press Association on Saturday afternoon was the occasion for a few pleasant surprises arranged by the newspaper men. The report from this city appearing in the Toronto Globe, is as follows:

One of the most pleasant features of the outing was reserved for the return journey, which began at 3.45. The newspapermen appreciated most keenly the efforts of the C. P. R. officials towards making the trip a pleasant one. Several substantial tokens were purchased in this city, and as the train was swinging along Toronto-ward the presentations were made. Urbane George H. Ham, the railway company's "guest man," who has had charge of almost every important personage entertained by the C.P.R., was the recipient of a handsome little cabinet of cutlery. Mr. R. L. Thompson, District passenger agent, was given a beautiful large cut glass berry bowl, as was Mr. D. Carmichael, Assistant Superintendent. C. W. Young, of Cornwall, a lifelong friend of Mr. Ham, made the presentations in a series of neat addresses, thanking each for the many favours extended to the association yesterday. Mr. J. R. Bone, the secretary of the Press Association, was given a similar piece of crystalware as an expression of the value placed by the members upon the work done by him in that capacity. This last presentation was made by Mr. David Williams of Collingwood, last year's president of the Canadian Press Association.

Have you heard the fetching song—"I Wish I Had a Girl?" It's New

St. James Methodist Church Was Dedicated Yesterday

The New Edifice Was Filled at All Services—Splendid Sermons by Rev. J. P. Wilson of Lindsay—Rev. R. McCulloch, President of Bay of Quinte Conference, Conducted the Dedication.

A VERY FINE BUILDING.

The dedication and formal opening of St. James Methodist church yesterday morning, marked a new epoch in the history of Methodism in Peterborough. The increasingly large number of adherents to this denomination in this city made the erection of a new church building an urgent necessity, and those gentlemen who undertook to start a new congregation in the South end, must have felt gratefully pleased yesterday, when they witnessed the consummation of their wish.

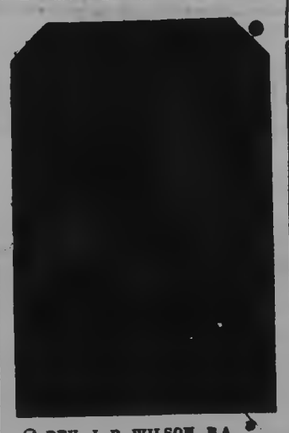
The beautiful little edifice was well filled yesterday morning, when the dedicatory services were held and a sermon appropriate to the occasion was preached by Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Lindsay, and a former pastor of George St. Methodist church. While the service of dedication was being read by Rev. R. McCullough, of Omemee, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, the trustee board, consisting of Messrs Stabler, A. W. Cressman, B. F. Ackerman, D. W. Dumble, W. G. Morrow, G. E. Rawlings and A. Pres stood in front of the platform.

Rev. H. M. Manning, pastor of the church, read the lesson.

Rev. J. P. Wilson took occasion to congratulate the Methodists of Peterborough on having been able to erect such a commodious and sensible building. It was just what was needed and he felt very glad to know that a wish that he had cherished for a great many years had been accomplished.

The Sermon.

Speaking from the words of the eighth verse of the 25th chapter of the Book of Exodus, "And let them make me a sanctuary, that I may dwell among them," Rev. Mr. Wilson said that such was the direction God gave the Israelites in the establishment of the first tabernacle. It was to be a home wherein He should dwell and teach. God was moving towards His people now as then, the speaker remarked, and throughout the Christian world the best that wealth and skill could provide was being built for the worship and to the glory of God. Within the tabernacle of God were represented the great moral forces of the world, the highest standard of manhood.



REV. J. P. WILSON, B.A.,

Former Pastor of George Street Methodist Church, but now of Lindsay, who preached the first Sermon in St. James Church.

God was deeply interested in His church in the wilderness. He commanded Moses to speak unto the children of Israel that they might willingly give unto Him an offering. Thus it was evident that the church treasury was one of the first things. It was indispensable. No more could a church be run without money than could a mill or any business. The reverend gentlemen contrasted the church with an army with an unlimited number of men and with unlimited funds, remarking that if the church was as well supplied, what great inroads could be made into heathenism and sin. One of the needs of the church was that men of means should rise to their responsibility and give it their support.

The church was not, the speaker continued, a building merely, but an assembly of men and women who followed Christ. It was the household of faith, held together by love to God and one another. The preacher believed that the laymen's missionary movement, awakening an interest among men of all denominations was an evidence of the loyalty of church members to Christ. The church was the help-mate of Christ and went out to do His work.

In conclusion, he asked what would St. James church be noted for. Would it be known as a great spiritual power in the city of Peterborough? It rested with its members to make it such, and he hoped that it would prosper and be the means of bringing the Gospel of Christ to many.

At both morning and evening services Mr. Roger Manning, of Toronto, sang very acceptably.

MAYOR RUSH ON MARKET TOLLS

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir:—Regarding the Market Tolls I am and always have been of the opinion that the tolls should be collected by one employed by the Council to do so. It was decided this year to advertise for tenders instead of selling as heretofore by auction. At a meeting of the Property Committee the tenders were opened. I think there were six of them, the highest being that of Mr. R. Bradburn. One of the members of the committee remarked that he had been informed that Mr. Ball had been offered a better position than market clerk, so I remarked to the chairman that the highest tender should be accepted and the Committee made that recommendation to the Council. When it was moved that Mr. Ball should be retained, the Council voted six for and six against accepting the tender, and carrying out my own conviction, I gave the casting vote in favour of keeping on Mr. Ball. Other years, when the tolls have been sold, the purchaser having paid a high figure for them, he was obliged to exact the last cent, and I have learned on good authority that there has been perfect harmony with the farmers all last year, which is better than a little larger revenue. I might say neither Mr. Ball nor any one else has spoken to me regarding retaining him to collect the tolls, and what I would like to see is a free market, and I think our merchants and citizens would profit therefrom.

Yours truly,
H. RUSH.

What The Farmers Think Of The Importance Of The Market

An Examiner reporter was told a few things this morning about the importance of the market by a number of retired farmers who congregate at times at the clerk's office. One elderly gentleman who, about thirty years ago, was a regular attendant with his load of potatoes, apples or produce, states that the citizens of Peterborough can thank the market for the progress that has been made in the city's business prosperity.

Several decades ago, according to his story, this city had the reputation of possessing the best market in the province. The result was that farmers from miles and miles around came to the market and left considerable of their money. A by-law was passed compelling the farmers to weigh their potatoes, apples and other articles on the market scales and this was the beginning of the decline. Some of the farmers got into trouble and claimed that they had not been treated right and others heard about it and stayed away. This, the farmers say, started the trouble which has led to what they also state is the lessening value of our market to the city. They are very anxious to have the old methods restored and desire to have the market returned to its former strength and to do this, the farmers need decent treatment and consideration, which they claim they are not now receiving.

Five Head Of Cattle Break Through The Ice And Are Lost

William Head, a young farmer of Otonnbee, residing on the river road, has had the misfortune of losing five head of cattle by being drowned. They have been accustomed to walking out on the ice of the river to drink. he ice had weakened gradually, and the cattle, going out to drink. The ice had weakened gradu- were drowned. Mr. Head lives about eight miles from the city and will feel the loss of his small herd.

Harry Lauder's Reception On Arrival In Liverpool

A large crowd gave Mr. Harry Lauder, tthe famous Scotch comedian, a hearty welcome when he landed at Liverpool on his return after a successful tour tour in America.

"Oh yes, had a grand voyage — sick for three days," he said to a "Lloyd's News" representative. Then turning to pleasanter topics he summed up the record of his five months' absence from England as follows.—

Travelled 15000 miles.
Given 252 performances.
Submitted to 42 banquets.
Biggest audience, 4,500 people.
Favourite song with Americans, "I Love a Lassie."

"It's a grand country," he said, when asked about America, "and I'm going back first chance. They've treated me royally, and I wouldn't lose the money I've made for a lot. But I don't want to live there for good. My heart lies in Scotland, and so long as I'm away there's a wee bit heartache.

"And you want to know what I thought of President Roosevelt? Well, he's the sort of man that does not care what any man thinks of him, so there? I didn't sing to him, but I sang to Mrs. Roosevelt at Washington, and she told the President she never laughed so much in her life. I think it is glorious to have such a gift from God that one is enabled to go to another country and entertain the people there just as at home.

"My strangest audience was 1,000 lunatics at the asylum on Ward's Island. I told them I would like to hear them all sing: those who didn't know the words were to listen while the others sang the chorus of "I Love a Lassie." When they had sung it three times I told them they were the finest choir I'd heard in the United States. One patient took me aside and said 'For my sake don't make faces or do anything to make them think you are a bit off, or they'll keep you here!'

"And the ladies? God bless all the American women, I say. I'd say more, but my wife's listening."

SUPPLY OF EASTER BEEF IS GOOD

Cattle Buyer Says Market Will be up to Past Years.

According to the statement of a local cattle buyer at the market this morning the public need not expect nor fear a scarcity of Easter beef. From his statements the supply might be called plentiful and the quality is generally good. He states that owing to a scarcity of fodder the cattle have not been fed as well as formerly, and they are not as fat as they might be, but considering everything the general quality and supply will be about on par with conditions of former years.

DENTAL LAVATORIES IN SLEEPING CARS

Some of the Western railroads have been calling attention to dental lavatories which have recently been introduced in sleeping cars on their lines. As a matter of fact, the Pullman Company have decided to provide in all new sleeping cars that they build, and in all the present sleeping cars when they at next put through the shops dental lavatories which will doubtless be much appreciated by their patrons. Already some of the Pullman sleeping cars operated over the Grand Trunk Railway System are provided with this new and special sanitary feature.

Do you know the comfort of a good electric iron? My, the labour that it saves! And now that you have one, you wonder how you formerly managed to travel those many miles back and forth to the stove in the sweltering heat? And now you do the ironing in half the time and do it better. What a pity EVERY HUSBAND does not realize that $6.00 for the "Automatic Iron" brings such comfort.

How Cruel!

Dr. Madison Peters, discussing the extravagance of a New York debutante's coming-out party, said:

"Such girls don't make very economical wives. It must have been a girl brought up in the manner that I heard two young naval officers talking about.

"'What a dear little craft your wife is?' said the first.

"'Dear! said the other. 'Rather! I call her my revenue cutter.'"—Washington Star.

ADDRESS AT CHARLOTTE STREET SUNDAY SCHOOL

It was Temperance Sunday at the Charlotte St. Methodist Sunday School yesterday, and Dr. M. A. Morrison addressed the school on the evils of intemperance, showing the great disadvantage a young man was placed in by acquiring the drinking and smoking habits, and also stating that the merchants and manufacturers today were looking for clean men.

Dr. Morrison called upon six different classes of the boys of the school to name the calling they desired to follow in manhood, and taking their responses separately told the boys how they would have to live in order to become a success in each calling. The address was one that should inspire the boys to watch the habits they acquire in daily life.

SALOME TWIST IS THE LATEST

And now comes the "Salome twist." The latest wrinkle in the bender line is said to be the creation of Billy Campbell, the outlaw twirler of the Cincinnati Reds. Campbell practised the curve last fall. He said nothing about it until the team went to Cuba. Then he surprised his team mates by springing it. The "Salome" is an underhand "spitter," delivered with the left hand.

Bunny Pearce, who caught Campbell when the latter introduced the "twist," says that it is the hardest ball to hit he ever saw.

"Talk about your wild and woolly twists, this stunt of Campbell's has them all beaten a block," says Bunny. It comes up to the plate in a business like manner, so easy that the batter gets ready to knock a dozen mile soft. He swats away like a good fellow, but he generally hits where the ball isn't, for the sphere performs a sort of a Salome dance just before reaching the plate, and twists out of the reach of the bat so easily that the batter gasps."

GEO. CAIRNS ESTABLISHES NEW ALLEY RECORD FOR 3 GAMES

They are still breaking records down at the Peterborough Bowling Club's alleys and on Saturday night George Cairns of the Examiner A boosted the mark for the best score in three consecutive games up to 664, just one point more than W. McIlroy's score made a week ago. Cairns was in great form and had he not run into bad luck in his second game would have hung up a mark that would have taken a whole lot of beating. As it was his score was a remarkable one. He started in with 244 in his first game, but ran into several splits in his second and finished up with only 167. He got going again in his third, however, and started in with seven straight strikes. Unfortunately he got a bad split in his eighth, but the next two were strikes, and he finished up with 253 which beat McIlroy's score by one pin.

His last game also won him the weekly box of cigars, Herb. Martin being second with 245.

Cairns now holds both alley records, 264, for a single game, and 664 for three games.

There were not less than forty-two scores of 200 or better during the week—the best rolling in the history of the Club. Thirty-one were made two weeks ago and it was thought that was the limit. In the last three weeks there have been 102 two-hundred scores.

Following is the schedule for the week:

Monday—B. A. C. vs. Grays (postponed) vs. Lockworks.

Wednesday—Bankers vs Pacifics; Bankers vs Iroquois (postponed).

Thursday—Hams vs. Examiner B; Hams vs. Iroquois.

Friday—Belmonts vs. Examiner A. Belmonts vs. Examiner B.

TIGERS BEAT THE ARABS IN THE HARDEST FOUGHT GAME OF YEAR

In by far the most interesting game of the season the Tigers won by the narrowest possible margin from the Arabs in Saturday night's league basketball game in the Y. M. C. A. gynasium. The score was 23-22, in favour of the Tigers, who led at half time by 12 to 10. It was close and hard all the way, with both teams working hard and playing pretty ball. At no stage was there a very wide margin between the two and shortly before time was called the score was tied. The Tigers, however, won on a free throw from a foul which gave them the victory by one pin, after about as close a game as has been seen in the local gym.

Mr. S. W. Collings was a satisfactory referee and the teams were as follows:

Tigers—Loomis and Max Dobbin, backs; Sutherland, centre; Staunton and Wallis, forwards.

Arabs—Ross Dobbin and Stewart Laing, backs; J. Laing, centre; Evans and Armstrong, forwards.

NO MIDLAND LEAGUE THIS YEAR UNLESS IT IS ON AMATEUR BASIS

Cobourg, March 29.—If the Midland League materializes this year it will be a purely amateur league. The teams are apparently unanimous on that point. It has been stated that Lindsay may put a team in the league in the event of this. With Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope, Oshawa, Bowmanville, a good League could be formed, and some fine ball put up. Every team in the semi-professional league we had last year, lost money, and it is not likely they will be eager again to rush into finance.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, March 29.—Stocks opened with a rush and a roar this morning and an old-fashioned bull market greeted the traders. London sent a high range of prices, some stocks being a point higher there, with special strength in U.P., N.Y.C. and Steels. Big buying orders had accumulated here over Sunday, and their execution caused a sharp bulge with New York Central, Steel, Hills and Harrimans and Con. Gas the features, the latter shawing a gain of two points and the others over one point. It was the broadest market of the present upward movement.

MR. CULVERWELL ON THE BY-LAW

The following telegram was received at 3.15 o'clock this afternoon from J. Alexander Culverwell:

Cobourg, Ont., March 29.—For good reasons I have not taken active interest in the two by-laws now before the Peterborough ratepayers and will not discuss waterworks dam by-law, but I must make record now that the fifteen thousand dollar waterworks power-house by-law is a complete delusion and snare. After reading Engineer Harvie's practical detailed report based upon facts surely no sensible and unbiased ratepayer will vote for the powerhouse by-law which will eventually cause expenditure for some fifty thousand dollars and will only deliver some three hundred electric horsepower to consumers. Several other Peterborough private powers could undersell the waterworks power. The Burleigh Falls power can be delivered by the thousands at half cost per horse power of water works power house makeshift which would only further hinder the development of Burleigh Power waterworks power house by-law would cause the sale of Burleigh power to outside market. Shareholders only want fair treatment.

J. A. CULVERWELL,
Managing Director Central Ontario Power Co., Limited, Owners and Lessees Burleigh Falls Power and Dam. Address, Toronto Post Office.

Why The $15,000 Power By-Law Should Be Carried By Citizens

The by-law to issue debentures for $15,000 will be voted on tomorrow. This sum is for the purpose of constructing the forebays, tail race, wheel pits, foundations and power house for the electrical development of the power that will be available at the waterworks dam, after the requirements of the waterworks department have been met.

There will be 700 horse power available after the waterworks have taken what they require. This power should be utilized for the benefit of the city, for street lighting and other purposes, and not allowed to run to waste.

It will be much cheaper to put in the forebays, wheelpits, etc., when the dam is being built than it would to do that work two or three years later, after the dam has been completed.

The street lighting will take about 200 horse power, and there will still be 400 to 500 horse power, which can be sold or used in the service of the City.

With this preliminary work done—with the forebays, race, wheel pits and power house completed—the City will be ready to take the necessary steps and put in the machinery for furnishing light or power, when it is required. This will put the city in such a position that it cannot be compelled to pay a high price for light or power from its own dam.

It is prudent to take time by the forelock; it is good business to save money by doing work when it can be done most cheaply; it will be acting wisely to be ready to do the street lighting when the contract expires and to furnish power when it is needed.

It would be wanton waste to own 70 horse power and permit it to run over the dam and down the river, doing no one any good and a loss to the city.

TEMPERANCE RALLY AT THE CRYSTAL YESTERDAY

"All the people in Peterborough who think seriously for five minutes a day on this question of local option," said Mr. R. J. Soden, the chairman of the temperance meeting held Sunday afternoon in the Crystal, "will vote with us for local option. We talked a great deal about prodigal sons. There are more prodigals kept away from home and their friends through drink than through any other cause. In most cases the prodigality started when their first glass was served to them under the license system. Don't you believe it? The mistake we made was when we tried to license the evil. You can't make a wrong right by letting people pay to do it. They say that if we do away with the open bar we will have something worse. I, for one, am willing to take my chances. (Applause.)

"If we don't put a stop to the liquor business now, it is going to take some of our best boys and girls or big chunks out of their lives. As Peterborough knows only too well many of its brightest boys and girls have gone to ruin through this cause. It is time that the thinking people of the city put an end to this evil."

HAS VOTED FOR PROHIBITION

"While I have not been closely identified with the temperance movement," said Mr. Frank Mason, "my ballot has always been cast for prohibition. Few people realize how old is this curse of liquor. Noah disgraced himself through his love for liquor. All through the Old Testament we see records of the curse that follows the use of liquor. In Egypt there is a tomb five thousand years old, showing drunken men being carried home by their slaves. Chinese history at the same time records similar scenes.

"Two thousand years before Christ, the Chinese passed a law like what has been aimed at in the anti-treating system. Then they tried public control of the traffic. This also failed. Total prohibition was next attempted. They cut off the heads of men found selling liquor. This was a success. Measures which fall short of total prohibition are sure to fail because they still permit the existence of an evil in the community. In 1900, so we are informed, hardly a drunken man was seen in the course of a year in one of the largest cities of China.

"All laws that have been tried in England and other countries, that allowed drinking at all, failed to accomplish the beneficial effects aimed at. In Canada we have been fighting the liquor traffic for years. The Scott Act was good but we could not put it into effect because the Government would not help us to enforce it. The Local Option Law is more effective. We can have this law in Peterborough if we will work for it.

"The public recently have been greatly aroused by the reports of a child that was kidnapped in the United States. Parents have hugged their children at the thought that a similar fate might hapen to them. Yet year by year, tens of thousands of boys and girls are carried off by the liquor traffic and people take it as a matter of course. Christians must stiffen up their backs and deal with this question effectively. Let us not be fearful—instead, we must be strong and courageous."

Mr. Mason described the beneficial effects that have followed the adoption of local option in Kansas City, Kansas, a city of a hundred thousand population. He likened the liquor traffic to a ravening wolf and called for united effort in driving it out of the country.

Rev. Mr. Potter called attention to the character of the people who support the liquor traffic and compared it with the character of the people who are working for temperance. He thought that it was ridiculous to spend large sums of money for educational purposes and then to spend much larger sums for liquor. A duet was rendered by Mrs. and Miss Hincheliffe.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE CANADIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION ON THEIR VISIT TO PETERBORO SATURDAY

The Toronto News gives Peterborough, its people, and manufactories a kindly reference in its report of the trip of the Press Association to Peterborough. It is as follows:

Peterborough will probably be as much noted among newspaper men in future for its hospitality as it has been famous in other respects heretofore. The City Council had heard of the coming of the Canadian Press Association on their annual trip following the convention in Toronto, and decided that they should be properly entertained. The manufacturers of the city had fallen in with the schemes of the Council, and as a result such a day was spent as will live long in the memory of the editors who made the trip. The special C.P.R. train had on board over two hundred members of the Association, and a large number of their friends when they left the Union Station at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning. The weather was distinctly wintry.

"Strange country this," said one of the newspaper men. "When I left St. Thomas yesterday, they had the watering carts out to keep the dust down, but look at it now!"

There was much to be seen in Peterborough, though, and for that reason the early arrival was appreciated.

No time was lost. Representatives from the City Council met the train at Burketon Junction, and they at once took hold of the proceedings. Everything had been arranged.

Visited the C. G. E.

The Canadian General Electric Company was the first place of interest visited.

This industry has gained a wide reputation in Ontario. By those who are interested in electric work it is considered to be one of the finest plants on the continent. Here every summer large numbers of students from the School of Practical Science work, for there they realize that they obtain a training in the practical side of their electric work which can not be gained at the college. Through the co-operation of the management of the works, their visit was so arranged that at least an idea of the work which is being carried on there could be gained. Mr. E. G. Patterson, general superintendent of the works, himself conducted the party over the different shops, and explained as far as was possible the working of the plant.

Everything needed that electricity may be harnessed for the good of man is made in these shops. Dynamos, generators and meters are made, and the Press Association saw them in the making. Here was to be seen, too, the application of the modern laws of labour. The work is all specialized. One department makes one part of the machine, and that part alone. Another department makes another. Still another puts the parts together. All are being made at the same time, and the finished product, the great machines capable of giving tremendous motive power, are turned out in wonderfully short time.

At the Electric Works it had been the division and specialization of the labour which struck the layman. In the Cordage Works it was the wonderful process of building up.

The Cordage Works

There, on entering the door, were, to be seen great bales of raw manila hemp. Men were busy taking this out of the bales and putting it into machines which turned it out in long fibres. These fibres were run through machines which separated them, and wound them into cords, some tightly woven, and some not so tightly. Then there was a change. Some of the cords were wound right into the balls of binder twine which the farmers use in such quantities in harvest time. Others again were used in a further building-up process. Four or five balls would again be wound into heavier ropes, until finally there was to be seen a machine where three of these heavy ropes were being wound into a great cable. It was a wonderful sight, though apparently so simple.

Welcomed to the City

Then came lunch. Here also the committee had made every arrangement. Members of the Council were at all the turning points along the way from the Cordage Works to the hotels, and directed the newspaper men to the houses to which they had been deputed. There they not only partook of a fine dinner, but were welcomed to the city in neat speeches made by Mayor Rush, Hon J. R. Stratton and Ald. J. J. Turner. Some of the visitors replied to the nice things said, and then once again all set out for there were still some points of great interest to be seen, and the time was short.

Quaker Oats Factory

It was to the mills of the Quaker Oats Company that the party went first, and here a great treat was given the ladies who had come along. Many of them had probably used Quaker Oats, but now they were given an opportunity of seeing how they were made. It was a revelation. From the time the grain was brought from the cars into the mills until it was shipped out in large wooden boxes on which appeared the well-known figure of the hale and hearty Quaker, every step could be seen. From start to finish not a human hand touched the meal. Girls took the boxes and placed them in a machine which filled them. These were closed by machinery, when other girls placed labels upon them and sent them out to be packed in the large boxes.

In the office tables were arranged, and from these other girls served all with some of the foods they had just seen in the process of making. It was very evident that seeing the making had not taken away the visitors' appetite for the foods.

Did Not See Lift-Lock

The intention had been to take the journalists from the Quaker Oats mills to the great hydraulic lift-lock, but the time was all too short. Moreover, while the sun had come out, making the day a beautiful one overhead, the snow was lying deep on the ground, and the walking was far from good, so it was decided that this part of the trip would not be taken.

At the station they said good-bye to the members of the Peterborough Council who had contributed so largely to make the trip a pleasant one, and then all settled down for the trip to Toronto.

"THE TRIUMPH OF TRUTH."

A fair-sized audience was present at the Grand Opera House last night to see the presentation of the four act play "The Triumph of Truth," staged in a very pleasing manner by a clever cast of local amateurs, under the direction of Mr. Irving Beers, whose name is now a familiar one to Peterborough theatregoers. Mr. Beers scored distinct hits in his other two productions "All the Comforts of a Home" and "The Private Secretary," both of them farces pure and simple, and although last night's vehicle was of a widely different character, being melodramatic in plot and action, the same thoroughness of training and preparation was in evidence and the presentation was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. The play ran smoothly and harmoniously, every member of the cast doing excellent work and Mr. Beers' powers as an instructor in the principles of dramatic art were once more demonstrated although it had already been acceded as a fact by the people of Peterborough, who have seen his work in the other plays produced under his direction during the season.

"The Triumph of Truth" may be styled a melodrama, and contains many strong situations and therefore many opportunities for display of histrionic ability. It is only faint praise to say that the cast took every advantage of these opportunities, showing that they entered thoroughly into the spirit of the occasion. The climaxes were well worked out, and there were few hitches to mar the harmonious action of the stirring little play, which was one admirably fitted for the capabilities of the cast. It was excellently staged, the scenic effects leaving little to be desired, in fact it was a splendid "show" all through.

The action of the play centres around J. W. Weston, a wanderer and outcast, who had gone to prison for his brother's crime and had seized an opportunity of escaping. Unfortunately for himself he falls into the clutches of James Blackburn, an unscrupulous villain, who knows him, and who forces him to become his tool under penalty of disclosure to the authorities. He is forced to claim as his daughter Franc Lee, a young girl, who is living as the daughter of Col. Lee, a Southern gentleman, but who is really Weston's daughter, although the latter does not find out that fact until he has taken his daughter from the happy home in which she has grown up. Blackburn tries to force the girl to marry him, but she refuses and then Weston, the tramp, revolts and goes back to prison, rather than have his daughter become the wife of a scoundrel. Of course everything is cleared up in the end, Weston's brother, on his death bed, confesses that he had committed the crime for which his brother had been imprisoned and the latter is liberated, returning in time to save Col. Lee from a mining deal in which the villainous Blackburn had involved him, and the "bad man" is exposed, and all ends happily as befits a melodrama.

To Mr. Beers, as Weston the outcast, much of the heavy work of the play fell, and he gave a careful, masterly interpretation of the difficult part of his work, both in comedy and in pathos, being decidedly effective. The role is not an easy one, but Mr. Beers played it with grace, and power, and his acting left little to be desired. Miss Pearl Morgan repeated the success previously scored in "All the Comforts of Home" by her splendid work, as Frances Lee. Her part called for considerable dramatic ability, and her handling of the several powerful situations, in which she was an important figure, was worthy of the greatest commendation. Mr. Arthur Graham had the somewhat ungrateful role of the villain, and he succeeded in making him decidedly realistic. His portrayal of the part was excellent.

Mr. George Clark made a manly lover and played his role to good advantage, while Mr. Mortimer Clarke as Col. Lee; Miss Agnes Pentland, as Mrs. Lee, the Colonel's wife, and Miss Nellie Graham, as the maid, were all effective in their respective roles. In fact there was not a weak spot in the cast.

Mr. Eddie Graham gave a very funny burlesque of the Salome dance or Dance of the Seven Veils, in the second act. His imitation of the famous dance brought down the house.

Between the third and last acts Mr. A. B. Cutting rendered a solo in effective manner, his powerful tenor being displayed to good advantage.

The cast and synopsis of scenery were as follows:

J. W. Weston, an itinerant—Irving Beers.
J. Blackburn, an imposter—Arthur Graham.
Col. Lee, a Southern gentleman—Mort. Johnston.
Jack Worthington, a good fellow—George Clark.
Willie Adams, a tramp—Ed Graham.
France Lee, a disputed possession—Miss Pearl Morgan.
Mrs. Lee, the Colonel's wife—Miss Agnes Pentland.
Sadie Lee, Col. Lee's maid—Miss Nellie Graham.

Synopsis.

Act I.—Lawn of Col. Lee, in Norfolk, Virginia.
Act II.—Drawing room in Col. Lee's home.
Act III.—Weston's cabin in the woods.
Act IV.—Same as Act II.

Richard Harding Davis' "The Littlest Girl" was presented at the conclusion of the main vehicle by Mr. Beers, Mr. Chas. Barber and little Miss Garden. The sketch, which is one of considerable artistic merit, irrespective of the moral it teaches, was well received and the applause which greeted it was merited. Mr. Beers was cast as Mr. Carruthers, and Mr. Barber as Van Bibber, and both did excellent work.

Between the acts an attractive bill of moving pictures was given.

The Strangest Ship Load That Ever Sailed From New York

The Shimosa With 8000 Dead Chinamen is Surely Doomed According to the Old Nautical Superstition—The Bodies to be Buried in China.

DEMAND OF THEIR RELIGION

The largest number of passengers that ever sailed from New York on one steamer, left last week on board the Shimosa, bound for the Orient. They numbered nearly 8,000, despite the fact that the Shimosa is a comparatively small steamship—not much biggger, in fact, than the average coastwise "tramp."

The 8,000 passengers, however, did not object to the seemingly overcrowded condition. In fact, not a word of complaint was heard from any one of them. It should be known, however, that every one of the passengers was dead and that fact doubtless accounts for their silent acceptance of conditions which would not be tolerated on a slave ship. They were all placed between decks several days before the steamer sailed, and not until the Far East is reached will they be permitted to come on deck.

It is not generally known, but every ten years the Chinese in all parts of the world gather up their dead for shipment to China and final re-interment in the soil of the Flowery Kingdom. Unless a Chinaman is buried in his native soil, his chances of getting into heaven are about as slight as a poor man's chances of getting into the Four Hundred. At least, he believes they are, and consequently he makes extraordinary efforts to die in his native land.

The next best thing to dying at home is being buried there, and so the bodies of nearly all Chinamen who die in foreign lands are taken to China for burial.

During his lifetime every good Chinaman in foreign lands pays a small sum weekly or monthly to a society which guarantees him burial in his native soil. Of course it would be too expensive to ship home each Chinaman as soon as he died, and so the American branch of the society waits until there are several thousand to return and then sends them back at a comparatively low cost.

In the past ten years some 8,000 Chinamen have died and been buried in America east of the Mississippi River. These bodies have been dug up and are now on board the Shimosa, bound for their final resting places in the Flowery Kingdom. Laundry men and rich merchants lie side by side in perfect harmony, and scores who were deadly enemies during their lives, members of rival "tongs," are making the trip without the slightest fear of not arriving in the same condition in which they started.

Although the 8,000 passengers are stowed between decks, and as dead as the proverbial doornail, they are not making the trip without something to eat. The Chinese believe that a dead man must never be sent on his last trip without a first class meal, and consequently every Chinaman on board the Shimosa has roast pork, chicken and rice in his coffin.

The Shimosa does not carry a physician. She does carry a Chinese crew, however, and for this reason: It is one of the oldest superstitions amongst sailors that a corpse on board a ship brings bad luck. That is one reason why those who die on board are nearly always buried at sea. If one dead man on board a ship brings bad luck, it is easy to figure out that with 8,000 dead Chinamen the Shimosa is doomed. Chinese sailors, however, are not up in this particular superstition, and consequently they will sail the Shimosa as cheerfully as if she was laden with chop suey.

On her arrival in Eastern waters the Shimosa will touch at the principal Chinese ports and unload her passengers, who will be buried in their native provinces under the supervision of the agents of the society.

AN OLD SAYING.

Showing How cause and Effect Are Never Far Removed.

It is an old saying "Where there's honey there's bees"—not less true is one which science has coined more recently, "Where there's Dandruff there's germs"—and—to push the inference still further we may truly say, "Where there's Dandruff cured Newbro's Herpicide has been at work."

The reason of Herpicide's isolation as a genuine cure for Dandruff lies in the fact that it attacks and destroys the root of the whole trouble—a parasitic germ which feeds upon hair follicle.

Other so-called remedies are not directed at this true cause of the disease.

Accept no substitute, there is none.

Two Sleighs and a Maiden.

By HELEN WOOD.

Joel Herrick drove along disconsolately in the moonlight, flicking his whip about Bay Charley's ears. Behind the yarn muffler his face wore an expression of disappointment and wounded pride, and it was evident that the five miles of fine sleighing before him on this keen, beautiful night held no charms. Disconsolate he looked and disconsolate he felt, for had he not just been scorned by the lady of his heart?

Little had he thought when he drove Susannah Peters out to Johnson's golden wedding that she would desert him for his bitterest rival, Ed Sparks, and yet—

Joel had danced often with the pretty, golden haired Susannah. She, happily conscious of her new blue ribbons and pink cheeks, had beamed upon him, dancing his heart quite out of him and himself into the brave resolve to speak of his love on the homeward drive, for, although Joel had "kept company" with Susannah for six months, he had always lacked the courage to "ask her" point blank.

Now, Ed Sparks, on the other hand, lacked not the courage, but rather had pressed his suit, even when Susannah had clearly snubbed him. Perhaps it was done only to nettle the hesitating Joel; perhaps Susannah was really impressed by Ed's brand new suit of store clothes, scarlet tie and glittering cuff buttons and studs. At any rate, when the dancing was done and the big dining room was thrown open it was Ed Sparks who stepped quickly forward and "handed" Susannah to the delectable feast, and it was Ed Sparks who filled her glass with Aunt Marcy Johnson's best blackberry wine when the health of host and hostess was drunk. And all the while Joel Herrick, his heart eaten out with jealousy, tried to look gay as he served another and less favored damsel.

After supper goodbys were said, the stone bottles were filled with hot water in anticipation of long rides through the cold night, the women bundled each other up in tippet and shawl, while the men harnessed the horses. To be sure, Joel had but one horse to harness, yet the crafty Ed managed to reach the house door first with his prancing young horses and a new, fancy sleigh. Susannah gave one swift glance from Ed's dashing turnout to staid Bay Charley and the old fashioned cutter. Vaguely she heard a chorus of feminine "ohs" and "ahs," and Joel's fate was sealed. She sprang into Ed's sleigh, the envy of every other girl on the great porch.

All this furnished anything but pleasant thoughts for Joel as he drove home alone, and when he realized that at this moment Ed's arm might be encircling the slender waist of Susannah he fairly groaned in spirit. Perhaps the bold fellow might even dare to kiss her. Joel grasped his whip tightly, and Bay Charley sprang forward in surprise.

Two miles had been covered, and he reached a point where the road wound through a patch of woodland. The trees stood gaunt, strange and black against the dazzling snow. Now and then a branch snapped with the cold, sounding like the report of a pistol on the still moonlight. Joel commenced to whistle from sheer loneliness. Then suddenly the sound died on his lips. In astonishment he saw a woman walking toward him. Nearer and nearer they came together. More and more familiar became the outlines of that feminine figure. As he slowed up it shrank back against a tree.

"Why, Susannah!"

"Oh, Joel, I'm so glad it's you!"

There were tears in her voice. But Joel remembered the slights, the humiliation, recently put upon him and hardened his heart and his voice.

"Well, Miss Peters, if you are goin' home alone I shall be pleased to take you under my care."

His tone was not inviting, but the shivering Susannah quickly climbed to his side. Joel touched up Bay Charley, but for some time remained silent. Now and then he glanced at the little figure crouched at his side, shaking with sobs and cold together. Joel's heart approached him, and he finally remarked:

"Seems to me you ain't actin' right tonight. First you take up with a no account sort of fellow like Ed Sparks; then you go walkin' alone at this time of night. Where's Ed, an' what does he mean leavin' you all alone like this? If he ain't seated you right I'll take him out an' horsewhip him."

Susannah laid her hand appealingly on Joel's arm.

"I've been mean to you, Joel, but—but this ain't Ed's fault. I—I—fell out!"

Joel snorted incredulously.

"Yes, I did, too, Joel. We were just above Old Man Judkin's place, an' one of those big wild geese was lyin' in the road, we not seein' it because of its bein' all white. It just took an' flew right up in the horses' faces. They're spirity, you know, an' won't stand much, an'—an'"—this very softly and slyly—"Ed ain't a driver like you. He ain't strong. They ran like wild, an' he had to stand up to hold 'em. An' when we turned the corner by the old apple tree the sleigh went into a post, toppled over, an'—I—I fell out. An' when I got up I saw the sleigh swingin' from side to side an' Ed standin' up an' hangin' on to the reins."

Her recital came to a sudden and undignified end as she giggled at the recollection of her admirer's plight. She tried to smother the giggle in the sleeve of Joel's great rough coat and then continued:

"There hasn't been a soul along until you came. I was scart to death. Everything was so white an' still, an' in the woods the moon was lookin' at me through the dark branches of the trees for all the world like a queer face. I—I don't believe I could have stood it much longer."

By this time Joel was chuckling over his rival's predicament, and Susannah sat up in sudden dismay.

"But you won't tell anybody, will you, Joel? The whole town 'll be laughin' at me."

Joel turned serious on the instant.

"No, they won't laugh at you. If they do they'll have to answer to me. Besides, the joke ain't on you. It's on Ed."

But just at this time Ed was having fresh troubles of his own. Careening, swaying, he drew near Hufflesburg at a racing gait, utterly unconscious that Susannah was no longer clinging to the seat before which he still stood, tugging at the reins. Occasionally he threw an encouraging word over his shoulder or told her how brave she was not to scream and add to their danger. The horses would soon run themselves out, and the road before them was clear.

But, alas, just as he turned into the town a sudden obstacle appeared in their track—Farmer Schneider's big sleigh laden with the rosy cheeked Mrs. Schneider and three equally rosy daughters! At Ed's warning shout Schneider drew his placid white mare to one side, but the flying team caught the rear of Schneider's sleigh, and a chorus of feminine shrieks was wafted to the fleeing Ed. The drift was deep, and the five Schneiders, when disentangled, found themselves uninjured, but nevertheless wrathful at the reckless driver.

In the meantime Ed had reached the center of the town, and his horses, exhausted and steaming, finally responded to the rein. With a feeling of intense relief Ed turned to his companion. Consternation seized him. Where was Susannah? Caught in the maelstrom of Schneiders? No. His cutter had not been injured in the collision with Schnei[illegible] had not spoken since the horses first began their mad run. What if she had been back there in the woods all this time, frozen, perhaps attacked by tramps? Ed was too frightened to be logical. With a curse he turned his jagged horses back into the road and whipped them on at a mad gait. Again he passed the Schneider family, and as the farmer once more pulled out of his way, this time more successfully, his good wife murmured:

"I did not think Marcy Johnson's wine was so strong as that."

Half a mile farther he met Joel and stopped at the latter's vigorous hail.

"Good evenin', Ed," said Joel, with a cheerful smile for his discomfited rival. "Are you goin' to look for Susannah? She's here, safe in my sleigh, an' you can just bet she ain't goin' to make such a mistake again."

Ed ignored the complacent Joel and, making his best bow—that is, the best he could make while trying to hold the two astonished and trembling horses—said:

"I'm awful sorry I had such an accident, Miss Peters, but if you aren't hurt it don't matter so much, and I hope you'll let me see you safe home."

Susannah choked back a persistent giggle and clung to Joel's arm.

"You see, Mr. Sparks—Mr. Herrick—I mean Joel—an' I—we—I'm just as much obliged"—

Joel took up her faltering explanation and made it clear.

"I don't mind tellin' you, Mr. Sparks, that hereafter Susannah an' I'll do our sleighin' together for all time, but if you want a recommendation to any other girl Susannah she'll give it, an' we won't mention this here little affair."

And Mr. Sparks, with a dignified uplifting of his fur cap and a few unintelligible words, whipped up his horses, swung around in the road and raced back to town.

The Sins of the Son.

In Busreh, Persia, the hand of native justice punishes the robber with great severity, as may be inferred from the following episode, the truth of which is vouched for by a gentleman of position long resident in the district. On a certain occasion a native of low class attacked this gentleman, seized the bridle of his horse and demanded baksheesh. The rider promptly delivered his assailant a blow with his whip and proceeded to the head sheikh, to whom he reported the matter. The sheikh undertook to see that the miscreant should be suitably punished, and the traveler continued his journey. On his return he again visited this dignitary, who, bowing low, assured the gentleman that both the guilty man and his father had been severely bastinadoed! The traveler ventured to remark that the father, at any rate, was innocent and asked why punishment had been meted out to him. The reply was quickly forthcoming. "Oh, we punished the man for his wicked act and the father because he had not brought up his son properly!" a rather startling reversion of the order in which the punishment for sin is to be visited according to Scriptural ideas.

His Kick.

"I do wish," said Mrs. Stiles, "that you'd try to keep yourself neater."

"But, my dear," protested her husband, "you're not so careful"—

"I'm not? I'm certainly more careful of my clothes than you"—

"That's just it. You should be more careful of me." — Catholic Standard and Times.

Wise to Their Habits.

"Excuse me, ma'am," said the book canvasser to the lady who had opened the door in answer to his ring, "but if you have a few moments to spare I'd like to show you the great work on the 'Habits of Savage Animals.'"

"No use wasting your time, young man," replied the female. "I've been married three times and know all about their habits."

Not Well Named.

"Now, where did I lay my rat, I wonder?" fretted Mrs. Trousseau.

"Your—er—rat?" said her husband. "Do you mean that fluffy thing you put on your head?"

"Of course!"

"I'm sure I don't know, my dear. But why call it a rat? Rabbit would be better. It would sound more like real hare."—Lippincott's.

CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, HAWKING.

Even Though Head and Throat Are Diseased From Neglected Colds, Cure is Certain.

Hundreds die of chronic catarrh that could be cured by persevering with a remedy of real merit. Look for these symptoms in your own case—they all mean Catarrh in some form: "Is your voice rough?" "Do you cough up phlegm?" "Is your nose stuffed up?" "Do you snore at night?" "Does your nose itch and burn?" "Have you frontal headaches?" "Do your eyes pain?" "Is it difficult to clear your throat?" "Do you sneeze, hawk, cough?" "Have you droppings in throat?" "Are you losing sense of taste?" "Have you stomach nausea?" "Catarrh has been pronounced a disease constantly maintained by germ life, and like other diseases where germs are present is impossible to be cured by the ordinary constitutional remedies."

Hundreds of different remedies have been tried. Inhalers which produced clean, vapors and sprays were introduced, but turned out useless, as the most complicated and the medicaments so highly extolled in the large bronchial infection failed to reach the seat of the trouble in the lungs.

Catarrhozone

is the only germicide ever found volatile enough to impregnate every particle of air breathed, yet having it RICH from moisture thus enabling its powerful germ destroyers to reach every part of the air passages in the nose, throat and lungs, where it at once kills the germs that cause catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, colds, etc.

It cures by inhalation and because it cannot fail to reach the seat of the disease. It is guaranteed, and incurs no risk—neither danger of inconvenience to the patient.

BEGIN TREATMENT NOW.

Catarrhozone is obtainable in certain to reach the seat of the disease. It possesses [illegible] healing properties, and quiet, restores the raw, congested membranes to a normal, healthy condition. In a few breaths [illegible] the nose, throat, head, chest, discharge and sickly odors, coughing, hawking, spitting, sneezing, catarrh, sore throat, bronchitis, lungs, asthma, colds.

QUICK CURE IS GUARANTEED.

Now, bear in mind, you breathe this Catarrhozone. Do you not think this a rational method of treating disease? Is there a more reasonable way of reaching the diseased surfaces which lie so far in the cavity of the nose or of the head that they can be reached in no other way?

You cannot possibly fail to obtain quick cure if you will use Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, absolutely guaranteed, costs $1.00; smaller size, 50c., at all dealers in medicine.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visable pulsations of the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need suffer.

Mr. Sylvester Smith, Hampton, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and tried doctor's medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. I heard of your Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes and before I had used them I was completely cured and would recommend them to all similarly affected."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WINNIPEG MAN CURED OF RHEUMATISM

Remarkable Case of Cure After Specialists Failed.

Winnipeg, Man.—A prominent resident of this City, who for personal reasons does not wish his name mentioned publicly, but who permits us to show his letter to interested enquirers, writes to say that he was suddenly taken with excruciating pains in the back and side, which were pronounced by his physicians as Rheumatism. Hot applications were at once resorted to, the usual medicines administered, supplemented by electrical treatment, but all to no purpose. In his desperation he took Gin Pills on his own account, and in a few hours after taking the first Pill the pains commenced to subside. He continued taking them and in 48 hours he had not an ache or a pain left.

Gin Pills are sold at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Send to us if your dealer does not handle them. Sample box free if you mention this paper.

ABOUT TABLE LINEN.

How to Select the Most Economical Lengths.

In selecting tablecloths it is more satisfactory to get the seventy-two inch width, which gives a generous fall of sixteen inches or so at the sides, which dresses a table better than the narrower widths. Two and one-half yards is a very good measure for general use, a very convenient size for a small company requiring an extra leaf. Three and one-half yards are required for an extended table, to drape over the ends and correspond with the sides.

In hemming tablecloths a double hemstitch above an inch and a half wide hem makes a very fine finish. The ends must be cut by the thread to make the hem true. With napkins to correspond and finished in the same way this makes a very fine table set if the linen is fine and heavy, with a pretty pattern. If the hemstitch is thought to be too elaborate, the so called French hem at the ends does very nicely. Turning a half inch hem neatly and folding back, sew a fine over and over stitch.

The care of table linen is of great importance if one would have the table arrayed at its best. There must be a pure white cloth without blemish or wrinkle, with satiny finish and with as few folds as possible. A very good way to wash napkins and tablecloths for this effect is to first pour slowly a stream of boiling water over stains and then let them soak in a good suds made with white laundry soap for an hour, then lightly rub out and just scald in clear soft water, rinse in a light bluing water and during the whole process wring by hand instead of by wringer to avoid the wrinkles that are so hard to press out. Do not starch; stretch evenly and hang straight on the line to dry.

In ironing the linen must be evenly and very well dampened. Fold the tablecloth from side to side just once and press dry from end to end on both sides. This will give the satin finish. Fold together sidewise once more and press both sides carefully, then fold lengthwise as little as possible to lay in your sideboard drawer for linen. To avoid the least folds some get boards, such as are used for dress goods, and wind their long tablecloths smoothly over them, giving them the appearance of new linen, says the Housekeeper.

THE SPEEDING BULLET.

It Waves the Air as a Moving Ship Does the Water.

Marked changes occur in a bullet fired from a gun after it has been acted upon by the force of the explosion in the barrel. Its surface has become clean, bright and highly polished by the removal of the superficial layers of the sheath, and its temperature has been raised both by the friction against the barrel and by the enkindled gases. Because of this rise in temperature it is thoroughly sterilized and totally destitute of bacteria. Standing behind a twelve inch gun one can easily follow the flight of the projectile with the naked eye.

Under favorable circumstances and with the aid of a telescope it is possible to catch a glimpse of even the small bore bullet as it flashes through the air. Photographs, or, rather, shadowgraphs, of the .311 inch bullet traveling with a speed of over 2,000 feet a second show the cap of condensed gas, about one-tenth of an inch thick, which clothes the nose of a projectile when it is in rapid motion through a gaseous medium.

Minute rotating spherules of gas showing motion remain behind and map out the path of the bullet. These lines and eddies recall forcibly the bow and stern waves made by a ship in motion and the numerous little whirlpools that may be seen in its wake.

RESCUE WORK AT SEA.

Quick Time In Launching and Manning the Big Lifeboats.

Aboard an ocean liner the other day several officers were talking about the length of time required to launch and man one of the large lifeboats that swing from davits sixty feet above the sea. It was agreed that a boat can be lowered with its crew and get away from the ship in two minutes in anything like decent weather.

An instance was related where a man had fallen from the liner while she was speeding 14 knots. The alarm was sounded, a boat lowered and the swimmer rescued after a considerable row back over the course to where he was floundering about. The crew had the rescued individual back to the ship with the boat in its chocks in just seventeen minutes, which is regarded a most creditable performance. There was no ice on the rope falls to hamper the work and everything worked smoothly or the boat would have been much longer on its mission.

A steamship of 10,000 tons when going at full speed has momentum sufficient to carry her at least two miles after the engines are stopped, providing the sea is fairly quiet. Crews of lifeboats frequently have hard work cut out for them while going to a rescue before the headway of their vessel has been stopped.

WHEN MEN "GO FANTI"

WHITE MEN WHO CAST IN LOT WITH NATIVES.

American Squaw Man Is Paralleled In All Parts of the World by Cases Where Caucasians Take Wives From Colored Races and Settle Down to Live With the Tribes—Dunn Most Famous.

When a white man abandons the life to which he has been brought up, and throws in his lot with a colored race, he is said to "Go Fanti." Such lapses from civilisation are by no means uncommon in Africa, India, Ceylon, China, Japan, and, indeed, in almost every country into which the white man has forced his way.

A curious case of cutting oneself off from civilization occurred in Persia some years ago. A rich English traveler was captured by hill-robbers at the edge of the desert, about midway between Ispahan and Yezd. They held him to ransom, which was to be arranged for by a friend of the Englishman, who was staying at Teheran.

Before the release could be effected, the captured man fell deeply in love with the youngest daughter of the chief of the marauders. Despite the entreaties of his friend, he put the old life behind him, married the girl, and became a full-fledged Persian robber. On his father-in-law's death the renegade Englishman succeeded the former as head of the robber gang.

A well-known British war correspondent relates how he was once entertained by a friendly Arab, whose tent was pitched a few miles south of Gerara. During dinner—which was a typical Arab meal—the conversation was carried on by means of the few words of Arabic known to the newspaper man, and, when words failed, signs were used.

The inevitable hookah was produced, and the two men puffed away in contemplative silence. At the end of half an hour or so the guest was utterly astounded at hearing his entertainer say in perfect English:

"Hang it all, let's have a decent smoke!"

"What the —— Why, you're no Arab!" exclaimed the war correspondent.

The brown-faced, berlouse-clad man smiled grimly as he rummaged out an old well-colored briar pipe and a packet of choice mixture.

"I was once an Englishman," said he, as he passed the tobacco over. "but, now——" He finished his sentence by a shrug of his shoulders.

The guest felt the delicacy of putting questions; the host volunteered no explanations. He declared that he would never return to the irritating, tightening bonds of civilization.

"The desert holds me," he said simply, as the other swung himself on to his camel and departed, marvelling at the vagaries of mankind.

A few years ago a captain in a well-known regiment stationed in one of the Northwest Provinces of India, became infatuated with a handsome hill-girl. The mess soon lost its attraction for him, and the society of the uncivilized maiden became preferable to that of the station ladies, with their latest London and Paris fashions. He eventually married his dusky divinity and "went under."

He is still perfectly happy and contented, and, living a free-and-easy life, has no desire to return to the trammels of society.

In Japan there are many Europeans, who, fascinated by the charms of the East, have put the West for ever behind them. Within a few miles of Tokio there lives a man who was once a familiar figure in London. In the autumn of 1902 he went out to Japan on a yachting cruise with some friends. He became enamored with a peach-and-cream complexioned native, wooed and married her, and disappeared from the world that had known him.

A wealthy Frenchman, when on a visit to the Far East, met a charming daughter of Japan. He fell madly in love with her, and asked her to become his wife. This she consented to do on condition that he agreed to live in the land of the Mikado. It was a terrible wrench for him to abandon his beloved Paris, but he felt that it would have been a still greater sacrifice to give up the girl who had won his heart.

He now lives in a secluded and beautiful house near Kioto, and Paris is almost a forgotten memory.

There are several well-known instances of Europeans turning Zulu, one of the most notable being that of John Dunn, who was known as Cetewayo's White Man. Through his bravery, Dunn soon won the heart of the Zulu king, and he eventually became a chief.

A famous London journalist, who has acted as war correspondent in almost every part of the globe, related the following story:

Cetewayo, in the days before the Zulu war, once asked Dunn suddenly what he would do if the Zulus fought against the whiteman. Dunn at once replied that he would go to the side of his own people, and Cetewayo grimly told him that, had he given any other answer he would have stabbed him, for he would have known him to be a liar. When the war did break out, Dunn kept his word. Always a white man at heart, he took up arms on the side of his own people.

You will find white men wedded to Samoan women, with their deep languorous eyes; to women of the Celestial Empire, with almond eyes and crippled feet; to dusky, full-lipped Africans; to North American Indians, with long broad noses and hair as strong as horses'.

All those men have "Gone Fanti."

Bell to Scare Lions.

Sir Alfred E. Pease, who is about to make another journey to Africa, once cycled through British East Africa, and on one occasion actually scared lions out of his path by furiously ringing his bell.

As It Should Be.

And peace at any price,
We've noticed now and then,
Is mostly advocated by
Meek and lowly married men.

A Highly Recommended Prescription For Kidney and Bladder Troubles

IT IS MIXED AT HOME.

There are more cases of kidney trouble here now than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney disease than any other cause.

When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of kidney trouble. It is nothing more or less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints and muscles, causing intense suffering; frequently resulting in deformity; often reaching the heart, when death ensues.

Pains across the back, frequent, painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach disease, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms; the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.

A simple test of the urine is to void a small quantity in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning, if there is a reddish brick-dust sediment, or white fleecy substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good vegetable treatment. The following prescription is highly recommended in these cases, and the sufferer can mix it at home: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow immediately on the use of this simple prescription.

Lucinda's Dreadful Dream.

"I've had some dreadful dreams in my lifetime," said Lucinda, "but never any half so dreadful as one I had last night. I shall be miserable till I know whether it's coming true."

Of course everybody wanted to know what the dreadful dream was, and Lucinda continued:

"Why, I dreamed my coat was ruined!"

Chorus of commiserating groans at this.

It seems that Lucinda has lately bought a new suit, and the coat didn't fit her exactly, and so she took it back to have it filled, and it isn't to come home till next Wednesday, and last night she dreamed that it had come home and that it was worse than it was before—that they had made a mess of it and the coat was ruined.

Now, isn't that a dreadful dream? Truly? Why, if Lucinda had dreamed that she had fallen from the top of a tall mountain or been dropped from a flying machine or something like that, then she would have woked up the minute she began to fall and so have known right away that everything was all right, but as it is she's got to wait till next Wednesday to know if that dreadful dream is coming true.—New York Sun.

Money In China and Egypt.

Coins were made in China so long ago, it is said, as the year 2250 B. C., but they could not have been other than portions of metal cast into portable shape, such as were all the earliest moneys. In Egypt, the cradle of civilization and commerce, strange to say, there was no imperial coinage. Copper, silver and gold were used, as elsewhere, to indicate values, but they were manufactured into lumps, shaped sometimes like brick, and in the case of gold and silver were molded in rings, like the ancient Irish money of ten centuries ago. It appears almost inconceivable that a people who created the pyramids and erected such magnificent temples should have been entirely ignorant of coins. Yet it is certain from the statements of Herodotus that such was the case. The first coinage of money in Egypt was not struck to assist the Egyptians themselves in their commercial dealings, but, rather, because the foreign merchants with whom they traded, the Greeks and the Phoenicians, demanded some medium which would have the guarantee of its value apparent on it and which would circulate for that value.

The True American Virtue.

The thing whereby America really towers over the old country is the thing which Jefferson reared and Washington defended. The solid good of America is that when all is said and done she is a republic, a public thing and a people representing itself. There are men rich enough and strong enough, almost, to starve America, but there are no men strong enough to silence America. No oligarchy acts as an entirely false interpreter between Americans and the world. America and the Americans may be right or wrong. But England may actually be wrong while Englishmen are right. We have said, then, that the true American virtue is this candid and complete democracy, the fact that the truth may be told even if it is not believed.—Hampton's Magazine.

PIGEONS AS PHOTOGRAPHERS.

Doctor Is Getting Remarkable Results From His Experiments.

The remarkable sense of direction which enables a pigeon to find its way back to the cote, even from a considerable distance, has long been used for the conveyance of written messages. It occurred to Dr. Neubrouner of Cronberg recently that he might attach to a pigeon a small photographic camera, allowing some distinct views to be taken during a flight of about twenty metres a second.

After testing this camera from an express train Dr. Neubronner proceeded to perform his first experiments on carrier pigeons as photographers, and the first pictures, which were two by two centimetres in size, where considered quite satisfactory as preliminary results. As the inventor soon realized the scope of this idea he ordered from a good mechanic a large camera with a better objective and films of four centimetres, with a view to further improving those views. This camera having been fixed to the pigeon's breast with a thin board of hard wood was kept in position on the back of the bird by means of straps. A small India rubber ball, allowing the air slowly to escape, would effect the instantaneous opening of the shutter in due time. As the air issued from the ball the latter collapsed more and more, while disengaging the shutter at regular intervals, which were readily predetermined.

Dr. Neubronner was thus able to secure eight consecutive views, but the capacity of the apparatus is likely to be increased up to thirty views, so that, with intervals of half a minute, a distance of fifteen kilometres could be covered nearly continuously. As a pigeon is able to transport seventy-five grains to a distance ten times as great, no essential difficulty will be met with in carrying this idea out in practice.

MAKES STATUE ITS HOME

Bird Builds Nest In Cavity Under Arm of Figure.

In Lord Morpeth, who presided over the conference of the Midland Liberal Unionist Association at Shrewsbury, England, is found a notable example of the recurrence of similarity of features in a family after a long interval, and even when the relationship is indirect. In Phoenix Park, Dublin, there is a fine statue of the late Earl of Carlisle, Lord Morpeth's grand-uncle, a former viceroy of Ireland. The statue is said to have been an excellent "likeness" of the late earl, and Lord Morpeth bears a very striking resemblance, both in cast of feature and expression, to the statue of his grand-uncle. In the cavity under the arm of the statue a bird made its nest for many years undisturbed. The Howards of Cumberland can trace their descent back to Hereward, kinsman of Duke Oslac, who flourished in the days of King Edgar, nine-and-a-half centuries ago. When Lord Morpeth, as M.P. for South Birmingham, made his maiden speech in the House of Commons, he made the interesting announcement that he was a total abstainer, and accompanied the remark with some sage advice to his teetotal colleagues on the other side of the House. He did not believe, he said, that the cause of temperance could be advanced by the splenetic harassing of publicans and the achievement of local option. Lord Morpeth's country house is Calthwaite Hall, an Elizabethan house near Lazonby, in Cumberland, commanding a splendid view.

"Cattle Show" In Cathedral?

The Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, the Rev. Robert Gregory, D.D., is the most venerable figure in the ecclesiastical life of the Metropolis. He recently kept his ninetieth birthday, when he received shoals of congratulatory messages. When—forty years ago—the Dean vacated a living in a slum parish in Lambeth to become a junior canon at St. Paul's, people had to pay for admission to the Cathedral. Dr. Gregory has related an amusing story of a verger who was so annoyed at people loitering about in the centre of the dome that he took it upon himself to erect a barrier composed of hurdles. This arrangement, however, was short-lived. "What are you preparing for?" he was asked by Dr. Gregory. "Is it to be a cattle show or an exhibition of sheep or pigs?" The verger was obliged to admit it was neither. He removed the hurdles, but the action was not after his own heart. Despite his ninety years, the Dean is a regular attendant at the Cathedral evensong, and, weather permitting, he takes a "constitutional" daily.

FOIBLES OF THE GREAT.

Men of Reason Not Free From Superstition.

Among the portents of the great plague noted by Defoe was "running about to fortune-tellers, cunning men and astrologers." Sadly he reports that "this trade grew so open and so generally practiced that it became common to have signs and inscriptions set up at the doors: 'Here lies the Fortune-Teller,' and the like." This was 250 years ago, in an ignorant age; enlightenment had marched so far and so fast since then that fortune-tellers, clairvoyants "and the like" crowd the fashionable streets with their advertisements. And nobody worth attention thinks it portent. At a bishop's table one may hear fellow-guests claim their belief in palmistry—it is classed among the sciences. Learned persons investigate the wonders of clairvoyance. A flourishing Society of Astrologers hold debates and issues "literature." So great has been the progress of knowledge and culture since Defoe's time. It is very encouraging for the future.

Does anyone quite escape the snares of superstition? Not all are gross and palpable. There is a multitude of private observances, avowedly superstitious, to some of which most of us are devoted. One need not turn back so far as Bacon and Newton to find examples among the wisest and gravest, says The Pall Mall Gazette. A man more absolutely governed by pure reason than Lord Macauley could not well be found. But in his diary he refers to an after-dinner talk about the feeling which Johnson had—of thinking oneself bound to touch a particular rail or post, or to tread in the middle of a paving-stone. And he adds: "I certainly have this very strongly." Such a fancy is not vulgar nor undignified, like consulting a disreputable woman as an oracle, but is it less unreasonable? In one of his Hibbert lectures Max Muller said to his students: "Many of you, I suspect, carry a ha'penny with a hole in it for luck. I am not ashamed to own that I have done so myself for many years." The case was cited as an illustration of "survivals" from primieval fetichism; but on his own account Max Muller confessed that when, sometimes, he had left home without this halfpenny talisman, he felt "very uncomfortable" until his safe return. Charles Dickens refused to lie down unless his bed were place due north and south. He gave notice of the rule before arriving at a friend's house or an hotel, but a compass was always handy in his baggage to make sure, and the slightest error must be corrected before he would turn in. Little scenes are said to have occurred more than once when the host was stubborn. Miss Justin McCarthy has told how Parnell gravely checked her stirring coffee "the wrong way," and insisted that she should take another cup. A gentleman of Portrush sent Lord Roberts an old horseshoe, when things looked ill in South Africa. Gratefully acknowledging it, the general added that he would keep this horseshoe in company "with one I picked up the day I entered the Orange Free State, and another I found at Paardeburg the day before Gen. Cronje surrendered."

Stead on Public Speaking.

"I must draw to a close this discursive gossip about the art of speaking and the great speakers whom I have heard, with one or two practical words of advice based upon considerable experience as a speaker, and still more as a listener:

"1. Never speak without having something to say.

"2. Always sit down when you have said it.

"3. Remember, speech is dumb show when it is not audible.

"4. Think definitely, pronounce clearly, stand naturally, and do not speak too fast.

"5. Welcome articulate interruption, no matter how hostile.

"6. Two things should never be lost; your temper and the thread of your discourse.

"7. Remember that the eyes are as eloquent as the tongue.

"8. Never hesitate to let yourself go, at the right time.

"9. Never read your speech, but always have heads of discourse handy.

"10. And never forget Cardinal Manning's words of wisdom to myself: 'Be full of your subject and forget yourself.'"—The Windsor.

And Will She?

Was it not a Greek philosopher who said that obedience is the mother of success? Yet among the "new" women there is many a bride who would rather risk the success than pledge herself to obey her husband, as she is now compelled to do.

Don't Neglect a Cough or Cold."

It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop a cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

Mrs. A. Elles, Innisfail, Alta., writes: "Last spring I had Typhoid fever and Bronchitis, which left me with a terrible cough. I tried doctor's medicine but got no relief until my husband got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before I had finished it my cough was cured. My husband also uses it whenever he has a cough. I would not be without it."

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

What Booth's Kidney Pills are Doing for Peterborough, Ont., People.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys every three minutes.

The kidneys filter the blood.

They work night and day to daily remove about 500 grains of impure matter. If they fail some part of this impure matter is left in the blood, bringing on pain in the back, headache, dizziness, irregular heart, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gravel, dropsy, deposits in the urine. Booth's Kidney Pills make the filtering right and overcome kidney trouble. Hundreds of Peterborough County residents have found this out.

Mrs. John Wallace, of No. 323 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I had suffered with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble for over two years and could find nothing that would benefit my condition. My back was weak and a dull, heavy pain settled across the small of it, extending into my sides and shoulders. I could not sleep at night as the kidney secretions were so frequent and irregular that I would have to leave my bed a number of times. I was dizzy and weak and would usually awake with a dull headache. Booth's Kidney Pills procured at McDirmid and Jury's drug store, cured me when all else failed. I am stronger and feel better generally. I can conscientiously recommend Booth's Kidney Pills, and I would not be without a box in the house."

A NEW ONE.

The Man With the Conundrum Habit at It Again.

The man with the aggravating side whiskers comes into the office of the man with the discouraged eyebrows and says:

"I've thought up a new one."

"You have, have you?" asks the man with the discouraged eyebrows.

"Yes. It's a corker. Why are the little sister and brother of a young lady who has been keeping company with a young man named Julius Smaltz and who has been away from town for two months and who is returning to see her on Sunday evening—why are the little sister and brother, who are hiding respectively behind the portieres and the piano while their sister sits expectantly on the divan near the doorway waiting for the bell to ring announcing the arrival of her sweetheart, it being nearly 8 o'clock on Sunday evening and the beau having telephoned that he will arrive a few minutes before that hour—why are they like the throng that stood along the Appian way on the ides of March when Caesar was riding along in his chariot en route to the forum?"

"What?" mutters the man with the discouraging eyebrows.

The other man glares at him and asks:

"Why is a man who comes into your office and asks you blamed fool questions like a man who has paid a dollar and a half to a collector as the last installment on a set of books he didn't want in the first place? Because you hope he never comes back."

Indignantly the man of the side whiskers arises and goes toward the door haughtily, saying:

"Oh, very well! The answer is because they want to see Julius Caesar, but I wouldn't tell you now if you begged on bended knees."

Romance.

"What do you think happened?"

"Tell it."

"Conductor saw me running after the car, and he held it till I caught it. What do you think of that?"

"What do I think of it? Why, I think it's the most original lie I've heard for a long time. Good work, old man."—Cleveland Leader.

Varieties.

"Bilggins is always talking nonsense."

"Which kind?" asked Miss Cayenne. "Is there more than one kind?"

"Yes. Some men talk the kind of nonsense that makes you laugh, and others talk the kind that makes you feel sorry for them."—Washington Star.

Handicapped.

Kind Lady—Ah, my poor man, why don't you straighten up and take your place in society?

Dusty Dan—What would be de use, mum? I am too restless to play "bridge."—Chicago News.

Poetic License.

"That's what he calls poetic license, I suppose!"—New York Herald.

Ordeals.

"It must have required great courage to face danger as you did."

"Not so much," answered the real hero, "as it does to face some of the people who insist on making a fuss over me."—Washington Star.

SOCIETY GIRL'S DEBUT.

Miss Wilson to Be Heard in Grand Opera Shortly.

After having spent five years in Paris studying singing under Jean de Reske, Miss Flora Wilson, daughter of James Wilson, secretary of agriculture in the Roosevelt administration, will be heard in grand opera before the end of the current season. As yet no announcement has been made as to what company Miss Wilson will join, but her friends say that she will be heard shortly in New York after making her debut in Washington as a prima donna.

Those who have had the pleasure of hearing Miss Wilson sing are enthusiastic over her voice. It is a high, clear and well toned soprano, and musicians have prophesied that within a few years she will be one of the leading prima donnas of this country.

Miss Wilson is literary in her tastes. She is an easy and graceful writer and is said to be at work upon a book of poems.

As an artist she has ability of no mean order. Altogether Miss Wilson is a young lady of exceptional talents and is also endowed with personal charm of looks and manner, although when asked to say something about herself on one occasion she modestly wrote, "I am my father's housekeeper have literary tastes and am not pretty." Her friends will hardly subscribe to the last statement.

Men Waited on First.

Everybody who dines often in restaurants knows that men are waited on before women. The average waiter will let a woman starve while he serves man after man unless she knows how to have him rebuked for his neglect, which few women do know. Of course this is due chiefly to the fact that men give more and larger tips than women. In restaurants frequented by those of moderate incomes, however, that is not the only cause, especially where the waiters are women. A woman waiter questioned on the subject had this to say: "Possibly, if the woman who can afford to tip would not neglect to do so and would remember that it costs nothing to say 'Please' and 'Thank you,' our own sex would receive more attention than they do now; also if women who cannot afford to tip us were civil and recognized that we cannot serve everybody at once we would do more to oblige them. Men, as a rule, are easy to please and do not want so much for their money. Many a woman who orders a glass of milk and a bun makes more fuss about it than a man who purchases a good square meal, and she is so silly in the way she orders us about. They keep us standing at the table a long time before they will decide what they want, while a man generally knows when he comes in the sort of meal he requires. We are accused of flirting with our men customers. If those who say this thought a few minutes before making such a statement, they might know we have no time during mealtimes to flirt. We are rushing all the while; but, of course, if we find men easier to serve we are more eager to attend to them."

The Day at Home.

To the mass of American women a day at home suggests candles burning under pink shades, shedding an uncertain glow upon a scene where stewed tea and lukewarm chocolate, attended by pink frosted cakes, divide the honors with clothes, chitchat and a crowd.

Properly conceived, a day at home is quite a different thing, says an exchange, and just as possible to a woman living simply in a small town as the wife of a millionaire living in New York. This most rational and delightful custom of "having a day" originated in France in the beginning of the eighteenth century with Mlle. de Scudery, an authoress and a woman whom all the great men and great women of old Paris delighted to honor. Mlle. de Scudery was as busy as any modern American woman, and for that reason, being also a wise woman, she organized her activities. That is what "having a day" chiefly means—for a woman so to organize her activities that, on the one hand, she shall be certain of seeing her friends at such times as she is free to enjoy that incomparable delight and, on the other hand, that she shall be secure against the invasion of friends at times when she should be occupied with other things.

The average American woman lives always under the oppressive shadow of the unexpected guest. Whether she is making preserves, writing books, shampooing her hair or punishing the baby she is always under the strain of the fear that somebody will drop in, and such is the open door policy of American hospitality, particularly in small towns, to be in the house and not to receive the unexpected guest is to convert a friend into an enemy.

Mlle. de Scudery had two days a week at home. Her Saturdays became historic, for it was then she received the brilliant men and beautiful women who made famous the salon of the Hotel Rambouillet. On Tuesday she received her intimate friends. Many Frenchwomen of the great world of the present time have two days at home a week; others receive certain hours, say, until 3 in the afternoon, every day in the week, while women of the middle class who have many serious occupations permit themselves the pleasure of seeing their friends at home but one day in two weeks.

In any case Frenchwomen essentially preserve the charm of the custom established by Mlle. de Scudery, who achieved her success by simple means which are quite within the reach of every American woman. Her small house in Paris stood in a garden full of fruit bearing trees, surrounded by tall shrubs and bushes. Conversation—that finest of all arts—was litteraire et galante, gay and gossipy, according to the character of those present, and if the weather was fine they took a turn in the garden, gathering and eating cherries when the fruit was in season.

In short, the day was truly and in all simplicity a day at home. What woman in what small American town cannot provide as much for herself and her friends? Let her try it and see what benefit she will reap from thus ordering her relations with the world, what pleasure she will give and have apportioning to her friends one day at home.

Osculatory Customs the World Over.

Undeniably earnest (his word for it) has been the playwright who has spent much time studying the kissing customs of the world for professional purposes, who has embodied some of his observations in a successful play and who complains that most women do not know how to kiss. He says that kissing in the chief countries of Europe varies as much as anything that could be imagined.

"The kiss of the English woman," he remarks, "is the Gibson type. It is chilly.

"The kiss of the Scotch girl is sincere. It is not emotional, but it comes from the heart and cannot be bought.

"The kiss of the Italian woman is easily given. It is fervent, but not backed by love. The flower girl in the street presses boutonnieres upon you, and you can have a kiss for the taking.

"The Spanish woman has the most passionate kiss in the world. It is hard to get, but when she does kiss she abandons herself to it.

"The kisses of the French women are pleasant, but they are the kisses of experience.

"The kiss of the American girl is sweet, but it often lacks the backing of temperament.

"The ideal kiss is not given with the lips alone. It is given with every atom of the whole body and that intangible something called the heart and soul.

"Every position is a different mood—a mood of reaching desire, a mood of utter abandon, a mood of acquiescence, a spirit of purity, a spirit of curiosity, a spirit of barter. To those who study and know the positions the expressions of the body as well as the expressions of the face all mean something, and he who runs may read.

"There is as much character or lack of character expressed in a kiss as in anything else in the world."

Good Form of Exercise.

Rowing strengthens and develops the back and arms and broadens the chest, doing it in such a way that the hollows which are too often found in the chest are filled out and the neck is rounded.

Unless the sport is indulged in to excess it will exercise without straining the whole body.

For children and women who are a little inclined to stoop rowing is a splendid exercise in that it forces the taking of deep breaths.

A Sewing Help.

Anybody who has agonized at the sewing machine while the silk, scorning its spool, has wrapped itself round the spindle and snapped at the crucial moment will be glad to know that there is a little invention now on the market to prevent the loosening silk from getting below the spool.

Cleaning Bottles.

Bottles may be cleaned by tearing a newspaper into small bits, half filling the bottles with them and then pouring in hot soapy water in which a piece of washing soda has been dissolved. Let the bottles stand an hour, then shake well, empty, rinse and drain.

OVEN

To make use of the heat, but be unaffected by that heat, means sure service from the oven and long service for the oven.

"Caloric" gas range oven is constructed to perform on this two-fold basis.

The oven walls are coated with anti-rust fused aluminum, which coating reflects the heat back into the oven proper. This coating is never affected by the moisture that always accrues from heat.

The walls are double, likewise the oven bottom, the latter having an air space between, which renders impossible a pan of buns or a roast being burned.

THE ESTIMATES WERE PASSED

Expenditure Lists For 1910 Put Through Legislature.

AN INCREASE IN SALARIES

Total Rise In Pay of Civil Servants Goes Up $13,625.55, as Shown In Supplementary Estimates — Kenora Gets Fine Court House—Hamilton Asylum May Be Moved to Some Other Town.

Toronto, March 30.—Swift progress was made by Hon. A. J. Matheson yesterday afternoon when the main estimates for the year ending Oct. 31, 1910, and the supplementaries for the ten months ending Oct. 31, 1909, were passed and concurred in. The only protesting voice came from Allan Studholme in connection with the immigration votes. The estimates for 1910 in detail practically duplicate those for 1909, allowing for the extra two months of the newly-arranged fiscal year.

A general boost in salaries is one of the main features of the supplementary estimates. Under civil government these increases with a few other small items amount to $13,626.55. The Department of Justice calls for $6,189. The heavy items that go to make up the total of $417,917.06, are under education, agriculture, public buildings, crown lands. Technical education at Hamilton gets $3,000, and at Sault Ste. Marie $5,000. The agricultural departments in high schools get $3,600. The mining school, Kingston, get $20,000, the first of five annual grants. The agricultural items include $4,000 for field crop competitions, $3,000 for special grants to societies in the districts. The King Edward Sanitarium for consumptives is given $4,000. In public buildings, Government House requires $4,021 for renewal of the green house and other improvements. The Central prison is debited with $150,000 for purchase of land and erection of buildings. About thirty sites have been offered.

Hon. W. J. Hanna announced that the consideration was being given the removal of criminal insane from Hamilton Asylum, to some place more remote from a crowded population.

The Kenora court house, $25,000, is the most important among other building items totalling $186,573. The road from Charlton to Gowganda is allowed $50,000 out of $58,310 given for colonization roads.

Crown lands charges are for fire ranging, $35,000 anw $10,000 for forest reserves. Additional mining recorders get $3,000. A conditional grant towards the Hawkesbury bridge amounts to $15,000.

G. C. Wilson (North Wentworth) has a bill before the Legislature to amend the public health act, by which a person who is unsatisfied with the action of the local board of health, may appeal to the provincial board. The power of attending physicians in smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever and typhoid cases will be restricted. Mr. Wilson and Allan Studholme accompanied a deputation from Hamilton and Dundas, which interview Dr. Hodgetts in relation to the bill.

Had Horror of Profanity.

Utica, N.Y., March 30.—Eli Christian, an aged man, was found dead sitting in his chair in his home some distance south of Mohawk yesterday He lived alone.

All his life Mr. Christian has abhorred profanity and he held himself aloof from people because to hear profanity gave him so much pain, he requested long ago that when he died he should be borne to the grave by men who never used profanity, and he selected those who should act as his bearers.

They are alive and Mr. Christian will be buried as he desired.

Looks Like Murder.

Windsor, March 30.—The body of John Conway of Amherstburg, which was found in the river in eighteen inches of water on March 19, was exhumed yesterday and viewed by a coroner's jury.

Dr. J. W. Brien of Essex, who conducted the postmortem, gave evidence that there was no water in the lungs, and that Conway was not drowned. He described the wound over the right eye as indicating that deceased died from the shock of a blow.

It is generally supposed that Conway, who had been drinking, got into an altercation with some companions and received fatal injuries, his body afterwards being thrown in the river.

The inquest was adjourned until Friday, and the crown will be asked to investigate.

Three Years For Conductors.

Toronto, March 30.—G.T.R. Conductors Daniel Corrigan and Frank McCallum, who carried passengers on fake tickets and assisted in defrauding the company, were yesterday sentenced by Judge Winchester to three years in Kingston penitentiary. Jos. Wood and Harry Rosenbes, who conspired with the conductors and sold the bogus tickets, were each given one year, while Joseph Wood, also charged with defrauding, was allowed out on suspended sentence.

"You were trusted employes. You were paid good wages. There was no reason why you should defraud," said the judge to the conductors. Petitions for leniency were presented to which the names of prominent citizens of Kingston and Brockville were attached.

Votes For Railwaymen.

Ottawa March 30 F. S. Lewis secured the consent of the House yesterday to the second reading of his daylight saving bill, and he moved that a committee consisting of Col. McLean (Queen's and Sudbury), F. D. Monk, and McLean (South Huron) be appointed to deal with the bill. Sir Wilfrid added the names of F. S. Lewis and Col. Talbot.

Mr. Conmee introduced a bill to provide machinery for the voting of railway employes in any constituency in which they may be on election day. There are 17,000 railway employes, most of whom are disfranchised by reason of their absence from home.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 29.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending March 27 were 2250 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 3040 hogs and 1390 calves, while the supply on the market this morning for local consumption was 1100 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 1250 hogs and 100 calves.

A feature of the market was the decided improvement in the quality of cattle offered, there being principally all well-finished steers, heifers and bulls fro i Ontario points, which in many cases were suitable for the coming Easter trade. The supply, altho larger than a week ago, was not excessive, and in consequence a stronger feeling prevailed in the market, and prices were a good ½c per pound higher. There was a large attendance of buyers and the demand was good, especially for shipment to outside points; consequently trade on the whole was more active than it has been of late. Among the offerings there were some extra choice, stall-fed steers, of which Messrs. Johnston, Bessmer and Langlois, wholesale dealers of this city, bought three steers, weighing 4460 pounds, at 7½c; one bull, weighing 1385 lbs., at 5½c per lb. This stock was raised and fed by J. Stone of Saintfield, Ont. Another lot of ten steers, weighing 14,980 pounds, was bought by a local butcher at 5¾c per pound, and Messrs. Drolet & Fils of Quebec bought one bull from L. Delorme which weighed 2070 pounds, at 6c per pound, and $12 over. In addition to this, they also bought a large number of other heavy bulls at 5c, 5¼c and 5½c, and steers at 5½c to 5¾c per pound. Altho prices were higher and sellers firm in their views, local butchers showed more disposition to operate, and bought a few more than usual on account of the fact that they anticipated still higher prices later on in the week for Easter stock, if supplies do not increase materially. Choice steers sold at 5¾c to 6c; good at 5¼c to 5½c; fair at 4¾c to 5c; medium at 4½c to 4¾c, bulls at 4½c to 5½c, and common stock at 3c to 4c per pound. Supplies of sheep and lambs were very small, and trade in consequence was quiet, but the undertone to the market was stronger, and prices had an upward tendency. The demand was good for what little stock was offered, and sales of yearling lambs were made at 6½c to 6¾c per pound, and sheep were higher at 5c to 5½c per pound. A few spring lambs sold at $4 to $6 each. The offerings of calves were also small. An extra choice one, weighing 440 pounds, sold at 8½c per pound, and the range of prices for the others was from $2 to $8 each as to quality.

A strong feeling continues to prevail in the market for hogs, and prices are steadily tending towards a higher level, they having scored a further advance of 50c to 60c per 100 pounds since this day week, as amount of the limited supplies coming forward and the keen demand for the same from packers. Sales of selected lots were made at $7 90 to $8, and straight lots at $7.75 to $7 85 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

Veals—Receipts, 200 head; active, $7 to $9.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,400 head; active, plus steady; others 5c to 10c higher; heavy, $7.35 to $7.40; mixed, $7.35 to $7.40; yorkers, $6.75 to $7.35; pigs, $6.40 to $6.60; roughs, $6 to $6.25; stags, $4.50 to $5.25; dairies, $6.75 to $7.25.

Barrie, March 30.—The late Senator Sir James R. Gowan's will, dated Aug. 1, 1907, and made shortly after the death of his wife, disposes of an estate worth $300,000. In addition to the family bequests, $100 each is given Mary McMillan and Richard Bigwell, as a recognition of long and faithful service, and to Edith Horn, formerly Edith Prince, who was for some years in his employ, $100. The bequests to charity amount to about $7,000.

Arabs Attack British Steamers.

Constantinople, March 30.—Attacks by Arabs on steamers plying on the Igris have been so persistent that the British Line has been compelled to suspend service.

A Government steamer was riddled with bullets on Sunday, several of the passengers being killed or wounded. The steamer carried a machine gun and had troops on board, but the Arab fire was so severe that the gun was put out of action.

Exonerates Her Husband.

Auburn, N.Y., March 30.—In a confession before her execution at Auburn prison yesterday morning, Mrs. Mary Farmer said: "My husband, James D. Farmer, never had any hand in Sarah Brennan's death, nor never knew anything about it till the trunk was opened. I never told him anything that had happened.

The physician's report that the autopsy disclosed that Mrs. Farmer was normal in every respect and that the brain showed no lesions that would indicate if criminal tendency.

Graf Gets Two Years.

Toronto, March 30.—For bringing a quantity of the vilest postcards, pictures and literature and the plates from which more might be printed into this country from Buffalo and for exposing them for sale, Martin T. Graf, alias Muir, was yesterday sent to the Central Prison for 23 months by Magistrate Denison.

Graf burst into tears. "I have an old gray-haired mother, who is thinking of me. She brought me up to be a Christian and I have never done anything wrong," he whimpered.

Explorer's Daring Project.

Mr. Alfred H. Harrison, F.R.G.S., intends to start this year on an expedition to the North Pole. He is already a seasoned Arctic traveler, and has to his credit some excellent survey work done in Arctic America in 1905-7. He traveled nearly 2,000 miles by waterways to the mouth of the Mackenzie River, on the shore of the Polar ocean. There he was trapped by the winter and frozen in for three months. What Mr. Harrison wants to do now is to cross the unknown part of the globe between Prince Patrick's Island and Spitzbergen, passing over the pole, and he is of opinion that the pole will never be reached except by a party going out on the ice in October and traveling during the Arctic night.

Dissolve Glass In Water.

At a sufficiently high temperature every kind of glass must eventually show complete solubility in water. Under pressure glass dissolves in water heated 410 degrees F. Sea water more than about 660 feet beneath the surface will remain liquid at that temperature, and if it penetrates the earth's crust where the temperature is equally high it will, apart from the pressure, liquefy the silicates or glassy rocks. An eminent authority has concluded that at a depth of about five miles silicates in contact with water are virtually fluid, and that the level of aqueous fusion in the earth is five times nearer the surface than is that of igneous fusion.

A certain young man who lives in the east end of town and sports an enormous "diamond" in connection with a ten-dollar suit of clothes was in a local clothing store several days ago when one of the clerks, a practical joker, nabbed the stone out of its owner's tie.

The owner did not miss the "diamond" until he returned home, and then ensued a frantic search for the missing stone, which included advertising in the newspapers and reporting the matter to the police.

Later it was returned to the owner. "Gad, I am glad it was you who had it," gasped the delighted youth. "Some dishonest person would have kept it."

"So would I," returned the clerk, "but a jeweler to whom I took it said it wasn't worth more than 30 cents."

A Profitable Purchase.

Mr. W. R. Cassels, the author of "Supernatural Religion," had the good fortune to buy a Turner picture for 295 guineas and to live to receive 6,400 guineas for it at a sale at Messrs. Christie's on June 30th, 1906. Some other picture speculations may have turned out as lucky as this, but "no" during the art lover's own lifetime.

The Winter Shave.

"To sharpen your razor in bitter weather," said a barber, "you must dip it first in boiling water or very hot water, then wipe it dry and then strop it while it is still heated. This will cause the blade to take on the keenest kind of an edge. Men continually complain that they can't give themselves a decent shave in winter. They think it's their faces, but it is really the fault of the chilled razor."—Exchange.

THE SMALL GIRL'S TOILET.

Color of Hair Ribbon Should Be Carefully Selected.

There is no detail of the small girl's toilet over which mothers linger as lovingly as the arrangement of the soft, silky hair. The little girl's hair should be kept in scrupulously dainty condition, the fortnightly shampoo with pure, soapy water being supplemented by nightly brushings to make the locks fluffy and lustrous.

The color of the little girl's hair ribbons should be carefully selected. Not every color is becoming. The pure white hair ribbons, which many mothers like for formal wear, are often distinctly trying to their young wearers. Ciel blue and rose pink are usually pleasing with rosy cheeks and bright eyes, and vivid scarlet is delightful with either dark curls or blond hair.

The art tones—Dutch blues, burnt yellows and more delicate greens—are often very smart when worn with cotton frocks showing the same color tones, but fashion's caprices in color, like peacock, mustard, citron and such shades, should never be put near childish faces.

Satin taffeta ribbons are the most desirable for tying the hair. They are soft and pliable, yet crisp in character, and are beautifully lustrous. The flet of ribbon, outlining the shape of the head, with a loose bow at one side, is charming on a very pretty child. Less trying is the double bow arrangement, with the locks caught back at each side of the face under a big soft bow.

The young girl of thirteen or fourteen wears her hair in a thick plait ended by a curl. The trick is to allow the hair to hang quite loosely from the head, the plait not being started for several inches below the collar. At this point a wide soft bow of black ribbon is tied about the hair, and below it the thick braid hangs downward.

HOUSE OF COMMONS WAS A UNIT ON THE QUESTION OF IMPERIAL DEFENCE

A CANADIAN NAVY TO BE ESTABLISHED

Ottawa, March 30.—Upon the question of Imperial defence both parties in the House of Commons are practically a unit.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Foster introduced his resolution, declaring

"That in the opinion of this House, in view of her great and varied resources, of her geographical position and national environments, and of that spirit of self help and self respect which alone befits a strong and growing people, Canada should no longer delay in assuming her proper share of the responsibility and financial burden incident to the suitable protection of her exposed coast line and great seaports."

Then Sir Wilfrid Laurier arose and practically agreed with everything the North Toronto member said, but he submitted a substantive resolution, declaring against the idea of making a money contribution to the Imperial navy; suggesting the creation of a Canadian navy "in co-operation with and in close relation to the Imperial navy," and finally assuring the British Government "of our continued loyalty and co-operation in every movement for the maintenance of the integrity and the honor of the Empire."

With some slight alterations, this was agreeable to Mr. Borden, and the leaders retired during the evening debate to endeavor to adjust their differences.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's conclusion was a recognition of the importance of Canada of maintaining the supremacy of Great Britain on the sea.

"I hope," said the Prime Minister, "that the day will never come when we will be drawn into the conflicts of Europe. But I have no hesitation in saying that the supremacy of the British Empire is absolutely essential, not only to the maintainance of the Empire, but to the civilization of the world.

"I have no hesitation in saying that the supremacy of the British Empire on the seas must be maintained in the highest degree of efficiency it has occupied in the last 100 years.

"I have no hesitation in saying also that if the day should come when supremacy of Britain on the high seas is challenged it will be the duty of all the daughters of the nation to close around the old motherland and make a rampart about her to ward off any attack.

"I hope that day will never come, but should it ever come, I would deem it my duty to devote what will be left of my life and energy to stump the country and endeavor to impress upon my fellow-countrymen, especially my compatriots in the Province of Quebec, the conviction that the salvation of England is the salvation of our own country, that therein lies our civil and religious freedom and everything of value in this life.

"These are the sentiments which animate the Government on this occasion."

Mr. Foster said the resolution was handed in to the clerk before the session opened and therefore had not arisen out of recent events. Moreover, it had not been conceived in any party spirit. He did not think we got rid of any of our responsibilities by avoiding them, and it seemed to him that the time had come to consider our duties in regard to the defence of the Empire. We should strive to bring about the potency of peace, but we ought also to take into account the history of the world and the lessons thereof. All the recent great wars were examples of the fact that restraints of Christian morals and ethics were impossible to curb the ambitions and passions of nations.

"Let me say to my right hon. friend," said Mr. Foster, in conclusion, "that if, after careful consideration, he proposes to this Parliament the means for meeting that emergency adequately, now, as I said before, whether it be by the gift of a Dreadnought or the gift of money of this country, this side of the House will stand beside him and stand for Canada in supporting this measure."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier congratulated Mr. Foster on the eloquence of his speech and his temperate and moderate manner. The only objection to his speech was the indefinite conclusions.

As to the declaration that Canada should no longer delay in assuming her share of the financial responsibility of defending the coast line and seaports, Sir Wilfrid saw in this an imputation that Canada had been remiss in her duty in providing for her own defence.

If Canada had been remiss in her duty to the Empire, Sir Wilfrid was not aware of it.

"But we are not to be stampeded by the transitory events of the moment from what has been the settled policy and the deliberate course which we have laid down, by any hasty, feverish action, however spectacular such action may be.

R. L. Borden observed that the Prime Minister's amendment was no more definite than the motion of Mr. Foster. We had reached a status of nationhood within the Empire, and it must not be forgotten that national status implied national responsibilities. Canada had been spending for military purposes, but of the substantial portion of what we spend for military purposes more than half should be appropriated for naval defence of our ports.

We should have a naval force of our own. The loss of control of the seas by Great Britain would mean the dismemberment of the Empire, said Mr. Borden.

Mr. Congdon (Liberal, Yukon) was for pursuing the arts of peace. He believed that if the British navy were swept from the seas Canada would be in no danger of attack.

The resolution as amended by the leaders was accepted and carried at 11.45.

Secretary Gray In Despair Over The Naval Expenditure

London, March 30.—While the House of Commons was debating the naval question yesterday, the voters of the Croydon district convincingly registered their opposition by electing as member of Parliament Sir R. T. Hermon-Hodge, Conservative, who advocated the building of eight warships. His majority was decisive, the returns being as follows:

Sir R. T. Hermon-Hodge 11,989; J. E. Crappael, Liberal, 8,041; Frank Smith, Laborite, 886.

By a strict party vote of 353 to 135, the House of Commons last night refused to express lack of confidence in the Government's naval policy.

The motion on which yesterday's notable debate hinged, was proposed by Arthur Hamilton Lee, Conservative member of the House from Hants.

It set forth "that in the opinion of this House, the declared policy of His Majesty's Government respecting the immediate provision for battleships of the newest type does not sufficiently secure the safety of the Empire."

The result of the vote on the question was expected, but the debate preceding it was one of the most momentous the House has listened to for years. The assembly of diplomats and peers testified to its international as well as domestic importance. The leaders of both sides spoke, in addition to several lesser lights.

A. J. Balfour and Mr. Lee accused the Cabinet of incompetence and demanded that eight Dreadnoughts be laid down immediately.

Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, reproached their opponents for making a party question of the most vital matter of the country's foreign relations.

Secretary Grey's speech was the notable contribution, because of its remarkable candor. He dwelt on the diplomatic aspects of the British-German rivalry, and the hopelessness of expecting any cessation of the race for armaments, and he predicted eventual European bankruptcy if it continued.

The Socialist members of the Reichstag and the British Laborities exchanged telegrams pledging themselves to work for the reduction of armaments, just about the time that the British Foreign Secretary was frankly declaring that the British navy was designed solely for protection against Germany.

PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY MARCH 30 1909

SAW LIQUOR CARRIED THREE TIMES TO MEN IN HOTEL ON SUNDAY

P. C. Newhall's Evidence in Case Against Local Hotelkeeper for Selling During Prohibited Hours---Several Witnesses Called in Contradiction Of It.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

A local hotelman was charged at the Police Court this morning with selling liquor at his hotel, Simcoe street, during prohibited hours, namely on Sunday night last.

Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the accused and pleaded not guilty.

The case occupied nearly four hours several witnesses being called in contradiction of P. C. Newhall's evidence.

His Worship will give judgment on Saturday morning.

P. C. Newhall said that shortly after 10 o'clock on Sunday night, he was passing defendant's hotel. He noticed the door from the sitting room into the bar room open, and someone behind the bar. He saw an employee pumping some kind of liquor into glasses and carry it out into a wash room. There were several men in the sitting room. They quickly followed the clerk.

P. C. Newhall said that they knocked at the door, and another clerk asked who was there. He let them in. They searched, but could find no man nor glasses in the back part.

P. C. Meharry, who was with P. C. Newhall on Sunday night, while watching the hotel, was also called and corroborated the previous witness' evidence.

For the defence several men named by P. C. Newhall as those who were in the sitting room at the time were called. Their evidence was to the effect that they were not there and that they received no liquor.

It was two o'clock when the Court adjourned, and His Worship intimated that he would reserve judgment until Saturday morning.

Lever Brothers, Toronto, will send you free a cake of their famous Plantol toilet soap, if you mention this paper.

She is doing as well as could be expected to-day.

Tearing Down A Stout Old Landmark

As the city advances and takes on modern ways and appearances its old landmarks slowly but surely are razed and soon forgotten. At the corner of Sherbrooke and George streets, a number of men are tearing down the old store that like the flag of the Empire has stood the battle and the breeze for many years. Twice scorched by fire and apparently ready to fall to pieces it had within it a hidden strength which surprised the men who with pick and axe were tearing its boards apart. There was no cellar under it, but the house rested upon heavy beams such as to-day are used in the foundation of farmers' barns of the largest size. Heavy pine is found throughout. The scantling used in the studding and other parts of the building are 4 by 6 inches, while those used to-day are 2 by 4 inches. Everything was built on the sturdy plan and was designed to last for many years.

The Universal Defence May Be Discussed

The final meeting of the Canadian Club, which will be held at 7.30 o'clock this evening in the Hotel National, promises to be decidedly interesting, as it is altogether probable that Professor Adam Shortt, the speaker of the evening, will touch upon the question of Imperial defence and the part that Canada should take in the question that is causing so much discussion just now. The meeting should be interesting and profitable, and no doubt a record attendance will mark the presence in Peterborough of one of the cleverest speakers that it has been the good fortune of the Club to secure.

MONTREAL BOY KILLED BY BLOW FROM FALLING ICICLE

Peculiar Accident in Which Child's Skull Was Crushed—Death Resulted in Two Hours.

NO WARNING WAS GIVEN.

Examiner Special.

Montreal, March 29.—A shocking accident resulted in the death of Alton Efner, the four and a half year old son of Mr. Ed. Efner, manager of Bennett's theatre, of this city, and formerly of London. The lad was struck on the head by a falling icicle while walking with his father and mother at noon to-day. He was removed to the hospital, but death ensued in a couple of hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Efner and little Alton were walking along the street. When directly in front of the Edinburgh Cafe on St. Catharine street, the boy was between his father and mother. Without warning a large icicle dropped from the roof, and alighted on top of the child's head. He was crushed to the ground.

Mr. Efner picked the boy up and carried him into Stanford's market, while the ambulance was telephoned for. It was long in coming, and one of the guests at the Edinburgh Cafe offered his auto, and the injured child and his parents were taken with all speed to the Western Hospital.

Head Crushed.

Upon examination it was found that his head was crushed, the skull being fractured badly. An operation was performed and a piece of the skull, which was pressing on the brain, removed. But after two hours of unconsciousness the boy died.

There was no hope for his life from the beginning. The piece of ice was of considerable size, and literally crushed in the child's skull.

There was no warning of the accident. The icicle had been hanging over the edge of the building, and fell with the heat of noon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Efner had a narrow escape, but were uninjured.

Well-Known Theatrical Man.

The family have resided in Montreal for about five months, coming here from London, Ont. Mr. Efner was first appointed treasurer of Bennett's Vaudeville Theatre, but when the Benett Company took over the Nouveaute Theatre, he was appointed manager, and has continued in that position ever since. He has made many friends since coming to the city.

WISHED HE HAD MORE

Mr. Frank Wise is wise by nature as well as by name. A few days ago he advertised in the Daily Examiner that he wished to sell a cow. The same evening the advertisement first appeared, Mr. Wise had a customer for the cow before he himself had seen the advertisement in the paper, and they were coming to him in such numbers that he felt he could dispose of a whole drove of cows if he had had them. The moral is "Always publish your small for sale or want advertisements in the Daily Examiner.

Chinamen Hire Detective For Protection Against Hoodlums

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, March 27.—The local Chinamen are taking a united stand to protect themselves from the depredations of hoodlums. There is always a certain class of young fellows who delight in raising rough house in a Chinese restaurant, and the Celestials have come to recognize it as part of the game to have trouble with this element from time to time. But at last it has gone too far. Nearly every night some trouble is experienced, and before the policeman can arrive the disturbers have escaped. They take care to go into a restaurant when the constable is at the other end of the beat, and while from time to time some of the ruffians are caught, the great majority of them have gone free. Nearly all the trouble is in the district of O'Connor, Albert and Metcalfe streets, and often extends to the laundries as well as the restaurants.

The Chinamen have united and provided a fund to protect themselves. They have engaged a lawyer and a plain clothes man has been provided to work entirely in this district until the trouble is stamped out. If it is found necessary, another plain clothes man will be provided for another section of the city. The detective at work along Metcalfe and O'Connor streets started his duties on Saturday and it is understood has several summonses already. He found a surprising lot of disturbance which should be punished but such as the Chinamen have been accustomed to endure without complaining, although it has continually caused annoyance to their customers. The chief of police and the police commissioners have endorsed the action of the local Celestials, and there will be a busy time in the police court if the trouble does not stop.

Reward of $100 Is Offered For Knowledge Of Herb. Buck

Chief Roszel has received a communication from Chief of Police Grasett, Toronto, asking him to be on the lookout for Herbert Buck. A picture and description of Buck were sent.

A reward of $100 has been offered through Chief of Police Grasett, for information that will lead to the whereabouts of Mr. Buck, who disappeared in Toronto on the 9th inst, and was last seen about 4 o'clock in the afternoon on Yonge street, north of the C. P. R. crossing. He is described as follows: 28 years of age; about 5 feet 6 inches in height; weight about 150 lbs.; fair complexion; clean shaven; blue eyes; prominent nose; square shoulders; wore a blue serge suit, mixed Tweed overcoat with fawn velvet collar, black Persian lamb cap, has a gold buckle ring set with three garnet stones on third finger of left hand. His home is at Hay Bay, Adolphustown, Ontario. His wife and parents reside there and they are most anxious for him to return home. He was for a short time in one of the city hospitals suffering from what was believed to be appendicitis, but was not operated on.

Prof. Adam Shortt Says Canada Should Look After Herself

"Of course, it's no use speculating on what a Government is going to do," said Prof. Adam Shortt, who lectures before the Canadian Club here to-night, "but what Canada should do is to look after herself."

This was Prof. Shortt's answer to the question whether Canada's provision for her maritime defence should be in the nature of a contribution to an Imperial navy.

Would be Able to Help.

"Canada," said Prof. Shortt, "should do what Britain herself has done. No nation can stand alone, and if Canada looks after herself she will be able to help if there is need. There is no doubt where Canada would stand."

"The present rumpus," he said, "is altogether uncalled for and a little undignified. When the English mails arrive it will be found that the saner papers are in no panic."

To seek to prove by a contribution to the navy that Canada stood behind the Empire would be, he thought, to throw a doubt on where Canada had stood till now.

Had Right Ankle Broken In Accident On Charlotte St. To-day

Mr. John White, 95 Aylmer street, met with a painful and somewhat serious accident this morning about half past nine. It occurred on Charlotte street in the vicinity of the G. T. R. station. Mr. White was removing a large box of plate glass. It was placed across the waggon in such a manner it became unbalanced and in endeavour to save it from falling, Mr. White jumped to save it but it was too heavy for him and the whole weight came down on his right ankle.

The injured man was removed to his home on Aylmer street and Dr. Eastwood was called. Upon examination it was found that the ankle was broken and it will be some time before Mr. White will be able to be around again.

Canoe Launch On Otonabee Went Eight Miles An Hour Yesterday

This particular one was built in Mr H. T. Millard's shop Hunter St., by Mr. Bennett and will travel at the rate of eight miles an hour.

PROPER DRESS FOR MEN.

All that's new and good and fresh and fine—they are showing in the Spring fashion display of Semi-ready tailoring at Cressman's. New models arrived this week and the complete stock has been delivered.

The fashion plates of the Semi-ready are far and away ahead of the stock plates usually turned out for the tailors, for they show the tones, colours and patterns of the proper fabrics for Spring and Summer wear. The dress chat is again published in their booklet, "The Way of To-day." This shows the correct dress for all occasions, not alone the proper suit for each and every occasion, but the right hats, ties, boots, shirts, etc. These books are given away free to any enquirer.

Among the new fashions shown are some 32 different styles of suits, with many new vests and varied designs in other garments for gentlemen.

The aim of the Semi-ready is to tailor clothes that will appeal to men of cultured tastes, to produce designs that will be artistic, and which will always be in good form.

In England the Semi-ready maintain permanent offices and expert woollen buyers, who select the patterns as they are designed and submitted by the woollen mills. With uniform quality they enforce a uniform price in all the stores—so that a gentleman may buy in Vancouver at the same price he would pay in Peterborough. 1d

Was Honoured By Gift From Former Fellow Employees

An interesting event took place in the store of the Peterborough Hardware Company on Saturday night, when Mr. Harvey McCullough, who is leaving the employ of the company to accept a position with the Wm. Hamilton Company, was presented with a handsome gold headed umbrella and the following eulogistic address.

Mr. Harvey McCulloch, City:

Dear Harvey,—It is with regret we have learned of your intention to sever your connection with the Peterborough Hardware Co., Ltd., and also your association with us as a fellow employee.

We, perhaps, should not regret your departure, knowing your business tact and energy, and you are no doubt taking a step upward in your business calling.

On this, the eve of your departure from us, we thought perhaps you might feel, that through the sunshine and storm of business during the past four years you have been with us, your untiring efforts for the success of the company might have been in vain, but to assure you of the appreciation of the company and ourselves we ask you to accept this umbrella as a slight token of our esteem and good wishes for your future success.

Yesterday Mrs. Lewis, of Smith's Falls, and Miss Lewis, of the same place, aunt and niece of Mr. James McCreary, 100 Gilmour street, who have been staying with him here since the death of Mrs. McCreary, returned home yesterday. Mr. McCreary also left the city for Picton, where he will spend some time with his brother-in-law, Mr. A.Graham, before taking permanent residence in Smith's Falls. He has closed his beautiful residence, 100 Gilmour St., and offers it for sale. It is a most desirable residence and should not remain long unsought. By Mr. McCreary's decision to no longer reside in Peterborough, the city loses one of its most substantial and respected citizens. He has been a resident for nearly twenty years, during most of which time he was principal of the West Ward school.

Mr. Zack Burnham, Otonabee, met with a painful accident this morning. He was chopping some wood in the shed and had laid the axe down to go into the house. Not noticing a patch of ice, when he was returning, he slipped and fell, his right arm striking the sharp blade of the axe.

A deep gash, about seven inches in length, was cut. A physician from the city was called and seven stitches were required to bind up the wound.

CURLING RINK TO BE USED FOR SOME KIND OF AMUSEMENT THIS SUMMER

Directors Have Several Suggestions Which Will be Decided Upon at Their Meeting—May Have Roller Rink or Promenade

TWO OF THE IDEAS GIVEN.

What will be done with the Curling rink during the summer? Is it to be used for roller skating or will it serve some other purpose? Enquiry from one of the directors of the rink company substantiates the rumours that have been in circulation of late that several parties are trying to secure it. It is hardly likely that it will be used as a roller rink, but there is a stronger possibility that another plan will be worked out to satisfaction. There has been a suggestion of using it as a promenade several times a week securing a good band to play and having ice cream, etc., and everything that goes to make a summer crowd feel satisfied.

One idea that has been spoken of is to follow this suggestion out a little more and to secure a fine moving picture machine, arrange the interior in a pleasing manner in order that it will appeal to the young people and give short programmes with the band concerts, allowing the people to go and come when they please. The directors of the rink company have nothing to say yet. They promise an announcement after their meeting which has been set for the near future.

The front of the building will in probability be built up and sodded thus carrying out the original intention of making the rink an adornment to Charlotte street.

PALM OF RIGHT HAND WAS GASHED

While using a large knife in the preparation of the evening meal yesterday, Mrs. Frank Smith, 575 Gilchrist street, had the misfortune to badly cut her right hand, the gash being diagonally across the palm. A physician was called and several stitches were required to bind the cut.

The funeral of the late Robert Duncan took place Sunday afternoon from his late residence, McDonnel St., to Little Lake cemetery, and was very largely attended. The aldermen of the city attended the funeral out as a mark of respect to Alderman Duncan, son of the deceased. Many floral tributes were sent including a wreath from the members of the Independent Order of Foresters, and a star from the employees of Messrs. Duncan and Doupe.

The services were conducted by Mr. W. P. Douglass, in the absence of Rev. Robt. Pogue. The late Mr. Duncan had been a member of the L.O.L. as well as the I.O.F., and the pall bearers were chosen from the two orders. Messrs. Campbell and Batten represented the Orange Order and Messrs Wallace Milne and Allison the I.O.F.

MR. BROWNSCOMBE FAVORS BUILDING DREADNOUGHTS

Building war canoes, seems to have made Mr. Felix Brownscombe bellicose. The Toronto Sar sent out questions regarding Canada's duty in strengthening the British navy, by building one or two Dreadnoughts. In half a page of replies unanimous in sentiment, published from all over the country, the following appears for Peterborough:

"Yes. At once. Why not let our Government contract for one or more Dreadnoughts at once, and while they are being built we can decide as to whether it would be best to hand them over to the Imperial Government as a gift, or assume full control and responsibility ourselves?

Felex Brownscombe, Peterborough.

THE CAUSELESS WAR SCARE.

The Examiner, from the beginning, has discounted the German war scare—the unreasoning dread of Germany gobbling up the British Islands some fine morning before breakfast. Now that the boiling point has descended to a simmer, a calm review of the situation shows how little ground there is for alarm, and how little necessity there is for Canada building Dreadnoughts to present to the Mother Country.

The Ottawa Free Press devotes some attention to a dispassionate presentation of the situation. It was the only paper in Ottawa that published cables from London bearing upon the elucidation of the case; and it reasonably inquires:

"Without seeing the following despatch how can a Canadian reader be accurately seized of the real situation?

Reginald McKenna, first lord of the admiralty, stated in the House of Commons that he declined to consider the advisability of purchasing one or other of the three Brazilian battleships now under construction in this country. He added:

"If we require more ships I think it would be better to build them ourselves, but we don't require any more ships at present. As regards the future we will have ample time to build them."

Viscount Helmsley asked, "Supposing these ships were bought by a foreign power, would it not upset the calculations of the admiralty?"

"No," replied Mr McKenna, 'our present superiority for 1909-1910 is so great that no alarm need be created."

And why should the following cable be withheld from Canadians who are trying to form a correct opinion on this whole subject?

Premier Asquith has explained to the Commons the discrepancy between his own statement and that made in the Reichstag by Admiral von Tirpitz, secretary of the Admiralty, concerning the number of new battleships which Germany would have by the end of 1912.

He said that Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, had been verbally informed on March 10th that the German Government did not intend to accelerate its naval programme, and that it would not have thirteen Dreadnoughts until the end of 1912. Comparing this statement with the information of the British Admiralty to the effect that the number of such ships would be seventeen, the British Government had concluded that the new battleships and the new cruisers had not been included in the total of thirteen.

Speaking in the Reichstag on March 17, Admiral von Tirpitz made it clear that these cruisers were included, and on March 18th the British Government was further informed that, while two of this year's ships on the German programme had been promised by the constructing firms in advance of the usual time, that fact did not nullify the previous statements regarding the rate of production.

Premier Asquith intimated that this information might affect the British naval programme.

Interpreted, Premier Asquith's speech seems to intimate that the Admiralty Department of his own administration has made a blunder, probably under the influence of that "steenth rate melodrama" previously alluded to. Germany's shipbuilding operations are not nearly as big as the British Admiralty had assumed, and as a result Britain may reduce even her own programme which the Conservative opposition has declared utterly inadequate."

While there seems to be no necessity for alarm, much less panic, such as has seized many journalistic jingoes, there should be no false security, but the necessity still remains for Great Britain going serenly on her mighty way, maintaining the two-power standard of battleship equipment. While the self-governing dominions are not immediately called upon for material help, they can show their sympthy practically by assuming some of the burdens of defence, which have heretofore fallen upon the Mother Country entirely. In Parliament yesterday Sir Wilfrid Laurier very reasonably set forth Canada's duty in the circumstances. He said that Canada realizes the necessity of gradually assuming, as she grows in population, and wealth, a gradually increasing share of both military and naval defence, and of providing adequately as a self-governing Dominion for her own national defence. This is a position in keeping with our own duty and dignity, and a graceful deference to the self-respect and dignity of the Mother country, which naturally resents any suggestion of weakening, derogatory to the predominant place she occupies among the world's sea powers. While New Zealand's offer of a Dreadnought was a splendid example of patriotism still it evidently touched Great Britain in a tender spot—her self esteem and self reliance. In referring to this gift the London Times, doubtless faithfully reflects British opinion and feeling when it says:

"Britain is prepared to maintain her supremacy in the quarter at present challenged of her own strength alone; that is a national necessity wherein the whole Empire is deeply concerned, but which would still be necessary to this country if the Empire did not exist; we are fully able and fully determined to take it upon ourselves as our particular care." In the same article The Times says: "The best use to which the welcome naval co-operations now offered by the Dominions can be applied is towards strengthening the defences, each in its own quarter. World co-operation in that matter will prove the truest form of co-operation in the end."

This is a pretty plain intimation that Britain does not need any assistance in keeping Germany in her place, and prefers that the Dominions should take the position which Sir Wilfrid assigns to Canada—look after their own defence rather than contribute Dreadnoughts to the British navy.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

The Canadian Courier, in its cleverly written page, "Through a Monocle," has an interesting article on municipal government, from which the following paragraph is taken:

Why is it that we have so much trouble in getting good municipal government on this continent? That is the weak spot in our system. We have much better national and even local government than we have civic; and yet, in Europe, the reverse is more often the case. If the affairs of the United Kingdom were as well managed as the affairs of Glasgow or Birmingham, the British people would be rich and happy. But on this continent from New York to California—from Montreal to the minutest township—municipal government is a failure. We appear to be corruptible in exact proportion to our contiguity to the source of corruption. For it is simple corruption, and not carelessness primarily, which lies at the basis of municipal misgovernment. We are no more careless civically than we are federally or provincially; but we are not so easily bought in the larger fields. The carelessness we think we notice in municipal matters is largely born of a sense of hopelessness. Our people do not believe that they can accomplish anything by voting for this or that candidate. Their disheartening experience is that it will be all the same in a few months.

In view of this rather too true outline, for it is a mere sketch, at most, indicating generally the prevailing unfortunate conditions—one is almost tempted to doubt the effectiveness of representative institutions. The changing character and personnel of municipal representation—from year to year—prevents the adoption and carrying out of any fixed line of policy, except perhaps muddling. It is different in parliamentary matters where a cabinet—a permanency for five years at least—is chosen upon a fixed and definite policy, supported by a parliament continuous, at least, for a similar length of time. The conditions obtaining in the composition of municipal councils prevents the adoption of a definite policy and its application in a systematic manner. Thus it comes that lack of system is the great feature that accounts for the failure, to secure satisfactorily municipal government. This applies especially to expenditure on streets, etc. Throughout the province the results of expenditures on streets represent a failure to secure adequate value for the expenditure made. The work is done in a patchy, haphazard manner, without any regard to system, and, of course, with the unsatisfactory results that follow lack of system in any undertaking. Work is done spasmodically and it is often only in the vicinity of property owned or controlled by mayors and aldermen that anything like thoroughness is attempted or accomplished. These remarks do not apply to any one municipal council, but the conditions warranting them are unfortunately general. The Examiner has heretofore suggested—and at least one of our aldermen favours the idea—the placing of street work in towns and cities under a commission, the Council to supply the means. If such a commission composed of say three competent men with a knowledge of their duties would make as great a success of street administration as our Waterworks Commissioners have done with the Waterworks system in Peterborough, the departure would be most amply justified. At any rate something should be done to reduce municipal administration to something like systematic application of sound business principles, instead of the laissez-faire, go-as-you-please "system" now so perniciously prevailing.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The new Alberta Legislature is composed of 34 Liberals, 3 Conservatives, and 1 Socialist, with one constituency in doubt, and deferred elections to be held in two constituencies. The Toronto News' smouldering firecf resentment over the Autonomy bills did not burst out at many points in the last two elections.

The choir of the Murray Street Baptist Church seemed to have had fearsome prevision of the 1908 spring style of hats. They provided themselves with mortar boards and gowns for the ladies—a wise departure. What a sight the angelic side of a church choir would be wearing the mountainous heaps of flowers and frills which pass for the female hat a la mode.

The lady members of the choir of the Murray Street Baptist church are wise in having donned mortar boards and gowns, used for the first time on Sunday. It looks as if they had a prevision of this Spring's style of hats. Attired, or rather, disfigured, in the hats of the day there would be no more room for fifteen or twenty girls in a choir loft than if each had a bale of hay on her head. What a church will look like on Easter Sunday, the favourite show day for Easter hats, it is awful to contemplate.

The present high quality of Canadian butter is the result of systematic government instruction in butter making. Under the old hap-hazard way of making butter we got axle-grease. System is an essential to success. If our city streets were administered under a proper system instead of in the present go-as-you-please way, the $15,000 or $20,000 now wasted on our streets would give us good highways, instead of, in many cases, fac-similes of back township sidelines.

The Ontario Government, remarks the Brantford Expositor, is not consistent in its public utility legislation. In one measure it is seeking to legalize by-laws passed by municipal councils, which vary in form and substance from the proposal as submitted to the people, and in another they are seeking to prevent the passage of public utility by-laws without the direct and explicit sanction of the ratepayers expressed at the polls. In short, the policy pursued seems to fluctuate with the requirements of the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Washington's Spring.

The first thing that greets the eyes of a stranger alighting from the train at Cold Spring, a village resting snugly in the highlands of the Hudson, is Washington's spring, inclosed by three bowlders in the rough, which, as one approaches, are seen to contain a tiny pool of spouting water. An inscription in relief upon the bronze plate announces that "General George Washington, in frequent visits to the American troops encamped near by during the war of the Revolution, drank of this spring and gave it its name, Cold spring."

The encampments referred to were principally upon the famous Constitution island, just below, to which was attached one end of the great chain which was stretched across the river to West Point and checked navigation by the British warships during the Revolution.

Nietzsche and the Invalid.

An invalid lady who often met Nietzsche found him the gentlest, kindest and most sympathetic of men. He "implored her with tears in his eyes not to read his books." Such was his knowledge of women that he was thunderstruck to find shortly afterward that the lady at once proceeded to read them all. He was further stupefied by the discovery that, having read them, she was utterly unmoved by the philosopher's unanswerable demonstrations that feeble persons like herself had no right to live and that women were distinguished by this, that and the other objectionable attribute. It must have been a blow to him.—London News.

Her Awful Sin.

A little girl of six once went in great distress to her mother, saying that she had committed a sin which could never be forgiven and which was too bad to be repeated. By dint of a little coaxing she was induced to make a full confession, which was in this wise:

"I felt so sorry for poor Satan and wanted to give him a little comfort. So I got a glass of cold water and poured it down a little hole in the kitchen floor."

Discourteous.

At a game of "definitions" a discourteous wag gave just offense once by defining woman as "a creature that was made after man and has been after him ever since!"

Her Exact Age.

"How old is Belle?"

"Twenty-four her last six birthdays."—Boston Transcript.

Benevolent feeling ennobles the most trifling actions.—Thackeray.

HISTORY FROM A STAR.

Priest Astronomer Who Has Learned the Age of the Pyramids.

It has remained for a priest of the Catholic church in America to settle for all time the mooted question of the age of the great pyramids of Egypt.

The priest is Rev. Father Guicheteau of the French Catholic Church of St. Vincent de Paul in West Twenty-third street, New York, and the figures at which he has arrived after most elaborate and intricate calculations show that the pyramids were built about 3,300 years before the birth of Christ.

Father Guicheteau's computation is based on the position of the polar star. In one of the great pyramids is a long, narrow passageway, or tunnel, aiming upward at an angle that made it obvious the builders had in mind but one thing—astronomical observation. The one bright particular star that attracted the attention of the people of the earth at the time the pyramids were constructed was the polar star, which moves but one degree in every two centuries. It was doubtless to observe the polar star that the long inclined tunnel in the pyramid was made.

On this assumption Father Guicheteau commenced his calculation. He made some observations with his telescope and set to work figuring out the problem by trigonometry, a most arduous task, which meant long burnings of "the midnight oil." At the termination of his labors Father Guicheteau's figures showed 3324 B. C. To satisfy himself that no error had crept into his work the priest astronomer repeated all of his work twice, each time arriving at the same figures. Scientists generally have expressed the opinion that the date arrived at by Father Guicheteau represents the date of the building of the pyramid within a few years one way or the other.

Calculations with the same end in view have previously been made, but none of the figures obtained have heretofore been generally accepted as reliable. The majority of the calculations have, like Father Guicheteau's, shown the year 3300 B. C. or thereabouts almost without exception within fifty years of that date. Father Guicheteau's astronomical solution of the world problem, 3,324 years before Christ's birth, seems, therefore, to be well nigh indisputable.

The solving of the great problem of the pyramids is not Father Guicheteau's only astronomical accomplishment. With a telescope on the roof of the parish house of his church the cleric has brought to light several unknown variable stars and has added in other ways to the sum total of the world's knowledge of the firmament.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Gate With a History.

Situated in Avon, Mass., is a curious gate made from a tree trunk and parts of branches, the latter forming the word "Equity." It is close beside the main road to Boston and has long been an object of curiosity to passengers on the trolley cars which pass by. The land in that section was owned at one time by a Mr. Porter, who erected the gate with the word "Porter" inserted. When the town of Avon established a water supply some of Mr. Porter's land was taken for that purpose. In the dispute that ensued he thought himself unfairly treated and changed the word to "Equity" as a continual reminder of the injustice, real or fancied, which he suffered. The gate has stood unchanged for twenty years, bleached and weather beaten, but still strong and serviceable, and is used almost daily.—London Strand.

Not Implicated.

"But, my lord, 'e said it was 'im what stole the 'orse."

"What were his exact words? Did he say, 'I stole the horse?'"

"Oh, no, my lord! Your lordship's name was never mentioned!"—London Scraps.

CLOSE OF THE FIRST CHAPTER IN THE HISTORY OF NEW CURLING RINK AND THE ERA WHICH ITS ERECTION BEGINS

Presentation of Prizes to Winners in the Club's Bonspiel — An Enjoyable Evening Spent by the Devotees of the Broom and Tam O'Shanter—Report for Past Season is Most Satisfactory.

GREATER GROWTH PROMISED

The Knights of the Stane have hung up their brooms for another year after one of the most enjoyable seasons through which Peterborough curlers have had the pleasure of playing. It was the first term in the new rink and from the improved conditions and splendid building it seems that that Old Scotia's winter game has taken on a new lease of life in this city.

The curlers gathered at the rink last night to combine a business with a social evening resulting in an affair which for a general success should be entered in the club's records in the most prominent letters. About sixty or more of the members were present. Friendliness and good will reigned supreme in spite of the many hot battles that were waged nightly over Angus McIntosh's seven smooth rinks. Satisfaction was written on the countenances of all. The past season has been financially as good as it was otherwise and the curlers have every reason to compliment themselves and to receive the congratulations of their friends. This year has marked the resurrection and rejuvenation of curling in Peterborough and the foundation has been laid for a strong club which in a few years should have hundreds on its list.

After the business session was over the members adjourned to the parlours upstairs where a long table had been spread and from which refreshments were served. Besides the things which were destined to satisfy the inner man the table held two trophies won by the club, viz., the District Cup, presented by the president of the Ontario Association, and the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup, while a third, the Fitzgerald-Bottum shield hung on the wall. After the refreshments were served, Chairman R. M. Waddell started the programme roll unwinding. It consisted of the presentation of prizes to the winners and winners-up of the bonspiel primary, the winners and runners up of the consolation, the winners of the club schedule; vocal selections, and banjo selections by Mr. Clark, recitation by Mr. Winch, and several votes of thanks.

Primary Winners

Mr. R. Hicks presented the prizes to the rink winning the primary, which was skipped by Mr. W. G. Ferguson. In doing this Mr. Hicks said that this was one of the evenings after a very successful season when the curlers got together for a social time and to present the prizes. This year the prizes were for those who were successful in the club's bonspiel, the first time a real bonspiel had been attempted.

The club was to be congratulated this season. It had a membership of 155, and 95 per cent. of them were enthusiastic curlers. He took this to represent the foundation of one of the best clubs in Canada. He was glad the season had been so successful, and looked forward to the day when the finances would permit the club to extend the rink towards the front so as to have more space for social gatherings.

The prizes to the winners were handsome pipes and were presented to:

W. G. Ferguson, skip.
W. J. Baptie, vice.
W. C. Austin, second.
J. D. Craig, lead.

Each of these gentlemen made fitting replies expressing their thanks to the club.

Primary Runners Up

Mr. J. H. Cameron presented the prizes, clothes brushes and mirror, to the runners up in the primary contest. He remarked upon the large increase in the membership, and the real sport the players had all had. He was pleased to see the three trophies the club had won but hoped to see next year several more. The prize winners were:

J. H. Connal, skip.
W. H. Denham, vice.
Ross Cameron, second.
W. J. Johnston, lead.

Mr. Jas. Connal made a very interesting reply in which he threw out a lot of valuable suggestions for the next season. He urged the skip to teach his players the fine points in the game. For instance, if a team could not play the outturn, as many local players cannot, the skip should call for the out as often as possible and get the player out on to the turn. He spoke of the benefit of the bonspiel and the social gatherings. Mr. Ross Cameron also replied.

Consolation Prize.

Mr. T. F. Matthews did the honours to the winners of the consolation prizes. He said that it gave him great pleasure to do so. The three younger members of the rink were presented with fine jaeger clocks, while Mr. R. J. Winch, the oldest sport in the club and one of the best all-round sports in the city, was presented with a silk hat. Mr. Winch is 73 years of age and he played a winning game all through the consolation. The rink was:

J. H. Knapman, skip.
A. H. Webb, vice.
R. J. Winch, second.
M. Wolstenholme, lead.

All the winners made a pleasing reply in accepting their prizes.

Consolation Runners Up

Dr. Greer presented the prizes to the runners up in the consolation. Each member received a pair of gold cuff links. The doctor in his remarks concurred in all that had been said by the previous speakers. The rink was:

W. J. Thompson, skip.
M. McDermid, vice.
M. Barber, second.
D. H. Moore, lead.

Sailor Boy Prize

Mr. J. H. Cameron on behalf of "Sailor Boy," donated the prizes to the winners of the scheduled games, and he presented a pair of gold cuff links to each of the members of the rink as follows:

W. M. Lang, skip.
G. Ferguson, vice.
M. Lyle, second.
C. Barber, lead.

Mr M. Lyle volunteered to present the club with a case in which to keep the Fitzgerald-Bottum shield.

Votes of Thanks

Votes of thanks were passed to the following:

Moved by A. Webb and W. G. Morrow to the Bonspiel Committee, and to Assistant-Secretary H. Foote.

Moved by W. G. Ferguson to Messrs. Dennison, Fraser, Munro and Tooley, for boxes of cigars.

Moved by T. F. Matthews and R. Hicks to J. H. Cameron (his offer to donate a prize next season), M. Lyle, Secretary J. H. Ferguson and R. M. Waddell.

Mr. Waddell presented the club with a pair of Scotch cow brooms, which were used until recently by the Scotch curlers.

Mr. G. H. Giroux made a few remarks, and the meeting was closed by singing Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King.

LAKEFIELD FOOTBALL TEAM TO ENTER MIDLAND LEAGUE ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING HELD

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, March 30.—An enthusiastic meeting of the Lakefield Football Club was held in the Fire Hall last night, March 29th, to discuss the prospects for the coming season and it was also decided to enter a team in the Midland League. The following officers were elected: Hon. President, L. J. Labelle; President, Dr. Gibson; 1st Vice-President, Mr. J. Murdock; 2nd Vice-President, Mr. J. M. Bygott; 3rd Vice-President, Mr. Jos. Perry; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Norman Moore; Manager, Mr. Jas. Kidd; Captain, Mr. Wm. Stabler. Executive Committee—To consist of the Manager, Captain and Messrs. D. Charlton, H. Dodds and J. Quinlan. Patron and Patroness.—Dr. and Mrs. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Crawford, and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Johnson. It was decided that W. L. Hurl attend the meeting of the Midland League to be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlours on April 3rd, to enter the Lakefield team in the league. The meeting then adjourned to meet again on Wednesday, April 7th at 8 o'clock p.m. in the Fire Hall. All interested are requested to be present.

As Lakefield has shown that they have the material for other sports, and as their chances are good for landing more silverware in the Midland Football League, it is to be hoped that the boys will receive the hearty support of the citizens.

TOM ECK'S "DERBY" TO BE HELD IN APRIL

Montreal, March 30.—If there is one thing that has made the stay of Alfred Shrubb in Montreal less pleasant than it otherwise should have been, it was the manner in which Hans Holmer has permitted his manager to write to him. He accused Shrubb of running small races in big rinks for his own pecuniary benefit and taking on cheap skates that were never heard of, when such a phenomenon as Hans Holmer was eating his heart out with impatience to get a crack at him.

Shrubb has written back saying: "I will meet Holmer at any time, in any place and for any amount of money."

Tom Eck's hippodrome comes off on the 8th of April in the Arena. The men to run will be Simpson, Holmer and Cummings.

BOWLING GAME IS POSTPONED

The big game between the Grits and Tories which was scheduled for tonight, has been postponed owing to the fact that a number of the players are not able to get around, and the contest will be pulled off on Saturday night in the P.B.C. alleys. It promises to be the game of the season, as both teams expect to win, and it will take a record score to win out.

221 is the high score for the week, so far, McIlroy putting on that score last night in a game in which there were several other 200 scores.

HOCKEY

Secretaries of the local teams in the City League are requested to call at the Examiner office and secure from the secretary of the City League their tickets for the annual banquet of the League, which will be held on Monday night next, in the Oriental Hotel. Each club is entitled to ten tickets which are now out and which can be procured by calling at this office.

LAWN TENNIS.

The executive of the Tennis Club of the Y. M. C. A. met last night and decided to make a tennis court on the lot south of the building, where the game has formerly been played. It will be made of clay and cinders and should be fast and speedy. The Y. M. C. A. players expect some fast ones to throw in their lot with them and if there is a league formed they will enter a team that will give a good account of themselves.

Y. M. C. A. MEETINGS.

Thursday—8 p. m., football.
Friday—8 p.m., baseball.

BASEBALL.

Three of the Boston American pitchers have failed to show the management anything up to date. Thielman lacks ambition, evidently, although he is in pretty good shape and knows the inside dope about pitching. Ehmann, who was drafted from the O. & P. league for the Little Rock club, was too tender to take any long chances with his arm. Pitcher Barger is the third member who is making little headway, even with the most favourable weather conditions. The young man seems to lack the fire necessary for the American league, and no doubt would be content with his old berth with the Rochester club.

Charlie Malay, one of the Buckenberger's old Bronchos, who helped the club to make such a strong finish in 1906, is reported to have signed with Elmira Club, of the State League, for the coming season.

It looks as though Eddie McDonald might "hit 'em out" in the way Eddie Lennox was wont to last season, and reports of his previous work indicate that Eddie the Second will cover more ground and run bases faster than did Eddie the First.—Rochester Express.

"Steamer" Flanagan is not content with hitting the cover off the ball this spring. He is reported to be fielding in great style. He will have to develop some additional speed, if he is going to cover left field, the garden he is being played in at present.

Jack Dunn's troubles are now reported to be clearing up. It is said that Phil. Lewis has agreed to sign to play shortstop; Jimmy Catiz, another infield possibility, has signed his contract, and Sammy Strang has promised to join the club on April 10th. Cassidy has signed.

Rochester Express—Ben Houser, the Toronto recruit for first base, is now being described as the Fred Tenny of the minor leagues. He must have improved some, then, since he essayed to cover the initial bag for the Broncho several seasons ago. But he no doubt has improved, as he led the first basemen of the State league last season with a percentage of 990, besides hitting for .227.

Eddie Fertsch, once a standby at Culver field, has signed to pitch for Easton, in the Atlantic league.

There is a trade brewing between Stallings and Wolverton and McGinnity for the exchange of catchers. Stallings wants Krichell, the clever little backstop of the Newark team, who has made quite an impression here by his intelligent and competent work. The trade is said to involve Sweeney and a money consideration.

Harry Arndt, of Providence, broke into the National League in 1902 with the Baltimore Orioles as a rightfielder, going to the Columbia Club in the American Association when the Birds dropped into the Eastern League in 1903. In 1904 he was with Louisville, and then he went to St. Louis in 1905. He was given a chance to make good on the St. Louis hot corner in 1906 and led the third sackers in the National League. A severe attack of rheumatic fever laid Arndt on the shelf the latter part of 1906, and he was handed his release. The season of 1907 found the 1909 Providence captain holding down the second bag for the Wilmington Club in the Tri-State League. Although Manager Doc Casey of the Royals led the third basemen on the Powers' circuit in 1908, Ardnt was only a few notches below him, and his batting average of .295 earned him the title of the best all-round hot-corner guardian in the Eastern League.

Donlin has been forbidden by his physician to take any violent exercise for at least six months. Mike suffered three hemorrhages, the result of the bursting of a small blood vessel in his nose at Boston.

THE CITY LEAGUE BANQUET APRIL 5

The annual banquet of the City Hockey League, which will be held on Monday night next at 8.30 o'clock, promises to be one of the most successful ever in the history of the league. Elaborate preparations are being made and the evening promises to be one of thorough enjoyment. During the evening the Stratton Cup, emblematic of the senior championship, will be presented to the Lakefield team, while the Chieftains, junior champions, will receive the Clarke Graham Cup, donated by Messrs. F. A. Clarke and C. G. Graham to the winners of the junior league. In addition to the usual speeches an enjoyable musical programme will be given. It is expected that some eighty people will be present.

ELIMINATE WORRY.

It Is a Habit of Quick Growth—How to Avoid Its Development.

When you feel a sense of dissatisfaction with what you have or what you do and begin to worry over possible results, then is the time to stop it. Just don't allow yourself to worry, said a woman writer recently. It is largely a matter of habit. It comes most frequently from taking things too seriously.

If the habit once gets a foothold, goodby to cheerfulness. Then it will be easy to lose your serenity. Any one, from the baker who sends the cream puffs too late for your dessert to the dressmaker who fails to get your gown finished when she agreed to, can throw you into the profoundest gloom.

A good model for most of us would be that sublime old heroine of fiction who, when she became so old that she only had two teeth left, devoutly thanked God that they hit.

When the demon of worry takes hold fly out of doors, fill your lungs with fresh air and get something for dinner which is particularly dainty or is especially liked by the family. Turn your thoughts toward this little act of pleasure giving, and the enjoyment of the results by your family will go a long way toward dispelling the beast.

Many times "the blues" are a reflection of a disordered body. Treat them as you would positive ill health. Simplify your living not by buying more cooked foods, but by cooking more of them yourself. Simple, plain, easily digested meals served more attractively will aid to better digestion. Better digestion will clarify the general outlook.

We do not think being preached to will help much, but diverting thoughts forced to take the place of the worrying ones will. In proportion to your own downheartedness absorb yourself in some other individual's trials. Nine times out of ten yours will grow smaller and you will become more sane and cheerful. Preach to some one more blue than yourself. You can always find them.

Train yourself into an atmosphere of content. Use a bit of philosophy. Just know that if you ever reached the point of having all of your desires of this present time gratified there would still be others ahead forming in line to aggravate and disturb your peace of mind if you allowed them to do so. Just practice being content with what you are fortunate to possess and you will help yourself to better health, which is the promoter of cheerfulness.

This is as much a matter of training as bodily gymnastics and more important, for it affects all those around you.

The Way of Authors.

James Whitcomb Riley is evidently no believer in the greatness or enduring quality of modern literature. Some time ago a friend was talking to him about the good times that novelists of today have compared with those of the past.

"You modern writers don't work so hard," he said, "and you are paid twenty times as much as you ought to be."

Mr. Riley gently shook his head. "You labor under a misapprehension, my boy," he replied. "The chief difference between the old authors and those of today is simply this: They died and their works live; our works die and we live—as best we can."—Judge.

The Thieves of Canton.

Canton, China, at present is full of robbers. It is said that in some parts the people are really afraid to go to rest at night, inasmuch as it is certain that thieves will enter and rob the place. Accordingly some one sits up, while others sleep. The following is a queer criticism of China's police by a correspondent: "We have a police force whose work consists mostly in sleeping at post or helping the nearest shopkeeper to chop wood or a neighbour blacksmith to blow his fire."

CITY OF THE INSANE.

Happy and Honored "Guests" of the Inhabitants of Gheel.

One of the most remarkable places in Europe, of which no tourist on pleasure bent ever takes notice, says a writer in a Berlin paper, is the "City of the Insane," by which name Gheel, near Antwerp, has been known for generations. About 1,500 men and women afflicted with insanity in all its forms live there and have a happy being as the "guests" of the inhabitants, who know by experience how to treat the unfortunate ones. In the streets, in the places of amusement, the cafes and workshops these patients may be found, and nowhere is there the remotest suggestion of restraint apparent. The board ranges from 240 to 2,400 marks a year, and, no matter how small the amount may be, the patient is always the favored member of the family. He has the first right to the most comfortable chair, and the head of the table belongs to him. He receives the most attention, and this he learns to appreciate and to endeavor to maintain by living down his illness. Even the children know how to treat the demented people. The dangerous ones are sent to another settlement and to institutions. It is wonderful how considerate, careful and kind the simple people are toward their charges, and a peep into the community would probably terrify physicians who had never heard of and could not appreciate the good which is being done in this "City of the Insane."

A RACE ON ICE.

The Skates That Got Away and Those That Were Recovered.

Thackeray once asked one of the men who let out skates on the Serpentine whether he had ever lost a pair through the omission to exact a deposit, and he replied that he had never done so, except on one occasion, when the circumstances made it almost pardonable.

A well dressed young fellow was having his second skate fastened on when he suddenly broke away from the man's hands and dashed to the ice. The next instant a thickset, powerful man was clamoring for another pair.

He was a detective in pursuit of his prey, and a very animating sight it was to watch the chase. He was, as he had boasted, a first rate skater, and it became presently obvious that he was running down his man.

Then the young fellow determined to run a desperate risk of liberty. The ice, as usual, under the bridge was marked "Dangerous," and he made for it at headlong speed. The ice bent beneath his weight, but he got safely through.

The sheriff's officer followed with equal pluck, but, being a heavier man, broke through and was drowned.

"His skates," said the narrator of the incident, "I got back after the inquest, but those the young gentleman had on I never saw again."—London Telegraph.

The Salt Sea Legend.

There is a legend in the Norse scalds which explains why the sea is salt. The "bountiful Frodi," whose mythical reign was a golden age indeed, possessed a quern, or hand mill, which ground out gold and peace, but which would grind out stores of anything desired by its owner. Two giant maidens, ruled over by Frodi, were the grinders. In an evil day a sea rover came upon the scene, slew Frodi and carried off the quern and the two giant maidens who worked it. When the sea rover's vessel was right out at sea he ordered the maidens to grind salt. At midnight they asked if they had not ground enough. The sea rover, angry at being awakened from his sleep, commanded them to grind until morning. Now, the giant maidens naturally enough worked very quickly, so as they went on grinding the load of salt grew so heavy that it sank the ship, and now the sea will continue salt forever.

Looked Too Far.

There was an English farmer, a Somersetshire man, who once owned a telescope. The old man remarked to a friend at a local race meeting that the gentry nowadays had glasses for both eyes and added that he had had one once for one eye, a right good one it was, but now it was no use at all—no, not to nobody."

"Why not?" asked the friend.

"Well," he said, "it were a good one. I could see miles wi' en. I could see plain the steeple of the church five miles off. But missus' son John, he borrowed en, and he tried to see the steeple of t'other church, ten miles off—and tried and tried and couldn't. And that strained it, and it were never of no use any more—no, not to nobody."

Family Should Consider It An Honour To Have Son In Ministry

One of the Key Notes in Rev. McCulloch's Address at St. James Church Last Night—Large Congregation Delighted With New Building.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE PRESIDED

The conclusion of the formal opening and dedicatory ceremonies of the new St. James' Methodist Church was held last night and was in every respect entirely successful and promisory of a splendid future. Tea was served in the basement by the ladies from six to eight o'clock and the arrangements for an affair of this kind were as satisfactory as was expected. Afterwards a programme of addresses and music was given in the church. Mr. D. W. Dumble, of George St. Church, was chairman, fulfilling the rather onerous duties of that office without any delays and in a manner that kept the congregation interested throughout.

The church was crowded and every available seat, even to those in the gallery was accupied. Those present included members of George St. and Charlotte St. Methodist Churches, besides the members of the new congregation in the southern part of the city. The prevalent spirit was one of deep interest in Rev. H. M. Manning's new house of worship, and the congregation under his care is already beginning to grow. Many happy wishes were expressed that the hopes of all would be realized and the undercurrent of union seemed to augur well for the development of the church along the lines which are always hoped for.

The following clergymen were on the platform: Rev. H. M. Manning, Rev. E. A. Pearson, Rev. G. W. Henderson, Rev. J. R. Webb, Rev. C. H. Coon, Rev .Riddiford, Rev. O'Hara, Rev. J. G. Potter, and Rev. Mr. McCulloch, President of the Conference.

The musical portion of the programme was contributed to by Miss F. Manning, Mr. Pegg, Mr. Downey, and the Orpheus Quartette. Miss Clarry played the accompaniments. Addresses were given by the chairman and the clergymen.

Rev. Mr. McCulloch

In his address Rev. Mr. McCulloch stated that the conference appreciated the work done by the three Methodist churches in the erection of the new church. The unity thus shown sets an example which is felt throughout the conference. It was largely due to the individuals who had stood by Mr. Manning in the enterprise that the new church had been so well provided for already.

Among other topics he dwelt upon was that of young men entering the ministry. He considered it a great honour to any family to have a son preaching the Gospel, but the number of those who were entering the ministry could be much increased. Not only should people give their assistance in other respects to God's work, but if they felt called upon to take up this vocation they should follow this innate dictation.

Before concluding Rev. H. M. Manning referred to the satisfactory manner in which the contractors, Messrs. Finnie and Gordon, had carried out their work. He also referred to the great attention which Mr. H. C. Stabler and Mr. D. W. Dumble had given the erection of the building, following the inception of the idea of its erection until the last of the work was completed. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the Doxology and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. J. R. Webb.

The accompaniments for the nymns were played by Miss Clara Collins.

Sweeping Changes To Be Made In Regard To The Public School Inspectors

They Will be Made Responsible to the Minister of Education as Well as to Their Own County Councils.

THE NEW PROVISIONS.

Public School Inspectors must report to the Minister of Education and be responsible to him.

Minister empowered to reduce number of schools, and other additional inspectors in county or city.

Uniform standard of salaries for county inspectors: $1,500 for first year, $1,600 for second, $1,700 thereafter. Former salaries decided by number of schools. Salaries of urban inspectors to be fixed by the Boards.

Present average County inspector's salary, $1,463. Average increase under new bill, $237. Total increase, $15,000.

Number of inspectors will be increased.

General effect — an increase in efficiency in the inspection and a better control of this by the Education Department.

Sweeping changes in the statutes in relation to Public School Inspectors have been made by the Minister of Education, and will be explained to the Legislature this week, when he takes up his amendments to the Public Schools' Act.

The general effect will be to increase their efficiency by making them responsible to the Department of Education, as well as to their County Councils. One step in this direction will be to reduce in many cases the number of schools which they will be allowed to inspect, as the regulation of this will hereafter be vested in the Department. Coincident with these changes will be the establishment of a uniform system of salaries for the county inspectors running from $1,500 to $1,700.

The arrangements in the past have resulted usually in one inspector supervising a whole county, though in some cases, two, and even three, have divided up the work.

Some inspectors have thus been loaded down, as Inspector White in Renfrew, with 199 departments, while in Haliburton, Inspector Phillips had only 60.

Minister to Settle Number

"The Minister on or before the first day of January, 1910, shall determine the number of inspectors to be appointed in every county, city or separated town, and thereafter whenever he deems it expedient, may direct the appointment of additional inspectors in a county or city."

The Minister is also empowered to fix the limits of inspectorates on the first of January each year.

While the appointment of an inspector rests as before with the County Councils, the Minister may on or before the first day of February, 1910, remove any whom he thinks unsuitable by reason of inefficiency or physical infirmity.

An inspector may also be suspended or removed for neglect of duty, misconduct, inefficiency or physical infirmity.

Responsible to Minister

Another clause reads. "Every inspector shall be directly responsible to the Minister for the due performance of his duties and subject to the regulations; shall obey the direction of the county council in the case of a county inspector and of the board in the case of an urban inspector."

All inspectors must make reports to the councils and the chief inspector will pass upon these.

Minimum Salary of $1,500

The regulation governing salary reads: "Every county inspector appointed after the first day of January, 1910, shall receive a salary for the first year of his employment of $1,500, and for the second year $1,600, and for the third and every subsequent year $1,700.

"Every county inspector who is in office on the 31st day of December, 1909, and who is retained in office thereafter, shall be paid a salary of $1,700 per annum." This will mean that a few whose unusual number of schools have raised their salaries will have these reduced, and their salaries will fall also. To the great majority, however, it will mean a considerable increase.

Average Increase of $237

The amount of the increase may be seen from the figures for 1908.

There were sixty country inspectors, whose total salary was $87,708, an average of $1,463.29.

In nearly every case each one of these will receive a salary of $1,700, or a total of $102,000.

The average increase in salary for each inspector throughout the Province will be $237.71.

Majority to Receive Increases

As an instance of what this will mean: In 1908 there were nineteen inspectors receiving $1,400 or under, and twenty-four others receiving between $1,500 and $1,600.

Few Face Reductions

Those whose salaries will be reduced are very few, and include Thomas Jamieson, Carleton, $1,748; J. H. Smith, West Kent, $1,740; F. L. Mitchell, North Lanark, $1,739; D. A. Nesbitt, Lennox and Addington, $1,730; W. Carlyle, Oxford, $1,795; Richard Lees, Peterborough, $2,320; E. T. White, Renfrew, $2,000. In all of these cases, it may be presumed that in order that the inspector's salary (at $6 a school) implies that he has too many schools under his supervision, and that more inspectors will be appointed. In fact, this was done a few weeks ago in the case of Renfrew, where Mr. White's work was divided and a second inspector appointed voluntarily by the county council.

Government Now Pays One-half

Under the old rule the Government contributed $800 to each inspector's salary, while the county gave $6 a school. The future arangement will be that each contribute one-half.

In 1908 the Government's share was $39,708; in 1910, under the new arrangement, it would be $51,000.

The expenses of the inspectors will be paid as in the past by the counties.

BROKE INTO THE HASTINGS TOWN HALL

Made Hasty Escape Before Constable Arrived—Asphodel Wedding.

Examiner Special.

Hastings, March 30.—A quiet but pretty house wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Wm. Dickson, of Asphodel, on March 18th, when his eldest daughter, Miss Cassie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. J. Hewie, of Otonabee. The officiating clergyman was Rev. H. Frost, of Westwood. The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the parlour to the strains of the wedding march played by her sister, Miss Annie. The bridal costume consisted of a handsome gown of cream cheviot trimmed with silk over lace and duchess satin ribbon, while her pretty veil was tastily ornamented with knots of ribbon. After the usual congratulations the party repaired to the dining-room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided the customary toasts were responded to and a pleasant time enjoyed by all present. The bride's travelling dress was a pretty suit of navy blue broadcloth with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Hewie carry to their future home the best wishes of a large circle of friends who join in wishing them a long and prosperous wedded life.

Mrs. Godfrey is a daughter of Mrs. Geo. English, of Asphodel, and well and favourably known in town.

Mr. Wm. Sherwin is looking for a share of the public patronage in his new business of supplying the town with milk.

One evening not long ago Constable Miller, whose rooms are in the town hall, had an unexpected visitor in the person of a stranger who was looking for sleeping quarters, and broke into the Council Chamber some time in the night. The noise awakened Mr. Miller, who proceeded to make an investigation but found that his guest had departed the same way as he had entered.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

UNCLE JOSHUA SIMPKINS

The attraction at the "Grand" next Saturday, matinee and night, will be the "Joshua Simpkins" Company. It is a strong rural comedy drama, opening with a realistic scene of rural home life, showing Skinner Tavern with Uncle Josh's Briar Farm in the distance. The play progresses, abounding in interesting situations, until a climax is reached, in the third act, when a human being is helplessly bound to a log to be cut in twain by a mammoth buzz saw, and is only saved by the timely arrival of Uncle Josh. "Joshua Simpkins" was written with a view of keeping an audience thoroughly amused, and it fully carries out the author's intention. The plot is not allowed to interfere with the comedy parts to any extent, thus producing a play that is thrillingly interesting and said to contain many laughs. The company carry a fine orchestra and the laughable burlesque band.

CURE WAS QUICK AND COMPLETE

Dame Parent's Heart Disease Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

She Suffered for Two Years but Now Advises All Troubled as She Was to Give Dodd's Kidney Pills a Trial.

St. Robert, Richelieu Co., Que., March 29.—(Special).—"I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all my friends." These are the words of Dame Joseph Parent of this place. And the good dame gives excellent reasons why she does so. "For two years," she says, "I suffered from Heart disease, Headache, Backache and a dragging sensation across the loins. Seven boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me. I hope all who are troubled as I was will give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial."

Some people may ask how Dodd's Kidney Pills, which are purely a kidney remedy, can cure Heart Disease. And the answer is simple. Diseased Kidneys fail to drain the impurities out of the blood. If these impurities are left in the blood they not only increase the work of the heart in propelling the blood through the body but act on the valves causing disease. Pure blood removes the cause of the disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills make pure blood by putting the Kidneys in condition to strain all the impurities out of it.

THE GRANTS TO THE VETERANS

501 Bethune Street,
Peterborough, March 26, 1909.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—I wish on behalf of the Veterans' Association to ask why they do not apply for an annuity after so many years have gone by. Most of the men are too old to farm or else a widow is all that is left and perhaps their money is scarce, and to pay out money for location of land is no good to them. It is a shame to think the way the veterans have been used. They were mostly young men at the time of the Fenian Raid, and if they had been given land near that time, they would have carved out a home in a few years or most of them. But their day of farming is over and should be considered so by our Government as they were true loyal men as any soldiers ever were and would have been glad of farms at a proper time and in good farming country. The lands that have been offered, I am told by those who have been there, are very poor, so that was the reason we never applied.

Hoping that some of the veterans will duly consider this question, for surely it is very important for our old people. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am your obedient servant,

H. J. P.
A Veteran's Wife.

Father To Perform Ceremony In Which His Two Daughters Will Marry Two Brothers

Commissioner Coombs, Father of the Girls, is Head of the Salvation Army in Canada—Young Men Bear Prominent Positions.

AN INTERESTING ROMANCE.

A marriage which is very much out of the ordinary in several respects and at the same time is of great importance to the Salvation Army throughout Canada, is that which will be celebrated on Saturday, April 10th, at the headquarters of the Army in Toronto. Two brothers are marrying two sisters on the eightieth anniversary of the birthday of General Booth and the hymeneal knots will be tied by the father of the two girls, who is head of the Salvation Army in Canada.

The young ladies are the daughters of Commissioner Coombs, who has charge of the Army in Canada and Newfoundland. The two fortunate young men are Brigadier and Staff Captain Morris. All four young people are prominent workers in the Salvation Army and are in the very fore ranks, having won splendid names for the services they have rendered.

Brigadier Morris is conductor of the Temple Band which plays at the local barracks on Saturday night next, and his brother, Staff Captain Morris, is private secretary to the Commissioner, his future father-in-law. Great interest is being taken in the double event which will be one of the most important events in the history of the Army in Canada.

It is not likely that any of the members of Peterborough Corps will be in Toronto to witness the ceremony.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

New York, March 30.—Stocks were a little easier in the early trading today and the leaders of the past few days were inclined to sell off a little, but new issues were taken in hand and shoved up, giving the general market an appearance of strength. Atchison and Erie issues were the strongest at the opening, but B. R. T. rose swiftly on good buying in the first hour and then Erie jumped above 29. These advances firmed up the general market and the earlier losses were regained by noon.

The Kidnaper

By BARNEY PRESTON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Young Mr. William McVicker was much given to two things—an ardent reading of certain pessimistic German philosophers and to sleep. To many minds these two pastimes may appear synonymous, but Billy McVicker, withal a rather serious personage, while he found them each equally pleasant, was never more awake than when, with his shortsighted eyes close to one of his favorite and well thumbed volumes, he absorbed Teutonic reflections on life in general to his heart's content.

The philosophical tomes were ubiquitous with him. They bulged his pockets or were trundled—if they happened to be larger—beneath his arm with a patience worthy of better things.

Therefore on a certain perfect early summer day, when Mr. McVicker walked slowly down the winding path that led to the anchorage in the bay, a brown book stuck out of the hip pocket of his yachting trousers and a lean forefinger rested between the pages of another, which he carried in his hand.

Between his periods of reading and sleep Billy McVicker was something of a sailor, and today, with just enough breeze for a spin with a whole sail, he untied the painter of the little tender, floating at the end of the pier, pushed off and sculled leisurely to his knockabout, which lay at her moorings in the bay.

Once aboard the knockabout, the breeze, to McVicker's unutterable disgust, began to die out. The ruffled surface of the bay began to take on an oily smoothness, indicative of the coming calm. McVicker, beholding it, grunted disgustedly.

However, there would be plenty of other days with a good breeze. There was even a chance that one might spring up a bit later. A patient and uncomplaining soul was Billy McVicker—when he was armed with one of his philosophical tomes.

Therefore he ensconced himself comfortably on the cushions of the cockpit, opened the volume in his hand and, forgetful alike of sun and calm, was soon engrossed in his reading.

Long and thoughtfully did McVicker follow the text. Then, pausing for a moment to digest what he had just been perusing, he was aware that the second of his pastimes was crying

"WHERE DID YOU COME FROM, AND WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?"

strongly for recognition. In other words, Billy McVicker was beautifully and luxuriously drowsy.

The breeze by this time had died out completely. The sun was becoming uncomfortably hot. Mr. McVicker retired to the diminutive cuddy, he closed the doors to shut out the reflected glare of the sun on the quiet water and, curling himself up, lost himself in profound and dreamless slumber.

He was awakened by the noisy rattle of the sail and the squeak of the blocks as the peak was hoisted. Lazily he opened his eyes, and as he did so his ear caught the sound of light footfalls on the deck.

This was followed by a loud splash as the knockabout's moorings were thrown off and the sharp cracking of the sail as it filled. With these sounds also came the lapping of water about the bow, which told him plainly that the knockabout was under way.

He yawned lazily and collected his scattered wits. Why should the sail be up and the knockabout starting out of the bay? There was no reason whatever, he told himself.

The footfalls sounded along the deck again, thudded into the cockpit, and immediately McVicker realized that his kidnaper, whoever it might be, had taken the tiller, for at once the knockabout heeled sharply and went scudding out of the bay toward the sound beyond.

"By George, this is pretty cool and nervy," McVicker observed to himself, and then he crept to the cuddy doors and through a crack peered cautiously aft.

One glance was sufficient to make Mr. McVicker gasp in whole souled surprise, for there by the tiller stood Helen Weldon, who was spending the week with the Grays and for whom, ever since her first appearance at Bayport the summer before, Billy McVicker had evinced something decidedly more than a passing interest.

With a covert chuckle he drew away from his peephole at the doors, rubbed the sleep from his eyes and smoothed down his tumbled hair as best he could.

Then he pushed open the doors and stepped calmly into the cockpit, with the gravest of bows to the startled young woman by the tiller.

And startled she undoubtedly was—so startled, indeed, that sheet and tiller alike slipped from her grasp, and the knockabout, left to its own devices, came suddenly into the wind with a great flapping of sail and rattling of sheets.

"Oh!" said the girl in amazement.

Again McVicker bowed.

"You'll pardon my intrusion, won't you?" said he. "I'm mighty sorry I frightened you; but, you see, there was really no other way of making my presence known, and it would have been a shame to miss this chance of a sail with you."

"Where did you come from, and what on earth are you doing here?" she asked. To cover her evident embarrassment she began trimming in the sheet and putting the neglected boat on her course again.

"I came from the cuddy," said McVicker gravely, "and, as to what I am doing, well, I am waiting at present for an invitation to finish your sail with you."

"How do you happen to be aboard this knockabout, anyway?" she persisted.

"Well, I believe I own her. At any rate, there are papers purporting to be a bill of sale of her in my desk at home."

"Your boat?" she cried in amazement. "You say this is your boat?"

He nodded, smiling.

"Then somebody has made a mistake. Mr. Gray told me to take this boat, the one at the third buoy from the pier."

"Under ordinary circumstances the boat at the third buoy would have been Gray's," said McVicker. "But Hanson just went out awhile ago, and I'm afraid you've not taken the empty mooring buoy, which he left, into your reckoning."

"And I've come aboard your boat and taken you out, then," she said, with an odd expression curling her lips. "Why didn't you tell me when I first came aboard?"

"To tell the truth, I was asleep in the cuddy," said he. "I made my presence known as soon as I was awakened by the slatting of the sail."

"Well," she said, with decision, "I'll take you back, with profuse apologies. I'll leave the boat at the moorings just as I found her, and then you can finish your interrupted nap," she ended, with a mocking laugh.

"Look here," said McVicker; "you have kidnaped me, to say nothing of laying yourself liable to charges of piracy in stealing my boat. I have a few demands to make in return."

"What are they?" she asked, with a light laugh.

"In the first place, I demand that you finish your sail in this boat," said he. "And, in the second place"—

He paused.

"What is the second condition?" she asked.

"The second condition is that you give me an answer—an affirmative answer—to the question I asked you after the dinner at the Grays' last Tuesday night."

The girl flushed. Her head was turned away.

"And if I refuse to comply with the conditions?" she suggested.

"I shall press both the charges of piracy and kidnaping," said he severely.

"Of course I can't face any such charges as those," she said demurely. "Take the tiller, please, Billy. This breeze is getting flawy."

McVicker sprang to her side with a wonderful light in his eyes. A small brown volume slipped from his pocket, caromed off the rail and went overboard with a splash, but so engrossed was he at that moment that he failed to notice his loss, nor did he realize that his choicest tome was bobbing up and down in the knockabout's wake.

Gordon's Way.

Lord Wolseley used to tell of three subalterns who were in the trenches before the Redan—Wolseley, Gerald Graham and Charles Gordon. When they were relieved at night the gigantic Graham, the perfect type of the sworder, used to pick himself out of the trench and walk straight to his tent, careless of the fact that he was making himself a sock shot for the Russian marksmen. Evening after evening the Russian soldiers used to gather more and more thickly, but Graham would take no advice. He wasn't going "to bother about those fellows."

Garnet Wolseley, with ambition even then to be one day the commander in chief, used to crawl through the very slush of the trench on his hands and knees for a hundred yards or so before he got up and made a bee line for his tent. He did not mean to be shot if he could help it.

"And Gordon?" the listener asked.

"Oh, Gordon," said Wolseley—"Gordon was funny. Sometimes he would crawl with me and the very next evening get up, hook arms with Graham and go off, talking eagerly."

She Wouldn't Mind It.

"And we have one baby," said the meek man who was applying for lodgings. "Will you mind it?"

"Mind it?" snapped the thin faced lady. "Of course not. Do you think I'm a nurse?"—London Mail.

Kissing the Book.

"Kissing the book" is a rather late development of the mere touching of the gospels with the fingers, which dates from the sixth century. It is likely that the kiss was originally intended not to increase the solemnity of the oath, but to signify reverence and affection for the book. The kiss appears to have come into fashion toward the end of the sixteenth century and would seem, from what George Fox says of it, to have been a Protestant innovation. According to him, the unreformed method was simply to hold the gospels with three fingers above the book, typifying the Trinity, and two fingers below, typifying the twofold destruction of body and soul that an oath taker invoked upon himself if he swore falsely.

Rewards For Long Life.

That longevity is deserving of reward in China is proved by the following curious imperial edict from Pekin: "The sons of those people who are over seventy years of age are to be exempted from the service of the government, the brevet button of the ninth rank is to be given to those who are over eighty years of age, the brevet button of the eighth rank is to be given to those who are over ninety years of age, the brevet button of the seventh rank is to be given to those who are over a hundred years of age, the brevet button of the sixth rank is to be given to those who are 120 years of age, and monuments are also to be erected for those who are 100 years of age and over."

A POISON EPISODE.

When a Famous Chemist Was Silenced in Court by a Judge.

There was a famous poisoning case in England many years ago in which the strong point of the defense was to show that the accused, who was an expert chemist, would not have used a poison which could be so easily found after it had been taken into the human system. Sir Robert Christeson, professor in Edinburgh university, a famous expert on toxicology, whose works are still standard on that subject, was put on the stand to prove this point. When he declared that a chemist would certainly use some poison which would leave no trace, the prosecuting attorney asked him if he meant to say that there were such poisons.

Sir Robert replied in the affirmative. The prosecutor asked, "Name them!"

"No!" shouted the judge. "I forbid you to answer that question!"

In spite of the protests of the prosecutor the judge would not allow the expert publicly to give the name of a poison which would leave no trace, and the question remained unanswered.

Now comes the curious part of the story. During the next two years Sir Robert received more than 4,000 letters from all parts of the world asking, begging, offering to buy, the name of the untraceable poison alluded to in his testimony. Many of these he kept as curiosities, showing them to his friends as evidence of the depravity of human nature. Some of the excuses for wanting the name of the poison were very ingenious. One man was writing a novel based on a poison plot and wanted to make use of the untraceable poison idea. He did not want to give the name of the poison in his book, but just wanted to have it by him in case any scientific critic should deny the possibility of such poisons, when he could send him the name in a private letter and quote the "distinguished authority" from whom it came, etc. Several persons professed to be studying chemistry and asked for the information on the ground of professional courtesy. To all such Sir Robert would send the advice to pursue their studies and they would soon know as much about it as he did. Many offered large sums of money for the secret, usually pretending they had bet still larger amounts that they could find it out in a given time and were willing to share their profits liberally with Sir Robert.

The thing which most impressed Sir Robert was the number of persons all over the world who seemed desirous of possessing the secret of an agent that would kill, but leave no trace, and the amazing falsehoods to which they would subscribe their names in order to obtain the information. It is said that whatever poison Sir Robert had in mind at the trial he never mentioned it, not even to his classes, so strongly was he impressed with the danger of letting such a thing become matter of public knowledge.
